PETERBOROUGH, DEC. 3, 1902.

THE REFERENDUM

In view of the approaching referendum vote, it may not be out of place to state again the main provisions of the Liquor Act of 1902, in accordance with which this vote is to be taken. The Act, to the extent of that part restraining the sale of liquor is copied from the Manitoba Act, which has been upheld by the Privy Council, and is thought to mark the extreme limit of Provincial power to suppress the liquor traffic. The Act is not a prohibitive one, because prohibition is not in the power of the Provinces. If it comes into force by reason of the vote on the 4th of December, the sale of liquor will pass entirely on the first day of May, 1904, from the present vendors wholesale, retail, saloon and tavern, to wholesale and retail druggists, holding diplomas from the Ontario College of Pharmacy. Liquor will only be sold for mechanical, scientific, medicinal, veterinary, and dental purposes. Not more than ten gallons may be sold to one person at one time for mechanical or scientific purposes, and retail druggists and doctors may only buy five gallons at one time. Retail druggists may sell on the bona fide prescription of a duly qualified physician, and they may sell to a dental surgeon a pint at a time, and to a veterinary surgeon a gallon at a time. Ministers of the Gospel may buy sacramental wine. A sick person may keep in his room the liquor duly prescribed for him by a physician, but such liquor shall not be consumed by anyone but the sick person. A dentist while pulling a tooth may, if he deem it necessary, give one drink to his patient. The veterinary surgeon may give liquor only to dumb animals. Liquor is not to be sold or consumed in clubs. Because the Province may not interfere expressly with inter-Provincial trade, anyone will be able to import liquor for his own use in his private dwelling. In short, the Act is valid because it has been adjudged regulative only and not prohibitive. Careful provision has been made for recording sales and assuring inspection and publicity.

It will come into force on two conditions. First, if the votes on the question, "Are you in favor of bringing into force the Liquor Act, 1902?" exceed those against the question. Second, if such majority affirmative votes exceed one-half of the votes polled for all the candidates at the Provincial elections of 1902. The total vote polled in 1902, making allowance for Ottawa, where each elector had two votes, is said to have been 425,446. The vote in favor of enforcing this Act must therefore reach 212,723. As evidence of the probable strength of the affirmative vote, it may be stated that the vote in Ontario in favor of prohibition in 1894 was 192,489, and the prohibition vote of Ontario in the Dominion plebiscite in 1898 was 154,498.

"SOMETHING JUST AS GOOD"

To the Editor of The Times:

Dear Sir,—Probably the most noticeable feature in the present alleged temperance campaign, is its familiarity. When we meet it we are among old friends. Here is the man who the elaborate statistics, with whom we have shaken hands periodically for the last thirty years. There is the eloquent and unctuous philanthropist, generally a Yankee, who travels from one end of the continent to the other, bubbling over with sympathy for fallen humanity, and who adds a comfortable sum to his bank account every year through the iniquities of the liquor traffic. And then we have the lurid thunder wielded by that favored section of the pulpit that is acting under special power of attorney from the Almighty, in this matter.

"All, all are here, the old familiar faces."

Even the gold brick that forms the stock in trade differs little from previous ones. It is not prohibition, but it is something just as good and no doubt, if accepted, will prove just as satisfactory as the others. We have the same old assurances that the Act, if passed, will be rigidly enforced; that the "strength of the temperance sentiment of this Province will demand its enforcement form whatever Government is in powerr." The fact that the temperance sentiment of the province notoriously failed to secure the enforcement of the Dunkin and Scott Acts is blandly waved aside. These were Dominion Acts. The machinery was too cumbersome for practical use. the men at Ottawa were not in sympathy with the movement. But in a purely provincial matter it would be quite different. With Mr. Ross and—and some of the other Ministers, perhaps, in favor of the Act, there would be no official winking at its infraction. Let us see what grounds the temperance people have for this confidence.

When Hon. Mr. Mowat took office, he was at once called upon to redeem the pledges of his party to the temperance advocated. It is unnecessary to say that it is that party alone that has ever made a traffic of the business. Mr. Mowat asked for a free hand, and it was given him. He claimed that so long as the liquor traffic was under municipal control, it would be impossible to secure uniformity in its management or eradicate the abuses that had crept into it. The licenses would be granted by favoritism, and these favorites would be practically above the operations of the law. But if the Government had control everything would be different. They would give themselves full power to enforce the law, and they would be responsible for its enforcement. Well the Government took absolute control. They appointed commissioners to grant the licenses, they appointed inspectors to see that the conditions of the licenses were properly fulfilled, and they appointed magistrates to convict and punish offenders. Did all this responsible machinery, backed by the "temperance sentiment of the province," enforce the restrictions of a not too rigid license law?

? It is the fault of the temperance advocates themselves if their pledges and assurances are looked upon with something more than suspicion.

Yours respectfully,
URBAN

OPPOSED TO PROHIBITION

To the Editor of The Times:

Dear Sir,—I think the only true way to abolish the drink evil, which is drinking to excess, is by moral suasion. Educate the youth and then the problem is solved, which is fully endorsed by the Canadian Churchman, whose remarks are here attached;—

The Canadian Churchman, an organ of the Anglican church, is vigorously opposing prohibition, and in a recent issue, after recking the notorious failure of the repressive measures as the Scott Act, says: — "We would therefore implore our readers to think well—twice—three times before they bring such a measure, (Prohibition) into force * * * the spread of education and moral and religious influences will do far more and far better in this and in all other needs that compulsion or restraint. We cannot force people to be good, although we may influence them. A peculiar responsibility is laid upon members of the Church of England. Some other communities will go almost solid one way or the other. Members of our own communion are not pledged in this manner. It is to be hoped, therefore, that they will be guided by sound reason and reflection, and by a consideration of the consequences which will result from their action."

Amongst the results of the Scott Act, the Churchman enumerates the "deterioration in the quality of the liquor sold, the fostering of a habit of secret drinking, productive of all kinds of evils, the inaugurating of a system of espionage, conducted by the agents of the Prohibitionists— some of them very unscrupulous, a system of lying, contention, perjury, which produced the very worst effects in many districts; the secret and illicit manufacture of liquor, generally of the most abominable quality." Looking at it as a whole, the Churchman says of the Scott Act, and by implication indicates that general prohibition would be equally bad—"it was a failure; it did not promote temperance; it worried the respectable members of the community whom it was in no way necessary to restrain; it did not restrain those who seemed to need restraint. It did not good; it did much harm." It is evident that the Churchman is not afraid to speak its mind, and it is to be deplored that there is so little sensible thinking and honest speaking on this important question. The hysteria of well-meaning but unthinking people makes argument impossible, for when one endeavors to point out that Prohibition will not prohibit; that it is unnatural and impracticable, he is immediately set upon by the excited advocates of repression, denounced as a wine-bibber, the hireling of distillers and brewers and told to reflect how terribly agonized he will be if one of his own family should take to drink, or is exhorted to contemplate the excruciating remorse he will feel on his death-bed when visions of the countless drunkards his vote or opinion has made, torment his closing eyes. Of course such things do not constitute an argument nor an answer to an argument, yet they have great influence in exciting certain classes of people into a state of ephemeral zeal. It was such appeals that carried the Scott Act; it was hard common sense which caused the repeal of the ineffectual act, for in no case has it been urged by the Prohibitionists that between the passing and the repeal of the Scott Act, did public opinion suffer any real falling away from the standard which existed before the act was tried. If, then, the same people who carried the Scott Act and other local option laws in various localities

"I'm mad!" he cried. "I'm mad. It's not there—it's a delusion."

Yet the eyes looked at him from the pale, lovely face that he had seen in countless dreams, that he had fancied he saw duplicated in Winifred Gray's, and he could not run it down.

In another instant the face would have been under his wheels, crushed out of all semblance of beauty. With a jerk of the steering lever he swerved the car to the right. The movement was too sudden for the tremendous speed at which the car was going, and, with a crash, the Daimler leaped from the road into the ditch at the side, turning over as it fell. Macaire was flung off, and with a grinding, renuing pain in his leg, fell into unconsciousness.

Then came dreams, a changing kaleidoscope of dreams, with flashing lights and the booming of cannon. He was dragged back by sheer physical agony to consciousness again.

At first he hoped, well-nigh prayed, that this waking was the false waking of a dream. He dreamt—or was it true? —that the car had fallen on him, pinning him underneath, writhing and helpless, in an agony of pain. He dreamt—or was it real?—that the whole sky was bright with the weird, pale light from a pillar of flame that shot far up into the purple night, up, straight up, higher than the tree-tops.

The lamps had ignited the petrol with the falling of the car, and the whole fabric was on fire. Oh, the pain, the horror! Yes, it was true, and he must die here, like a rat in a trap.

In his agony faces crowded round him, faces that he had struck life out of long, long ago. For what they had suffered, for what he had made many suffer, was he paying now.

Heavens, how long it lasted! How long it took a man to die! Perhaps even now it was a dream. It was too horrible to be true.

• • • • • • •

Yet the papers said next day that it had been true; and the world that had known Macaire was shocked. No one grieved for the man who was gone. But a girl, hiding her face against her lover's arm, shuddered, sobbing that in spite of all she would have saved him from so terrible an ending if she had had the power.

"The mills of the gods, my darling," answered the man who loved her, and would never let her go far from him again, "are slow in their grinding, but they grind exceeding small."

The Liquor Act Denounced

By Hamilton Business Men

PETERBOROUGH WILL DO LIKEWISE

We, the undersigned, actively engaged in business in the province of Ontario, are of the opinion that "The Liquor Act," which is to be submitted to the people on December 4 next, is an unwise and impracticable measure, since it permits importation in any quantity from other provinces and countries, and would, therefore, merely transfer the drinking of intoxicants from licensed and well regulated places to unlicensed and disreputable resorts, and to the homes of the people.

We believe that this measure would be detrimental to the best interests, both moral and commercial, of this province, and we therefore urge all voters to mark their ballots "NO."

STOCK MARKETS

New York, Dec. 2.—The preparation for an advance later continues to go on. Stocks are still in process of being gathered in by the larger interests. Monday was a day in which their purchases were far in excess of their sales. Whenever the market gets strong before they obtain the market position they are steadily aiming at, the powers that be will give it a reaction such as we have stated before in these letters. There will be considerable backing and filling, causing many small advances and recessions before the main upward movement gathers momentum. This [illegible] state of affairs, which it is reasonable to expect will be in force for some days more, will consequently afford [illegible] opportunities for making [illegible] profits. The situation outside of money now favors an almost immediate advance of some considerable importance. The railways are still gorged with traffic, while one of the largest crop movements on record is yet directly ahead of us. Right after the first of the new year, now only one month away, this vast crop will commence to move, with consequent fabulous earnings to the railways. More cash buyers have been in Wall street the past month than we have seen there in fully a year. They took hold of the bargains offering with avidity and their purchases have been large. Another point, the extraordinarily flush and prosperous times have built up more new capitalists in this country than ever existed here before. Their buying power is simply enormous and is unappreciated by most speculators. At proper levels that are attractive this new buying power added to the previous multitude of men who live principally upon their incomes is sufficient to hold the current market. Scares at this time worked up from any cause whatsoever are therefore less effective than before the rapid recoveries from the episode of the Northern Pacific corner. The assassination of President McKinley and the decimation of the corn crop in the summer of 1901 were consequently only momentarily effective in the markets, the march of prosperity being almost immediately resumed. These facts make the market extraordinarily safe at present for bullish market ventures.

The early market was strong under leadership of Metropolitan, St. Paul, Pacific, New York Central and Brooklyn Rapid Transit. The leaders were standard issues. An afternoon attack on Manhattan invited by recent realizing sales caused a general recession in prices. On the decline the bears were the principal sellers. Sugar and copper after early gains fell with the balance of the market. The President's message was deemed a conservative document by financial interests. In our opinion stocks should be purchased now and on each reaction. Money closed at 6 1-2, last loan 6 [illegible]. Sales [illegible].

NEW OIL FIELDS OF ONTARIO

Our Mr Fox has just returned from a trip of personal investigation to the NEW WONDERFUL OIL GUSHER field in the Township of Raleigh, in the County of Kent. He reports that the whole country is literally with excitement. Chatham—respectable, easy going old Chatham—stands amazed, while oil operators from Pennsylvania, Ohio, Texas, California and from the big refineries at Petrolia and Sarnia fill her streets and hotels to overflowing—all seeking OIL! OIL! OIL!—offering figures for land that would have been considered sheer madness a few weeks ago. The roads to the oil fields are lined with all kinds of carriages, wagons and loads of machinery and derricks. Several drilling rigs are already partly erected and contracts have been made for the sinking of at least FIFTY WELLS within the next thirty days.

LANDS HAVE QUADRUPLED IN PRICE WITHIN THE LAST TWO WEEKS outside of the Gurd & Co. syndicate.

The Ontario and California Oil Co., Limited,

were first on the ground, and have the largest holdings, amounting to about ONE THOUSAND ACRES, RIGHT IN THE BIG GUSHER FIELD IN RALEIGH, while at the scene of operations our Mr Fox closed negotiations with the representatives of two of the largest oil refineries in Canada to sink a number of wells IMMEDIATELY, and at least FIVE WELLS must be completed within sixty days.

At NORTHWOOD—about ten miles from Chatham—our eighteenth well is down about three hundred feet. Here the company is operating about SIXTEEN HUNDRED acres of great promise - every well sunk so far has been a paying oil producer. Watch this field also very closely. But advertising space is limited—send for Ontario & California Oil Co's November report, etc., and see for yourself.

The volume of enquiries to this office show that our people are becoming alive to the great possibilities lying right at our doors.

The block of stock which is being offered is going very rapidly, and at any time may be withdrawn.

School Board Did Not Meet

The regular monthly meeting of the School Board was to have been held last night, but as the janitor did not open up the board room, and but seven trustees put in an appearance, no meeting was held. The janitor has been warned by Mr. W. G. Morrow, the secretary of the Board, to have the board room in readiness for business at 15 minutes past seven the first Tuesday in every month. This is one of his regular duties but during his short term of office last night was the third occasion on which he has failed to connect. The Finance Committee were to have met early last evening, before the regular meeting convened, and consequently some members were kept waiting outside for fully half an hour, till the clock struck eight, when they dispersed. It is needless to say that they felt considerably annoyed at these oversights on the part of the janitor. The Board will meet in special session at an early date.

COFFEE DID IT

Put a Man Out of the Race

Coffee serves some people in a most atrocious manner.

"I was a veritable coffee fiend, until finally my stomach rebelled at the treatment and failed to work," writes a gentleman from New York.

"I had dyspepsia in its worst forms, blind, staggering headaches with vertigo about a half hour after each time I ate, and I finally grew so weak and became so thin that my mother advised me to stop coffee and try Postum Food Coffee. I did not like it at first, but after experimenting in making it, Mother soon got it just right, and I then liked it better than coffee.

I soon noticed my biliousness stopped and I lost the trembling effect on my nerves; Postum did not stimulate me but seemed to exhilirate. I gradually regained my wonted good health; my old appetite returned, and today I am well—dyspepsia, headache and vertigo all gone, and Postum did it.

When I began its use, I had been troubled for five years with all kinds of stomach trouble. I became a veritable walking apothecary shop, but I have not taken a dose of medicine since I commenced using Postum." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

THE TIMES LETTER-BOX

repealed them at their earliest opportunity, and the public standard of morality was not lowered in the meantime, we find that common sense had ultimately to triumph. If, however, public sentiment was lowered in the meantime in the Scott Act counties, it was lowered during the existence of a repressive act which had been expected to improve public morals. Any way we look at this much distorted question we find those opposed to Prohibition looking at the matter either from the self-interested standpoint, as in the case of those engaged in the traffic, or in a purely disinterested way as in the case of those who are firmly convinced that Prohibition will do harm instead of good. Those who are in favor of Prohibition have done more or less good. Those who have been moderate in their expressions, energetic in their teachings, and upright in their example have done great good. Those who have been violent have done good in some cases, and harm in many instances where they have driven people who would like to see everyone temperate, into viewing the whole movement, with contempt. If all the energy and money which are being devoted to an attempt to force Prohibition on the country, were expended in an educational effort, great good, no doubt, would be done, for it is education, not legislation, which must ultimately be relied upon to bring about the practical extinction of the evil.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I am yours, etc.,
COMMON SENSE.

A CHEEKY PROPOSITION

To the Editor of The Times:

Dear Sir—Being canvassed by a prohibitionist for my vote on the referendum, I think the question was put to me in a very one-sided way. My friend said:

"You are not a teetotaler, I know, but you can vote for this act, and have all the liquor you want brought in from the Lower Provinces and drink it at home. It cannot be sold at retail in Ontario except in the drug stores, but you can bring it in from Montreal, so long as it is only for your own use."

I replied, "You assume that I am a whiskey drinker. I am not. What I take is a little good ale occasionally, mostly at the dinner table, but strong drink I have no use for. How am I to get a glass of ale if this law passes? Will you tell me that?'"

"'Oh,' said he, 'beer or ale is not provided for by the Liquor Act, because it is not alcohol, and therefore not needed in making up medicines, or in manufacturing. But under this act I guess you might order a dozen bottles at a time from the Lower Provinces."

Well, Mr. Editor, this struck me as a pretty cool proposition to a free man of Ontario, where the manufacture of beer and ale is a very large industry that employs many thousands of persons directly or indirectly.'

I asked my friend who is a very zealous canvasser for prohibition, what would become of the large brewing establishments in which a million dollars are invested if the Liquor Law carried?

"'Oh,' he replied, smiling, 'the breweries will be wiped out along with the distilleries if we succeed." And he went on to explain how it would be impossible for the breweries to carry on business if they had to send their product to the Province of Quebec before it could be sold in Ontario.

Now, sir, this struck me as a cruel thing, to deprive a man of a drink of beer, which would not hurt them, ever by a little over-indulgence, and to kill at one sweep the business in Peterborough and elsewhere on which so many people depend for their livelihood.

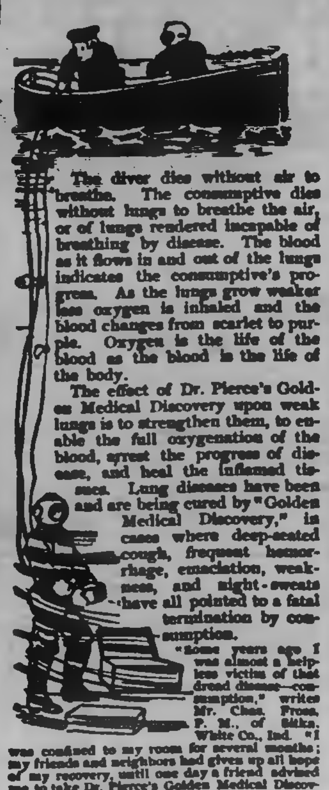
I told my friend that I regarded the outcry against "the Bar" as just a cunning trick to win voters over to stab the important business of brewing, as well as close up the wholesale and retail stores where liquor is sold. Under pretence of shutting up "the bar," their real aim was to strike at the manufacture of ale, as we have it in Peterborough, which many consider the best on the continent. I reminded him that the brewers contributed many thousands of dollars in taxation every year, and consumed vast quantities of native raw materials. But this seemed to make no impression upon him. He appeared to be delighted at the thought that all the money invested in these concerns might be swept out of existence, and laughed to scorn the idea that the owners should be compensated.

I recalled to mind, sir, what a popular minister prayed for in his pulpit not many years ago. He said in his pulpit that nothing would give him more gratification than to hear that all the breweries had "gone up in smoke." That was reported in the press at the time. I consider it a very evil thought, as it might be an incentive to some crack-brained fellow to set fire to the breweries. It shows what intolerance lies at the bottom of the crusade.

My friend the canvasser said he was much pleased to see that Premier Ross had come out at last and approved the Liquor Act. "Yes," I answered, "he said at the Toronto meeting that the act only took the liquor trade from the Bar to hand it over to the drug stores." But that refers to ardent spirits only. Mr. Ross is in favor of compensation to the brewers if their property is ruined, and this would mean millions of dollars to be paid by the taxpayers of Ontario.

This man's talk opened my eyes to the purpose of the Liquor Act more than anything else has done. Why, sir, I ask, should the liquor trade of Ontario be put wholly into the hands of Quebec men? Why should the citizens of Ontario have to send to a Montreal merchant for what he wants, and build up Montreal brewers and distillers instead of having the manufacture carried on under strict license in our own Province? Considering what my friend said, I, who was before an indifferent, have become an opponent of the proposed liquor law, and I intend to vote "No" when the time comes. Thanking you for such space.

Yours Sincerely,
A MODERATE



The diver dies without air to breathe. The consumptive dies without lungs to breathe the air, or of lungs rendered incapable of breathing by disease. The blood as it flows in and out of the lungs indicates the consumptive's progress. As the lungs grow weaker less oxygen is inhaled and the blood changes from scarlet to purple. Oxygen is the life of the blood as the blood is the life of the body.

The effect of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery upon weak lungs is to strengthen them, to enable the full oxygenation of the blood, arrest the progress of disease, and heal the inflamed tissues. Lung diseases have been and are being cured by "Golden Medical Discovery," in cases where deep-seated cough, frequent hemorrhage, emaciation, weakness, and night-sweats have all pointed to a fatal termination by consumption.

"Some years ago I was almost a helpless victim of that dread disease—consumption," writes Mr. Chas. Fross, P. M., of Sitka, White Co., Ind. "I was confined to my room for several months; my friends and neighbors had given up all hope of my recovery, until one day a friend advised me to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and after I had taken the contents of the second bottle I began to improve. After taking six bottles I was, I honestly believe, delivered from the grave and entirely cured. I am now a strong and hearty man."

PEACE TERMS WITH THE BERBER CHIEFS

Negotiations Likely to be Successful--Have Taken Refuge in the Mountains

World too Imperfect for Roosevelt's Ideal—Should be Kept in View but will Hardly be Realized

London, Dec. 3.—A correspondent telegraphing from the camp of the Sultan of Morocco, near Mekinez, says the Berber chiefs have taken refuge in a sanctuary near Mekinez. The correspondent says that peace negotiations are likely to be successful. The Sultan's army will remain among the Berbers until the terms of a peace treaty are carried out, when the Court will return and winter at Mekinez. The terms which the Moorish Government will accept include a heavy fine in money, a large number of hostages, and payment of several years' arrears in taxes. The entire district is deserted, and enemy having taken refuge with the women and flocks on mountain districts, where an attack during the winter weather is very difficult.

MR. ARMOUR'S GRATITUDE

He Will Endow an Institut Because of His Daughter's Cure

Chicago, December 3—While J. Ogden Armour was entertaining Professor Adolf Lorenz and Dr. Frederick Mueller, both of the University of Vienna, at his home yesterday, the first active step was taken toward the "Lolita Armour Institute of Bloodless Surgery." Mr. Armor will endow the institution with $2,000,000. This will insure an income of $100,000 a year.

It was announced that the institution shall be absolutely free to whomsoever may need treatment. There is not to be a knife in the place."

"I intend to establish a hospital or institute for your school of surgery" said Mr. Armour, addressing Dr. Mucker, "You must be at the head of it. It makes no difference what the cost may be. My daughter has practically been given back to me and I and my wife are grateful." Professor Lorenz nodded approval of his plans.

BRITAIN CALLS CHINA DOWN

Duplicity of Prince Ching Deeply Resented Says Landsdowne

London, Dec. 3.—A Parliamentary paper, issued to-day, giving the correspondence relative to the evacuation of Shanghai by the troops of the powers interested. The most striking point is the directness with which Foreign Secretary Lansdowne instructed Minister Satow at Pekin to inform Prince Ching, President of the Chinese Foreign Office, that "his duplicity in agreeing to Germany's conditions regarding the Yangste valley, while simultaneously informing Great Britain that he knew nothing thereof, "was deeply resented," and that Great Britain would not be bound by any pledges of the Chinese Government or the Viceroys whereby British freedom of action to maintain order and protect British interests in the the Yangtse valley be limited.

A similar notification was sent to Germany, Lord Lansdowne stating that the principle of the "open door" on which Germany based the proposed conditions was sufficiently safeguarded by the existing inter-agreements. Germany replied that she would drop the conditions since she had received satisfactory assurances from China.

CHINA'S PROGRESS

Knowledge of Western Science a Qualification for Holding Office

Pekin, Dec. 4—An edict has been issued recommending that the literati study Western science and making a course therein at the Imperial University a qualification for holding office. A previous edict declared that Western knowledge was essential for military appointments; but the Throne, while urging Western knowledge, retains Chinese education.

The edict carefully dignify Chang Poh Se, Minister of Education, who is a conspicuous failure in that office.

The Throne plans to have provincial officials send apt and enlightened students to Pekin to qualify for public office, but this idea will fail, because it will interfere with the literati.

MRS. GORE'S DEATH ACCIDENTAL

American Doctors Approve the Report of the French

Paris, Dec. 4—Mr. Gowdy, the American Consul-General issued a statement today to the effect that Drs. Magnin, Whitman, Gros and Turner, the four American physicians appointed by him to investigate the death of Mrs. Ellen Gore, in the rooms of the Russian singer De Radzewski, had handed in their report.

The report, which is signed by all four physicians, is in accord with the autopsy of Dr. Socquet, who stated that Mrs. Gore's death was the result of an accident.

Mr. Gowdy hoped to be able to mail his report to the State Department at Washington to-morrow, but because of the numerous letters and documents found in Mrs. Gore's apartments and those in possession of the Juge d'Instruction, it will be impossible for him to go over the entire affair for several days.

COAL OIL IN PETERBOROUGH

It is Believed to Exist Here as Well as Natural Gas

The Times is in receipt of a letter from Mr. Harvey, the well known coal oil expert, who visited Peterborough some months ago, suggesting that a company be formed to sink one or more wells in Peterborough. Mr. Harvey says that he is quite sure that gas or oil exists, probably both.

The Trenton geological formation is almost a sure indication of gas or oil. Mr. Harvey examined the rock that was taken from the lower depth of the wells at the lift lock, and expressed himself as convinced that all had plenty of gas or oil, or probably both.

In view of the recent discovery near Chatham a few days ago, when over 2000 barrels of a very fine quality of oil has already been secured, it would be wise to act on Mr. Harvey's suggestion.

Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Urquhart will reside in Jersey City, where Mr. Urquhart is engaged in the life insurance business, and well known as one of the leaders in the profession.

Their large circle of friends wish them a long life of wedded bliss.

WONDERFUL MONSTERS TO PULL

Machines That are too Large to Go Through the Tunnels and Can Draw a Train a Mile Long

Tacoma, Wash., Dec. 3—The Northern Pacific has received the last of a consignment of twenty-one of the biggest engines in America. The last one of the series arrived a few days ago, and Tacoma, the terminus, has the distinction of being also the greatest railroad centre in the world in this respect. There are as big engines elsewhere in twos and threes, but on no line, and at no point are there a score of engines like the 1,300 class just received in Tacoma. Any ten of those engines could have done all the railroad business there was to be done here ten years ago, when the "sage hens" used to crawl up to Weston with eight and ten small cars that could be loaded into five modern cars, wheels and all. The public sees little of these engines, since they are confined to freighting on the mountain division. Any one of them can pull on a level track all the cars that can be hung behind them. The only limit is the number of cars that can be handled by a single crew. In the graphic language of Master Mechanic Bruce, "You can string all the cars you can get behind one of these engines, chop the train off at a mile or so, and swing 'em into Portland easy."

Technical language will not convey to the average reader the immensity of these wonders of locomotive building. The name given them by common consent all over the road is "battleships," and a more descriptive name could not have been chosen. One goes up two flights of stairs to reach the cab, for the boilers are so big they cannot be squeezed between the drivers and perforce they must be put on top of them. Their height is of three men standing on each other's shoulders—just low enough to squeeze through the tunnels. Indeed many tunnels had to be raised to let them though from the East. The cylinders are double on each side, being arranged "tandem" the word "tandem" being adopted as the class name of the engine.

Five years ago the "Mogul" engine which could swing 506 tons up the 1 2-10 grade to Lester at the foot of the mountain, was considered a wonder and many believed the limit had been reached as to size. But the "Mogul" and its load is not a mouthful to the present "battleship," which weighs loaded nearly three times as much, and rolls along without apparent effort with 1,000 tons.

If freighting over the mountain were still done with horseflesh, as forty years ago, it would take 60,000 horses to do in a week what a battleship does in a day. She carries 210 pounds of steam. The "high-press" cylinders at the front of the tandem, looking like young 16-inch cannon, discharge into the "low-press cylinders at 70 pounds.

From end to end the engines are sixty-nine feet long, for, as the master mechanic says, "Since they can't build 'em any higher, the only thing they can do now is to build 'em longer." Roundly speaking one of the engines would run all the mills in Tacoma if it were not a locomotive.

Five years ago the company received the first of its "Klondike" engines, then considered a masterpiece of engine construction. Though monsters in size and power, the new engines exceed them just 30 per cent. in both dimensions. The "Klondike" exceeded the "Mogul" by 300 tons up the grade to Lester, and the "battleship" daily exceeds the "Klondike by 300 tons.

The engines are not comfortable for the engine crews, and have occasioned a great deal of kicking. A bulletin was posted recently cutting down the loads of engines, and till further orders the "battleship" will only be required to draw 900 tons—still far in excess of anything that has preceded them. The object of the order is the speeding up of trains during the great rush of business now on.

It is positively announced now, as oft-times before, that the limit of locomotive building has been reached. It remains to be seen how many months it will be before the limit sign is torn down and a higher one substituted.

A SUBSTANCIAL INCREASE

The Sum of $37,396 Collected in Peterboro in Five Months

The Times is indebted to Mr. Rudkins, collector of Inland Revenue, at Peterborough, for the following figures:

Inland Revenue returns of the Peterborough office for the five months ending November 30th, were $37,396.06, an increase over corresponding five months of last year of $6,741.22.

The money will have to be raised in some other way should prohibition exist probably by direct taxation.

UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT

The Dominion Express Company's Branch Here in New Hands

On account of illness Mr. McInnes has been obliged to resign his position as local manager of the Dominion Express Company, much to the regret of his many friends in Peterborough. He has been transferred to Toronto office, where he will begin his duties as soon as he recovers.

Mr. L. D. Oakley, of Orangeville, has been appointed his successor. Mr. Oakley is sure to become very popular with the business public of Peterborough, and the Times extends to him a hearty welcome to town.

LIVE LAKEFIELD LOCALS

Items of Interest from Our Pretty Northern Suburb

—The fact that the Epworth League debate on Prohibition vs. High License, the vote stood 17 to 14 in favor of Prohibition, shows that even in the Methodist church circles there are those who do not believe in prohibitive legislation.

—We extend the glad hand to Mr. T. H. Darcy, who is to become a resident of Lakefield. Mr. Darcy has purchased from Mr. R. Johnston the property he so recently bought from Mr. J. S. Madill. Mr. Darcy is moving to Lakefield in order that his grandson may have the benefit of the schools here. His son, Mr. Warney Darcy, will conduct the business at Burleigh as formerly.

—Our merchants are preparing for Christmas, and are displaying fine lines of holiday goods.

—Mrs. Benson left last week for Orono, where she will reside in future.

—The citizens of Lakefield are reminded that the cheapest place in Peterborough to purchase holiday presents is the Times Bookstore. The goods are imported direct, and are new and first class.

—The death occurred in Lakefield on Sunday last, of Mr. B. Hunter, saddler. His demise is universally regretted, as he was highly esteemed by all.

—Messrs. John and Jos. Madill left on Monday for Napanee, where they intend opening on the 1st of January a new dry goods store. While we regret to lose Messrs. Madill Bros. from our midst, we wish them every success in their new venture.

—Miss Mulligan, of Newcastle, who has been visiting in the village the guest of Mrs. E. A. Tanner, returned to her home on Tuesday.

NATIONAL COUNCIL OF WOMEN.

Local Councils' Being Formed in Various Towns in Canada

The Times is requested to state that a branch of the National Council of Women of Canada is soon to be established in Peterborough.

The corresponding secretary has lately held meetings of the members of the various societies of women in Belleville, Whitby and Port Hope, in order to lay before them the work and aims of the National Council, and to enlist their sympathy. In all three places it was resolved to form a "Local Council," which is a federation of existing societies, and which will undertake needed work of common interest. These local councils are, in turn, federated with the National Council, and form a bond of union of women workers in all parts of Canada. As this National Council of Canada is again federated with nineteen other National Councils in the International Council, the practical good that is accomplished by this union is worldwide.

CANADA TRYING TO PERSUADE GREAT BRITAIN

The Intercolonial Has not the Facilities for Carrying Cattle

Ottawa, Dec. 3.—The C. P. R. would not be acting the part of wisdom if it tried to force the Government into a withdrawal of the order forbidding the transport of cattle for export through Maine. The fact is the Government has no desire to undertake their carriage over the Intercolonial. It has neither the cars nor the required accomodation at St. John.

The Minister of Agriculture is doing all he can to convince the Imperial authorities that it would be no real menace to the health of cattle to pass in sealed cars for a few miles through the State of Maine. If necessary our Government would provide an inspector for each train to see that no risk of infection is run. Yet the British Board of Agriculture has not so far intimated that they would be satisfied to permit the landing of cattle that traveled by the C. P. R. short line through Maine.

It is worthy of notice that the last train of stock from the Canadian West for export has been delivered at the seaboard. There would be no more coming down from the Territories anyway. The only cattle shipments that the C. P. R. carry for the winter are from Ontario and of American stock entering the Dominion at Sarnia and Windsor. If they refuse to handle these unless they are given the through haul down to St. John, the C. P. R. will be the greatest sufferer. This is the statement of one who has had something to do with the determining of the Government regulations.

AN INVESTMENT QUESTION

A Correspondent Says That Now is the Time to Settle

The Times is in receipt of the following letter. It is written by a well known business man, who ought to have more sense. He says:

"Will the Times try and remember an election if it can, (if only for aldermen) when the whole liquor party did not hire rigs and get out and bring in voters in opposition to the Conservatives? Now is the time to knife the liquor men and thus get even."

The Times can remember many elections in which the liquor men did nothing of the kind. It is well known for instance, that Mr. Wm. Croft, who for 20 or more years was identified with the hotel business in Peterborough, was always a staunch Conservative. There are many others besides, who, we believe are Conservatives, and who naturally resent the above. The hotel men of Peterborough are as a class honorable and respectable and are not addicted to the low-down methods suggested above.

Ald. Best Makes a Move in the Right Direction to Improve Our Roads

By Permanent Road Beds and Improved Storm Drainage—The Municipal Fuel Yard Question to be Put in Tangible Shape—Ald. McGregor Scores Ald. Batten on Unionism

"I don't see why these boys are not kept at home at night," said Mayor Denne last night, when Ald McGregor reported that Mrs. Grundy, on Water street, complained of being considerably annoyed at night by boys.

Ald. J. J. Turner also reported that notwithstanding Mr. R. H. Bradburn's complaint some weeks ago of young men congregating around the opera house and in many ways proving a nuisance, that nuisance had not been so far remedied.

Both these questions were referred to the Committee on Appointments to see that the police enforce the law.

The Town Council met in regular session last night, when there were present Mayor T. H. G. Denne, in the chair and Aldermen Shortly, Roger, H. Rush, McGregor, J. J. Turner, Morrison, Clinkscale, Batten and Best. The minutes were taken as typewritten.

From the Wm. Hamilton Mfg. Co., stating that in reference to their request to lower and fix their rate of assessment, they have decided to withdraw the petition for the present.—Received.

From property owners on Water street and Homewood Avenue, asking that an arc electric light be placed at the junction of those streets.—Fire, Water & Light Committee.

From the Dickson Co., objecting to the erection by the Otonabee Power Co., of a pole and braces in front of the vacant property owned by the Dickson Co., on the north side of McDonnell street, and asking the Council to take steps to have them removed.—This matter was referred to the Town Engineer to report to the Board of Works.

From J. Z. Rogers, of the Peterborough Canoe Co., stating that while the company thought that they should have exemption as well as other manufacturers coming to town, they did not think it advisable to submit a by-law in January—Received.

From J. J. Turner & Sons, stating that they wished to have a by-law submitted at the January elections in regard to the fixing of their assessment—Received.

From F. F. Garden, Secretary Trades and Labor Council, enclosing a resolution passed by that body in favor of having the assessment roll printed, and requesting the Town to have his done—Received.

From T. J. Begley, Secretary of Peterborough Typographical Union, No. 218, asking that the union label be put on all the corporation printing—Finance Committee.

From F. Robertson, secretary of the Iron Moulders' Union, enclosing a resolution endorsing Ald. McGregor's advocacy of a municipal fuel yard. Received.

From W. H. Meldrum, managing director of the Otonabee Power Co., applying for the right to cross Charlotte street, on the west side of the creek, to meet an application of the Lock Co. for power; also the right erect poles and wires on the north side of Hunter street, from Bethune street to the Colonial Typewriter building.—Board of Works.

From H. C. Baker, manager of the Bell Telephone Co., calling attention to the fact that four poles had recently been erected on the south side of McDonnel street, between George and Aylmer streets, in some cases between, and in others so close to the telephone wires as to encroach upon and interfere with the rights of the telephone system, because of the fact that the four poles would carry wires from those over which the power current of the Otonabee Power Co. was transmitted. A protest was made and the Council asked to prevent the use of the part of the street referred to for the erection of poles and wires interfering with those of the Telephone Company — Board of Works.

From W. J. Green, tax collector, in regard to a remission of interest on Mr. Robert Howden's taxes, made justifiable by delay through the post office of a letter containing the cheque.—Said remission was granted.

From R. Sheehy, stating that owing to shortage of cars he was unable to have pipe for Harvey street sewer delivered within contract time, and therefore requesting to be exempted from overtime charges.—This request was granted.

From Mrs Ellen Rogers, requesting remission of her taxes.—Court of Revision.

From R. Sheehy, in regard to the sidewalk on Charlotte street, and claiming that he could not fairly be held liable for necessary repairs thereto.—Referred to the Board of Works to investigate.

From S. R. Armstrong, enclosing copy of a resolution passed by the Board of health requesting the Council to have connection with the sewer made so as to drain the lane running from Water street west, in the rear of stores on Hunter street, and continuing north to Brock street. The work was necessary for sanitary reasons.—Board of Works.

From E. G. Patterson, General Superintendent of the C.G.E. Co., pointing out the necessity for more light in the vicinity of the Works at night, and also for a fire alarm box near by.—Referred to the Fire, Water and Light committee with power to act.

From Louis Mickam, calling attention to the necessity of raising the sidewalk on Rink street, between George and Aylmer streets. This walk also needs repairing.—Referred to the Board of Works.

From W. H. Hewson, town clerk of Penetanguishene, enclosing a resolution passed by that Council advocating action bringing to the attention of the Minister of Railways the necessity of having the G.T.R. live up to the demands of the country and make such provision in regard to freight cars as would do away with the annual shortage.—Received.

From John McClelland, in regard to dog tax.—Court of Revision.

From residents near the corner of Aylmer and Hunter streets, asking that some action be taken as will put a stop to the rowdyism and disreputable conduct of certain characters in that locality.—Referred to the Committee on Appointments with power to act.

From T. J. Henry, asking that the sidewalk be raised at the corner of Park and Parnell streets, where he has built a new store.—Board of Works.

From C. W. [illegible], local manager of the Bell Telephone Co., asking permission to erect poles on the east side of Lock street, between Ware and Lansdowne streets.—Board of Works.

From the members of the First Church of Christ Scientist, appealing for honorable justice and fair play in regard to the assessment of that church, and asking to have it put on the same basis as other places of worship.

In reference to the above communication Mr. A. P. Poussette addressed Council in behalf of the First Church of Christ Scientist. He remarked that the whole question hinged on "whether the building in question is a place of worship or not." If the Council are satisfied that it is a place of worship, they they have a right to be exempted. He could not see why this institution should not receive the same privileges as other religious bodies simply because they are not an incorporated body and have not regularly ordained ministers.

Ald. Shortly replied that the Court of Revision had not the power to write off their taxes as the property was entered on the assessment roll.

The matter was referred to the town solicitor to report to Council.

ACCOUNTS.

A big batch of accounts was referred to the Finance committee.

TOWN FUEL YARD.

Ald. McGregor submitted the following:

Gentlemen,—Your Committee of the Whole Council beg leave to report and recommend that a vote of the municipal electors be taken at the time of the Municipal Elections on January next on the question, "Are you in favor of the Council establishing a municipal fuel yard?" and that the clerk provide the necessary ballots and other materials for taking the vote.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Ald Morrison thought the details of the scheme should be threshed out in Council, so as to get something tangible to submit to the people. He thought the idea all right, but he wants to see it worked out. He advised referring the report back to the committee to work out a scheme embodying the probable cost of maintenance, the manner of procuring the fuel and an estimated price at which it can be retailed, and report to Council.

Ald. Batten remarked that everything was getting to be "union" now. The blacksmiths were getting a union, and he had heard it rumored that the coal men were going to form a union to prevent the town from getting a supply of coal for their proposed yard. In this event we would have to import our coal from across the sea. He thought it would be wise before starting into the coal business for the town to enquire whether they can get coal or not.

Ald. McGregor replied that Ald. Batten has had apparently changed his views regarding unionism. He had told him that he did not see any need for unions and would never be a union man. Ald. Batten had also made a statement to the effect that before fall we should see workingmen glad to get 75 cents a day as a result of unionism. Continuing, Ald. McGregor believed it would be a criminal offence for the coal men to conspire to shut off the corporation from a supply of coal.

Ald. Batten denied that Ald. McGregor had heard him say one word against the unions. What he did say was that he was opposed to every man being struck on the same basis for wages, believed a man should be paid what he was worth.

Ald. Best thought a prospectus should first be drawn up for the proposed fuel yard, when we should have something tangible to submit to the people.

Ald. Rush favored the scheme, but at the same time agreed with Ald. Best and Morrison.

Ald. McGregor wanted the question submitted to the people as it now stood. "We can all agree on it, and we are going to have a campaign of it and we are going to have a pretty lively one this year." As to an enquiry by Ald. Morrison as to whether the coal men would [illegible] compensation, they should [illegible] for relief [illegible] they claim to be [illegible] poorly paid."

Ald. Morrison moved, seconded by Ald. Turner, that this report be referred back to the committee with Ald. McGregor as chairman, to report back to Council some tangible scheme.—Carried.

THE ASSESSMENT ROLL.

Ald. Rogers submitted the report of the Finance committee, in which clause 5 recommended that no provision be made for the matter of publishing the roll until the statutory meeting, December [illegible], when the financial statement will be [illegible] the assessment [illegible]

Ald. McGregor moved, seconded by Ald. Turner, that clause [illegible]

THE BARONS AFRAID

The sudden interruption of the sessions of the coal strike commission last week, created the impression that the commissioners were getting "warm" in their search after certain facts regarding the coal trust. The equally sudden breaking off of the negotiations between the operators and the miners' representatives evidently did not result from any hitch in the negotiations because they had not proceeded far enough to reach a deadlock on any point. It is just possible that the trust got an intimation from President Roosevelt that the independent settlement of the difficulty would not interfere with the ultimate intention of the commission to insist on the production of the books of the coal trust, or at least evidence as to the extent of the earnings. Congressman Hearst, of New York, is also after the trust and he announces that even if the coal commission does not get at the facts, the New York American will do so in connection with the suit now pending in the courts against the coal trust. Possibly, in one way or another, the public will at an early date get the bottom facts, which seem to be worth hiding.

WOMEN'S RIGHTS IN RUSSIA

An agricultural high school for women has been started by the Russian Government, and it is said to be the first of its kind in Europe. The object is to give women a general training as agriculturists. The students will also be permitted to restrict their attention to special branches, such as dairy farming, gardening, bee culture, poultry keeping and cattle and sheep breeding. It will be an indispensable condition of admittance to have passed through a gymnasium or similar institution for intermediate education. The Ministry has fixed the course for three years. It will include practical occupation on a model farm in addition to study and laboratory work.

The women who pass through this institution will enjoy the same rights as the successful male students of the existing high schools. They will, consequently, be capable of filling various posts under the Ministry of Agriculture, and will be further entitled to hold the position of administrators of the crown domains and of teachers in the intermediate agricultural schools.

Although the date on which the new institution will be opened has not yet been decided upon, 125 young women, who have had an intermediate education have announced their intention to follow the course.

REPLY TO THE REGULATION OF LIQUOR

To the Editor of The Times:

Dear Sir,—It is well that the public should thoroughly understand what "The Liquor Act, 1902," which will be voted on on Thursday really means. There is now a liquor act in force in the Province of Ontario, under which liquor is sold by a limited number of shops and hotels, and regulations made for the sale of spirituous and fermented liquors such as are used in all civilized countries. This is what is known as the licensing system, and although it is not perfect by any means, the present regulations are the result of many years of practical experience, and are the best that our lawmakers can devise for regulating the liquor traffic. It may be added that the licensing system is looked upon by the soundest students of sociology and by most level-headed friends of the temperance cause as the sanest and best method of dealing with the liquor question.

"The Liquor Act, 1902," is an entirely different proposition. It is called "The Liquor Act, 1902," and it means exactly what it is called. It is not called a Prohibition Act, simply because it is not a prohibitory measure. On the ballot the voter will read as follows: "Are you in favor of the bringing into force of The Liquor Act, 1902?" In other words you are asked whether you are in favor of doing away with the present licensing system and substituting for it the new liquor act, which would still permit the distiller to distil and the brewer to brew, in Ontario; which would permit them to sell in Ontario for mechanical, scientific, medical or sacramental purposes, which would permit them to export to any place outside of the Province; which would permit liquor to be imported into Ontario from outside Provinces; which would permit travellers from Montreal liquor houses to take orders in person in Ontario and deliver goods direct to the consumer; which would permit mail orders to be executed in Montreal or in other cities outside the Province for parties in Ontario; which would permit liquor to be kept in any private house in Ontario for consumption; which would allow doctors to carry round two quarts of liquor for their patients; and veterinary surgeons to buy a gallon at a time for their "patients;" which would permit druggists to fill orders; which would give the right to search your private house with a warrant, and which would compel wives to testify against their husbands and children to testify against their parents.

These are but a few of the ridiculous and demoralizing conditions that would prevail if "The Liquor Act, 1902," were put into operation. It is simply a law to harass and impede trade. It is a law which would increase the trade in Quebec at the expense of the Province of Ontario. It is a law which makes one law for the rich and another for the poor. For instance, if you are rich enough to have a private house of your own, you may keep all kinds of liquors in your cellar, but if you are compelled to keep boarders or lodgers, your home is placed in the hotel or livery stable class, where no liquor of any kind would be permitted. Again, if you use any part of your house as an office, store or workshop, you should not be permitted to have liquor on the premises. If you live in a flat or a tenement you would not be permitted to have a bottle of ale about. Neither in your club nor in your society hall would you be permitted to have a bottle of liquor. The penalties provided by the Act are: Forfeiture of the liquor and a fine of from $200 to $1,000, or imprisonment of two or four months.

The Province would lose an annual revenue of nearly $700,000 and be put to an annual expense of at least $500,000 for detectives, inspectors, spies and the general machinery that would be required to make an honest effort to enforce a ridiculous and unnecessary law. The Act would certainly result in the consumption of more spirits and less beer. It would encourage home drinking, secret drinking, and drinking in dives, which would flourish under this law as they flourished under the old Scott Act, for, as a matter of fact "The Liquor Act, 1902" is simply the old Scott Act applied to the whole Province. It would renew the demoralization of the community which existed in Scott Act times, and it would necessitate direct taxation. This is acknowledged on all sides. There is not a financier of any standing in the Province who will deny this.

We cannot imagine how any man who enjoys his glass of ale in a hotel or in his home can fail to vote "No" on Thursday next, nor can we imagine how any prohibitionist can accept this act, since it is in no sense a prohibitory measure, at least it cannot be considered a prohibitory law such as the prohibitionists have asked for. We feel confident that every sensible voter in this country will make it a point to go to the polls on Thursday next and vote "No." Yours very truly,

D. ABRAM.

THE PROHIBITION QUESTION — CONSISTENCY THOU ART A JEWEL

To the Editor of The Times:

Dear Sir,—I see by the press that the prohibition element in the Province has been importing agitators to assist them in the coming referendum, in the persons of the Rev. Charles Sheldon and others. If the following item from the Atcheson (Kansas) Daily Globe is true, I think the Rev. Mr. Sheldon's time could be better spent in his own home of Topeka, Kansas in trying to reform the state of affairs in that place, instead of wasting his time in Ontario. But there, where did you ever find consistency in the prohibition party. One would think from the way they keep up the agitation against the liquor traffic that their own condition was as that could be desired but one has only to be a casual observer to see that such is not the case; that their own position is weak, and their work ineffective. They should turn their attention to other abuses and not lead the public to suppose that all the evils mankind is heir to, are caused by drinking. Let them question their own hearts, and they will find they are in error. Yours very truly,

PLAIN SPEAKER.

The Atcheson, Kansas, Daily Globe prints the following article, which is well worth reading just now:—

The Rev. Charles M. Sheldon, of Topeka who has acquired some fame by his writings and sermons, is to go to Canada to assist the prohibition party there in securing prohibition in Canada. There is something about this that to the ordinary mind is incomprehensible. Kansas has prohibition, constitutional prohibition, and has had it for twenty years or more. And yet, in the town where Rev. Mr. Sheldon lives and works and preaches, there is a saloon on every corner, and frequently an extra one in the middle of the block. The prohibitory law is given no more heed than if such a thing had never been heard of in Kansas. The saloons are as open as they are in any city of the land. With such evidence as this right at his own door, does Mr. Sheldon undertake to say that prohibition prohibits, or that it is a success? Will he tell the Canadians that it is a success in Kansas? If he tells them it is a failure how can he urge them to adopt it? He can tell them of course that theoretically prohibition is a good and great thing; which it is. But will he not have to tell them, if he tells the truth, that practically it is a failure? It it as clear and distinctly local option as though it were designated that way in the constitution and the laws. Prohibition does not prohibit in any town or city where the sentiment is in favor of saloons. And where it does not favor saloons, saloons could not exist, even without prohibition. The constitutional amendment and the laws re-

Running a Great Rapids.

"At the head of one of the great rapids a bowman, seeing that I mated well with a light-weight of his crew, invited me to take a paddle and help them through," writes Arthur Heming in the July "Scribner" in describing the Abitibi fur brigade. "While the brigade are shooting rapids light-weights are at a premium. Tossing in an extra set of paddles we stepped aboard, and with a gentle shove the current caught us and carried us out to mid-stream. Long before we sighted white water the roar of the cataract was humming in our ears. We two midmen sat upon dunnage sacks and braced our moccasoned feet against the ribbing. Presently the bowman stood up and scanned the river. Dark, ominous water raced ahead for a hundred yards, then disappeared, leaving nothing but a great, surging mass of white that leaped high and dropped out of sight in the apparently forsaken river-bed. Then the steersman stood up, too, and Indian words passed between them. Every moment we were gaining impetus, and always heading for the highest crest of foam. Waiting for the word to paddle was even worse than waiting for the starter's gun in a sculling race. At last it came, just as we were twenty-five yards from the end of dark water. With a wild shout from the bowman, we drove our paddles home. The great canoe trembled a little at first as our work was somewhat ragged, but a moment later we settled into an even stroke and swept buoyantly among the tossing billows. Now before us ran a strange, wild river of seething white, lashing among great, gray-capped, dark-greenish bowlders that blocked the way. High, rocky banks standing close together, squeezed the mighty river into a tumult of fury. Swiftly we glide down the racing torrent and plunge through the boiling waters. Sharp rocks rear above the flying spray, while others are barely covered by the foaming flood. It is dangerous work. We midmen paddle hard to force the canoe ahead of the current. The steersmen in bow and stern ply and bend their great seven-foot paddles. The bowman, with eyes alert, keenly watches the whirling waters and signs of hidden rocks below. The roar of seething waters drowns the bowman's orders. The steersman closely watches and follows every move his companion makes. Down we go, riding upon the very back of the river; for here the water forms a great ridge, rising four or five feet above the water-line on either shore. To swerve to either side means sure destruction. With terrific speed we reach the brink of a violent descent. For a moment the canoe pauses, steadies herself, then dips her head as the stern upheaves, and down we plunge among more rocks than ever. Right in our path the angry stream is waging battle with a hoary bowlder that disputes the way. With all its might and fury the frantic river hisses and roars and lashes it. Yet it never moves—it only frowns destruction upon all that dares approach it. How the bowman is working! See his paddle bend! With lightning movements he jabs his great paddle deep into the water and close under the left side of the bow; then with a mighty heave he lifts her head around. The great canoe swings as though upon a pivot; for is not the steersman doing exactly the very opposite at this precise moment? We sheer off. But the next instant the paddles are working on the opposite sides, for the bowman sees signs of a water-covered rock not three yards from the very bow. With a wild lunge he strives to lift the bow around; but the paddle snaps like a rotten twig. Instantly he grabs for another, and a grating sound runs the length of the heaving bottom. The next moment he is working the new paddle. A little water is coming in, but she is running true. The rocks now grow fewer, but still there is another pitch ahead. Again the bow dips as we rush down the incline. Spray rises in clouds that drench us to the skin, as we plunge through the "great swell" and then shoot out among a multitude of tumbling billows that threaten to engulf us. The canoe rides upon the backs of the "white horses," and we rise and fall, rise and fall, as they fight beneath us. At last we leave their wild arena, and entering calmer water, paddle away to the end of the portage trail."

An Oriental Inquest.

The following little scene at an inquest upon the body of a murdered man is reported from Astrachan:

The coroner (dictating to his clerk)—On the table was found a bottle—no, stop a moment, we must ascertain its contents.

The coroner (tasting the liquid)—The bottle contained English gin. Perhaps not, I am not sure. Taste it yourself.

The clerk, having done so, replies—I believe it is simply strong vodka.

The coroner (tossing off another glass)—No, really, it tastes like gin.

The clerk (tasting again)—I still think it is only strong vodka.

The bottle having gradually become empty, the coroner proceeded to dictate in a decisive tone: "Write: An empty bottle was found on the table, and all measures taken to ascertain what it had contained were of no use."

Horse and Buggy Stolen

Yesterday afternoon a horse and buggy were stolen from Havelock. Chief Rezeau was notified, and P. C. McGinty was sent out to see if any trace of the horse or vehicle could be discovered. After some time it was found that the horse and buggy had been caught in Dunsford going home without a driver, and it was accordingly held for the owner. There is no trace of the thief.

The CANADIAN STEEL AND COAL COMPANY was organized to mine and manufacture iron and coal, coke and steel in Canada at Atlantic tidewater.

The raw materials for these manufactures are:—

1.—COAL.   2.—IRON.   3.—LIMESTONE.

All these materials we have at hand.

1.—COAL.

The Company controls 3,000 acres of excellent coal areas in the Province of Nova Scotia, and efforts are being made to increase this to 10,000 acres by the purchase of some very valuable additional coal fields.

The coal has been thoroughly tested and found to be suitable in every way for the manufacture of iron and steel, and the supply is practically inexhaustible. The following analysis was made by the Canadian Geological Survey:—

ANALYSIS.

Vol. Comb. Matter	30.72

TITLES.

These areas are held under Crown Lease for a period of 80 years. Royalty 10 cents per ton of coal sold.

2.—IRON.

The Company has acquired by purchase immense iron deposits on the North Shore of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, about 1350 miles from Sydney. The deposits are estimated to contain 20,000,000 ton re above sea level, with probably as much more below that line. The iron can be handled for $1.00 per ton or less. Quantities of this ore have been shipped to Great Britain and the United States, where it has given great satisfaction, and we can sell large quantities f. o. b. at the properties, netting us a profit of $2.00 per ton. This ore makes the finest steel.

3.—FLUX.

We are now negotiating for valuable deposits of dolomite and limestone of the most satisfactory quality, situated on the tide-water, within 100 miles of the works

MARKETS.

For six months in each year the Canadian markets can be reached by water at low freight rates, and at all times by rail. As Cape Breton is distant from Liverpool only about 2,300 miles; is nearer to Pernambuco, Brazil, than any point in the United States, and also nearer to Cape Town, South Africa, it has the advantage, in point of distance, for export business over any American steel-producing points, which, with scarcely any exceptions, are situated some distance from tide water. Under any conditions of the world's market, it is believed that the output of these works can be disposed of at satisfactory prices.

OUTPUT

When in full operation, the output is expected to be about as follows:—

1. IRON.—200,000 tons iron ore shipped direct from property, showing net profit of $2.00 per ton, total	$400,000 00
200,000 tons fine iron ore shipped in briquettes, showing net profit of $4.00 per ton, total	800,000 00
100,000 tons steel blooms, showing net profit of $3.00 per ton, total	300,000 00
2. COAL.—600,000 tons coal, showing net profit, at least, of $1.00 per ton, total	600,000 00
3. AIDS.—Government bounties (averaged) added to above per year for 6 years	100 000 00
Total yearly revenue	$2,200,000 00

GOVERNMENT AIDS.

To encourage the manufacture in the Dominion of iron and steel the Parliament of Canada has granted bounties as follows:—

	ON PIG IRON.	ON STEEL.
Apl. 21st, 1902, to July 1st, 1903	$2.70	$2 70
July 1st, 1903, " " 1904	2.25	2.25
July 1st, 1904, " " 1905	1.65	1.65
July 1st, 1905, " " 1906	1.05	1.05
July 1st, 1906, " " 1907	.60	.60

If the production of steel from the Company's works be as estimated, 300,000 tons per annum, the bounties to be received from the Canadian Government will be as follows:—

1904	$225,000
1906	145,000

or an average of $100,000.00 per annum for 6⅔ years........ $670,000.00

NET REVENUE

Total net annual profits		$2,200,000.00
LESS FIXED CHARGES:—
7 per cent. interest on preferred stock	$70,000.00
Sinking Fund	60,000.00
Incidentals	25,000.00
		155,000.00
Net yearly profits		$2,045,000 00

Equivalent to yearly dividends of over 30 per cent., or 15 per cent. half yearly on total capitalization.

If the capitalization was increased to .... $20,000,000.00 this estimate would still show a dividend-earning capacity of 10 per cent. per annum.

The capitalization of the Dominion Coal Co. is .... $20,000,000.00 earning fully 12 per cent., and is paying 8 per cent. guaranteed dividends on this enormous sum.

The capitalization of the Dominion Iron and Steel Co. is...... $28,000,000.00 on which it is believed 6 per cent. dividends will be earned.

The capitalization of the Canadian Steel & Coal Company is only $6,000,000.00 controlling, it is believed, equally valuable properties, and it is reasonable to expect much larger dividends.

Within the last few months Dominion Coal shares common rose in market value from $40 to $144 per share, and Dominion Iron & Steel Company's shares common rose over $30 per share in market value.

With such low capitalization the Canadian Steel and Coal Co's shares should allow tremendous profits, and it is confidently believed they will.

Influence of Names.

"We're going to name our newly arrived boy Reginald," remarked Phillips at the club the other evening.

"Do you want him to be that kind of person?" asked Jones, in a tone that he hoped would create discussion.

"What are you springing on us now?" asked several of the group, a little wearily.

"It is a great truth, my boy," continued Jones, aiming his remarks at Phillips, who looked a trifle worried about Jones' question. "The relation of name to character is an unexplored but most fertile region. Look up your fiction, and you will find that every great novelist has unconsciously obeyed the law. A man and his name gradually grow toward each other. He may fight his name for a long time, but by some long road at last he must bend to the significance of what he is called. I consider that parents have a sacred duty upon them in choosing out of all the names of history that name which they elect their child shall be. The name which he receives at baptism is the character part, up to which he must always live."

"Really, I don't follow you," interposed Clemmons of Harvard, with his drawl.

"Think back over your reading," went on Jones. "When Sheridan names a character Lady Sneerwell, it is obvious that his conception is of a character proud and cynical. Such a method of dubbing limits the character drawing to a few bold strokes. A frank avowal of love from her lips, a free handed generosity, would not be tolerated. She must remain cold and hard till the play ends. Bunyan was fond of a name that labelled. Surely you remember Mr. Backbite and Boastful? In the literature of the last century such cheap and easy naming is rare and confined to the minor characters. Thackeray uses it for the peerage alone—Lady Bareacres. It survives in our comic weeklies, with their 'Wandering Willy' and 'Alkali Ike.'

"But there is a rarer and finer use of names that is at the command of the big fellows in romance. The skilful novelist baptizes his creation with a certain name because he realizes its connotation. Annie is known of old for a good housewife and a true sister. She is pretty and social, but is not a society woman. Annie of 'Lorna Doone' is rightly called. Adam implies faithfulness, a quality of high conscientiousness, and Adam of 'As You Like It' and Adam Bede share the trait.

"Tom is mischievous and fast, strongly social, with most of the vices. Even his friends are forced to admit that he drinks, but his severest critics will concede him generous. Such is Tom Jones—splendid and strong, shaggily rough. Tom Brown is not cast in a like epic mould, but yet is justified of his name. Tom Sawyer is a Tom in the making. Joseph, of Genesis, has a deservedly high reputation for chastity, and this implication of the name has been remembered. Joseph Andrews is an apt name for Fielding's hero. Jack is a gay blade. Dorothy is sprightly, but warm-hearted. Dick is merry and out at heels.

"Authorities have split on Rebecca. Scott makes her a faithful soul with a hopeless love. Thackeray gives us an adventuress, heartless, brilliant, and detestable. A character of history often makes the atmosphere of a name. Bonnie Prince Charlie is perhaps responsible for a succession of prodigals who are permitted to bear no other name.

"You see that the novelists, who have looked truth in the face, have always done their naming in line with law. Is it any wonder, when once you realize the influence of a name on a person, that savages, ignorant persons, and children have felt that one who knew their name had power over them? Religion and chivalry have been in the right of it, when they make the act of naming the most sacred ceremony in a man's life. Rightly they felt that baptism and knighting determine the direction of character development and soul growth."—Ex.

"Book Boosting" in France.

The art of book advertising is thought to have made some progress of late both in England and in this country, but they do these things if not better, at least more energetically in France. A Paris newspaper has begun the publication of a romance which has eight leading personages, and the most successful guesser of the fate of each is to have a four-seated automobile as a prize. Portraits of the characters in the novel are carried about the streets, with such questions as these to be answered: "Catharine: Will Catharine marry? If so, whom will she marry?" Again: "Liane: Will her scheme to gain the Marquis be successful?" Next comes: "Germaine: Will she deceive her husband?" Then, "Marie: Will she marry or die before the end of the romance?" Lastly, "Zizi: How many men will she attract? Who will be her last lover?" These individual queries are followed by a group of general problems for solution. "Which of these five women will die of poison? Which of them will administer poison? To whom?" If these methods were to be generally followed by publishers' press agents the reign of the historical romance would take on new terrors.

A Victim.

"Where are you going this summer?"

"I'm going to a stretch of barren sand, where I can be surrounded by the luxuries of the seashore."

"By yourself?"

"No. Whole family. Wife and children, servants, nurses, etc."

"Cottage?"

"Yes. Has eight rooms for sixteen people. Each room will hold comfortably about one-half of a human being."

"Cottage alone?"

"Oh, no. We shall be next to a lot of others. Each with an assortment of children."

"Nice people?"

"Well, they're people I wouldn't think of associating with on ordinary occasions, but of course——"

"Oh, certainly. Where do you get your vegetables?"

"From the city."

"And your water?"

"From the nearest well."

"Typhoid?"

"Probably."

"Flies?"

"Heaps."

"What are you going for?"

"Two reasons. Because I can't afford it and my wife wants to."—"Life."

THE OLD SAW MILL

The Dickson Company Saw Mill Now Being Dismantled

Another old landmark is being removed from the bank of the river. The Dickson Company's sawmill at the foot of London street is to be taken down to make room for the Cereal Company's dam. Men began yesterday morning to remove the machinery, which will be stored until such time as a new building is erected to receive it. The present stage of operations upon the new dam is such as to demand the immediate utilization of the site occupied by the sawmill. The Dickson Company will probably locate on a site to the east of the canal on Little Lake. The company owns the two hundred acres known as Beaver Mead Farm, which will make very fine piling grounds and admit also of easy railway communication. A large building on the farm has been used by the company for some time past as a stable.

A WARM WINTER PREDICTED

Man Figures It Out By Intervals of 13 Years

Mr. P. Jones, of West May City, Michigan, in writing to a local paper says a mild winter is in store for us, and gives his reasons for the prophecy as follows.—It may seem very strange, but in 1863, when I was only eight years old, my father came home from his first enlistment in the army. The winter beginning in 1863 was a very warm winter, rainy and soft, with some cold weather, the last of February and the first of March. This was in Ohio. In 1876, thirteen years later, I was on the Northern Pacific Railroad in Minnesota. It was very warm until February and March then. There was some cold weather, but not long at a time, two or three days at the longest. Just thirteen years later, in 1889, in Ohio, it did not freeze to exceed two inches at any time all winter. The year 1902 brings it thirteen years later. Now when the sun crossed the line each of these years the wind was in the south or southeast. I have a perfect remembrance of these years. Why it comes every thirteen years is a mystery to me. I think some of the lumbermen will remember some of these dates, as in 1876 there were but few logs banked in Minnesota or Wisconsin. This fall the wind was about two degrees east of south when the sun crossed the line.

AN INVESTMENT IN THE
Pitkin Gold Belt Mining and Reduction Company
Which is Safe and Sure of Quick Returns, may Bring an Enormous Return at any Moment. It has the Possibilities of Rivaling the Great Mines of the Past.

This Company has a mine on a true fissure vein, in the center of the Gunnison Gold Belt, Colorado, which is the "Mother" lode or dike, which has produced 15 per cent. more gold than the total output of the Cripple Creek district.

This Mine is no Prospect. Nor is it Waiting on Your Subscription to Buy Machinery or for Development.

After a careful examination by experts, Joseph M. Bradley, M. E., and Mr. George Arlett, A. I. M. E., Amalgamated Copper Company's expert in Chihuahua, Mexico, they advised the purchase of the property. The property had shallow development upon it, showing two ore shoots from which smelting ore had been shipped to the Buena Vista Smelter.

The Company purchased and paid for the latest improved machinery and has put a shaft down 150 feet and intend to carry it down 1000 feet. On the 100 foot level 300 feet of development has been made and an ore shoot has been encountered and blocked out for 97 feet, carrying values in gold from 2 to 6 ounces or $40 to $120 per ton. The cost of mining, hauling, freight and smelters charges will be between $12 and $16 per ton.

Ed. McCarthy & Co., bankers, guarantee a shipping mine of smelting ore running from 2 to 6 ounces in gold, or $40 to $120 per ton, by January 1st, 1903, or all funds will be returned to subscribers upon presentation of receipt issued by said bank.

Also to prospective purchasers of $100 worth of stock we are offering a free trip to Colorado and return. You investigate first and purchase afterward. Could you expect anything fairer than this?

The capital stock of this company is $1,000,000, divided into 1,000,000 shares of stock at $1 each, full paid and non-assessable. A portion of the treasury stock is now offered at

25 CENTS PER SHARE—PAR VALUE $1.00

In one payment, or 20 per cent. down and the balance in four equal monthly payments, for necessary expenditures and improvements on a shipping mine.

Farmers, Attention.

A Beet Sugar Factory is about to be established in Peterborough, which will afford a market for 60,000 tons, about 200,000 bushels of sugar beets at $4.00 per ton. It will take five thousand acres to grow this quantity. All farmers having suitable soil are earnestly requested to make preparation for growing in 1903 from five to ten acres. A pamphlet, "How to Grow the Sugar Beet," will be furnished on application of any farmer contracting to grow two acres and upwards. Address

Mainly About People.

Mr. Harry de Windt, in his book, "Finland As It Is," tells of a bon mot of Andree, the Arctic explorer. Just before his last voyage he was driven to distraction at a dinner-party by a talkative neighbor. "But how will you know, professor, when you have really crossed the North Pole?" was one of many silly questions. "Oh, that will be simple enough, madame," replied Andree, with his well-known dry humor. "A north wind will become a south one!"

It is related that when the Earl of Rochester, in the reign of Charles II., rose to make his maiden speech in the House of Lords, he said: "My lords, my lords, I rise this time for the first time—the very first time. My lords, I divide my speech into four branches." Here there was an embarrassing pause of some seconds. "My lords," the earl then ejaculated, "if ever I rise again in this House, you may cut me off, root and branches, and all forever."

The father of Earl Fitzwilliam, who died recently, was an excellent landlord. A London paper relates how once a farmer went to him with the complaint that the earl's fox-hunters had ruined a field of corn, or, as we should call it, wheat. The earl gave the man fifty pounds in payment for damage. After harvest-time the farmer returned the money, saying that the wheat had turned out well, after all. Earl Fitzwilliam drew a check for one hundred pounds and gave it to his tenant. "This is as things should be between man and man," said he. "When your eldest son comes of age, give him this, and tell him how and why you got it."

Wu Ting-fang, the Chinese Minister, told the ladies of the Washington Law College a story Saturday night that made them all laugh. "I was at a banquet a few nights ago," he said, "and I met the wife of one of the members of Congress. She sat near me at table. I tried to be entertaining. Finally she leaned over and said: 'Oh! Mr. Wu, we all think you are so brilliant. Isn't it a pity you are only Chinese?'"

The late Noah Davis, justice of the Supreme Court of New York, was one of the many judges and lawyers who make the court room the scene of some of our best wit and humor. Once a lawyer objected to a witness, but Judge Davis refused to sustain him. The lawyer cried, "But, Your Honor, I submit—" and here he broke off." "That's right," said the judge, quickly; "always submit. Crier, adjourn court!" In one case over which he presided there were fifty-five distinct offences, and four counts on each offence, two hundred and twenty in all. "Well," said Judge Davis, "there are more counts than in a German principality."

When Collis P. Huntington, the late president of the Southern Pacific Railway, was married for the second time, Henry Ward Beecher performed the marriage ceremony. Huntington's first wife had been dead less than one year, and he desired the second marriage to be kept secret until his return from Europe. He gave Mr. Beecher a marriage fee of $1,500. When Huntington returned, some months later, he went through a public ceremony, and Beecher again officiated. He gave Beecher another fee of $1,500. The great preacher had his humor aroused by this second fee. Turning to Huntington, he said: "Collis, I do wish you were a Mormon."

The butler in a Scotch family occupies a privileged and unique position. He sometimes assumes a freedom of speech which seems to American ears to border on impertinence; but to those who know him his frank speech is only one of the many evidences of his interest in the family welfare. A young New York woman was the guest at a house where a butler of that sort reigns. She submitted to his patronage with much amusement; but one day there were unexpected and important guests for dinner, and a little while before the meal was served the butler waylaid the young American in the hall. "I'm fearin' there'll no be quite enough soup," he whispered, "so when it's offered, ye maun decline it, lass." "Decline soup, James?" she said, laughing. "Why, that would not be polite." "Weel, not precisely," said James, with a benignant smile," but they'll a' make excuse for ye, thinkin' ye hae nae better."

Frith, the celebrated Royal Artist, once painted a portrait of himself, and in the course of years forgot all about it. But a friend entered his studio one morning and asserted that a capital picture of him was on view in a small shop in Great Portland street. "It's not a bit like what you are now," observed the friend, "but it may have resembled you some years ago. Go and look at it." Mr. Frith went, and found his own image after an estrangement of forty-five years. He determined to buy it, though he had not the faintest recollection of having painted it. "Ah, a portrait!" said Frith to the woman in charge of the shop, after he had pretended to examine several other works. "Whose likeness is that?" "That," said the lady, "is a portrait of the celebrated artist, Frith, painted by himself." "Why, he must be an elderly man," put in the artist. The woman remarked that he was young once. "Humph!" quoth the genial W. P. F.; "not much of a picture." To this the woman demurred, and asked £10 for the canvas. It was Frith's turn to appear surprised. "Well," replied the shopkeeper without moving a muscle, "it cost us nearly as much; we shall make a very small profit. You see, it is very valuable because the artist is diseased." "Deceased," exclaimed the astonished painter. "Dead, do you mean?" "Yes, sir; died of drink. My husband attended the funeral." Frith bought the picture, but did not revive for some time.

English.

A Washington lady who is so fond of her home that she stays in it sometimes all the year round, was assailed, says "Lippincott's Magazine," by a conventional friend in conventional language.

"I knew that you usually wintered here," she said, "but I was astonished to hear that you had summered here!"

"I have not only wintered here and summered here," replied the unfashionable one, "but I will astonish you still further when I tell you that I always fall here and have sometimes sprung here."

Toil and the Designer of Things.

A gray mist scudded in front of the patch of blue sky that all afternoon had been peering between the tall buildings into the studio window, and carried away most of the light with it.

The Boy was glad of this, for his faith in himself was about gone. He gathered up his brushes, throwing a few curses at the weather as he did so in a bravado sort of fashion. He was determined not to be a fool this time and seek unsatisfactory sympathy from people who could not understand. Instead, he would go down to the "Vesuvio" and allow its liquid flame to consume his mood.

"Better be drunk than foolish," he said to the Girl as he started for the door. "I'm tired of this breathless pursuit of the Ideal. After all, if I did overtake her, I don't suppose she'd be worth while. This torture of self-denial, of looking forever over the roof in vain desire for the things that may never be, while the hot blood of youth in your veins commands you to drink deep of the things that are, is insanity. To the devil with work and the dreams of doing."

"It is discouraging, isn't it?" said the Girl. "I felt that way myself until you spoke. I looked at your work this afternoon and envied you."

"Envied me? Don't laugh at a fellow because you've happened to find the way to success. Suppose you do manage to paint good canvases and win plaudits. Ten million people have had the same little reward for the same mighty struggle. Already the wear and worry is showing on you. In ten years youth will be gone from you and all you'll have for it will be the memory of heart's blood painted into canvas for trivial 'mention,' and tragic realization of your limitations. The wise man is he who refuses to do what he is able to do; our ability always seems so much greater to us until we put it to the test. Never give yourself a chance. That's the only way to escape heart-break."

The Girl was fragile in the gray light. She stood at the window looking into the twilight that fell in hopelessness among the crowding walls of unsightly buildings. The Boy took a step toward the door. Then the Girl turned.

"I wish you would not talk like that," she said. "It hurts. Have I ever said I expected to do great things? You know I haven't. I was mean to-day and half envied you for your gift. But I don't want to envy anybody. I try not to think of future or fame, for it is thinking of self-glory that brings pain and disappointment. I try to do my work as best I can because it is my work and because I must do it. I know it is delightful to win success. We can't help feeling that our effort has won approval. But I don't work for success. I put my heart into my pictures because I have to, and if by so doing I can soften, if only for an instant, some other heart; bring a look of wistfulness into a careless eye; waken a longing in a dreamless soul, I have the greatest of rewards. Work for work's sake demands no sacrifice. On the contrary, it leads our feet into the ways where perfect happiness may be gathered.

"I know how weak I am and how discouraged I grow even yet. But discouragement never lingers long. All I need do is remind myself that I am not an isolated toiler wearing out my own destiny in unsympathetic solitude, but one of many who are working to carry to completion the wonderful plan of the great Designer of things beautiful.

"There are no failures. Your discouragement helps me to catch the shadows my portion of the picture needs to-day; my rebellion shows you the glorious light of patience and sympathy your brush must depict."

"It's easy to talk hopefully when you're already in the sunlight of success," replied the Boy as he grasped the door-knob. "I'm tired of the shadows and am determined to get out of them. I'll enjoy myself in idleness for a while. I'll be on hand to help hang the Picture Beautiful when it is finished. I'm done with brushes."

The Girl laid her hand lightly on the Boy's shoulder. "What great work you are going to do," she said. "Some of the wonderful touches in the picture have been reserved for you. You are not 'tired of the pursuit of the Ideal.' You are only impatient that your hand has not yet the wonderful skill your soul demands of it. Be patient; there's not only Time but Eternity for our work."

They stepped into the corridor and passed in silence. From a room opposite some divine melody drifted to them. The Boy was glad of the darkness, for his eyes were wet. He grasped the Girl's hand.

"I thank you," he said. "I guess I was only impatient."—Leavenworth Macnab.

Their Steering-Gear.

A professor of a profound subject at Harvard University has a small son who is very observant and inquisitive, and a hired man who has all the Irish wit and good humor.

The other day Albert, the small boy, was playing with a cat in the stable while Larry cleaned the harness.

"Say, Larry," he asked, "why do cats always stand on their feet?"

"They shteer themselves wid their tail."

"Well, how do rabbits steer themselves? They haven't long tails; only a stub."

"Wid their ears. That's phwat they have their long ears for."

"Well, how does a bulldog steer himself? He doesn't have long ears or a long tail."

"Wid his bark."

The boy looked doubtful and was silent. Presently he ran in to his father's study, and in a few minutes came back to the stable.

"Larry!"

"Yis?"

"That's true what you told me about bulldogs. I asked papa, and he read something to mamma out of a book about 'barks that steer against the wind.'"

Fate.

Once there were two beautiful white eggs laid side by side in a nice new nest. A great big man gathered them up with his rough hands and sold them to a grocer. And one little egg was a good little egg, and went into an angel cake, but the other little egg was a very, very bad little egg, and got mashed on an actress.

Now is the Last Chance to Buy the St. Paul & Sunset Oil

COMPANY'S STOCK AT 35 CENTS

California Oil Stocks Have Paid Millions in Dividends

KERN COUNTY (SUNSET DISTRICT) OIL COMPANIES PAID

ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS IN DIVIDENDS IN AUGUST ALONE

MORGAN IN THE OIL INDUSTRY--NEW YORK FINANCIER AT THE HEAD OF A $20,000,000 COMPANY TO EXPLOIT CALIFORNIA FIELDS

Bakersfield, Cal., Sept. 27.—J. Pierpont Morgan is about to identify himself with the oil business in California. On October 12, or a few days later, surveyors will be put into the field, and will run lines to the ocean from Sunset, Coaling, McKittrick, Midway and Kern River fields to determine by which route it is most feasible to transport oil to tide water. The surveys will run over the coast range at a number of points, and also will go down the San Joaquin valley parallel with the line of the Standard.

A company having a capitalization of $5,000,000 has been organized for the construction of lines, pumping stations, storage tanks, and the like. Mr. Morgan and his associates have also formed a separate company, capitalized at $20,000,000, half of which will be invested in proven ground and the other half turned into a reserve fund.

It is stated that the Morgan syndicate will be prepared to handle 2,000,000 barrels the first year, and will increase that amount at the rate of 1,000,000 a year until the whole demand of the market is met.

THE ST. PAUL & SUNSET OIL COMPANY own and control a large tract of absolutely oil proven asphalt land in the very heart of the best oil producing land of Kern County, California, the district where flowing wells are situated. We have a bed of Liquid Asphalt underlying a portion of our lands. Our property is situated right at Sunset Station. A new line of railway is surveyed and will be constructed in a very short time, putting us not only in touch with Eastern cities, but in touch with tide-water. This, in addition to the railroad facilities we now have. Remember that we own our land—it is paid for and entirely free from debt.

ST. PAUL & SUNSET OIL CO.'S GIGANTIC TRACT

will be developed and should prove a formidable rival for the new company.

PROFESSOR DR. RUD J. SCHIMPER, Analytical and Expert Chemist, of St. Paul, makes the following statement relative to the composition, what can be produced and the estimated profits of the Sunset Crude Oil. A copy of the original certificate can be seen at the office of the St. Paul & Sunset Oil Co., which is in substance as follows:

"This is to certify that the undersigned, Dr. Rudolph J. Schimper, Chemist expert, member of Parisian Academy, according to analysis made from the crude oil furnished me by the St. Paul & Sunset Oil Company, I find the following valuable products and with each beg to submit my estimate of its value:

1. LIQUID RUBBER—2000 lbs of this crude oil (6 bbls.) will produce 1,800 lbs. of liquid rubber, value of which is from 25c. per lb. and up. (Estimated value $450.00.)
2. SOLID RUBBER—2000 lbs of this crude oil (6 bbls) will produce 1,700 lbs. of solid rubber, value of which is from 50c. upwards. (Estimated value $450.00.)
3. FUEL BRIQUETTES—2000 lbs. of this crude oil (6 bbls.) will produce 2,000 lbs. (1 ton) of fuel briquettes, which, according to government tests made, is equivalent to two tons of best anthracite coal. (Estimated value $22.00)
4. ASPHALTUM—2,000 lbs. of this crude oil (6 bbls.) will produce ½ ton of asphaltum, value $25 to $35 per ton. 25 gal. of lubricating oil, value 50c. per gal. and upward. 40 gal. illuminating oil, value 10c per gal. and up. 40 gal. of distilled oil. value 5c. per gal. and upward. (Estimated value $64.50.)
5. SOAP—2000 lbs. (1 ton) of crude oil and filling will prduce over 2,000 lbs. of soap, value 3c. per lb. and upward. (Estimated value $60.00.)

Id my opinion many other valuable products can be obtained from the oil of that famous field.

Respectfully, DR. R. J. SCHIMPER, Chemist Expert."

THIS goes to show the immense profits that will accrue from our products when refined. We expect to commence Building Our Refinery in the very near future. The sale of the next allotment of stock will be made for that purpose. The largest flowing wells in California were brought in adjoining our property and their stock was taken off the market. We employ the best drillers who report rapid progress on our wells and we expect to bring in gushers equal, if not to excel any in the Sunset field. Our General Manager, Superintendent and Drillers, all are experienced oil men. The officers of our company are all thorough, competent and efficient men who have always made a success of their undertaking in life and who will see that the welfare of the St. Paul and Sunset Oil Company is furthered, portected and promoted to the most advantageous extent possible.

MILLIONS OF DOLLARS SHOULD BE PAID STOCKHOLDERS.

MILLIONS OF DOLLARS should be paid to the stockholders of the St. Paul and Sunset Oil Company when their property is fully developed, their refinery equipped and in full operation. ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS IN DIVIDENDS was paid by Kern County Oil Companies during the month of August alone.

SIX MILLION BARRELS is the consuming capacity of the Southern Pacific Railway engines, which are now equipped for burning oil. Outside of this consider other railway lines, smelters, factories, steamships, stationery engines, which are all heavy consumers of fuel oil and last but not least, hotels and private dwellings are falling in line with the procession in the use of fuel oil.

A GOOD REASON WHY YOU Should Invest in the stock of St. Paul & Sunset Oil Company. More fortunes have been made in oil than any other business. Consider the immense amount of money the Standard Oil Company has made for its fortunate stockholders, and the California oil companies have done better in proportion to their capitalization than the Standard Oil Company. Here is what $100 has accomplished for those who invested that amount in the following California companies in the beginning of their career:

Home Whittier $1,000 on an investment of $100.

Kern returned $2,200 on an investment of $100.

Peerless returned $1,800 on an investment of $100.

Dillon returned $2,500 on an investment of $100.

New York returned $30,000 on an investMent of $100.

Union returned $150,000 on an investment of $100.

Home returned $50,000 on an investment of $100.

THERE is no reason in the world why the St. Paul and Sunset Company's oil holdings and property, when developed and handled, should not bring like returns

CONTRARY to the general supposition the earth is the repository of all mineral wealth. When it is known and demonstrated beyond a question of a doubt where its wealth reposes and you put your money up to take it out, your money is invested. Hence you are an investor, not a speculator. A proven oil producing property does not draw its profits from the people but creates new wealth. It is therefore an investment.

BUY! WHY?

BECAUSE

THE SOUR LAKE OIL CO.

Has placed four-fifths of its stock in the treasury for development work; and because

Oil is reached in less than half the depth required on Spindletop Heights in Beaumont;

The people in Canada are well acquainted with the management, which is in the hands of HON. JOHN L. BITTINGER, United States Consul General to Canada; F. S. Ashley, Vice-President of the Massachusetts Securities Co., and W. L. Marston, Vice-President of the American Union Oil and Refining Co.

These gentlemen have made a dividend payer out of one company and have raised the value of its stock from 5c per share to par value, or 25c, within a very short time;

The company is operating in the Sour Lake field, where fewer wells will tap the oil than at Spindletop; this insures a greater flow of oil, and it is of a better quality;

This is the first allotment of shares at the present price of FIVE CENTS PER SHARE; it is the lowest price at which you can buy, and the time left in which to buy at FIVE CENTS is short.

Appertaining to the Trusts

New York, Dec. 3—It is to be deplored that in certain editorial departments, the creators of a large percentage of public sentiment, that so much adverse comments as to the trusts is formulated. Much fallacious and mischevious information is there constructed and disseminated, causing much mistaken opinion to be created. The borderland between a consolidation of interests and the exact point at which it would become a trust is hard to be determined. It is equal for two men to go into partnership, equally legal for a firm thus formed to take in two other partners, doing business in a similar manner, making thereby a consolidation of interests which will sell an equal amount of goods at less cost to themselves and at a lower price to the public, making in so doing more money for themselves. It is patent to the average mind that it is equally legal for two or more great companies to consolidate their interests in equal manner, being impossible to make the former case legal and the latter case illegal. Common law all over the civilized world recognizes the fact that the property of any person or company cannot be legally wrested from them. That would be radically wrong. The trusts that reduce the cost of its product under the figures required for its production before its existence is accomplishing good, benefiting the greatest number. All existing trusts have competition more or less severe, the ones receiving such prices as show the greatest profits naturally getting the keenest competition. Any combine that regulates its prices so that profits are inordinate brings about its own undoing through its own stimulation of opposition. Competition will regulate the trusts as well as it did all business before their conception; there is nothing that the government can logically do to legally restrain them. They are the modern method of doing business. Ex-Gov. Flower, that sterling Democrat, had the right idea when he said, "Young man, don't rail against the trusts; get into them; they have come to stay and will prove a benefit to all. The demagogue and agitator living upon the credulity of their listeners whom they misinform, are the primary shouters against the trusts. Trusts have come to stay. Don't fear the message of a President if you have any trust stocks. There will be nothing doing at Washington. It is impossible. Nothing but talk at the most.

Summary—Today's market felt the continued efforts of the Traders to realize on the announcement of the President's message. They disposing of their purchases made previously at lower prices, caused concessions and at a fractional lower range. The buying that ensued was most excellent. It was notable good in Sugar, A.C.P., Atch., St. Paul, Manhattan, B. & O., Canadian Pacific, N.Y.C., and the other Pacifics. Prices stiffened at the close and indications point to a higher range of prices before they are lower. Money closed 6 per cent. Sales 450,400.

NEW OIL FIELDS OF ONTARIO

Our Mr Fox has just returned from a trip of personal investigation to the NEW WONDERFUL OIL GUSHER field in the Township of Raleigh, in the County of Kent. He reports that the whole country is literally with excitement. Chatham—respectable, easy going old Chatham—stands amazed, while oil operators from Pennsylvania, Ohio, Texas, California and from the big refineries at Petrolia and Sarnia fill her streets and hotels to overflowing—all seeking OIL! OIL! OIL!—offering figures for land that would have been considered sheer madness a few weeks ago. The roads to the oil fields are lined with all kinds of carriages, wagons and loads of machinery and derricks. Several drilling rigs are already partly erected and contracts have been made for the sinking of at least FIFTY WELLS within the next thirty days.

LANDS HAVE QUADRUPLED IN PRICE WITHIN THE LAST TWO WEEKS outside of the Gurd & Co. syndicate.

The Ontario and California Oil Co., Limited,

were first on the ground, and have the largest holdings, amounting to about ONE THOUSAND ACRES, RIGHT IN THE BIG GUSHER FIELD IN RALEIGH, while at the scene of operations our Mr Fox closed negotiations with the representatives of two of the largest oil refineries in Canada to sink a number of wells IMMEDIATELY, and at least FIVE WELLS must be completed within sixty days.

At NORTHWOOD—about ten miles from Chatham—our eighteenth well is down about three hundred feet. Here the company is operating about SIXTEEN HUNDRED acres of great promise every well sunk so far has been a paying oil producer. Watch this field also very closely. But advertising space is limited—send for Ontario & California Oil Co's November report, etc., and see for yourself.

The volume of enquiries to this office show that our people are becoming alive to the great possibilities lying right at our doors.

The block of stock which is being offered is going very rapidly, and at any time may be withdrawn.

Mr. Percy Pearson, of Montreal, has been in town this week, and picked up an extra fine lot of heavy horses. These animals are a superior bunch, being selected with great care. The Price of Coal

A good deal of complaint is heard regarding the price of coal, it having last week advanced from $8 to $9 per ton. The trouble appears to be that dealers cannot get their coal except through a middle man, whose profits have to be added. Yesterday The Times called up several local dealers and was told that no coal was to be had. Along about Christmas the price will probably drop to $7 or $7.50.

A Telephone System

The Bell Telephone Company has installed a system of 30 telephones in the Canadian General Electric Works here, the purpose of which is to connect the various departments. Before installation there was no system of communication save that of messengers. Some idea of its usefulness may be had from the fact that the operator at "central" which is located in the principal office, has an average of 400 calls daily. She has therefore very little time for doing fancy sewing or the like. Any 'phone on the system can be connected with either the town or trunk lines.

His Overcoat Taken

Belleville Daily Ontario, Monday: Mr. M. Austin, of Fenelon Falls, arrived in the city yesterday and registered at the Anglo-American hotel. He left a new fur overcoat in the parlor when he went to dinner, and when he went to look for it half an hour later it was gone. In the pockets were a new pair of gloves which were also taken. The police were notified of the theft and are at work on the case. They have a description of a man who was seen hanging about the hotel shortly before the coat was taken. They have hope of catching the thief.

MAYOR DENNE TO RETIRE

HE WILL NOT AGAIN BE A CANDIDATE FOR THE MAYORALTY

New Business Arrangements Compel Him to Decline Nomination—His Splendid Record

Mr. T. H. G. Denne, the Mayor, has been presented by a requisition signed by a very large number of the electors of the town asking him to be a candidate for the position of Mayor for next year, and Mr. Denne has made the following reply:

Gentlemen,—I thank you for the honor you have done me in asking me to again be a candidate for the position of Mayor, and I regret very much that I am unable to comply with your request. Certain business arrangements which I have recently made will require me to be absent from town frequently during the coming year, and I would not be able to give the time or attention to the business of the town that it should receive from any one who holds the position of head of the Council, and I therefore find that it will be impossible for me to again be a candidate.

I desire to tender my sincere thanks to those gentlemen who took the interest and time in the matter to circulate the requisitions that have been presented to me, and also to all who signed the request. I have felt it to be a high honor to be a member of the Council of this town, and especially to be chosen to fill the office of Mayor, and I feel keenly the kindness of the electors who have in such a large number signed these requisitions. I have, indeed, during the eight years I have been a member of the Council, and especially during the two years I have held the office of Mayor, received nothing but kindness at the hands of the people of Peterborough, and while I have to the best of my ability and opportunities endeavored to serve the town faithfully and to advance its interests in every way, I recognize that I have only endeavored to make some return for the kindness of the people and the honor the electors have conferred upon me. I cannot adequately express the gratitude I feel to the electors, and I regret very much that I am compelled for the present to decline the request to continue in the office of Mayor. If at some future time my business arrangements will permit and the people desire me to serve them I will be pleased to place my services at their disposal, but at the present time I can only return my sincere thanks to those who have again and express my regret that I cannot; and express me regret that I cannot do otherwise than retire from the Town Council.

I am, gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
T. H. G. DENNE.

The above was handed the Times yesterday, and speaks for itself. The general feeling is that of regret, for Mayor Denne has been a success as Chief Magistrate. His progressive policy has been appreciated by the ratepayers, and it now behooves them to select a worthy successor.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

—Uneasy lies the head that owns a liquor license.

—The Times is again deluged to-day with letters on the referendum, for which we cannot afford the space.

—There will be another excursion to Berlin at an early date. This time the agriculturists are to go.

—The big American coal trust, no less than the smaller combines, seems to be having troubles of its own. If, as is apparently the case, anthracite coal is $3.50 at the mines, some people must get a substantial rake off to make the cost, for instance, $9 to the consumer in Peterborough.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

NOTE—The Times requests its readers to furnish the paper with items of a personal and social nature, either by phone or in writing.—[Ed. Times]

—Mr. Jas. Spokman, formerly wine clerk at the Palace Hotel, has returned to town, having accepted a position as wine clerk at the National Hotel.

—The Times had a very pleasant call yesterday from Mr. D. J. McFaggan, of the Dominion Express Company, who was in town on business.

—Mr. Harris, of Montreal, representing Messrs. Harris, Harkness & Co., was in town yesterday taking orders for the firm's fine brand of cigars, known as "The Van Horne Cigar."

—Mr. Walter Alexander, formerly with Mr. Wm. Madill, who has been in the West for some time, has accepted the position of manager of the well known drug firm of Stott & Jury, Bowmanville.

—Mrs. W. Henderson and Miss Henderson have returned home after a visit with friends in Rockford, Illinois.

KEPT HER CHILDREN

The Right Food Brought Them Back to Health

Food purchased from curiosity saved the lives of two children in a family in Ulysses, Wis.

The mother says:—"We had bought a package of Grape-Nuts, attracted by its pleasant, suggestive name, and found it a pleasant food. As my five months old baby liked it, I fed it to her and found it as satisfactory as——Baby Food, which I had been using and paying 50c. for a much smaller package.

Shortly after this, three of the children came down with the whooping cough, my eldest one was taken with pneumonia, and the little three year old strained her stomach in some manner, so that she vomited blood, and could not retain anything on her stomach. She continuously cried with hunger, and it was terrible to see her grow weaker and weaker, until she did not have strength to keep her eyes open. I was so overworked nursing all of them night and day that I finally woke up to the fact that a change must be wrought, and that at once.

I shall always believe that divine inspiration whispered 'Grape-Nuts.' At first I did not give the solid part; I poured boiling water on it and let it stand until the water had drawn out some of the strength, added some rich, sweet cream, and gave the little one a few spoonfuls at a time. She kept it down and it nourished her, so that after awhile I could feed her the Grape-Nuts themselves until she got strong, and she is today as rugged as I could wish. Meanwhile, the eldest girl was unable to turn her head or swallow solid food, and for weeks her strength was kept up by Grape-Nuts, softened in cream, given a spoonful at a time, until she got strong enough to take other food. They are both well and strong now, and I feel that I owe Grape-Nuts for two of my hearty healthy children" Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Senator Cox on Top

The Montreal Star says it is expected that Senator Cox will be the first President of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, and that he will associate with him a company of "money magnates" which will make the financing of the new scheme an easy one, and will do much to make it certain that the new enterprise shall be distinctly Canadian in character, as contrasted with the original Grand Trunk Railway Company, which for so long was managed from the other side of the Atlantic. This will be pleasing news to the Senator's many Peterborough friends.

November was a Scorcher

The rejoicings of the citizens of Peterborough about the warm weather of November were well grounded, for since 1839 when the Meteorological Office at Toronto commenced making records, there has not been so warm a November. The mean temperature was 42.9 degrees, which is one degree above the highest previous record, in the year 1849. In that year it was 41.9, and in 1846, 40.8 degrees. The temperature this November was 6.1 degrees warmer than the average. The rainfall was 1.7 inches, which is one inch below the average. The highest temperature was 65 degrees and the lowest 16 degrees.

lating to it are dead letters in all places where the sentiment is for licenses or saloons. Will Mr. Sheldon tell his audiences this indisputable truth? And if he does, how can he consistently urge them to adopt a law that he must admit is a failure here in his own home? If Mr. Sheldon is conscientious, he must tell his hearers up in the north country what prohibition ought to do in Kansas, not what it does do in Kansas.

THE TOWN COUNCIL

by instructing the clerk to have the roll printed immediately.

Ald. Best opposed this motion. He could not see the necessity of having the roll printed. Any one wishing to examine it were at liberty to do so at the clerk's office. Besides the publishing of the roll would cost $500, which expenditure it would not be wise to incur in face of a possible increased taxation the coming year.

Ald. McGregor replied that there is a great demand for the printing of the assessment roll. It would be utterly impossible for every ratepayer to lose time by coming to the clerk's office to examine the rolls.

The mover and seconder were the only ones who voted for the motion, which was accordingly lost, and the report adopted as read.

A QUESTION OF WIRES.

The question of wiring the town by the power, 'phone and light companies elicited from Ald. Morrison the suggestion that the several companies come to some arrangement by which they could use each others poles and thus avoid making a forest of our streets. No action was taken in this matter, but from remarks made by Mr. A. Stevenson and W. H. Meldrum it appears that the companies are willing to do this if practicable.

A by-law was introduced by Ald. McGregor to exempt the manufacturing firm of J. J. Turner & Sons from certain taxes passed its several readings. A vote of the ratepayers to be taken on this by-law on the same day, and at the same polling places, as the municipal elections.

In reply to Ald. Best, the town clerk replied that this by-law would cost $50 or more to submit to the people. Ald. Best thought the firm of J. J. Turner & Sons should pay the cost.

Ald. J. J. Turner replied that he did not think it fair to ask his firm to do this when others had not been taxed for the putting through of similar by-laws.

Ald. Best pointed out that the Sheldon people would have had to pay for their by-law had it gone to the people. He thought J. J. Turner & Sons had been dealt with very leniently by the assessors, who had only assessed them for $2,000 on real estate and $300 for personal property.

Ald. Turner explained that at the time the assessment was made his new building had only just been started. The assessment on his present premises, as now completed, will be much higher next assessment. If we had applied for exemption before commencing work on the new building, which is a credit to the town, and has increased the value of adjoining property, we should have got it. He thought that under all circumstances his firm was not asking anything unreasonable.

The by-law then passed its second reading and will be submitted to the people.

Ald. Roger, who had been in the chair, on resuming his seat recorded his dissent from the carrying of the by-law. He wished Ald. Turner had seen his way clear to withdraw his petition like the Wm. Hamilton Co., and the Peterborough Canoe Company. The only way left open to this and any other Council in extending assessment privileges to local industries was to assess them at the lowest figure possible. He thought Ald. Turner will find his assessment compare favorably with the property across the street and other industries.

Ald. Turner replied that the other companies alluded to have not new buildings. If we want to build up the town we should try and encourage those who already in it. He had been offered a free building as large as his present one to remove his factory elsewhere. His business is a valuable medium for advertising the town, not only on this continent, but in Great Britain.

Ald. Rush moved that if the by-law carries the Town pay the cost; but should it not carry, than Ald. Turner to pay the cost.

As the by-law had already had its second reading the above was out of order.

STREET IMPROVEMENT.

Ald. Best introduced a by-law to borrow $30,000 to build a new bridge on Brock street and for permanent improvements. $10,000 of this money to be spent in constructing substantial and permanent road beds, and improved storm drainage, to remedy the excessively muddy condition of our streets in wet weather.—The by-law passed its several readings.

On motion of Ald. Best, the publication of this by-law in the Morning Times authorized.

RESPECTING BICYCLES.

Ald. Turner submitted a by-law regulating and governing persons riding bicycles in town. The by-law limits the speed at which wheels shall be ridden to 8 miles an hour, and enforces the carrying of a bell. A fine not exceeding $50 and costs will be imposed for any breach of the by-law, which comes in force January 1st, 1903. The by-law passed its several readings.

TO CORRECT AN ERROR.

A by-law to correct an error in the Water Works Debentures passed its several readings.

SNOW PLOUGHING.

The following tenders for snow ploughing were received:

Southern District—Wm. Breckenridge, $78.

Western District—J. H. Cameron, $120; Geo. McClennan, $110.

Northern District—Elmer Blodgett, $140.

The Board of Works recommended that the contract be awarded to the lowest tenderer in each case. This was adopted, and a by-law passed authorizing the execution of the contracts.

SOCIALISM.

Ald. McGregor invited the Council to attend a Socialistic lecture in the Maccabees Hall, on December 11th, by Jas. Simpson, of Toronto.

The Council then adjourned to the 8th inst.

Several reports are unavoidably left over till next issue.

Fantastic stories have been written of magic mirrors in which the future was revealed. If such a thing were possible many a bright-faced bride would shrink from the revelation of herself, stripped of all her loveliness. If there is one thing which would make a woman shrink from marriage it is to see the rapid physical deterioration which comes to so many wives. The cause is generally due to womanly diseases.

Lost health and lost comeliness are restored by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It cures irregularity and dries weakening drains. It heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness.

"It is with the greatest pleasure that I tell you what Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery' have done for me," writes Mrs. Emma L. Bankes, of 1953 North 7th Street, Harrisburg, Pa. "They have done me a world of good. I had female weakness for six years; sometimes would feel so badly I did not know what to do, but I found relief at last, thanks to Dr. Pierce for his kind advice. I have this medicine still in my house and will always keep it."

If you are led to the purchase of "Favorite Prescription" because of its remarkable cures of other women, do not accept a substitute which has none of these cures to its credit.

The Liquor Act Denounced

By Hamilton Business Men

PETERBOROUGH WILL DO LIKEWISE

We, the undersigned, actively engaged in business in the province of Ontario, are of the opinion that "The Liquor Act," which is to be submitted to the people on December 4 next, is an unwise and impracticable measure, since it permits importation in any quantity from other provinces and countries, and would, therefore, merely transfer the drinking of intoxicants from licensed and well regulated places to unlicensed and disreputable resorts, and to the homes of the people.

We believe that this measure would be detrimental to the best interests, both moral and commercial, of this province, and we therefore urge all voters to mark their ballots "NO."

PEACE TERMS WITH THE BERBER CHIEFS

Negotiations Likely to be Successful--Have Taken Refuge in the Mountains

World too Imperfect for Roosevelt's Ideal—Should be Kept in View but will Hardly be Realized

London, Dec. 3.—A correspondent telegraphing from the camp of the Sultan of Morocco, near Mekinez, says the Berber chiefs have taken refuge in a sanctuary near Mekinez. The correspondent says that peace negotiations are likely to be successful. The Sultan's army will remain among the Berbers until the terms of a peace treaty are carried out, when the Court will return and winter at Mekinez. The terms which the Moorish Government will accept include a heavy fine in money, a large number of hostages, and payment of several years' arrears in taxes. The entire district is deserted, and enemy having taken refuge with the women and flocks on mountain districts, where an attack during the winter weather is very difficult.

MR. ARMOUR'S GRATITUDE

He Will Endow an Institute Because of His Daughter's Cure

Chicago, December 3—While J. Ogden Armour was entertaining Professor Adolf Lorenz and Dr. Frederick Mueller, both of the University of Vienna, at his home yesterday, the first active step was taken toward the "Lolita Armour Institute of Bloodless Surgery." Mr. Armor will endow the institution with $3,000,000. This will insure an income of $100,000 a year.

It was announced that the institution shall be absolutely free to whomsoever may need treatment. There is not to be a knife in the place."

"I intend to establish a hospital or institute for your school of surgery" said Mr. Armour, addressing Dr. Mueller, "You must be at the head of it. It makes no difference what the cost may be. My daughter has practically been given back to me and I and my wife are grateful." Professor Lorenz nodded approval of his plans.

BRITAIN CALLS CHINA DOWN

Duplicity of Prince Ching Deeply Resented Says Landsdowne

London, Dec. 3.—A Parliamentary paper, issued to-day, giving the correspondence relative to the evacuation of Shanghai by the troops of the powers interested. The most striking point is the directness with which Foreign Secretary Lansdowne instructed Minister Satow at Pekin to inform Prince Ching, President of the Chinese Foreign Office, that "his duplicity in agreeing to Germany's conditions regarding the Tangste valley, while simultaneously informing Great Britain that he knew nothing thereof, "was deeply resented." and that Great Britain would not be bound by any pledges of the Chinese Government or the Viceroys whereby British freedom of action to maintain order and protect British interests in the Tangtse valley be limited.

A similar notification was sent to Germany. Lord Lansdowne stating that the principle of the "open door" on which Germany based the proposed conditions was sufficiently safeguarded by the existing inter-agreements. Germany replied that she would drop the conditions since she had received satisfactory assurances from China.

Knowledge of Western Science a Qualification for Holding Office

Pekin, Dec. 4—An edict has been issued recommending that the literati study Western science and making a course therein at the Imperial University a qualification for holding office. A previous edict declared that Western knowledge was essential for military appointments; but the Throne, while urging Western knowledge, retains Chinese education.

The edict carefully dignify Chang Poh Si, Minister of Education, who is a conspicuous failure in that office.

The Throne plans to have provincial officials send apt and enlightened students to Pekin to qualify for public office, but this idea will fail, because it will interfere with the literati.

MRS. GORE'S DEATH ACCIDENTAL

American Doctors Approve the Report of the French

Paris, Dec. 4—Mr. Gowdy, the American Consul-General issued a statement today to the effect that Drs. Magnin, Whitman, Gros and Turner, the four American physicians appointed by him to investigate the death of Mrs. Ellen Gore, in the rooms of the Russian singer De Radzewski, had handed in their report.

The report, which is signed by all four physicians, is in accord with the autopsy of Dr. Socquet, who stated that Mrs. Gore's death was the result of an accident.

Mr. Gowdy hoped to be able to mail his report to the State Department at Washington to-morrow, but because of the numerous letters and documents found in Mrs. Gore's apartments and those in possession of the Juge d-Instruction, it will be impossible for him to go over the entire affair for several days

It is Believed to Exist Here as Well as Natural Gas

The Times is in receipt of a letter from Mr. Harvey, the well known coal oil expert, who visited Peterborough some months ago, suggesting that a company be formed to sink one or more wells in Peterborough. Mr. Harvey says that he is quite sure that gas or oil exists, probably both.

The Trenton geological formation is almost a sure indication of gas or oil. Mr. Harvey examined the rock that was taken from the lower depth of the wells at the lift lock, and expressed himself as convinced that all had plenty of gas or oil, or probably both.

In view of the recent discovery near Chatham a few days ago, when over 2000 barrels of a very fine quality of oil has already been secured, it would be wise to act on Mr. Harvey's suggestion.

Some Giant Locomotives Now In Use on American Roads

WONDERFUL MONSTERS TO PULL

Tacoma, Wash., Dec. 3—The Northern Pacific has received the last of a consignment of twenty-one of the biggest engines in America. The last one of the series arrived a few days ago, and Tacoma, the terminus, has the distinction of being also the greatest railroad centre in the world in this respect. There are as big engines elsewhere in twos and threes, but on no line, and at no point are there a score of engines like the 1,200 class just received in Tacoma. Any ten of those engines could have done all the railroad business there was to be done here ten years ago, when the "sage hens" used to crawl up to Weston with eight and ten small cars that could be loaded into five modern cars, wheels and all. The public sees little of these engines, since they are confined to freighting on the mountain division. Any one of them can pull on a level track all the cars that can be hung behind them. The only limit is the number of cars that can be handled by a single crew. In the graphic language of Master Mechanic Bruce, "You can string all the cars you can get behind one of these engines, chop the train off at a mile or so, and swing 'em into Portland easy."

Technical language will not convey to the average reader the immensity of these wonders of locomotive building. The name given them by common consent all over the road is "battleships," and a more descriptive name could not have been chosen. One goes up two flights of stairs to reach the cab, for the boilers are so big they cannot be squeezed between the drivers and perforce they must be put on top of them. Their height is of three men standing on each other's shoulders—just low enough to squeeze through the tunnels. Indeed many tunnels had to be raised to let them though from the East. The cylinders are double on each side, being arranged "tandem" the word "tandem" being adopted as the class name of the engine.

Five years ago the "Mogul" engine which could swing 600 tons up the 2 2-10 grade to Lester at the foot of the mountain, was considered a wonder and many believed the limit had been reached as to size. But the "Mogul" and its load is not a mouthful to the present "battleship," which weighs loaded nearly three times as much, and rolls along without apparent effort with 1,800 tons.

If freighting over the mountain were still done with horseflesh, as forty years years ago, it would take 50,000 horses to do in a week what a battleship does in a day. She carries 210 pounds of steam. The "high-press" cylinders at the front of the tandem, looking like young 15-inch cannon, discharge into the "low-press cylinders at 70 pounds.

From end to end the engines are sixty-nine feet long, for, as the master mechanic says, "Since they can't build 'em any higher, the only thing they can do no w is to build 'em longer." Roundly speaking one of the engines would run all the mills in Tacoma if it were not a locomotive.

Five years ago the company received the first of its "Klondike" engines, then considered a masterpiece of engine construction. Though monsters in size and power, the new engines exceed them just 20 per cent. in both dimensions. The "Klondike" exceeded the "Mogul" by 200 tons up the grade to Lester, and the "battleship" daily exceeds the "Klondike by 200 tons.

The engines are not comfortable for the engine crews, and have occasioned a great deal of kicking. A bulletin was posted recently cutting down the loads of engines, and till further orders the "battleship" will only be required to draw 900 tons—still far in excess of anything that has preceded them. The object of the order is the speeding up of trains during the great rush of business now on.

It is positively announced now, as oft-times before, that the limit of locomotive building has been reached. It remains to be seen how many months it will be before the limit sign is torn down and a higher one substituted.

A SUBSTANCIAL INCREASE

The Sum of $37,306 Collected in Peterboro in Five Months

The Times is indebted to Mr. Rudkins, collector of Inland Revenue, at Peterborough, for the following figures:

Inland Revenue returns of the Peterborough office for the five months ending November 30th, were $37,306.06, an increase over corresponding five months of last year of $5,741.23.

The money will have to be raised in some other way should prohibition exist probably by direct taxation.

UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT

The Dominion Express Company's Branch Here in New Hands

On account of illness Mr. McInnes has been obliged to resign his position as local manager of the Dominion Express Company, much to the regret of his many friends in Peterborough. He has been transferred to Toronto office, where he will begin his duties as soon as he recovers.

Mr. L. D. Oakley, of Orangeville, has been appointed his successor. Mr. Oakley is sure to become very popular with the business public of Peterborough, and the Times extends to him a hearty welcome to town.

LIVE LAKEFIELD LOCALS

Items of Interest from Our Pretty Northern Suburb

—The fact that the Epworth League debate on Prohibition vs. High License, the vote stood 17 to 14 in favor of Prohibition, shows that even in the Methodist church circles there are those who do not believe in prohibitive legislation.

—We extend the glad hand to Mr. T. H. Darcy, who is to become a resident of Lakefield. Mr. Darcy has purchased from Mr. R. Johnston the property he so recently bought from Mr. J. S. Madill. Mr. Darcy is moving to Lakefield in order that his grandson may have the benefit of the school here. His son, Mr. Warney Darcy, will conduct the business at Burleigh as formerly.

—Our merchants are preparing for Christmas, and are displaying fine lines of holiday goods.

—Mrs. Benson left last week for Orono, where she will reside in future.

—The citizens of Lakefield are reminded that the cheapest place in Peterborough to purchase holiday presents is the Times Bookstore. The goods are imported direct, and are new and first class.

—The death occurred in Lakefield on Sunday last, of Mr. B. Hunter, saddler. His demise is universally regretted, as he was highly esteemed by all.

—Messrs. John and Jos. Madill left on Monday for Napanee, where they intend opening on the 1st of January a new dry goods store. While we regret to lose Messrs. Madill Bros. from our midst, we wish them every success in their new venture.

—Miss Mulligan, of Newcastle, who has been visiting in the village the guest of Mrs. M. A. Tanner, returned to her home on Tuesday.

NATIONAL COUNCIL OF WOMEN.

Local Councils' Being Formed in Various Towns in Canada

The Times is requested to state that a branch of the National Council of Women of Canada is soon to be established in Peterborough.

The corresponding secretary has lately held meetings of the members of the various societies of women in Belleville, Whitby and Port Hope, in order to lay before them the work and aims of the National Council, and to enlist their sympathy. In all three places it was resolved to form a "Local Council," which is a federation of existing societies, and which will undertake needed work of common interest. These local councils are, in turn, federated with the National Council, and form a bond of union of women workers in all parts of Canada. As this National Council of Canada is again federated with nineteen other National Councils in the International Council, the practical good that is accomplished by this union is worldwide.

CANADA TRYING TO PERSUADE GREAT BRITAIN

The Intercolonial Has not the Facilities for Carrying Cattle

Ottawa, Dec. 3.—The C. P. R. would not be acting the part of wisdom if it tried to force the Government into a withdrawal of the order forbidding the transport of cattle for export through Maine. The fact is the Government has no desire to undertake their carriage over the Intercolonial. It has neither the cars nor the required accomodation at St. John.

The Minister of Agriculture is doing all he can to convince the Imperial authorities that it would be no real menace to the health of cattle to pass in sealed cars for a few miles through the State of Maine. If necessary our Government would provide an inspector for each train to see that no risk of infection is run. Yet the British Board of Agriculture has not so far intimated that they would be satisfied to permit the landing of cattle that traveled by the C. P. R. short line through Maine.

It is worthy of notice that the last train of stock from the Canadian West for export has been delivered at the seaboard. There would be no more coming down from the Territories anyway. The only cattle shipments that the C. P. R. carry for the winter are from Ontario and of American stock entering the Dominion at Sarnia and Windsor. If they refuse to handle these unless they are given the through haul down to St. John, the C. P. R. will be the greatest sufferer. This is the statement of one who has had something to do with the determining of the Government regulations.

AN INVESTMENT QUESTION

A Correspondent Says That Now is the Time to Knife

The Times is in receipt of the following letter. It is written by a well known business man, who ought to have more sense. He says:

"Will the Times try and remember an election if it can, (if only for aldermen) when the whole liquor party did not hire rigs and get out and bring in voters in opposition to the Conservatives? Now is the time to knife the liquor men and thus get even."

The Times can remember many elections in which the liquor men did nothing of the kind. It is well known for instance, that Mr. Wm. Croft, who for 20 or more years was identified with the hotel business in Peterborough, was always a staunch Conservative. There and many others besides, who, we believe are Conservatives, and who naturally resent the above. The hotel men of Peterborough are as a class honorable and respectable and are not addicted to the low-down methods suggested above.

Ald. Best Makes a Move in the Right Direction to Improve Our Roads

By Permanent Road Beds and Improved Storm Drainage—The Municipal Fuel Yard Question to be Put in Tangible Shape—Ald. McGregor Scores Ald. Batten on Unionism

"I don't see why these boys are not kept at home at night," said Mayor Denne last night, when Ald McGregor reported that Mrs. Grundy, on Water street, complained of being considerably annoyed at night by boys.

Ald. J. J. Turner also reported that notwithstanding Mr. R. H. Bradburn's complaint some weeks ago of young men congregating around the opera house and in many ways proving a nuisance, that nuisance had not been so far remedied.

Both these questions were referred to the Committee on Appointments to see that the police enforce the law.

The Town Council met in regular session last night, when there were present Mayor T. H. G. Denne, in the chair and Aldermen Shortly, Roger, H. Rush, McGregor, J. J. Turner, Morrison, Clinkscale, Batten and Best.

The minutes were taken as typewritten.

Communications.

From the Otonabee Power Co., asking permission to connect with R. Hicks & Co's premises.—Referred to Board of Works with power to act.

From the Wm. Hamilton Mfg. Co., stating that in reference to their request to lower and fix their rate of assessment, they have decided to withdraw the petition for the present.—Received.

From property owners on Water street and Homewood Avenue, asking that an arc electric light be placed at the junction of these streets. —Fire, Water & Light Committee.

From the Dickson Co., objecting to he erection by the Otonabee Power Co., of a pole and braces in front of the vacant property owned by the Dickson Co., on the north side of McDonnell street, and asking the Council to take steps to have them removed.—This matter was referred to the Town Engineer to report to the Board of Works.

From J. Z. Rogers, of the Peterborough Canoe Co., stating that while the company thought that they should have exemption as well as other manufacturers coming to town, they did not think it advisable to submit a by-law in January.—Received.

From J. J. Turner & Sons, stating that they wished to have a by-law submitted at the January elections in regard to the fixing of their assessment.—Received.

From F. F. Garden, Secretary Trades and Labor Council, enclosing a resolution passed by that body in favor of having the assessment roll printed, and requesting the Town to have his done.—Received.

From T. J. Brigley, Secretary of Peterborough Typographical Union, No. 218, asking that the union label be put on all the corporation printing—Finance Committee.

From F. Robertson, secretary of the Iron Moulders' Union, enclosing a resolution endorsing Ald. McGregor's advocacy of a municipal fuel yard. Received.

From W. H. Meldrum, managing director of the Otonabee Power Co., applying for the right to cross Charlotte street, on the west side of the creek, to meet an application of the Lock Co. for power; also the right to erect poles and wires on the north side of Hunter street, from Bethune street to the Colonial Typewriter building.—Board of Works.

From H. C. Baker, manager of the Bell Telephone Co., calling attention to the fact that four poles had recently been erected on the south side of McDonnel street, between George and Aylmer streets, in some cases between, and in others so close to the telephone wires as to encroach upon and interfere with the rights of the telephone system, because of the fact that the four poles would carry wires from those over which the power current of the Otonabee Power Co. was transmitted. A protest was made and the Council asked to prevent the use of the part of the street referred to for the erection of poles and wires interfering with those of the Telephone Company — Board of Works.

From W. J. Green, tax collector, in regard to a remission of interest on Mr. Robert Howden's taxes, made justifiable by delay through the post office of a letter containing the cheque.—Said remission was granted.

From R. Sheehy, stating that owing to shortage of cars he was unable to have pipe for Harvey street sewer delivered within contract time, and therefore requesting to be exempted from overtime charges.—This request was granted.

From Mrs Ellen Rogers, requesting remission of her taxes.—Court of Revision.

From R. Sheehy, in regard to the sidewalk on Charlotte street, and claiming that he could not fairly be held liable for necessary repairs thereto.—Referred to the Board of Works to investigate.

From S. R. Armstrong, enclosing copy of a resolution passed by the Board of health requesting the Council to have connection with the sewer made so as to drain the lane running from Water street west, in the rear of stores on Hunter street, and continuing north to Brock street. The work was necessary for sanitary reasons.—Board of Works.

From E. G. Patterson, General Superintendent of the C.G.E. Co., pointing out the necessity for more light in the vicinity of the Works at night, and also for a fire alarm box near by.—Referred to the Fire, Water and Light committee with power to act.

From Louis Mishom, calling attention to the necessity of raising the sidewalk on Rink street, between George and Aylmer streets. This walk also needs repairing.—Referred to the Board of Works.

From W. H. Hewson, town clerk of Penetanguishene, enclosing a resolution passed by that Council advocating action bringing to the attention of the Minister of Railways the necessity of having the G.T.R. live up to the demands of the country and make such provision in regard to freight cars as would do away with the annual shortage.—Received.

From John McClelland, in regard to dog tax.—Court of Revision.

From residents near the corner of Aylmer and Hunter streets, asking that some action be taken as will put a stop to the rowdyism and disreputable conduct of certain characters in that locality.—Referred to the Committee on Appointments with power to act.

From T. J. Henry, asking that the sidewalk be raised at the corner of Park and Parnell streets, where he has built a new store.—Board of Works.

From C. W. Stringer, local manager of the Bell Telephone Co., asking permission to erect poles on the east side of Lock street, between Ware and Lansdowne streets.—Board of Works.

From the members of the First Church of Christ Scientists, appealing for honorable justice and fair play in regard to the assessment of that church, and asking to have it put on the same basis as other places of worship.

In reference to the above communication Mr. A. P. Poussette addressed Council in behalf of the First Church of Christ Scientist. He remarked that the whole question hinged on "whether the building in question is a place of worship or not." If the Council are satisfied that it is a place of worship, then they have a right to be exempted. He could not see why this institution should not receive the same privileges as other religious bodies simply because they are not an incorporated body and have not regularly ordained ministers.

Ald. Shortly replied that the Court of Revision had not the power to write off their taxes as the property was entered on the assessment roll.

The matter was referred to the town solicitor to report to Council.

ACCOUNTS.

A big batch of accounts was referred the Finance committee.

TOWN FUEL YARD.

Ald. McGregor submitted the following:

Gentlemen,—Your Committee of the Whole Council beg leave to report and recommend that a vote of the municipal electors be taken at the time of the Municipal Elections on January next on the question, "Are you in favor of the Council establishing a municipal fuel yard?" and that the clerk provide the necessary ballots and other materian for taking the vote.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Ald. Morrison thought the details of the scheme should be threshed out in Council, so as to get something tangible to submit to the people. He thought the idea all right, but he wants to see it worked out. He advised referring the report back to the committee to work out a scheme embodying the probable cost of maintenance, the manner of procuring the fuel, and an estimated price at which it can be retailed, and report to Council.

Ald. Batten remarked that everything was getting to be "union" now. The blacksmiths were going to organize, and he had heard it rumored that the coal men were going to form a union to prevent the town from getting a supply of coal for their proposed yard. In this event we would have to import our coal from across the sea. He thought it would be wise before starting into the coal business for the town to enquire whether they can get coal or not.

Ald. McGregor replied that Ald. Batten had apparently changed his views regarding unionism. He had told him that he did not see any need for unions and would never be a union man. Ald. Batten had also made a statement to the effect that before fall we should see workingmen glad to get 75 cents a days as a result of unionism. Continuing, Ald. McGregor believed it would be a criminal offence for the coal men to conspire to shut off the corporation from a supply of coal.

Ald. Batten denied that Ald. McGregor had heard him say one word against the unions. What he did say was that he was opposed to every man being struck on the same basis for wages. believed a man should be paid what he was worth.

Ald. Best thought a prospectus should first be drawn up for the proposed fuel yard, when we should have something tangible to submit to the people.

Ald. Rush favored the scheme, but at the same time agreed with Ald. Best and Morrison.

Ald. McGregor wanted the question submitted to the people as it now stood. "We can at any rate," he said, "make a campaign of it, and we are going to have a pretty lively one this year." As to an enquiry by Ald. Morrison as to whether the coal men would look for compensation, they should pension the town for relieving them of a business for they claim to be but poorly paid."

Ald. Morrison moved, seconded by Ald. Turner, that this report be referred back to the committee with Ald. McGregor as chairman, to report back to Council some tangible scheme.—Carried.

THE ASSESSMENT ROLL.

Ald. Roger submitted the report of the Finance committee, in which clause 2 recommended that no action be taken on the matter of publishing the roll until the statutory meeting, December [illegible], when the financial statement will be submitted showing the financial position of the board.

Ald. McGregor moved, seconded by Ald. Turner, that this clause be [illegible]

THE BARONS AFRAID

The sudden interruption of the sessions of the coal strike commission last week, created the impression that the commissioners were getting "warm" in their search after certain facts regarding the coal trust. The equally sudden breaking off of the negotiations between the operators and the miners' representatives evidently did not result from any hitch in the negotiations because they had not proceeded far enough to reach a deadlock on any point. It is just possible that the trust got an intimation from President Roosevelt that the independent settlement of the difficulty would not interfere with the ultimate intention of the commission to insist on the production of the books of the coal trust, or at least evidence as to the extent of the earnings. Congressman Hearst, of New York, is also after the trust and he announces that even if the coal commission does not get at the facts, the New York American will do so in connection with the suit now pending in the courts against the coal trust. Possibly, in one way or another, the public will at an early date get the bottom facts, which seem to be worth hiding.

WOMEN'S RIGHTS IN RUSSIA

An agricultural high school for women has been started by the Russian Government, and it is said to be the first of its kind in Europe. The object is to give women a general training as agriculturists. The students will also be permitted to restrict their attention to special branches, such as dairy farming, gardening, bee culture, poultry keeping and cattle and sheep breeding. It will be an indispensable condition of admittance to have passed through a gymnasium or similar institution for intermediate education. The Ministry has fixed the course for three years. It will include practical occupation on a model farm in addition to study and laboratory work.

The women who pass through this institution will enjoy the same rights as the successful male students of the existing high schools. They will, consequently, be capable of filling various posts under the Ministry of Agriculture, and will be further entitled to hold the position of administrators of the crown domains and of teachers in the intermediate agricultural schools.

Although the date on which the new institution will be opened has not yet been decided upon, 25 young women, who have had an intermediate education have announced their intention to follow the course.

REPLY TO THE REGULATION OF LIQUOR

To the Editor of The Times:

Dear Sir,—It is well that the public should thoroughly understand what "The Liquor Act, 1902," which will be voted on on Thursday really means. There is now a liquor act in force in the Province of Ontario, under which liquor is sold by a limited number of shops and hotels, and regulations made for the sale of spirituous and fermented liquors such as are used in all civilized countries. This is what is known as the licensing system, and although it is not perfect by any means, the present regulations are the result of many years of practical experience, and are the best that our lawmakers can devise for regulating the liquor traffic. It may be added that the licensing system is looked upon by the standard students of sociology and by most level-headed friends of the temperance cause as the sanest and best method of dealing with the liquor question.

"The Liquor Act, 1902," is an entirely different proposition. It is called "The Liquor Act, 1902," and it means exactly what it is called. It is not called a Prohibition Act, simply because it is not a prohibitory measure. On the ballot the voter will read as follows: "Are you in favor of the bringing into force of The Liquor Act, 1902?" In other words you are asked whether you are in favor of doing away with the present licensing system and substituting for it the new liquor act, which would still permit the distiller to distil and the brewer to brew, in Ontario; which would permit them to sell in Ontario for mechanical, scientific, medical or sacramental purposes, which would permit them to export to any place outside of the Province; which would permit liquor to be imported into Ontario from outside Provinces; which would permit travellers from Montreal liquor houses to take orders in person in Ontario and deliver goods direct to the consumer; which would permit mail orders to be executed in Montreal or in other cities outside the Province for parties in Ontario; which would permit liquor to be kept in any private house in Ontario for consumption; which would allow doctors to carry round two quarts of liquor for their patients; and veterinary surgeons to buy a gallon at a time for their "patients;" which would permit druggists to fill orders; which would give the right to search your private house with a warrant, and which would compel wives to testify against their husbands and children to testify against their parents.

These are but a few of the ridiculous and demoralizing conditions that would prevail if "The Liquor Act, 1902," were put into operation. It is simply a law to harass and impede trade. It is a law which would increase the trade in Quebec at the expense of the Province of Ontario. It is a law which makes one law for the rich and another for the poor. For instance, if you are rich enough to have a private house of your own, you may keep all kinds of liquors in your cellar, but if you are compelled to keep boarders or lodgers, your home is placed in the hotel or livery stable class, where no liquor of any kind would be permitted. Again, if you use any part of your house as an office, store or workshop, you should not be permitted to have liquor on the premises. If you live in a flat or a tenement you would not be permitted to have a bottle of ale about. Neither in your club nor in your society hall would you be permitted to have a bottle of liquor. The penalties provided by the Act are: Forfeiture of the liquor and a fine of from $200 to $1,000, or imprisonment of two or four months.

The Province would lose an annual revenue of nearly $700,000 and be put to an annual expense of at least $500,000 for detectives, inspectors, spies and the general machinery that would be required to make an honest effort to enforce a ridiculous and unnecessary law. The Act would certainly result in the consumption of more spirits and less beer. It would encourage home drinking, secret drinking, and drinking in dives, which would flourish under this law as they flourished under the old Scott Act, for, as a matter of fact "The Liquor Act, 1902" is simply the old Scott Act applied to the whole Province. It would renew the demoralization of the community which existed in Scott Act times, and it would necessitate direct taxation. This is acknowledged on all sides. There is not a financier of any standing in the Province who will deny this.

We cannot imagine how any man who enjoys his glass of ale in a hotel or in his home can fail to vote "No" on Thursday next, nor can we imagine how any prohibitionist can accept this act, since it is in no sense a prohibitory measure, at least it cannot be considered a prohibitory law such as the prohibitionists have asked for. We feel confident that every sensible voter in this country will make it a point to go to the polls on Thursday next and vote "No." Yours very truly,

D. ABRAM.

THE PROHIBITION QUESTION—CONSISTENCY THOU ART A JEWEL

To the Editor of The Times:

Dear Sir,—I see by the press that the prohibition element in the Province has been importing agitators to assist them in the coming referendum, in the persons of the Rev. Charles Sheldon and others. If the following item from the Atchison (Kansas) Daily Globe is true, I think the Rev. Mr. Sheldon's time could be better spent in his own home of Topeka, Kansas in trying to reform the state of affairs in that place, instead of wasting his time in Ontario. But there, where did you ever find consistency in the prohibition party. One would think from the way they keep up the agitation against the liquor traffic that their own condition was as that could be desired but one has only to be a casual observer to see that such is not the case; that their own position is weak, and their work ineffective. They should turn their attention to other abuses and not lead the public to suppose that all the evils mankind is heir to, are caused by drinking. Let them question their own hearts, and they will find they are in error. Yours very truly,

PLAIN SPEAKER.

The Atchison, Kansas, Daily Globe prints the following article, which is well worth reading just now:—

The Rev. Charles M. Sheldon, of Topeka who has acquired some fame by his writings and sermons, is to go to Canada to assist the prohibition party there in securing prohibition in Canada. There is something about this that to the ordinary mind is incomprehensible. Kansas has prohibition, constitutional prohibition, and has had it for twenty years or more. And yet, in the town where Rev. Mr. Sheldon lives and works and preaches, there is a saloon on every corner, and frequently an extra one in the middle of the block. The prohibitory law is given no more heed than if such a thing had never been heard of in Kansas. The saloons are as open as they are in any city of the land. With such evidence as this right at his own door, does Mr. Sheldon undertake to say that prohibition prohibits, or that it is a success? Will he tell the Canadians that it is a success in Kansas? If he tells them it is a failure how can he urge them to adopt it? He can tell them of course that theoretically prohibition is a good and great thing; which it is. But will he not have to tell them, if he tells the truth, that practically it is a failure? It is as clear and distinctly local option as though it were designed that way in the constitution and the laws. Prohibition does not prohibit in any town or city where the sentiment is in favor of saloons. And where it does not favor saloons, saloons could not exist, even without prohibition. The constitutional amendment and the laws re-

Running a Great Rapids.

"At the head of one of the great rapids a bowman, seeing that I mated well with a light-weight of his crew, invited me to take a paddle and help them through," writes Arthur Heming in the July "Scribner" in describing the Abitibi fur brigade. "While the brigade are shooting rapids light-weights are at a premium. Tossing in an extra set of paddles we stepped aboard, and with a gentle shove the current caught us and carried us out to mid-stream. Long before we sighted white water the roar of the cataract was humming in our ears. We two midmen sat upon dunnage sacks and braced our moccasoned feet against the ribbing. Presently the bowman stood up and scanned the river. Dark, ominous water raced ahead for a hundred yards, then disappeared, leaving nothing but a great, surging mass of white that leaped high and dropped out of sight in the apparently forsaken river-bed. Then the steersman stood up, too, and Indian words passed between them. Every moment we were gaining impetus, and always heading for the highest crest of foam. Waiting for the word to paddle was even worse than waiting for the starter's gun in a sculling race. At last it came, just as we were twenty-five yards from the end of dark water. With a wild shout from the bowman, we drove our paddles home. The great canoe trembled a little at first as our work was somewhat ragged, but a moment later we settled into an even stroke and swept buoyantly among the tossing billows. Now before us ran a strange, wild river of seething white, lashing among great, gray-capped, dark-greenish bowlders that blocked the way. High, rocky banks standing close together, squeezed the mighty river into a tumult of fury. Swiftly we glide down the racing torrent and plunge through the boiling waters. Sharp rocks rear above the flying spray, while others are barely covered by the foaming flood. It is dangerous work. We midmen paddle hard to force the canoe ahead of the current. The steersmen in bow and stern ply and bend their great seven-foot paddles. The bowman, with eyes alert, keenly watches the whirling waters and signs of hidden rocks below. The roar of seething waters drowns the bowman's orders. The steersman closely watches and follows every move his companion makes. Down we go, riding upon the very back of the river; for here the water forms a great ridge, rising four or five feet above the water-line on either shore. To swerve to either side means sure destruction. With terrific speed we reach the brink of a violent descent. For a moment the canoe pauses, steadies herself, then dips her head as the stern upheaves, and down we plunge among more rocks than ever. Right in our path the angry stream is waging battle with a hoary bowlder that disputes the way. With all its might and fury the frantic river hisses and roars and lashes it. Yet it never moves—it only frowns destruction upon all that dares approach it. How the bowman is working! See his paddle bend! With lightning movements he jabs his great paddle deep into the water and close under the left side of the bow; then with a mighty heave he lifts her head around. The great canoe swings as though upon a pivot; for is not the steersman doing exactly the very opposite at this precise moment? We sheer off. But the next instant the paddles are working on the opposite sides, for the bowman sees signs of a water-covered rock not three yards from the very bow. With a wild lunge he strives to lift the bow around; but the paddle snaps like a rotten twig. Instantly he grabs for another, and a grating sound runs the length of the heaving bottom. The next moment he is working the new paddle. A little water is coming in, but she is running true. The rocks now grow fewer, but still there is another pitch ahead. Again the bow dips as we rush down the incline. Spray rises in clouds that drench us to the skin, as we plunge through the "great swell" and then shoot out among a multitude of tumbling billows that threaten to engulf us. The canoe rides upon the backs of the "white horses," and we rise and fall, rise and fall, as they fight beneath us. At last we leave their wild arena, and entering calmer water, paddle away to the end of the portage trail."

An Oriental Inquest.

The following little scene at an inquest upon the body of a murdered man is reported from Astrachan:

The coroner (dictating to his clerk)—On the table was found a bottle—no, stop a moment, we must ascertain its contents.

The coroner (tasting the liquid)—The bottle contained English gin. Perhaps not, I am not sure. Taste it yourself.

The clerk, having done so, replies—I believe it is simply strong vodka.

The coroner (tossing off another glass)—No, really, it tastes like gin.

The clerk (tasting again)—I still think it is only strong vodka.

The bottle having gradually become empty, the coroner proceeded to dictate in a decisive tone: "Write: An empty bottle was found on the table, and all measures taken to ascertain what it had contained were of no use."

Horse and Buggy Stolen

Yesterday afternoon a horse and buggy were stolen from Havelock. Chief Bennett was notified, and P. C. McGinity was sent out to see if any trace of the horse or vehicle could be discovered. After some time it was found that the horse and buggy had been caught in Otonabee going home without a driver, and it was accordingly held for the owner. There is no trace of the thief.

Notice of allotment will be sent promptly by ordinary letter.

It is intended to apply to the Stock Exchanges in New York, Boston, Montreal and Toronto for the listing of the stock of the company.

The CANADIAN STEEL AND COAL COMPANY was organized to mine and manufacture iron and coal, coke and steel in Canada at Atlantic tidewater.

The raw materials for these manufactures are:—

1.—COAL. 2.—IRON. 3.—LIMESTONE.

All these materials we have at hand.

1.—COAL.

The Company controls 3,000 acres of excellent coal areas in the Province of Nova Scotia, and efforts are being made to increase this to 10,000 acres by the purchase of some very valuable additional coal fields.

This coal has been thoroughly tested and found to be suitable in every way for the manufacture of iron and steel, and the supply is practically inexhaustible. The following analysis was made by the Canadian Geological Survey:—

ANALYSIS.

Moisture	4.05
Vol. Comb. Matter	30.72
Fixed Carbon	60.
Ash	5.23
	100.00

COAL VEINS.

The several layers or seams of coal available aggregate 27 to 30 feet in thickness.

TITLES.

These areas are held under Crown Lease for a period of 80 years. Royalty 10 cents per ton of coal sold.

2.—IRON.

The Company has acquired by purchase immense iron deposits on the North Shore of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, about 1350 miles from Sydney. The deposits are estimated to contain 20,000,000 tons ore above sea level, with probably as much more below that line. The iron can be handled for $1.00 per ton or less. Quantities of this ore have been shipped to Great Britain and the United States, where it has given great satisfaction, and we can sell large quantities f. o. b. at the properties, netting us a profit of $2.00 per ton. This ore makes the finest steel.

3.—FLUX.

We are now negotiating for valuable deposits of dolomite and limestone of the most satisfactory quality, situated on the tide-water, within 100 miles of the works

MARKETS.

For six months in each year the Canadian markets can be reached by water at low freight rates, and at all times by rail. As Cape Breton is distant from Liverpool only about 2,300 miles; is nearer to Pernambuco, Brazil, than any point in the United States, and also nearer to Cape Town, South Africa, it has the advantage, in point of distance, for export business over any American steel-producing points, which, with scarcely any exceptions, are situated some distance from tide water. Under any conditions of the world's market, it is believed that the output of these works can be disposed of at satisfactory prices.

OUTPUT

When in full operation, the output is expected to be about as follows:—

1. IRON.	200,000 tons iron ore shipped direct from property, showing net profit of $2.00 per ton, total	$400,000 00
	200,000 tons fine iron ore shipped in briquettes, showing net profit of $4.00 per ton, total	800,000 00
	100,000 tons steel blooms, showing net profit of $3.00 per ton, total	300,000 00
2. COAL.	600,000 tons coal, showing net profit, at least, of $1.00 per ton, total	600,000 00
3. AIDS.	Government bounties (averaged) added to above per year for 6 years	100 000 00
	Total yearly revenue	$2,200,000 00

GOVERNMENT AIDS.

To encourage the manufacture in the Dominion of iron and steel the Parliament of Canada has granted bounties as follows:—

	ON PIG IRON.	ON STEEL.
Apl. 21st, 1902, to July 1st, 1903	$2.70	$2.70
July 1st, 1903, " " 1904	2.25	2.25
July 1st, 1904, " " 1905	1.65	1.65
July 1st, 1905, " " 1906	1.05	1.05
July 1st, 1906, " " 1907	.60	.60

If the production of steel from the Company's works be as estimated, 300,000 tons per annum, the bounties to be received from the Canadian Government will be as follows:—

1904	$225,000
1906	145,000
or an average of $100,000.00 per annum for 6½ years	$670,000.00

NET REVENUE

Total net annual profits		$2,200,000.00
LESS FIXED CHARGES:—
7 per cent. interest on preferred stock	$70,000.00
Sinking Fund	60,000.00
Incidentals	25,000.00
		155,000.00
Net yearly profits		$2,045,000 00

Equivalent to yearly dividends of over 30 per cent., or 15 per cent. half yearly on total capitalization.

If the capitalization was increased to . . . . . $20,000,000.00 this estimate would still show a dividend-earning capacity of 10 per cent. per annum.

The capitalization of the Dominion Coal Co. is . . . . . $20,000,000.00 earning fully 12 per cent., and is paying 8 per cent. guaranteed dividends on this enormous sum.

The capitalization of the Dominion Iron and Steel Co. is . . . . . $28,000,000.00 on which it is believed 6 per cent. dividends will be earned.

The capitalization of the Canadian Steel & Coal Company is only $6,000,000.00 controlling, it is believed, equally valuable properties, and it is reasonable to expect much larger dividends.

Within the last few months Dominion Coal shares common rose in market value from $40 to $144 per share, and Dominion Iron & Steel Company's shares common rose over $30 per share in market value.

With such low capitalization the Canadian Steel and Coal Co's shares should show tremendous profits, and it is confidently believed they will.

Influence of Names.

"We're going to name our newly arrived boy Reginald," remarked Phillips at the club the other evening.

"Do you want him to be that kind of person?" asked Jones, in a tone that he hoped would create discussion.

"What are you springing on us now?" asked several of the group, a little wearily.

"It is a great truth, my boy," continued Jones, aiming his remarks at Phillips, who looked a trifle worried about Jones' question. "The relation of name to character is an unexplored but most fertile region. Look up your fiction, and you will find that every great novelist has unconsciously obeyed the law. A man and his name gradually grow toward each other. He may fight his name for a long time, but by some long road at last he must bend to the significance of what he is called. I consider that parents have a sacred duty upon them in choosing out of all the names of history that name which they elect their child shall be. The name which he receives at baptism is the character part, up to which he must always live."

"Really, I don't follow you," interposed Clemmons of Harvard, with his drawl.

"Think back over your reading," went on Jones. "When Sheridan names a character Lady Sneerwell, it is obvious that his conception is of a character proud and cynical. Such a method of dubbing limits the character drawing to a few bold strokes. A frank avowal of love from her lips, a free handed generosity, would not be tolerated. She must remain cold and hard till the play ends. Bunyan was fond of a name that labelled. Surely you remember Mr. Backbite and Boastful? In the literature of the last century such cheap and easy naming is rare and confined to the minor characters. Thackeray uses it for the peerage alone—Lady Bareacres. It survives in our comic weeklies, with their 'Wandering Willy' and 'Alkali Ike.'

"But there is a rarer and finer use of names that is at the command of the big fellows in romance. The skilful novelist baptizes his creation with a certain name because he realizes its connotation. Annie is known of old for a good housewife and a true sister. She is pretty and social, but is not a society woman. Annie of 'Lorna Doone' is rightly called. Adam implies faithfulness, a quality of high conscientiousness, and Adam of 'As You Like It' and Adam Bede share the trait.

"Tom is mischievous and fast, strongly social, with most of the vices. Even his friends are forced to admit that he drinks, but his severest critics will concede him generous. Such is Tom Jones—splendid and strong, shaggily rough. Tom Brown is not cast in a like epic mould, but yet is justified of his name. Tom Sawyer is a Tom in the making. Joseph, of Genesis, has a deservedly high reputation for chastity, and this implication of the name has been remembered. Joseph Andrews is an apt name for Fielding's hero. Jack is a gay blade. Dorothy is sprightly, but warm-hearted. Dick is merry and out at heels.

"Authorities have split on Rebecca. Scott makes her a faithful soul with a hopeless love. Thackeray gives us an adventuress, heartless, brilliant, and detestable. A character of history often makes the atmosphere of a name. Bonnie Prince Charlie is perhaps responsible for a succession of prodigals who are permitted to bear no other name.

"You see that the novelists, who have looked truth in the face, have always done their naming in line with law. Is it any wonder, when once you realize the influence of a name on a person, that savages, ignorant persons, and children have felt that one who knew their name had power over them? Religion and chivalry have been in the right of it, when they make the act of naming the most sacred ceremony in a man's life. Rightly they felt that baptism and knighting determine the direction of character development and soul growth."—Ex.

"Book Boosting" in France.

The art of book advertising is thought to have made some progress of late both in England and in this country, but they do these things if not better, at least more energetically in France. A Paris newspaper has begun the publication of a romance which has eight leading personages, and the most successful guesser of the fate of each is to have a four-seated automobile as a prize. Portraits of the characters in the novel are carried about the streets, with such questions as these to be answered: "Catharine: Will Catharine marry? If so, whom will she marry?" Again: "Liane: Will her scheme to gain the Marquis be successful?" Next comes: "Germaine: Will she deceive her husband?" Then, "Marie: Will she marry or die before the end of the romance?" Lastly, "Zizi: How many men will she attract? Who will be her last lover?" These individual queries are followed by a group of general problems for solution. "Which of these five women will die of poison? Which of them will administer poison? To whom?" If these methods were to be generally followed by publishers' press agents the reign of the historical romance would take on new terrors.

A Victim.

"Where are you going this summer?"

"I'm going to a stretch of barren sand, where I can be surrounded by the luxuries of the seashore."

"By yourself?"

"No. Whole family. Wife and children, servants, nurses, etc."

"Cottage?"

"Yes. Has eight rooms for sixteen people. Each room will hold comfortably about one-half of a human being."

"Cottage alone?"

"Oh, no. We shall be next to a lot of others. Each with an assortment of children."

"Nice people?"

"Well, they're people I wouldn't think of associating with on ordinary occasions, but of course——"

"Oh, certainly. Where do you get your vegetables?"

"From the city."

"And your water?"

"From the nearest well."

"Typhoid?"

"Probably."

"Flies?"

"Heaps."

"What are you going for?"

"Three reasons. Because I can't afford to and my wife wants to."—"Life."

THE OLD SAW MILL

The Dickson Company Saw Mill Now Being Dismantled

Another old landmark is being removed from the bank of the river. The Dickson Company's sawmill at the foot of London street is to be taken down to make room for the Cereal Company's dam. Men began yesterday morning to remove the machinery, which will be stored until such time as a new building is erected to receive it. The present stage of operations upon the new dam is such as to demand the immediate utilization of the site occupied by the sawmill. The Dickson Company will probably locate on a site to the east of the canal on Little Lake. The company owns the two hundred acres known as Beaver Mead Farm, which will make very fine piling grounds and admit also of easy railway communication. A large building on the farm has been used by the company for some time past as a stable.

A WARM WINTER PREDICTED

Man Figures it Out by Intervals of 13 Years

Mr. P. Jones, of West Bay City, Michigan, in writing to a local paper says a mild winter is in store for us, and gives his reasons for the prophecy as follows.—It may seem very strange, but in 1863, when I was only eight years old, my father came home from his first enlistment in the army. The winter beginning in 1863 was a very warm winter, rainy and soft, with some cold weather, the last of February and the first of March. This was in Ohio. In 1876, thirteen years later, I was on the Northern Pacific Railroad in Minnesota. It was very warm until February and March then. There was some cold weather, but not long at a time, two or three days at the longest. Just thirteen years later, in 1889, in Ohio, it did not freeze to exceed two inches at any time all winter. The year 1902 brings it thirteen years later. Now when the sun crossed the line each of these years the wind was in the south or southeast. I have a perfect remembrance of these years. why it comes every thirteen years is a mystery to me. I think some of the lumbermen will remember some of these dates, as in 1765 there were but few logs banked in Minnesota or Wisconsin. This fall the wind was about two degrees east of south when the sun crossed the line.

When Buying Mining Stock Buy the Best

AN INVESTMENT IN THE
Pitkin Gold Belt Mining and Reduction Company
Which is Safe and Sure of Quick Returns, may Bring an Enormous Return at any Moment. It has the Possibilities of Rivaling the Great Mines of the Past.

This Company has a mine on a true fissure vein, in the center of the Gunnison Gold Belt, Colorado, which is the "Mother" lode or dike, which has produced 25 per cent. more gold than the total output of the Cripple Creek district.

This Mine is no Prospect. Nor is it Waiting for Your Subscription to Buy Machinery or for Development.

After a careful examination by experts, Joseph M. Bradley, M. E., and Mr. George Aristt, A. I. M. E., Amalgamated Copper Company's expert in Chihuahua, Mexico, they advised the purchase of the property. The property had shallow development upon it, showing two ore shoots from which smelting ore had been shipped to the Buena Vista Smelter.

The Company purchased and paid for the latest improved machinery and has put a shaft down 250 feet and intend to carry it down 1000 feet. On the 250 foot level 200 feet of development has been made and an ore shoot has been encountered and blocked out for 87 feet, carrying values in gold from 2 to 6 ounces or $40 to $120 per ton. The cost of mining, hauling, freight and smelters charges will be between $12 and $15 per ton.

Ed. McCarthy & Co., bankers, guarantee a shipping mine of smelting ore ranging from 2 to 6 ounces in gold, or $40 to $120 per ton, by January 1st, 1903, or all funds will be returned to subscribers upon presentation of receipt issued by said bank.

Also to prospective purchasers of $500 worth of stock we are offering a free trip to Colorado and return. You investigate first and purchase afterward. Could you expect anything fairer than this?

The capital stock of this company is $1,000,000, divided into 1,000,000 shares of stock at $1 each, full paid and non-assessable. A portion of the treasury stock is now offered at

25 CENTS PER SHARE—PAR VALUE $1.00

In one payment, or 20 per cent. down and the balance in four equal monthly payments, for necessary expenditures and improvements on a shipping mine.

Farmers, Attention.

A Beet Sugar Factory is about to be established in Peterborough, which will afford a market for 60 000 tons, about 800,000 bushels of sugar beets at $4.00 per ton. It will take five thousand acres to grow this quantity. All farmers having suitable soil are earnestly requested to make preparation for growing in 1903 from five to ten acres. A pamphlet, "How to Grow the Sugar Beet," will be furnished on application of any farmer contracting to grow two acres and upwards. Address

Mainly About People.

Mr. Harry de Windt, in his book, "Finland As It Is," tells of a bon mot of Andree, the Arctic explorer. Just before his last voyage he was driven to distraction at a dinner-party by a talkative neighbor. "But how will you know, professor, when you have really crossed the North Pole?" was one of many silly questions. "Oh, that will be simple enough, madame," replied Andree, with his well-known dry humor. "A north wind will become a south one!"

It is related that when the Earl of Rochester, in the reign of Charles II., rose to make his maiden speech in the House of Lords, he said: "My lords, my lords, I rise this time for the first time—the very first time. My lords, I divide my speech into four branches." Here there was an embarrassing pause of some seconds. "My lords," the earl then ejaculated, "if ever I rise again in this House, you may cut me off, root and branches, and all forever."

The father of Earl Fitzwilliam, who died recently, was an excellent landlord. A London paper relates how once a farmer went to him with the complaint that the earl's fox-hunters had ruined a field of corn, or, as we should call it, wheat. The earl gave the man fifty pounds in payment for damage. After harvest-time the farmer returned the money, saying that the wheat had turned out well, after all. Earl Fitzwilliam drew a check for one hundred pounds and gave it to his tenant. "This is as things should be between man and man," said he. "When your eldest son comes of age, give him this, and tell him how and why you got it."

Wu Ting-fang, the Chinese Minister, told the ladies of the Washington Law College a story Saturday night that made them all laugh. "I was at a banquet a few nights ago," he said, "and I met the wife of one of the members of Congress. She sat near me at table. I tried to be entertaining. Finally she leaned over and said: 'Oh! Mr. Wu, we all think you are so brilliant. Isn't it a pity you are only Chinese?'"

The late Noah Davis, justice of the Supreme Court of New York, was one of the many judges and lawyers who make the court room the scene of some of our best wit and humor. Once a lawyer objected to a witness, but Judge Davis refused to sustain him. The lawyer cried, "But, Your Honor, I submit—" and here he broke off." "That's right," said the judge, quickly; "always submit. Crier, adjourn court!" In one case over which he presided there were fifty-five distinct offences, and four counts on each offence, two hundred and twenty in all. "Well," said Judge Davis, "there are more counts than in a German principality."

When Collis P. Huntington, the late president of the Southern Pacific Railway, was married for the second time, Henry Ward Beecher performed the marriage ceremony. Huntington's first wife had been dead less than one year, and he desired the second marriage to be kept secret until his return from Europe. He gave Mr. Beecher a marriage fee of $1,500. When Huntington returned, some months later, he went through a public ceremony, and Beecher again officiated. He gave Beecher another fee of $1,500. The great preacher had his humor aroused by this second fee. Turning to Huntington, he said: "Collis, I do wish you were a Mormon."

The butler in a Scotch family occupies a privileged and unique position. He sometimes assumes a freedom of speech which seems to American ears to border on impertinence; but to those who know him his frank speech is only one of the many evidences of his interest in the family welfare. A young New York woman was the guest at a house where a butler of that sort reigns. She submitted to his patronage with much amusement; but one day there were unexpected and important guests for dinner, and a little while before the meal was served the butler waylaid the young American in the hall. "I'm fearin' there'll no be quite enough soup," he whispered, "so when it's offered, ye maun decline it, lass." "Decline soup, James?" she said, laughing. "Why, that would not be polite." "Weel, not precisely," said James, with a benignant smile," but they'll a' make excuse for ye, thinkin' ye ken nae better."

Frith, the celebrated Royal Artist, once painted a portrait of himself, and in the course of years forgot all about it. But a friend entered his studio one morning and asserted that a capital picture of him was on view in a small shop in Great Portland street. "It's not a bit like what you are now," observed the friend, "but it may have resembled you some years ago. Go and look at it." Mr. Frith went, and found his own image after an estrangement of forty-five years. He determined to buy it, though he had not the faintest recollection of having painted it. "Ah, a portrait!" said Frith to the woman in charge of the shop, after he had pretended to examine several other works. "Whose likeness is that?" "That," said the lady, "is a portrait of the celebrated artist, Frith, painted by himself." "Why, he must be an elderly man," put in the artist. The woman remarked that he was young once. "Humph!" quoth the genial W. P. F.; "not much of a picture." To this the woman demurred, and asked £20 for the canvas. It was Frith's turn to appear surprised. "Well," replied the shopkeeper without moving a muscle, "it cost us nearly as much; we shall make a very small profit. You see, it is very valuable because the artist is deceased." "Deceased!" exclaimed the astonished painter. "Dead, do you mean?" "Yes, sir; died of drink. My husband attended the funeral." Frith bought the picture, but did not revive for some time.

English.

A Washington lady who is so fond of her home that she stays in it sometimes all the year round, was assailed, says "Lippincott's Magazine," by a conventional friend in conventional language.

"I know that you usually wintered here," she said, "but I was astonished to hear that you had summered here!"

"I have not only wintered here and summered here," replied the unfashionable one, "but I will astonish you still further when I tell you that I always fall here and have sometimes sprung here."

Toil and the Designer of Things.

A gray mist scudded in front of the patch of blue sky that all afternoon had been peering between the tall buildings into the studio window, and carried away most of the light with it.

The Boy was glad of this, for his faith in himself was about gone. He gathered up his brushes, throwing a few curses at the weather as he did so in a bravado sort of fashion. He was determined not to be a fool this time and seek unsatisfactory sympathy from people who could not understand. Instead, he would go down to the "Vesuvio" and allow its liquid flame to consume his mood.

"Better be drunk than foolish," he said to the Girl as he started for the door. "I'm tired of this breathless pursuit of the Ideal. After all, if I did overtake her, I don't suppose she'd be worth while. This torture of self-denial, of looking forever over the roof in vain desire for the things that may never be, while the hot blood of youth in your veins commands you to drink deep of the things that are, is insanity. To the devil with work and the dreams of doing."

"It is discouraging, isn't it?" said the Girl. "I felt that way myself until you spoke. I looked at your work this afternoon and envied you."

"Envied me? Don't laugh at a fellow because you've happened to find the way to success. Suppose you do manage to paint good canvases and win plaudits. Ten million people have had the same little reward for the same mighty struggle. Already the wear and worry is showing on you. In ten years youth will be gone from you and all you'll have for it will be the memory of heart's blood painted into canvas for trivial 'mention,' and tragic realization of your limitations. The wise man is he who refuses to do what he is able to do; our ability always seems so much greater to us until we put it to the test. Never give yourself a chance. That's the only way to escape heart-break."

The Girl was fragile in the gray light. She stood at the window looking into the twilight that fell in hopelessness among the crowding walls of unsightly buildings. The Boy took a step toward the door. Then the Girl turned.

"I wish you would not talk like that," she said. "It hurts. Have I ever said I expected to do great things? You know I haven't. I was mean to-day and half envied you for your gift. But I don't want to envy anybody. I try not to think of future or fame, for it is thinking of self-glory that brings pain and disappointment. I try to do my work as best I can because it is my work and because I must do it. I know it is delightful to win success. We can't help feeling that our effort has won approval. But I don't work for success. I put my heart into my pictures because I have to, and if by so doing I can soften, if only for an instant, some other heart; bring a look of wistfulness into a careless eye; waken a longing in a dreamless soul, I have the greatest of rewards. Work for work's sake demands no sacrifice. On the contrary, it leads our feet into the ways where perfect happiness may be gathered.

"I know how weak I am and how discouraged I grow even yet. But discouragement never lingers long. All I need do is remind myself that I am not an isolated toiler wearing out my own destiny in unsympathetic solitude, but one of many who are working to carry to completion the wonderful plan of the great Designer of things beautiful.

"There are no failures. Your discouragement helps me to catch the shadows my portion of the picture needs to-day; my rebellion shows you the glorious light of patience and sympathy your brush must depict."

"It's easy to talk hopefully when you're already in the sunlight of success," replied the Boy as he grasped the door-knob. "I'm tired of the shadows and am determined to get out of them. I'll enjoy myself in idleness for a while. I'll be on hand to help hang the Picture Beautiful when it is finished. I'm done with brushes."

The Girl laid her hand lightly on the Boy's shoulder. "What great work you are going to do," she said. "Some of the wonderful touches in the picture have been reserved for you. You are not 'tired of the pursuit of the Ideal.' You are only impatient that your hand has not yet the wonderful skill your soul demands of it. Be patient; there's not only Time but Eternity for our work."

They stepped into the corridor and paused in silence. From a room opposite some divine melody drifted to them. The Boy was glad of the darkness, for his eyes were wet. He grasped the Girl's hand.

"I thank you," he said. "I guess I was only impatient."—Leavenworth Macnab.

Their Steering-Gear.

A professor of a profound subject at Harvard University has a small son who is very observant and inquisitive, and a hired man who has all the Irish wit and good humor.

The other day Albert, the small boy, was playing with a cat in the stable while Larry cleaned the harness.

"Say, Larry," he asked, "why do cats always stand on their feet?"

"They shteer themselves wid their tail."

"Well, how do rabbits steer themselves? They haven't long tails; only a stub."

"Wid their ears. That's phwat they have their long ears for."

"Well, how does a bulldog steer himself? He doesn't have long ears or a long tail."

"Wid his bark."

The boy looked doubtful and was silent. Presently he ran in to his father's study, and in a few minutes came back to the stable.

"Larry!"

"Yis?"

"That's true what you told me about bulldogs. I asked papa, and he read something to mamma out of a book about 'barks that steer against the wind.'"

Fate.

Once there were two beautiful white eggs laid side by side in a nice new nest. A great big man gathered them up with his rough hands and sold them to a grocer. And one little egg was a good little egg, and went into an angel cake, but the other little egg was a very, very bad little egg, and got mashed on an actress.

Now is the Last Chance to Buy the St. Paul & Sunset Oil

COMPANY'S STOCK AT 35 CENTS

California Oil Stocks Have Paid Millions in Dividends

KERN COUNTY (SUNSET DISTRICT) OIL COMPANIES PAID

ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS IN DIVIDENDS IN AUGUST ALONE

Bakersfield, Cal., Sept. 27.—J. Pierpont Morgan is about to identify himself with the oil business in Califoria. On October 12, or a few days later, surveyors will be put into the field, and will run lines to the ocean from Sunset, Coaling, McKittrick, Midway and Kern River fields to determine by which route it is most feasible to transport oil to tide water. The surveys will run over the coast range at a number of points, and also will go down the San Joaquin valley parallel with the line of the Standard.

A company having a capitalization of $5,000,000 has been organized for the construction of lines, pumping stations, storage tanks, and the like. Mr. Morgan and his associates have also formed a separate company, capitalized at $20,000,000, half of which will be invested in proven ground and the other half turned into a reserve fund.

It is stated that the Morgan syndicate will be prepared to handle 2,000,000 barrels the first year, and will increase that amount at the rate of 1,000,000 a year until the whole demand of the market is met.

THE ST. PAUL & SUNSET OIL COMPANY own and control a large tract of absolutely oil proven asphalt land in the very heart of the best oil producing land of Kern County, California, the district where flowing wells are situated. We have a bed of Liquid Asphalt underlying a portion of our lands. Our property is situated right at Sunset Station. A new line of railway is surveyed and will be constructed in a very short time, putting us not only in touch with Eastern cities, but in touch with tide-water. This, in addition to the railroad facilities we now have. Remember that we own our land—it is paid for and entirely free from debt.

ST. PAUL & SUNSET OIL CO.'S GIGANTIC TRACT

will be developed and should prove a formidable rival for the new company.

PROFESSOR DR. RUD J. SCHIMPER, Analytical and Expert Chemist, of St. Paul, makes the following statement relative to the composition, what can be produced and the estimated profits of the Sunset Crude Oil. A copy of the original certificate can be seen at the office of the St. Paul & Sunset Oil Co., which is in substance as follows:

"This is to certify that the undersigned, Dr. Rudolph J. Schimper, Chemist expert, member of Parisian Academy, according to analysis made from the crude oil furnished me by the St. Paul & Sunset Oil Company, I find the following valuable products and with each beg to submit my estimate of its value:

1. LIQUID RUBBER—2000 lbs of this crude oil (6 bbls.) will produce 1,800 lbs. of liquid rubber, value of which is from 25c. per lb. and up. (Estimated value $450.00.)
2. SOLID RUBBER—2000 lbs of this crude oil (6 bbls) will produce 1,700 lbs. of solid rubber, value of which is from 50c. upwards. (Estimated value $450.00.)
3. FUEL BRIQUETTES—2000 lbs. of this crude oil (6 bbls) will produce 2,000 lbs. (1 ton) of fuel briquettes, which, according to government tests made, is equivalent to two tons of best anthracite coal. (Estimated value $21.00)
4. ASPHALTUM—2,000 lbs. of this crude oil (6 bbls.) will produce ½ ton of asphaltum, value $25 to $35 per ton. 25 gal. of lubricating oil, value 50c. per gal. and upward. 40 gal. illuminating oil, value 10c per gal. and up. 60 gal. of distilled oil, value 5c. per gal. and upward. (Estimated value $64.50.)
5. SOAP—2000 lbs. (1 ton) of crude oil and filling will prduce over 2,800 lbs. of soap, value 3c. per lb. and upward. (Estimated value $80.00.)

Id my opiniou many other valuable products can be obtained from the oil of that famous field.

Respectfully, DR. R. J. SCHIMPER, Chemist Expert."

THIS goes to show the immense profits that will accrue from our products when refined. We expect to commence Building Our Refinery in the very near future. The sale of the next allotment of stock will be made for that purpose. The largest flowing wells in California were brought in adjoining our property and their stock was taken off the market. We employ the best drillers who report rapid progress on our wells and we expect to bring in gushers equal, if not to excel any in the Sunset field. Our General Manager, Superintendent and Drillers, all are experienced oil men. The officers of our company are all thorough, competent and efficient men who have always made a success of their undertaking in life and who will see that the welfare of the St. Paul and Sunset Oil Company is furthered, portected and promoted to the most advantageous extent possible.

MILLIONS OF DOLLARS SHOULD BE PAID STOCKHOLDERS.

MILLIONS OF DOLLARS should be paid to the stockholders of the St. Paul and Sunset Oil Company when their property is fully developed, their refinery equipped and in full operation. ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS IN DIVIDENDS was paid by Kern County Oil Companies during the month of August alone.

SIX MILLION BARRELS is the consuming capacity of the Southern Pacific Railway engines, which are now equipped for burning oil. Outside of this consider other railway lines, smelters, factories, steamships, stationery engines, which are all heavy consumers of fuel oil and last but not least, hotels and private dwellings are falling in line with the procession in the use of fuel oil.

A GOOD REASON WHY YOU Should Invest in the stock of St. Paul & Sunset Oil Company. More fortunes have been made in oil than any other business. Consider the immense amount of money the Standard Oil Company has made for its fortunate stockholders, and the California oil companies have done better in proportion to their capitalization than the Standard Oil Company. Here is what $100 has accomplished for those who invested that amount in the following California companies in the beginning of their career:

Home Whittier $1,000 on an investment of $100.
Kern returned $2,200 on an investment of $100.
Peerless returned $1,800 on an investment of $100.
Dillon returned $2,500 on an investment of $100.
New York returned $30,000 on an investMent of $100.
Union returned $150,000 on an investment of $100.
Home returned $50,000 on an investment of $100.

THERE is no reason in the world why the St. Paul and Sunset Company's oil holdings and property, when developed and handled, should not bring like returns.

CONTRARY to the general supposition the earth is the repository of all mineral wealth. When it is known and demonstrated beyond a question of a doubt where its wealth reposes and you put your money up to take it out, your money is invested. Hence you are an investor, not a speculator. A proven oil producing property does not draw its profits from the people but creates new wealth. It is therefore an investment.

Wonderful Increase in Value of Oil Stocks.

The rapid rise in the value of shares in some oil companies will be seen from the following table:	Original price per share	Present Market price
Black Mountain Oil Co.	$ .05	$ 1.50
Central Oil Co.	.30	1.50
Home Oil Co. Whittier	.25	2.50

Kreyenhagen Oil Co.	.10	200.00
Columbia Oil Co.	100.00	600.00
Union Oil Co.	1.00	1500.00
Home Oil co.	100.00	3000.00

The time will come in the near future when stock in St. Paul and Sunset Oil Co., should bring prices equal to the last.

BUY! WHY?

BECAUSE

THE SOUR LAKE OIL CO.

Has placed four-fifths of its stock in the treasury for development work; and because

Oil is reached in less than half the depth required on Spindletop Heights in Beaumont;

The people in Canada are well acquainted with the management, which is in the hands of HON. JOHN L. BITTINGER, United States Consul General to Canada; F. S. Ashley, Vice-President of the Massachusetts Securities Co., and W. L. Marston, Vice-President of the American Union Oil and Refining Co.

These gentlemen have made a dividend payer out of one company and have raised the value of its stock from 5c per share to par value, or 25c, within a very short time;

The company is operating in the Sour Lake field, where fewer wells will tap the oil than at Spindletop; this insures a greater flow of oil, and it is of a better quality;

This is the first allotment of shares at the present price of FIVE CENTS PER SHARE; it is the lowest price at which you can buy, and the time left in which to buy at FIVE CENTS is short.

Appertaining to the Trusts

New York, Dec. 3—It is to be deplored that in certain editorial departments, the creators of a large percentage of public sentiment, that so much adverse comments as to the trusts is formulated. Much fallacious and mischevious information is there constructed and disseminated, causing much mistaken opinion to be created. The borderland between a consolidation of interests and the exact point at which it would become a trust is hard to be determined. It is equal for two men to go into partnership, equally legal for a firm thus formed to take in two other partners, doing business in a similar manner, making thereby a consolidation of interests which will sell an equal amount of goods at less cost to themselves and at a lower price to the public, making in so doing more money for themselves. It is patent to the average mind that it is equally legal for two or more great companies to consolidate their interests in equal manner, being impossible to make the former case legal and the latter case illegal. Common law all over the civilized world recognizes the fact that the property of any person or company cannot be legally wrested from them. That would be radically wrong. The trusts that reduce the cost of its product under the figures required for its production before its existence is accomplishing good, benefiting the greatest number. All existing trusts have competition more or less severe, the ones receiving such prices as show the greatest profits naturally getting the keenest competition. Any combine that regulates its prices so that profits are inordinate brings about its own undoing through its own stimulation of opposition. Competition will regulate the trusts as well as it did all business before their conception; there is nothing that the government can logically do to legally restrain them. They are the modern method of doing business. Ex-Gov. Flower, that sterling Democrat, had the right idea when he said, "Young man, don't rail against the trusts; get into them; they have come to stay and will prove a benefit to all. The demagogue and agitator living upon the credulity of their listeners whom they misinform, are the primary shouters against the trusts. Trusts have come to stay. Don't fear the message of a President if you have any trust stocks. There will be nothing doing at Washington. It is impossible. Nothing but talk at the most.

Summary—Today's market felt the continued efforts of the Traders to realize on the announcement of the President's message. They disposing of their purchases made previously at lower prices, caused concessions and at a fractional lower range. The buying that ensued was most excellent. It was notable good in Sugar, A.C.P., Atch., St. Paul, Manhattan, B. & O., Canadian Pacific, N.Y.C., and the other Pacifics. Prices stiffened at the close and indications point to a higher range of prices before they are lower. Money closed 6 per cent. Sales 400,000.

NEW OIL FIELDS OF ONTARIO

Our Mr Fox has just returned from a trip of personal investigation to the NEW WONDERFUL OIL GUSHER field in the Township of Raleigh, in the County of Kent. He reports that the whole country is literally with excitement. Chatham—respectable, easy going old Chatham—stands amazed, while oil operators from Pennsylvania, Ohio, Texas, California and from the big refineries at Petrolia and Sarnia fill her streets and hotels to overflowing—all seeking OIL! OIL! OIL!—offering figures for land that would have been considered sheer madness a few weeks ago. The roads to the oil fields are lined with all kinds of carriages, wagons and loads of machinery and derricks. Several drilling rigs are already partly erected and contracts have been made for the sinking of at least FIFTY WELLS within the next thirty days.

LANDS HAVE QUADRUPLED IN PRICE WITHIN THE LAST TWO WEEKS outside of the Gurd & Co. syndicate.

The Ontario and California Oil Co., Limited,

were first on the ground, and have the largest holdings, amounting to about ONE THOUSAND ACRES, RIGHT IN THE BIG GUSHER FIELD IN RALEIGH, while at the scene of operations our Mr Fox closed negotiations with the representatives of two of the largest oil refineries in Canada to sink a number of wells IMMEDIATELY, and at least FIVE WELLS must be completed within sixty days.

At NORTHWOOD—about ten miles from Chatham—our eighteenth well is down about three hundred feet. Here the company is operating about SIXTEEN HUNDRED acres of great promise every well sunk so far has been a paying oil producer. Watch this field also very closely. But advertising space is limited—send for Ontario & California Oil Co's November report, etc., and see for yourself.

The volume of enquiries to this office show that our people are becoming alive to the great possibilities lying right at our doors.

The Price of Coal

A good deal of complaint is heard regarding the price of coal, it having last week advanced from $8 to $9 per ton. The trouble appears to be that dealers cannot get their coal except through a middle man, whose profits have to be added. Yesterday The Times called up several local dealers and was told that no coal was to be had. Along about Christmas the price will probably drop to $7 or $7.50.

A Telephone System

The Bell Telephone Company has installed a system of 30 telephones in the Canadian General Electric Works here, the purpose of which is to connect the various departments. Before installation there was no system of communication save that of messengers. Some idea of its usefulness may be had from the fact that the operator at "central" which is located in the principal office, has an average of 400 calls daily. She has therefore very little time for doing fancy sewing or the like. Any phone on the system can be connected with either the town or trunk lines

His Overcoat Taken

Belleville Daily Ontario, Monday: Mr. H. Austin, of Fenelon Falls, arrived in the city yesterday and registered at the Anglo-American hotel. He left a new fur overcoat in the parlor when he went to dinner, and when he went to look for it half an hour later it was gone. In the pockets were a new pair of gloves which were also taken. The police were notified of the theft and are at work on the case. They have a description of a man who was seen hanging about the hotel shortly before the coat was taken. They have hope of catching the thief.

MAYOR DENNE TO RETIRE

HE WILL NOT AGAIN BE A CANDIDATE FOR THE MAYORALTY

New Business Arrangements Compel Him to Decline Renomination—His Splendid Record

Mr. T. H. G. Denne, the Mayor, has been presented by a requisition signed by a very large number of the electors of the town asking him to be a candidate for the position of Mayor for next year, and Mr. Denne has made the following reply:

Gentlemen,—I thank you for the honor you have done me in asking me to again be a candidate for the position of Mayor, and I regret very much that I am unable to comply with your request. Certain business arrangements which I have recently made will require me to be absent from town frequently during the coming year, and I would not be able to give the time or attention to the business of the town that it should receive from any one who holds the position of head of the Council, and I therefore find that it will be impossible for me to again be a candidate.

I desire to tender my sincere thanks to those gentlemen who took the interest and time in the matter to circulate the requisitions that have been presented to me, and also to all who signed the request. I have felt it to be a high honor to be a member of the Council of this town, and especially to be chosen to fill the office of Mayor, and I feel keenly the kindness of the electors who have in such a large number signed these requisitions. I have, indeed, during the eight years I have been a member of the Council, and especially during the two years I have held the office of Mayor, received nothing but kindness at the hands of the people of Peterborough, and while I have to the best of my ability and opportunities endeavored to serve the town faithfully and to advance its interests in every way, I recognize that I have only endeavored to make some return for the kindness of the people and the honor the electors have conferred upon me. I cannot adequately express the gratitude I feel to the electors, and I regret very much that I am compelled for the present to decline the request to continue in the office of Mayor. If at some future time my business arrangements will permit and the people desire me to serve them I will be pleased to place my services at their disposal, but at the present time I can only return my sincere thanks to those who have again and express my regret that I cannot ; and express me regret that I cannot do otherwise than retire from the Town Council.

I am, gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
T. H. G. DENNE.

The above was handed the Times yesterday and speaks for itself. The general feeling is that of regret, for Mayor Denne has been a success as Chief Magistrate. His progressive policy has been appreciated by the ratepayers, and it now behooved them to select a worthy successor.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

—Uneasy lies the head that owns a liquor license.

—The Times is again deluged to-day with letters on the referendum, for which we cannot afford the space.

—There will be another excursion to Berlin at an early date. This time the agriculturists are to go.

—The big American coal trust, no less than the smaller combines, seems to be having troubles of its own. If, as is apparently the case, anthracite coal is $3.50 at the mines, some people must get a substantial rake off to make the cost, for instance, $9 to the consumer in Peterborough.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

NOTE—The Times requests its readers to furnish the paper with items of a personal and social nature, either by phone or in writing.—[Ed. Times]

—Mr. Jas. Spellman, formerly wine clerk at the Palace Hotel, has returned to town, having accepted a position as wine clerk at the National Hotel.

—The Times had a very pleasant call yesterday from Mr. D. J. McFaggan, of the Dominion Express Company, who was in town on business.

—Mr. Harris, of Montreal, representing Messrs. Harris, Harkness & Co., was in town yesterday taking orders for the firm's fine brand of cigars, known as "The Van Horne Cigar."

—Mr. Walter Alexander, formerly with Mr. Wm. Medill, who has been in the West for some time, has accepted the position of manager of the well known drug firm of Stott & Jury, Bowmanville.

—Mrs. W. Henderson and Miss Henderson have returned home after a visit with friends in Rockford, Illinois.

KEPT HER CHILDREN

The Right Food Brought Them Back to Health

Food purchased from curiosity saved the lives of two children in a family in Ulysses, Wis.

The mother says;—"We had bought a package of Grape-Nuts, attracted by its pleasant, suggestive name, and found it a pleasant food. As my five months old baby liked it, I fed it to her and found it as satisfactory as——Baby Food, which I had been using and paying 50c. for a much smaller package.

Shortly after this, three of the children came down with the whooping cough, my oldest one was taken with pneumonia, and the little three year old strained her stomach in some manner, so that she vomited blood, and could not retain anything on her stomach. She continuously cried with hunger, and it was terrible to see her grow weaker and weaker, until she did not have strength to keep her eyes open. I was so overworked nursing all of them night and day that I finally woke up to the fact that a change must be wrought, and that at once.

I shall always believe that divine inspiration whispered 'Grape-Nuts.' At first I did not give the solid part; I poured boiling water on it and let it stand until the water had drawn out some of the strength, added some rich, sweet cream, and gave the little one a few spoonfuls at a time. She kept it down and it nourished her, so that after awhile I could feed her the Grape-Nuts themselves until she got strong, and she is today as rugged as I could wish. Meanwhile, the eldest girl was unable to turn her head or swallow solid food, and for weeks her strength was kept up by Grape-Nuts, softened in cream, given a spoonful at a time, until she got strong enough to take other food. They are both well and strong now, and I feel that I owe Grape-Nuts for two of my hearty healthy children" Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Senator Cox on Top

The Montreal Star says it is expected that Senator Cox will be the first President of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, and that he will associate with him a company of "money magnates" which will make the financing of the new scheme an easy one, and will do much to make it certain that the new enterprise shall be distinctly Canadian in character, as contrasted with the original Grand Trunk Railway Company, which for so long was managed from the other side of the Atlantic. This will be pleasing news to the Senator's many Peterborough friends.

November was a Scorcher

The rejoicings of the citizens of Peterborough about the warm weather of November were well grounded, for since 1839 when the Meteorological Office at Toronto commenced making records, there has not been so warm a November. The mean temperature was 42.9 degrees, which is one degree above the highest previous record, in the year 1849. In that year it was 41.9, and in 1846, 40.3 degrees. The temperature this November was 6.5 degrees warmer than the average. The rainfall was 1.7 inches, which is one inch below the average. The highest temperature was 65 degrees and the lowest 16 degrees.

lating to it are dead letters in all places where the sentiment is for licenses or saloons. Will Mr. Sheldon tell his audiences this indisputable truth? And if he does, how can he consistently urge them to adopt a law that he must admit is a failure here in his own home? If Mr. Sheldon is conscientious, he must tell his hearers up in the north country what prohibition ought to do in Kansas, not what it does do in Kansas.

by instructing the clerk to have the roll printed immediately..

Ald. Best opposed this motion. He could not see the necessity of having the roll printed. Any one wishing to examine it were at liberty to do so at the clerk's office. Besides the publishing of the roll would cost $500, which expenditure it would not be wise to incur in face of a possible increased taxation the coming year.

Ald. McGregor replied that there is a great demand for the printing of the assessment roll. It would be utterly impossible for every ratepayer to lose time by coming to the clerk's office to examine the rolls.

The mover and seconder were the only ones who voted for the motion, which was accordingly lost, and the report adopted as read.

A QUESTION OF WIRES.

The question of wiring the town by the power, 'phone and light companies elicited from Ald. Morrison the suggestion that the several companies come to some arrangement by which they could use each others poles and thus avoid making a forest of our streets. No action was taken in this matter, but from remarks made by Mr. A. Stevenson and W. H. Meldrum it appears that the companies are willing to do this if practicable.

A by-law was introduced by Ald. McGregor to exempt the manufacturing firm of J. J. Turner & Sons from certain taxes passed its several readings. A vote of the ratepayers to be taken on this by-law on the same day, and at the same polling places, as the municipal elections.

In reply to Ald. Best, the town clerk replied that this by-law would cost $50 or more to submit to the people. Ald. Best thought the firm of J. J. Turner & Sons should pay the cost.

Ald. J. J. Turner replied that he did not think it fair to ask his firm to do this when others had not been taxed for the putting through of similar by-laws.

Ald. Best pointed out that the Sheldon people would have had to pay for their by-law had it gone to the people. He thought J. J. Turner & Sons had been dealt with very leniently by the assessors, who had only assessed them for $3,000 on real estate and $300 for personal property.

Ald Turner explained that at the time the assessment was made his new building had only just been started. The assessment on his present premises, as now completed, will be much higher next assessment. If we had applied for exemption before commencing work on the new building, which is a credit to the town, and has increased the value of adjoining property, we should have got it. He thought that under all circumstances his firm was not asking anything unreasonable.

The by-law then passed its second reading and will be submitted to the people.

Ald Roger, who had been in the chair, on resuming his seat recorded his dissent from the carrying of the by-law. He wished Ald. Turner had seen his way clear to withdraw his petition like the Wm. Hamilton Co., and the Peterborough Canoe Company. The only way left open to this and any other Council in extending assessment privileges to local industries was to assess them at the lowest figure possible. He thought Ald. Turner will find his assessment compare favorably with the property across the street and other industries.

Ald. Turner replied that the other companies alluded to have not new buildings. If we want to build up the town we should try and encourage those who already live in it. He had been offered a free building as large as his present one to remove his factory elsewhere. His business is a valuable medium for advertising the town, not only on this continent, but in Great Britain.

Ald. Rush moved that if the by-law carries the Town pay the cost; but should it not carry, than Ald. Turner to pay the cost.

As the by-law had already had its second reading the above was out of order.

STREET IMPROVEMENT.

Ald. Best introduced a by-law to borrow $20,000 to build a new bridge on Brock street and for permanent improvements. $10,000 of this money to be spent in constructing substantial and permanent road beds, and improved storm drainage, to remedy the excessively muddy condition of our streets in wet weather.—The by-law passed its several readings.

On motion of Ald. Best ,the publication of this by-law in the Morning Times authorized.

RESPECTING BICYCLES.

Ald. Turner submitted a by-law regulating and governing persons riding bicycles in town. The by-law limits the speed at which wheels shall be ridden to 8 miles an hour, and enforces the carrying of a bell. A fine not exceeding $50 and costs will be imposed for any breach of the by-law, which comes in force January 1st, 1903. The by-law passed its several readings.

TO CORRECT AN ERROR.

A by-law to correct an error in the Water Works Debentures passed its several readings.

SNOW PLOUGHING.

The following tenders for snow ploughing were received;

Southern District—Wm. Breckenridge, $70.

Western District—J. H. Cameron, $120; Geo. McClennan, $110.

Northern District—Zimri Blodgett, $140.

The Board of Works recommended that the contract be awarded to the lowest tenderer in each case. This was adopted, and a by-law passed authorizing the execution of the contracts.

SOCIALISM.

Ald. McGregor invited the Council to attend a Socialistic lecture in the Maccabees Hall, on December 15th, by Jas. Simpson, of Toronto.

The Council then adjourned to the 15th inst.

Several reports are unavoidably left over till next issue.

Fantastic stories have been written of magic mirrors in which the future was revealed. If such a thing were possible many a bright-faced bride would shrink from the revelation of herself, stripped of all her loveliness. If there is one thing which would make a woman shrink from marriage it is to see the rapid physical deterioration which comes to so many wives. The cause is generally due to womanly diseases.

Lost health and lost comeliness are restored by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It cures irregularity and dries weakening drains. It heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness.

"It is with the greatest pleasure that I tell you what Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery' have done for me," writes Mrs. Emma L. Bankes, of 1952 North 7th Street, Harrisburg, Pa. "They have done me a world of good. I had female weakness for six years; sometimes would feel so badly I did not know what to do, but I found relief at last, thanks to Dr. Pierce for his kind advice. I have this medicine still in my house and will always keep it."

If you are led to the purchase of "Favorite Prescription" because of its remarkable cures of other women, do not accept a substitute which has none of these cures to its credit.

Free. Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser, paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Or for cloth-bound volume send 50 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

The Liquor Act Denounced

By Hamilton Business Men

PETERBOROUGH WILL DO LIKEWISE

We, the undersigned, actively engaged in business in the province of Ontario, are of the opinion that "The Liquor Act," which is to be submitted to the people on December 4 next, is an unwise and impracticable measure, since it permits importation in any quantity from other provinces and countries, and would, therefore, merely transfer the drinking of intoxicants from licensed and well regulated places to unlicensed and disreputable resorts, and to the homes of the people.

We believe that this measure would be detrimental to the best interests, both moral and commercial, of this province, and we therefore urge all voters to mark their ballots "NO."

GREAT BRITAIN WANTS HELP FROM CANADA

Discontented Because This Country will not Hand Over a Substantial Contribution to the Imperial Navy

Will Our Cattle be Barred Out ?—Indications are not Lacking That the board of Agriculture Would Like to Prevent Them being Landed in England

London, Dec. 4.—Punch scores Canada in the following fashion ; "A feature of recent times is the way in which the colonies have been drawn closer to the Mother Country. One or two of them now promise to be especially close in the matter of contribution to the national navy."

WANT CANADA'S HELP.

The same point was insisted on in speeches at the Canada Club dinner last night, which was attended by sixty Anglo-Canadians, including British M.P.'s. The idea of the speakers was that Canada was neglecting its duty to the Empire by the attitude of the Canadian Ministers at the Colonial Conference. The creation of a pretty Canadian local navy was declared to be of little real service in imperial defence, for the Empire's navy must fight the Empire's enemies wherever found. The speeches also insisted that the policy of preferential tariffs was bound to come if the Empire was to be kept together. Sir Alfred Jones went so far as to declare that what was once considered free trade was now merely foolish trade.

The warmest approval was expressed for the suggested memorial of 6,000 colonials—Canadians, Australians and South Africans—who lost their lives in South Africa. It was hoped the memorial would be permitted in Westminster Abbey, otherwise arrangements will be made at St. Paul's, where Sir John Macdonald's memory is commemorated.

CATTLE TRADE.

British supplies will be greatly affected if the Canadian export cattle trade is stopped, for during the first ten months of this year no fewer than 75,877 Canadian cattle were imported. The British Government is most disinclined to give Canada any advice upon the question whether to permit the importation of cattle yb the Canadian Pacific's short line to St. John through Maine. British official opinion is that Canada must take her own risk, and, being protectionist friends of the British farmer, the British Board of Agriculture will probably not be sorry to see Canadian ports scheduled like Boston, and Canada made an exporter of dead meat only.

14 PERISHED IN 'FIRE TRAP

Visitors to the Fat Stock Show in Chicago Over come by Smoke in Burning Hotel

Chicago, Dec. 4.—Fourteen persons met death in a fire in the Lincoln hotel, 176 Madison street, at 6 o'clock this morning. Nineteen of the bodies have been recovered. Little damage was done to the hotel, but the smoke was so dense that the persons who met their death were overcome, and died before assistance could reach them. Many jumped from the fourth-storey windows, others tried to save themselves by climbing down the fire escapes in the front of the building, only to lose their grasp on the cold iron bars and fell to the street. The persons sleeping in the rear of the building on the top floor had no chance for their lives. A narrow stairway leading to all floors of the structure was afire, and the escape of the lodgers in the rear of the building was cut off.

IN A FIRE TRAP.

The firemen and policemen in speaking of what they witnessed at the catastrophe condemned the building as a "fire trap."

All but fourteen of the guests at the hotel were out-of-town persons. Most of them came to Chicago to attend the International Live Stock Show. By 10 o'clock last night every room in the hotel or place in which a cot could be erected was in use. At that time a large number of stockmen, with their families, were turned away. The hotel was filled.

Shortly after the fire broke out the firemen rushed up the stairway into the place, and began the work of rescue. Men, women and children were carried down ladders, fire escapes, and smoke-filled halls.

The building is constructed of brick, with one stairway leading to the upper floors, and a fire escape in the front of the building.

M. C. Weber, the night clerk, was taken to the Central station, where he is being detained.

A short time after the fire was discovered consternation reigned on the upper floors. A Mrs. Sheppard's son was one of the first to be awakened by the presence of smoke. He awakened his mother and both began screaming. Many persons were thus warned of the danger, and made their escape. The woman was so panic-stricken, however, that she was not among the first to attempt to escape, and she was making her way into the most dangerous part of the building when a fireman seized her and her son, and conducted them to the floor below, where he dropped them out of a window. J. H. Herbert of Salesville, Ohio, jumped from the fourth floor, where he had been sleeping. He struck on the roof of 178 Madison street. His right leg was broken and he suffered internal injuries. He was taken to the County Hospital. W. J. Thomas, a mail clerk of Cedar Rapids, jumped through a window on the fourth floor.

The dead are, so far as identified; H. K. Woods, Lebanon, Ind.; P. V. Slocum, Oconda, Ill.; Samuel Yocum, T. C. Yocum, Davenport; Edward Turner, Milwaukee; — Van Fleet, Richardson, Ind.; R. N. Fardick, Janesville, Wis.; George Morris, Richmond, Wis.

From what could be learned from persons who escaped from the building, it appeared the fire was started probably by the dropping of a lighted cigar on the carpet in the hallway of the second floor.

Allen Olderff of Milwaukee made a perilous descent from the fourth floor by scaling the wall by means of the iron shutters. Olderff stated that he had seen at least a dozen persons on the top floor, vainly endeavoring to make their way from the building by means of the front stairs.

Many of the bodies were found in the beds in positions of slumber. Others were found in the hallways, lying face downward, in positions that mutely portrayed how they had vainly endeavored to save their lives. Some were half-clad and others wore nothing but nightclothes. It was by means of articles and letters in the pockets of what little clothing some of the dead persons wore that many identifications were made.

YOUNG'S POINT.

On Friday evening of last week the young ladies and gentlemen of the village with a few invited guests, assembled at Heard's hall for a social evening. Music, games and dancing were indulged in, and after a few hours spent in merry enjoyment, the party dispersed, all much pleased with the evening's entertainment.

—Mrs. J. E. Kearney, of the Lakeview House, is at present visiting with friends in Buffalo.

—Messrs. R. Young and P. Young, Sr., spent Sunday with friends in Douro.

—Mr. F. J. Young has returned home after spending a few days with some friends in Peterborough.

—Master Oswald Brooks, while sleigh riding in company with some other small boys, fell on the ice and cut his ear badly, but we are glad to say that it did not prove serious.

—Some of the steamers are still busy towing wood through here.

—Mr. Edward Young has engaged a number of men to cut wood at Deer Bay this winter.

A TERRIBLE TRAGEDY NEAR RUSSEL, MAN.

House Burned Down and Five Inmates Perish in Flames

MAY BE A TERRIBLE CRIME

Mother and Four Young Children the Victims—Theories of the Holocaust

Russel, Man., Dec. 4—Word was brought to town yesterday of a terrible accident, or what may prove to be a crime of fiendish conception, whereby five Galicians, comprising a mother and four children, lost their lives. The names of the victims are Mrs. Hartook aged 34; Mary Hartook, aged 9; MaKay Hartook, aged 7; John Hartook, aged 4, Baby Hartook, aged five months.

The family lived in a log house with a stable near, ten miles east of Russel. The father, Hartook, had been working at Silver Creek. He went home as usual on Saturday night, and as he neared the place found that his house had been partially burned down. It was dark, and never thinking but that his family would be somewhere in the neighborhood, he tramped over to a neighbor's place, only to learn that none of them knew that his house been burned, much less the whereabouts of his family. Returning to his home with lanterns, the terrible sight met his eyes of his wife, with a baby clasped in her arms, lying on the floor of the unconsumed portion of the house, and the three older children lying under a mass of charred sticks, which had fallen on them. These children were all more or less burned, but the mother and baby were not marked in any way. A dog, too, was found dead on the floor. All had been dead some time, as the bodies were frozen hard. Considerable mystery surrounds the affair. It seems the fire was near to the doorway, and escape was probably cut off at that point, but the window was intact and could have been used as an avenue of escape. So unexplainable was the tragedy, that Dr. Wright, the coroner came out from Winnipeg and heard the story. He decided to communicate with the Attorney-General's department with a view to having the matter investigated. It is understood that Dr. Rogers has sent the the stomach of the dogs and one of the children to Winnipeg for analysis. Poisoning, followed by an attempt to cover all traces of the crime by burning the home and the bodies is suggested.

Another theory is that the mother was away from the house and returned to find it burning, and perished in the attempt to save the children This is the more credible, as when found she was fully dressed, and had on an outdoor coat. Other circumstances do not fit in so well with this. However, a theory that will include all the circumstances is very hard to form.

The father is crazed with grief. He is highly regarded as an industrious, careful and sober man, making every effort to succeed in the land of his adoption.

COAL OUTLOOL SERIOUS

Anthracite Now Brings $9 a Ton at Suspension Bridge

Mr. J. H. McClellan returned last night from Buffalo, and in conversation with the Times, said that it was impossible to purchase coal at anything like normal prices. He secured a few cars at $9 per ton at Suspension Bridge. The coal will cost $10.50 on the track in Peterborough, and would be supplied to customers at $11 per ton.

Mr. McClelland regards the coal situation as more serious for Canada than at any time since the trouble began. He says that Toronto, Hamilton, London, and many other cities are in great distress, and with little hope of relief. The scarcity of cars is one of the greatest difficulties in the way. A year ago there was 25,000,000 tons of coal stored in the country dependant on the Pennsylvania mines for their supply. This includes Canada. Not only has this disappeared, but the mines are being worked partially—probably not more than 40 or 50 per cent, of their normal output.

Mr. McClellan thinks that it will be well on in January or February before regular supply can be had.

A PRETTY WEDDING

Nuptials of Mr. D. E. McKenty of Glasgow, Montana, and Miss Susan Smith

On Tuesday morning, St. Joseph's church, Douro, was the scene of a very interesting event, when Mr. D. E. McKenty, of Glasgow, Montana, formerly of Madoc, Ont., and Miss Susan, daughter of the late John Smith, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony, by Rev. Father Kielty.

The bride who wore an elegant travelling suit of blue gray Venetian cloth trimmed with white silk chiffon and applique and white picture hat to match, was attended by her sister, Miss Lucy Smith, while Mr. A. L. McKenty, dentist, Toronto brother of the groom, was best man.

A sumptuous dinner was partaken of by the bridal party, at the conclusion of the ceremony at the residence of the bride's mother.

The bride was the recipient of many choice and useful presents, which testifies to the high regard in which she is held by her many friends. The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome cheque, and to the bridesmaid a gold bracelet.

Mr. and Mrs. McKenty will reside at Glasgow, Montana. Their many friends in this community wish them a long and happy married life.

T. M. HUNTER CHOSEN

North Monaghan Selects Mr. Hunter for County Council

A public meeting was held in the town hall, North Monaghan, on Wednesday evening, called by the Reeve. There was a large attendance of electors. Mr. T. E. Bradburn, Reeve, occupied the chair, and stated the object of the meeting, which was to select a candidate for the County Council

It was decided to make a selection by ballot, which was done with the following result:

T. M. Hunter, 26 votes.
T. E. Bradburn, 13 votes.
J. McIntosh, 8 votes.
H. Foster, 1 vote.
P. Costello, 1 vote.

Mr. Hunter was at once declared to be the candidate, and the choice was made unanimous by the meeting.

Mr. Hunter, in a well worded speech, thanked the meeting for the honor conferred upon him, and promised, should he be elected, as he hoped to be, that he would serve his constituents to the best of his ability.

After some further remarks by several ratepayers present, the chairman closed the meeting with cheers for the King.

It is understood that Mr. Costello, who is a member of the County Council, has pledged himself to retire at the end of this year in favor of Mr. Hunter. Should this prove correct, and no other candidate or candidates appear, the election will probably go by acclamation to the present efficient and capable representatives of No. 3 District, Mr. Geo. W. Fitzgerald, and to Mr. Hunter. We believe they would be entirely satisfactory to a large majority of the electors.

The Cause of Dyspeptic Pains

Improperly digested food usually forms gases that cause a painful distention of the stomach and pressure against the heart. This results in much pain and distress, but Nerviline will relieve the distention, dispel the gas, and cure the dyspeptic pains very quickly. Polson's Nerviline is really an excellent remedy for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Cramps, Summer Complaint, and all Stomach and Bowel Troubles. No household is complete without Nerviline. Try a 25 cent bottle.

MOUNT PLEASANT.

—Farmers are engaged in hauling their grain to market, and on their return will have well filled wallets.

—There was very good sleighing for about two days last week, and very little snow will make it good, as the roads are in a good condition.

—The friends of Mr. John Sutcliffe will be glad to learn that his eyesight has improved greatly during the last two or three weeks.

—Report says that the Dixon clan at the time of the flood had no boat of their own, yet we find some of that name as pushers in business.

—The congregation in the Presbyterian church was pleased with the sermon delivered by Rev. W. Kanawin on the Apostle Paul, as also were those of the Methodist church by the very eloquent discourse on the text, "David Served His Generation According to the Will of God, and Fell Asleep."

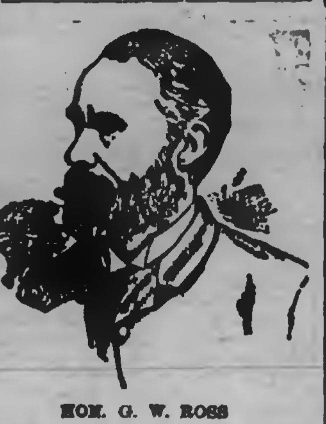
THE BARS WILL PROBABLY REMAIN THE VOTE BELOW REQUIRED NUMBER



HON. G. W. ROSS
the author of the "Liquor Act of 1902."

Peterborough Goes in Strong for the New Liquor Act

And Registers a Majority of 524 for the Temperance Policy

The Result in the Province will Prove a Great Setback to Prohibition

There was little excitement or Commotion yesterday over the polling of the vote on the Liquor Act. One would scarcely know, on passing through the streets, that there was a vote being taken. Few rigs were out, and those that were on duty appeared to be working half-heartedly. The bars were all closed, and prohibition existed at least for one day. In Toronto there was considerable excitement, both parties working very hard. The attitude of the leading business men of the city, as expressed in the protest which appeared in the Toronto papers of Wednesday, must have had a far-reaching effect, and turned the tide against the proposed change in the liquor laws.

It is evident that the failure of the temperance party to poll the required number of votes, viz., 212,723—that and the apathy shown by the people, that prohibition has received a decided set back.

Ontario has voted twice on the abstract principle of prohibition. On Jan. 1, 1894, at the municipal elections, the Ontario Government took the plebiscite of the voters. The question was, "Are you in favor of the prohibition of the liquor traffic?" and 192,489 answered "Yes," and 110,720 "No." The percentage of votes polled to the number of votes on the list was 55.21.

Again in 1898, Sept. 29, the voters were asked to say if they preferred the prohibition of the traffic to the existing state of affairs. The Dominion Government asked for the expression of opinion and in Ontario the affirmative answers numbered 154,498 and the negative answers 115,284. The total vote in the whole Dominion was: Yeas, 278,380; nays, 264,693; majority for prohibition, 13,687.

On the present occasion it looks as though the showing in favor of prohibition was not as strong as on the former occasions. Late returns show that about 152,000 votes were polled in favor of the prohibitory measure, and 147,004 votes went the other way, leaving the temperance people short about 60,000 votes

Some of the other provinces have also had the question voted on independent of the Dominion plebiscite. Manitoba grappled with the question twice. On July 23, 1892, a plebiscite was taken with the result: Yeas, 18,637; nays, 7,115: proportion of votes polled to number of the list, 65.13. Then on April 2 of this year the Roblin Government submitted a referendum after passing a prohibition bill in the house, the same bill that was pronounced valid by the Privy Council, and adopted by the Ontario Government as the Ross Liquor Bill. There was a good deal of dissatisfaction with the referendum, and when the votes were counted the result stood: Yeas, 11,187; nays, 17,404. Consequently the Manitoba Liquor Act does not come into force. Prince Edward Island submitted a plebiscite on Dec. 12, 1893, 10,585 votes being for prohibition, and 3,881 against. The percentage of votes polled to number on the list was 57.82. Nova Scotia voted on March 15, 1895, with the following result: For, 43,756; against, 12,355; percentage of votes polled to number on list 50.40.

MINERAL WEALTH OF WEST COAST

Montrealer Tells Glowing Story of African Gold Discoveries

MR. BALE ARRIVES IN SYDNEY

Chief Difficulty At Present Moment is That of Transportation — Klondike Miners There

Sydney, N.S., December 4—On the steamer Ulunda, which arrived in port yesterday from Liverpool, was T. S. Bale, of Montreal, who is on his way home from the west coast of Africa, where he has been prospecting in the gold mines, which have been opened up since the seige of Kumasi some three years ago. Mr. Bale states that the prospects of West Africa are beyond conception. Along the Gold coast, which is over six hundred miles in length, gold is everywhere found. Quartz averages 4 1-2 ounces to the ton, and the ore is principally decayed, and therefore easily mined. The gold brings $17.75 per ounce, which is fifty cents more than Australian gold commands, and twenty-five cents more than the best gold in the Klondike. Mining heretofore has been all placer, but an English syndicate has secured concessions is now sending a stamp mill and other machinery, and the first shipment will be made in March.

Coal and iron have just been discovered for over 120 miles from the coast. The transportation problem is the chief difficulty which confronts gold miners, as everything has to be transported by negroes. A railroad is, however, now being built running in a half circle through the gold field from Secnida to Ashanti. Many famous gold miners of Australia and Klondike, Mr. Bale says, are now flocking to the Gold coast. He also states that there is a great demand at good wages for coal miners to work in the gold fields.

IRELAND'S VICEROY OUTLINES HIS POLICY

Further Passages of Now Famous Speech of New Lord Lieutenant

TO RESPECT NATIONAL WILL

British Empire Cannot be run as a Huge Regiment—Promise to Irish People

Dublin, December 4—The annual dinner of the Incorporated Law Society of Ireland was held in Dublin, Mr. Stanuell, president of the society in the chair. The guests included the Lord Lieutenant, the Lord Chancellor and Sir Antony MacDonnell. The Lord Lieutenant replying to the toast of his health, said that opinions were sometimes expressed with regard to public feeling in Ireland, which would lead one to take a very gloomy view of the situation. He believed that this view was absolutely fallacious. The violent language used in the heat of political controversy very often constituted the greatest obstruction to the progress and development of Ireland, but he thought it very unwise to jump to the conclusion that every apparently disloyal expression necessarily represented the true sentiments either of those who used it or of those to whom it was addressed. It was, however, obvious that freedom of speech must have some limit, and there were occasions in Dublin when it was not the result of Celtic exuberance, but was deliberately used for ends which could not be tolerated. On such occasions the hand of the law must be firm and unflinching, or individual liberty would become a mockery and a snare. He held that a Lord Lieutenant in Ireland should keep as clear as possible from political controversy, but he had allowed himself to say these few words because he wished to make clear at the outset of his political life in Ireland the spirit in which he hoped to approach the responsibilities of his office. At the head of these responsibilities was the duty of maintaining law and order and the upholding at all times of the Government of the King. He was however, most anxious that his relationship with the Irish people should be one of mutual confidence and trust, and he hoped always to have a true and constant regard for their national deeds and traditions. He did not hold the view that a great Empire should be run as a huge regiment, in which each nation should lose its individuality and be brought under a common system of discipline and drill. Individual characteristics formed an essential portion of a nation's life, and sympathetic treatment would help them to enable her to provide her own constitution and to play her own special part in the life of the Empire. It was upon that principle that he should try, as far as he could, to proceed during his term of office, believing firmly that any national development to be lasting and healthy must be spontaneous and must be promoted in the full and constant regard to the special conditions of the country which it affected.

Coasting on the Streets

It has been said that "the ways of men are narrow," but verily they will be narrower if the young ideas do not cease sleigh-riding down Hunter street sidewalk between Rubidge and Bethune streets. All tender thoughts of youth are banished when one is compelled to take to the ditch and, with bated breath, witness the triumphant descent of a sleigh-load of youngsters, who are so full of the joy of life that they are quite careless of the nerves of their elders and also of their own personal safety.

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK

The outlook for business for the fall and winter is generally favorable. Now that the crops in Manitoba and the Northwest Territories have been safely harvested and are known—both in quality and quantity—to be superior to those in any previous year, a great factor for activity in Canadian trade for some months to come is assured. An immense sum of money will come into the possession of the farmers and stockraisers of Canada for their grain and cattle, and other agricultural products. There will be a large demand for all kinds of manufactures; mortgages on land will be paid off; the deposits in the banks will increase, and the general prosperity of the community will stimulate business in every direction. The influx of population into the country will also have an important and favorable effect on the situation, a large proportion of the immigrants had considerable means and their settlement means an immediate addition to the financial resources of the districts in which they locate. In the course of another year they will largely increase the producing power of the country, and with ordinary weather and other conditions during next summer and autumn, this considerable addition to the population will have a marked effect on the magnitude of the agricultural products of an immense area of rich prairie country. The millowners of Western Ontario have for several months realized the importance of the Northwest as a market for lumber, shingles and other articles.

All reports show that general business in Ontario is in a satisfactory condition. The number of persons employed in the various mills, shops and factories in the Province is larger than at any previous time, and the amount of money disbursed in wages is correspondingly large. The Customs returns; weekly reports of the Clearing House, and other statistics show continuous increases—a clear indication that the general trade and commerce are steadily growing. The agricultural communities in Ontario are in a much more prosperous condition than they were a few years ago. They have had good crops, and prices have been generally satisfactory.

SOUTH MONOGHAN.

After a long life of 81 years, Mr. William Emberson departed this life at his home on lot 11 in the 2nd concession of South Monoghan on Friday morning last.

Deceased was an old resident of Monaghan, having lived in the township since 1844, and was respected by all who knew him, as his life was as full of good deeds as it was full of years. He leaves to mourn his loss six sons and one daughter. They are Alexander, James, William, John and Maggie, of Monoghan, Thomas, of York, and Robert, who is now a missionary in Japan, but they find comfort in the blessed assurance of meeting him on the bright resurrection morn.

The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon last to the Methodist cemetery and was largely attended.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE DEFENDED

To the Editor of The Times:

Sir—In a recent issue of your paper a correspondent signing himself "M. M" criticizes Mrs. Eddy's recent advice to Christian Scientists to refrain from treating contagious diseases for the present. As Mrs. Eddy has just issued an explanation of her position on the subject, I can do no better than to quote her own words.

"When, under the protection of State or United States laws, good citizens are arrested for manslaughter because one out of three of their patients, having the same disease and in the same family, dies while the others recover, we naturally turn to Divine justice for support and wait on God. Christian Scientists should be influenced by their own judgement in the taking of a case of malignant disease, they should consider well as to their ability to cope with the case—and not overlook the fact that there are those lying in wait to catch them in their sayings; neither should they forget that, in their practice, whether successful or not, they are not specially protected by law. The above quotation stand for this: inherent justice, constitutional individual rights, self-preservation, and the Gospel injunction, "Cast not your pearls before swine, lest they trample them under foot and turn again and rend you."

And it stands side by side with Christ's command, "Whosoever shall smite thee on thy right cheek, turn to him the other also." I abide by this rule, and triumph by it. The sinner may sneer at this beatitude, for "the fool hath said in his heart, No God." It is known that the good young student, Mr. Lathrop, after he was prosecuted for practising Christian Science, finished healing the cases of diphtheria that he had on hand. Statistics show that this Science cures a larger per cent. of malignant diseases than does materia medica.

"I call disease by its name, and have cured it thus; so there is nothing new on this score. My book Science and Health names disease, and thousands are healed by reading its name and learning that so-called disease is a sensation of mind, not matter. Evil minds signally blunder in Divine Metaphysics; hence I am always saying the unexpected to them. The evil mind calls it "skulking," when to me it is wisdom to "overcome evil with good." I fail to know how one can be a Christian, and yet depart from Christ's teachings."

Thanking you for your courtesy, I remain, Yours respectfully,

Toronto, Nov. 28.

MR. ARMOUR'S GRATITUDE

He Will Endow an Institut Because of His Daughter's Cure

Chicago, December 3—While J. Ogden Armour was entertaining Professor Adolf Lorenz and Dr. Frederick Mueller, both of the University of Vienna, at his home yesterday, the first active step was taken toward the "Lolita Armour Institute of Bloodless Surgery." Mr. Armor will endow the institution with $3,000,000. This will insure an income of $100,000 a year.

It was announced that the institution shall be absolutely free to whomsoever may need treatment. There is not to be a knife in the place."

"I intend to establish a hospital or institute for your school of surgery" said Mr. Armour, addressing Dr. Mueller. "You must be at the head of it. It makes no difference what the cost may be. My daughter has practically been given back to me and I and my wife are grateful." Professor Lorenz nodded approval of his plans.

The CANADIAN STEEL AND COAL COMPANY was organized to min and manufacture iron and coal, coke and steel in Canada at Atlantic tidewater.

The raw materials for these manufactures are:—

1.—COAL. 2.—IRON. 3.—LIMESTONE.

All these materials we have at hand.

1.—COAL.

The Company controls 3,000 acres of excellent coal areas in the Province of Nova Scotia, and efforts are being made to increase this to 10,000 acres by the purchase of some very valuable additional coal fields.

The coal has been thoroughly tested and found to be suitable in every way for the manufacture of iron and steel, and the supply is practically inexhaustible. The following analysis was made by the Canadian Geological Survey:—

ANALYSIS.

Moisture	4.05
Vol. Comb. Matter	30.72
Fixed Carbon	60.
Ash	5.23

COAL VEINS.

The several layers or seams of coal available aggregate 27 to 30 feet in thickness.

TITLES.

These areas are held under Crown Lease for a period of 80 years. Royalty 10 cents per ton of coal sold.

2.—IRON.

The Company has acquired by purchase immense iron deposits on the North Shore of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, about 350 miles from Sydney. The deposits are estimated to contain 20,000,000 tons above sea level, with probably as much more below that line. The iron can be handled for $1.00 per ton or less. Quantities of this ore have been shipped to Great Britain and the United States, where it has given great satisfaction, and we can sell large quantities f. o. b. at the properties, netting us a profit of $2.00 per ton. This ore makes the finest steel.

3.—FLUX.

We are now negotiating for valuable deposits of dolomite and limestone of the most satisfactory quality, situated on the tide-water, within 100 miles of the works

MARKETS.

For six months in each year the Canadian markets can be reached by water at low freight rates, and at all times by rail. As Cape Breton is distant from Liverpool only about 2,300 miles; is nearer to Pernambuco, Brazil, than any point in the United States, and also nearer to Cape Town, South Africa, it has the advantage, in point of distance, for export business over any American steel-producing points, which, with scarcely any exceptions, are situated some distance from tide water. Under any conditions of the world's market, it is believed that the output of these works can be disposed of at satisfactory prices.

OUTPUT

When in full operation, the output is expected to be about as follows:—

1. IRON.—200,000 tons iron ore shipped direct from property, showing net profit of $2.00 per ton, total	$400,000 00
200,000 tons fine iron ore shipped in briquettes, showing net profit of $4.00 per ton, total	800,000 00
100,000 tons steel blooms, showing net profit of $3.00 per ton, total	300,000 00
2. COAL.—600,000 tons coal, showing net profit, at least, of $1.00 per ton, total	600,000 00
3. AIDS.—Government bounties (averaged) added to above per year for 6 years	100 000 00
Total yearly revenue	$2,200,000 00

GOVERNMENT AIDS.

To encourage the manufacture in the Dominion of iron and steel the Parliament of Canada has granted bounties as follows:—

	ON PIG IRON.	ON STEEL.
Apl. 21st, 1902, to July 1st, 1903	$2.70	$2.70
July 1st, 1903, " " 1904	2.25	2.25
July 1st, 1904, " " 1905	1.65	1.65
July 1st, 1905, " " 1906	1.05	1.05
July 1st, 1906, " " 1907	.60	.60

If the production of steel from the Company's works be as estimated, 300,000 tons per annum, the bounties to be received from the Canadian Government will be as follows:—

1904	$225,000
1905	215,000
1906	145,000
1907	85,000

or an average of $100,000.00 per annum for 6⅔ years........ $670,000.00

NET REVENUE

Total net annual profits		$2,200,000.00
LESS FIXED CHARGES:—
7 per cent. interest on preferred stock	$70,000.00
Sinking Fund	60,000.00
Incidentals	25,000.00
		155,000.00
Net yearly profits		$2,045,000 00

Equivalent to yearly dividends of over 30 per cent., or 15 per cent. half yearly on total capitalization.

If the capitalization was increased to .... $20,000,000.00 this estimate would still show a dividend-earning capacity of 10 per cent. per annum.

The capitalization of the Dominion Coal Co. is .... $20,000,000.00 earning fully 12 per cent., and is paying 8 per cent. guaranteed dividends on this enormous sum.

The capitalization of the Dominion Iron and Steel Co. is...... $28,000,000.00 on which it is believed 6 per cent. dividends will be earned.

The capitalization of the Canadian Steel & Coal Company is only $6,000,000.00 controlling, it is believed, equally valuable properties, and it is reasonable to expect much larger dividends.

Within the last few months Dominion Coal shares common rose in market value from $40 to $144 per share, and Dominion Iron & Steel Company's shares common rose over $30 per share in market value.

With such low capitalization the Canadian Steel and Coal Co's shares should show tremendous profits, and it is confidently believed they will.

BUY! WHY? BECAUSE

THE SOUR LAKE OIL CO.

Has placed four-fifths of its stock in the treasury for development work; and because

Oil is reached in less than half the depth required on Spindletop Heights in Beaumont;

The people in Canada are well acquainted with the management, which is in the hands of Hon. JOHN L. BITTINGER, United States Consul General to Canada; F. S. Ashley, Vice-President of the Massachusetts Securities Co., and W. L. Marston, Vice-President of the American Union Oil and Refining Co.

These gentlemen have made a dividend payer out of one company and have raised the value of its stock from 5c per share to par value, or 25c, within a very short time;

The company is operating in the Sour Lake field, where fewer wells will tap the oil than at Spindletop; this insures a greater flow of oil, and it is of a better quality;

This is the first allotment of shares at the present price of FIVE CENTS PER SHARE; it is the lowest price at which you can buy, and the time left in which to buy at FIVE CENTS is short.

STOCK MARKETS

A Railway and an Industrial Proposition

New York, Dec. 4—Some people have a decided preference for railway shares. Others prefer the stock of a lively industrial for trading purposes, in both instances shares enjoying at all times a good market at every fluctuation. Two such stocks at present are Atch. Com., and American Copper. Both of these issues are logically due for materially better prices, and should in our opinion be purchased immediately. Atch. Railway is at present earning the largest amount net in its history. There is every reason to anticipate and believe that the dividend rate will shortly be advanced to 5 per cent. It is earning at present over 10 per cent. upon its common stock, and it should shortly sell above par. We feel confident that it will do so, and have been consistent bulls upon the property for the past three years. There is an absence of rumors relative to Atchison. It is one of the few roads about which reports or rumors of mergers, deals, etc., are lacking. It seems to be contented with what it has and is too big to be swallowed up by the average company. It is very possible, however, that the Pennsylvania system may ultimately become closely affiliated with it, even if it should not some day control it. It would make a grand through line from ocean to ocean. Deal or no deal, Atchison is an improving property and bound to sell much higher in the future. Copper stock is not lacking in evidence of steady accumulation, the best feature about it is that it apparently has not a single friend among the public. The one time favorite when above 100 is now an outcast while hovering around 60. The man who will purchase a little amount of the stock at each point decline will not make many purchases or have any cause to regret his action. Copper at 70 will be far more attractive to the public than copper in the 90's. This is always the case. Buy Atchison and copper.

FROM 1,000 SHARES OF STOCK

THAT IS WHAT CALUMET & HECLA PAYS

Would You Like an Income of this Kind?

We cannot guarantee an income of this kind from 1,000 shares of stock, but we can guarantee that every dollar you invest in the guaranteed stock of The Gold Hammer Mines and Tunnel Company at 20 cents per share is secured by a GOLD BOND DEPOSITED IN BANK AT THE TIME OF THE PURCHASE OF THE STOCK TO THE CREDIT OF THE BUYER, WHICH INSURES HIM AGAINST LOSS. We can also guarantee, to the best of our judgment, that the development of the ore bodies will make the shares advance at least 100 per cent in twelve months, and, owing to the bond being deposited to the credit of the purchaser, entirely eliminates the feature of chance from the investment. The property is located right in the heart of the Clear Creek District at Idaho Springs, and completely surrounded by big producers.

Details of this proposition will be carefully explained in a handsomely illustrated booklet, (the price of which is twenty five cents), and is not for general distribution, but we will mail it free to parties who are sufficiently interested to write for it. If you wish to make money you cannot afford to be without this book. If you do not care to make money we cannot afford to send it to you, as it costs us money. This book also gives the story of how Stratton and many others have made millions in mining. These valuable pointers will make you money if you will take advantage of the present opportunity. Write for particulars, and you will not regret it. This is not a gamble, but a bona fide speculation without chance of loss.

Money in Oil

Special Despatch to the Ontario & California Oil Co, Limited:

Chatham, Dec. 1, 1902.

The Gusher was turned on to-day, and in five hours filled up all the Standard Oil Company's available tankage—so far has given one thousand barrels, at the rate of fifty barrels per hour.

Talk about dividends, talk about advance in value—what investment will compare with this?—Figure it out—OIL two dollars per barrel—means earning one hundred dollars per hour—ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS invested in this Syndicate a few weeks ago—NOW ACTUALLY WORTH FORTY THOUSAND DOLLARS.

REASONS WHY	REASONS WHY
Stock in the Ontario and California Oil Co. may prove just as profitable within the next few weeks.	Prompt action on your part is required

1.—The Ontario and California Oil Co., Limited, is a home company, organized under the laws of Ontario, shares fully paid and non-assessable, built and equipped on the right principle—TO PAY PROFITS AND DIVIDENDS—when earned from the ground, and this object attained—NO STOCK FOR SALE BY THIS COMPANY.

2.—Owns the oil leases on one thousand acres, and are next door neighbors of the Big Gusher owners.

3.—Several drilling rigs NOW at different points on the Company's properties under the direction of the best oil men in Petrolea, men who are oil men in the full sense of the word (not speculators)—connected with oil refineries and the largest oil interests in Canada, and these oil men came to this Company, made their offers, put their money in, and are joining in the development of a large block of the Company's properties.

4.—Ten days to two weeks will complete a well. FIVE WELLS are being put down as fast as men and money can do it.

5.—One may be a gusher, or all may be gushers; in either case the advance will be REAL, and a few weeks will bring you greater profits than you ever dreamed of.

RISK! Yes—so there is in everything—otherwise you would not have the chance of buying One Thousand Shares for Two Hundred and Fifty Dollars, which in Thirty Days may be worth One Thousand to Ten Thousand Dollars. Masterly inactivity has missed many an opportunity to make a fortune—don't wait now and wish later on.

ACT AT ONCE—The block of stock which the Company is offering at Twenty-five Cents per share is daily getting [illegible]. Send for November report. Application Forms, etc., and get your order in on TIME. Apply J. L. FINCH, Secretary Ontario & California Oil Company, Limited Toronto, or

DISCOVERY OF COFFEE

Made By An Arabian Shepherd

Coffee was discovered in the sixth century by an Arabian shepherd, who having observed the goats of his flock skip about and show other signs of intoxication, after eating the coffee berry, concluded to try its effects on himself, and thus discovered its exhilarating property.

This discovery proved the poor shepherd's undoing, for he indiscriminately used large quantities, green, for its exhilarating effect and soon died, poisoned by its use.

In the sixteenth century, it was introduced into France, and was used so strong and excessively, particularly by the Parisians that it was found to injure alike the complexion and digestion. This discovery prevented its general introduction into other European countries for the next century.

Since that period, its growth has gradually spread through the civilized world, despite the fact that pain and destruction follow its path, dyspepsia having been hardly known before its introduction. It is a "nerve stimulant" and narcotic poison, and though in no sense a food, is used for its stimulating principle. Caffeine which excites the nerves unnaturally and wastes the reserve force of the body. Coffee drives the nerves for a time, stimulating them beyond their natural function, and using up all their reserve force. After the first effects are past, comes breaking down of the nerve centre and general nervous derangement. Following this in many but not all cases, is a long train of misery, among which the principal symptoms are dryness in mouth and throat, headache, biliousness, pains in stomach, or abdomen, pain in eyes and head, loss of appetite, dyspepsia, and so on through a long, long list, but the one cause of all the different symptoms is the same.

The nerves have been broken down; their reserve force is gone. Many of the symptoms of poisoning are —extreme nervousness, restlessness and anguish of mind and heart, excessive relaxation of body and brain, gloominess, inability to think correctly, sleeplessness at night, drowsiness in the morning etc.

A lady from Sebastopol, Cal., writes, "I was a sick and poisoned woman when I began to use Postum Food Coffee in place of coffee and after two years' steady use, I find that Postum soothes the nerves and builds them up, storing reserve strength and force for time of need, enabling one to sleep well, awake refreshed and bright for each day's task; it digests easily, builds and tones up the stomach and also builds up a good strong brain, ready for any mental strain or toil." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

A Quiet Wedding

At St. Luke's church Wednesday morning, Mr. Alfred Gill, jr., son of Mr. Alfred Gill, of Nassau, was united in marriage to Miss Rebecca Dixon, daughter of Mr. David Dixon, of Smith. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, Rector of St. Luke's. Miss Dixon, sister of the bride, performed the duties of bridesmaid, while Mr. Bert Byers supported the groom. The happy young couple have taken up their residence in Ashburnham.

A Well Kept House

The delegation who visited Berlin last week put up at the Walper House, and were delighted with the way they were treated. This first class hotel is under the management of Mr. J. T. Ellis, brother of Mr. James Ellis, formerly with the C.P.R. here. "Jack" as he is familiarly known by his many friends, left no stone unturned to make it pleasant for the Peterborough crowd. They all came away carrying with them pleasant recollections of their visit, and the famous Walper hostlery. It is proposed to make another trip to the pretty German city in a short time, to give those who did not go on the last, an opportunity of visiting Berlin. To all such we would say, go to the Walper House, and you will come away delighted.

Died Shovelling Snow

Francis Adams, Omemee, who has lived alone for a number of years, was shovelling snow off his verandah on Tuesday morning. He was observed lying in the snow by passersby, and was dead when carried into the house. Heart failure was the cause of death. Deceased was unmarried and had considerable property. He is survived by two brothers, William Adams, of Omemee County, councillor and John Adams, of Winnipeg, manager for Massey-Harris Company.

Mr. Jeffries Honored

On Tuesday evening last, Mr. J. J. Jeffries, of the Collegiate institute staff, was presented on the occasion of his 50th birthday, with an address, accompanied by a unique piece of silverware, in the shape of a shaving strop and holder by a number of his personal friends in town, who invaded his handsome home for the purpose. The address, which referred in eloquent terms to Mr. Jeffries' excellent qualities was read by Mr. A. W. Cressman, who punctuated the subject matter with comments of a humorous character, to which Mr. Jeffries replied in suitable terms. The party separated after spending a delightful evening, not, however, before wishing the popular host many happy returns of the auspicious occasion, coupling his name with that of Mrs. Jeffries, whose charming manner makes her an ideal hostess.

Why can't we come over to your house and play any more?

Because papa gets so mad when we make a little bit of noise.

What makes him that way?

Mamma says it's dyspepsia makes him act so crazy.

That's about the way it strikes the small boy. The dyspeptic has no idea of his own unreasonableness or harshness. Little things are magnified and seem to justify his quick anger.

There's health for the dyspeptic and happiness for the family by the use of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, and restores perfect health and strength, by enabling the perfect digestion and assimilation of food.

"I have taken one bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for indigestion and liver complaint," writes Mr. C. M. Wilson, of Yadkin College, Davidson Co., N. C. "Have had no bad spells since I commenced taking your medicine — in fact, have not felt like the same man. Before I took the 'Golden Medical Discovery' I could not eat anything without awful distress, but now I can eat anything I wish without having unpleasant feelings."

A Correction

Through a typographical blunder our heading of yesterday's report of the Council meeting was made to read "$300,000 for bridges and street improvements." It should have read as written and specified in the body of the report, "$20,000 for Bridges and Street Improvements."

NO RECOGNITION OF THE MINERS UNION

Government Coal Strike Arbitrators Seem to Make This Plain

THE COMMISSION ONCE MORE RESUMES WORK

Judge Gray Announces That the Proceedings Are Based Entirely on the Operators' Letter to the Public—That Barred Out Recognition—Judge Gray Says It Has the Force of a Contract

Scranton, Pa., Dec. 6—A declaration that is too plain to be misunderstood that it is not the intention of the anthracite strike commission to recognize the union and the introduction of the testimony of the first woman to be called in the inquiry were the features of the session of the commission held today.

After a few additional questions had been asked of John Mitchell, the counsel for the miners took up the task of examining miners and other witnesses summoned here from the Hazleton regions. A matter that excited considerable interest was the relation that the mining firm of Coxe Bros., incorporated, bears to the inquiry of the commission. This was brought in question as soon as witnesses from the Hazleton region were called. Coxe Bros. are not represented before the commission. They have, however, sent a letter to the commission saying that they will abide by the decision that the arbitrators reach.

Mr. Wolverton, representing other companies that have filed statements, objected to the introduction of testimony relative to conditions at the Coxe Bros.' mines, saying that he did not think that they were parties to the controversy. He wanted a decision from the commission covering that point.

There was considerable hesitancy upon the part of the arbitrators before this was answered. Judge Gray announced that the commission would hear the testimony and if it was decided that Coxe Bros. are not parties to the controversy then the evidence could be stricken out.

In opening the session Judge Gray announced that all who desired to become parties to the hearing and expect to be bound by its decision must enter their appearance on record by 10 o'clock tomorrow morning and not later.

Judge Gray then said that the recess was declared by the commission for the purpose of giving time to prepare statistics on such matters as could be ascertained with a certainty by proper accountants. He added:

"The commission also wishes to say that parties to the investigation and award may not withdraw from here without the consent of the other parties to the controversy. We shall be glad to have the entire field represented in this investigation, and the entire subject covered before any award can be made."

"We have already said that the power of the commission rests upon the letter of the operators to the public and accepted by the miners through Mr. Mitchell. Each party who has appeared under the terms of that letter, must remain until the matter is concluded, or until the other side says he may go. They have all entered into contract to arbitrate, and one side cannot abrogate that contract without the consent of the other side."

This remark was taken to represent the attitude of the commission toward the matter of the recognition of the union. The letter of the operators referred to barred from the consideration of the operators the matter of granting to the union the recognition that it craved.

Mr. Darrow, for the miners, said that up to date the counsel for the miners have only received figures from the Deleware and Hudson company. He said that he mentioned this so that the commission would excuse them if they put in their evidence out of the proper order.

John Mitchell was here recalled to the stand and questioned as to how much an increase of 10 per cent. in wages would increase the price that each company would have to pay for a ton of coal. Mr. Mitchell said it would mean an increase of about 20 cents a ton. Some figures show it to be 17 cents and some as low as ten cents. Mr. Darrow then had several miners sworn who will be called later to testify.

Mr. Mitchell was then questioned very closely by several attorneys as to his reasons for saying that the companies since the strike of 1900 had increased the price of coal to a figure much beyond the increased cost of production. Mr. Mitchell admitted that his figures might not be absolutely correct. One of his statements was to the effect that the companies do not object so much to increasing wages as they do to recognizing the union.

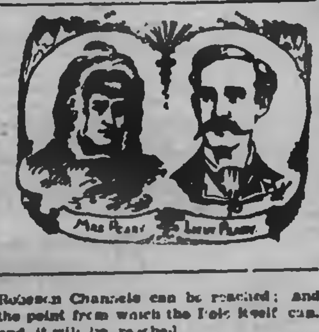
Photographs were introduced to identify pictures of miners' homes taken near Hazelton. Gen. Wilson asked Mr. Darrow if they were pictures of the worst homes. Mr. Darrow answered that they were, but his colleague, Mr. McCarthy, of Hazleton, answered that they were not.

POSSIBLE TO REACH POLE

Lieutenant Peary Says That it Can Be Done With Proper Care

It is the Duty of America to Discover the World's Prize

But Canada May get There First Just the Same



Washington, December 5—Lieutenant Robert E. Peary, the Artic explorer, delivered an address before the National Geographical Society on the subject of Arctic exploration.

After discussing the Arctic exploration of the past, Mr. Peary, speaking of the future said—

"In spite of the amount of work which has been done in the North polar regions during the past few years, the work is not completed. The Archipelago of Franz Josefland has, it is true, been delimited, and its northern terminus removed from the field of uncertainty. The lands north of the North American Archipelago and west of Ellesmere Land, have also been delimited as to their north coasts. The northern terminus of the Greenland Archipelago has been rounded, and America holds the record for the most northerly land in the world, the northern point of the largest of the North Polar land groups. But there are still several gaps to be filled before the North Polar work can be considered as finished.

And the head of the Smith Sound "gate way to the Pole" is the central point from which to close this work. It is the point from which can be reached and determined the stretch of still unknown coast on the eastern shore of Greenland, reaching from Cape Bismarck to Cape Parish; the point from which can be reached and determined the interior ramifications of the great Fjord; system of Northern Greenland;; the point from which can be reached and determined the gap in the coast line on the west coast of Grinnell Land, between Aldrich's farthest and Sverdrup's farthest, the point from which the practically unknown land along the eastern side of Kennedy and Robeson Channels can be reached; and the point from which the Pole itself can, and it will be reached.

It may seem to indicate over confidence to state today that the Pole can be reached and yet it is a fact, even though the struggle for it has been going on unsuccessfully for years and years. Each time we have come a little nearer and each time we have learned a little more.

I say to you here tonight that it is not an impossibility; that it can be done: that it is no more difficult than any of the great projects which we see being pushed to completion every day, and which require money, persistence, hard work and some ability to bring to full fulfilment.

The man who has the proper party, the proper equipment and the proper experience and can start fresh from the northern coast of Grinnel Land, with the earliest light of February, will hold within his grasp the last great geographical prize that earth has to offer, a prize which ranks with the prize which Columbus won, and will win fame for himself and for his countrymen fame that will last as long as human life exists upon the globe. Granting this, shall we let others win the prize from us?

It should and must be won by American dollars, American energy and American ability.

A LEVEL HEAD.

A merchant writes:—"Please record my vote for Ald. Morrison, whom I consider one of the level heads of the council. He at all times has the courage of his convictions, and looks at both sides of a question before venturing on an opinion."

THE COMING MAYOR.

A mechanic writes:—"I vote for Ald. G. M. Roger for Mayor. I believe him to be the most able man on our present council and in every way worthy to be Mayor Denne's successor. His whole public career stamps him a man who believes in safeguarding the interests of the citizens without fear or favor."

GOOD ROADS.

A ratepayer writes:—Ald. Best has struck the key-note of economy in the matter of our roads. His by-law to spend $30,000 on roads and bridges is indeed a move in the right direction. $10,000 spent in constructing sensible road beds and for storm drainage, will avoid a continual waste of money on our roads to no purpose, and at the same time give us decent roads which will also be of a permanent nature. I take much pleasure in making my coupon for Ald. Best for Mayor."

HOW TO VOTE.

Each coupon will have the value of five votes. Cut the coupons out and either mail it addressed to The Times or leave it at our office.

A "SEA-SAW" OF DEATH

Americans Driven One Way By Cossacks the Other Way By Turks

Vienna, Dec. 6—Die Information reports that 50,000 Armenians are being done to death on the Turko-Caucasian frontier. They fled from Turkey during the recent massacres, but a decree of the Czar expelled them from Russian territory, and the Cossacks drove them to the frontier.

Now Turkey refuses to permit them to cross the border. With Cossack knouts behind and Turkish sabres before them, the refugees are unable to move. They are exposed to severe cold, and are deprived of the barest necessities of life. Their sufferings are terrible, and they are said to be dying by hundreds from exposure and starvation.

BILLION BUSHELS OF WHEAT A YEAR

Manager of Great Northern Prophesies About Our North West

ROOM FOR MANY RAILWAYS

Vast Region Has Great Future But at Present They are Not Invading It

Montreal, Dec. 5—"Just at present we are staying at home and looking after our own business, which keeps us pretty busy. No, I do not know that it is Mr. Hill's intention just at present either to invade your Northwest wheat belt, or the Province of British Columbia."

The speaker was Mr. J. F. Stevens, the genreal manager of the Great Northern Railway, of which Mr. J. J. Hill is president, and who was passing through Montreal today paid, as he called it, a friendly visit upon Sir Thomas Shaughnessy and Mr. McNicholl, of the Canadian Pacific.

"What do you think of the Grand Trunk's new Pacific project?"

"I think it is a grand thing for the Grand Trunk and a grand thing for Canada; it's just what you want to open up your country."

"You consider than there is ample room for more railway expansion in our western country?"

"Room? Why that country up there is so vast you Eastern people have no conception of its possibilities. Do you know that within a few years they will be producing a billion bushels of wheat a year there? Room for another road! I should think so; room for half a dozen roads to open up, settle and develop that vast region."

"Is it more fertile than your western prairies?"

"Well, it is just as fertile, anyway."

"Did you have a good crop out West this year?"

"Splendid. We have carried over a hundred million bushels ourselves for local consumption and exports."

"What do you think of the American exodus into the Canadian Northwest?"

"It's a good thing for Canada, I guess, but there's plenty good people left behind, enough to keep the Great Northern doing all the figuring it can to keep them attended to."

"The statement has been made by Mr. J. N. Greenshields, solicitor for the Canadian Northern that you intend building from your present terminal at Midway into Vancouver."

"As I have stated, we are staying at home at the present; that's all I can say."

"How is your trans-Pacific trade doing. You are building some new steamers to compete with the Canadian Pacific, are you not?"

"At present we are doing our Pacific business by means of the Japanese company to Manilla, but we are building two vessels at London, Conn., for the service."

"They are pretty large, are they not?"

"The largest in the world."

"What tonnage?"

"They will have a registered tonnage of 28,000 tons and develop a speed of 12,000 horse power."

"Then they are principally for freight?"

"Yes."

"What kind of freight do you expect to carry between the Pacific coast and Manilla?"

"We don't know yet but we anticipate doing a regular trade with the Orient, with India, Japan, China, and the East Indian Islands."

General trade, Mr. Stevens said, was exceedingly brisk in the West, and he saw no signs of a let-up in the prosperity which the United States and Canada was enjoying. The Great Northern was continuing that policy which Mr Hill had enunciated so forcibly developing the resources of the country tributary to it.

PART OF CREW LEFT THE SHIP IN MID OCEAN

A Strange Occurrence on the British Ship Leceister Castle

Queenston, Dec. 6.—The British ship Leicester Castle, Captain Peattie, from San Francisco, July 26, arrived here today. Her commander reported that on September 3, three American seamen mutinied, and Captain Peattie and his second officer were shot, the latter fatally, after an encounter with the mutineers, who left the ship on a raft in mid-ocean.

FURTHER DETAILS.

Queenstown, Dec. 6.—Captain Peattie gives the names of the mutineers as W. A. Hobbs, Earnest Sears, and Turner. They were all shipp d in San Francisco.

The second officer, Mr. Nixon, was shot while attempting to rescue the captain. In the darkness the mutineers got a few planks and coops, formed a raft, and launched it from the ship, which was then about 300 miles north of the Pitcairn Islands. The captain searched for the raft next day, but it was not sighted, and it is surmised that it went to pieces.

NOT MUCH FEAR OF ANY SERIOUS DIFFICULTY

Possibility of Trouble Between the States and Britain and Germany

Washington, Dec. 5.—There is no ground for alarmist stories which are being printed over the possibility of collision between the United States on the one hand, and Germany and Great Britain on the other, over the coercive measures about to be applied by the two last mentioned powers for the purpose of collecting debts due German and British subjects. Naturally, the Administration is a little nervous lest some untoward act should precipitate a serious situation which might involve the United States. But if Germany and Great Britain keep within the lines indicated in the correspondence, which preceded the present demonstration, there will be no infraction of the Munroe Doctrine, and consequently, no trouble for the United States. The attitude of the Administration with reference to just such a state of affairs as has arisen with reference to the Venezuelan Government, was stated by Roosevelt in his first message to Congress, in which he said: 'The Monroe Doctrine is a declaration that there must be no territorial aggrandizement by any non-American power at the expense of any American power on American soil. It is in nowise intended as hostile to any nation in the Old World. This doctrine has nothing to do with the commercial relations of any American power, save that in truth it allows each of them to form such as it desires. We don't guarantee any State against punishment if it misconducts itself, provided that punishment does not take the form of acquisition of territory by any non-American power.'

HER PARROT GAVE THE ALARM

It Shouted, "Mamma Get Up; a Burglar is Trying to Get In."

Syracuse, Dec. 6—Mrs. C. E. Pratt, of the Kenyon awoke early this morning to the call of her parrott, who was shouting, "Mamma, get up; a burglar is trying to get in. At the same time she heard some one trying to get in a window. She leaped out of bed, grabbed a revolver, and, running to a side door fired three shots. The whole neighborhood was aroused and two policeman came running to her assistance. Polly continued to scream, "Shoot them." Mrs. Pratt stood cooly in the doorway, but no burglars appeared.

Mrs. Pratt is the wife of a South American tobacco grower and her husband is away. She says her parrott is almost human and has been all over the world with her. That the bird was not deceived is proved by a woman who lives upstairs in the same department. She saw a man running away when the shots were fired.

LEOPOLD IS GRATEFUL FOR PUBLIC SYMPATHY

Marks of Attachment Following His Escape from Anarchist

Wool Combers and Spinners' Case Against the German Tariffs as Revised—Italian bill Met with Disaster

London, Dec. 5.—The following message from King Leopold, in regard to Anarchist Rubino's attempt upon his life has appeared in the Belgian Official Gazette, and is quoted by a Brussels correspondent: "The King is profoundly touched by the marks of attachment to our institutions emanating from all parts of the country, and by the numerous tokens of sympathy from abroad on the occasion of the danger he incurred on November 15. The sentiments expressed have evoked in his Majesty a feeling of profound gratitude, and he offers most sincere thanks to all who so kindly gave utterance to them.' The correspondent says that M. Nagel's procureur Du Roi, who has returned to Brussels from London, dispels the notion of a concerted plot. He says that Rubino was employed by the Italian Consulate in London to spy upon the doings of Anarchists. He betrayed both Anarchists and his employers, and wished to regain the confidence of his colleagues by a single-handed plot.

DIVORCE BILL DEFEATED.

London, Dec. 5.—The Italian Government's Divorce and Affiliation Bill has met with disaster at an early stage of its career, says a Rome correspondent Five out of the nine preliminary committees have declared against the measure. The verdict is not necessarily final, but the bill will probably share the fate of previous Divorce Bills in spite of the that it occupied a prominent place in the Government program and the King's speech. The correspondent says that better fortune has attended the more important Government measure for the relief of taxation, which is attended to alleviate the condition of Southern agriculturists. The same committees have given majority in its favor of seven, eight voting against.

PROTESTS OF GERMAN SPINNERS.

London, Dec. 5.—The Association of German Wool Combers and Spinners, says a Berlin correspondent, has addressed a protest to the Reichstag against the adoption of the Tariff Bill en bloc. It points out that the adoption of the wool tariffs as altered by the Tariff committee will possibly involve in ruin the whole German woollen industry. The correspondent says that mass meetings were held by social democrats throughout Berlin last evening to protest against violence done to the sole Parliamentary representative of the city by a majority in the Reichstag. The halls were crowded to the doors with thousands of orderly working men.

WANT MONASTERY AUTHORIZED.

London, Dec. 5.—Ninety-seven thousand inhabitants of the Grande Chartreuse district, says a Paris correspondent, have signed a petition to Parliament asking for authorization for a monastery. The Grenoble municipality has joined in this demonstration.

Winnipeg, Man., Dec. 4.—Investigation into the fire at Russell which resulted in the death of five Galicians, mother and four children, has so far only shrouded the tragedy in deeper mystery. Everything indicates there was fould play, but the apparent lack of motive strengthens the theory that Mrs. Hartook had become tired of life, and, after taking the lives of her children, she set fire to her domicile, took a deadly poison herself, and lay down to die beside the lifeless bodies of the children, and to be burned to a crisp in the flames that were destroying with furious rapidity the cabin she had called her home.

The Attorney-General to-day received the following communication from Dr. Wright, coroner at Russell "I wired you a few days ago regarding an accident by which five people lost their lives, either by suffocation or by poisoning. I called a jury together and then adjourned until I had the stomach of one child and that of a dog examined. I am sending them by tomorrow's express. It is thought by the neighbors that the house may have been set on fire to cover up some dreadful act. I found the five bodies lying on the floor, partly burned and frozen. I think they had been there two days before being discovered. The family were Galicians, and the husband seemed distracted. He can account for where he was during his absence. When the tragedy occurred he was working for a neighbor. All who perished had their boots and clothing on when death overtook them. I should say the fire was started either in the daytime or early in the evening. I found the bedding in the cellar. The house had a thatched roof. I cannot understand the dog being dead under the bed, as no fire had been near it.'

DOUBLE HEADERS CONDEMNED

By the Coroners' Jury at Lindsay on Death of Mr. Jos. Barnes

The coroner's jury, in the case of Joseph Barnes, who was killed in Lindsay on the Grand Trunk Railway, on Nov. 29th, have rendered their verdict. It does not find any fault with the train crew and exonerates them from any blame, but the jury were of the opinion "that Barnes came to his death through the double-header system, and that the G.T.R. should discontinue the double-header system, as there appears to be more accidents happening and loss of human life from the said system than there is from any other cause known to the jurymen, consequently, we do largely condemn the running of double-headers as strong as we can.' To this intelligent verdict was affixed the signature of Thos. Connolly, foreman.

VETERANS' LAND GRANT

Already Many of the Veterans Have Received Their Papers

Most of the veterans of the Fenian raid in 1866 in Peterborough, as well as elsewhere, have received their certificates from the Ontario Government. The remainder of them will be forwarded as fast as the claims can be verified and the certificates filled in. Accompanying each certificate is a circular giving full information as to the mode of procedure for the selection of lots, as well as a statement showing the townships in which locations can be made, with the name of the Crown lands agent under whose direction each of these townships is. The six thousand certificates do not comprise all who are entitled to land as there are a considerable number of claims to be considered. A room has been fitted up at the Parliament buildings, Toronto, for veterans, and hung with maps, so that veterans, while visiting Toronto, may become acquainted with the country in which their land is located. It will be under the general charge of Mr. Southworth.

Execution of Moorish Fanatic

An article describing the arrest and execution of the Moorish fanatic who murdered Dr. Cooper, a British missionary at Fez, on October 17, appears in the London Times from the Fez Correspondent of that journal. After mentioning the arrest of the assassin in the shrine where he had taken refuge, the correspondent says:

"Within half an hour the assassin was brought into the Sultan's presence. His Majesty, who was seated in a chair under a tall archway, in full sight of all his viziers, officials, and some hundreds of troops, ordered the prisoner to be brought before him. Mr. Hastings and myself stood by his Majesty's side in order that we might hear what passed. The murderer was a man of apparently some forty years of age, of tall stature, and not unpleasant countenance.

"He confessed to deliberately shooting Dr. Cooper because he was a Christian. Up to this time the news of Dr. Cooper's death had not been received. The Sultan therefore ordered the man to be publicly flogged for his attack upon Dr. Cooper, and the man received several hundred blows from leather thongs across his hips and thighs, administered by soldiers in the presence of his Majesty and the entire court and troops. He bore his thrashing with great fortitude, and on its completion was able to rise up without assistance and walk.

"He was then ordered to be publicly exhibited in the streets; and, mounted upon a donkey and guarded by soldiers, he was taken from the palace for this purpose.

"It was at this moment that the news of Dr. Cooper's death was received. The Sultan, who was still seated in the great courtyard of the palace, ordered the public exhibition of the murderer to be stopped and, after consultation with his viziers, he commanded the man's immediate execution, requesting Mr. Hastings and myself to be present, together with all the viziers.

"In a quarter of an hour all was over. The murderer was shot in the arsenal square, which had been quickly cleared of the usual crowd of people. He remained extraordinarily plucky to the end."

PRIVILEGE OF SMALL POWER

Without going into the merits of the question in dispute between Venezuela, and Britain and Germany, the situation in the matter affords an opportunity to call attention to the measure of independence which a small and weak power can enjoy in this wicked world as it is constituted at present. Undoubtedly, Venezuela is wrong in this affair, but it does not think so. If it were a great power it would refuse to be dictated to by either Britain or Germany, or both combined. It would have its alliances; and a British-German "demonstration" at one of its ports, or an attempt to take possession of its customs would mean a great war. But Venezuela is a small power; and when Britain and Germany agree that it should take a certain course, and the United States agrees to keep out of the affair, it has no choice but to take it. Yet it is "independent. Now if two of the great powers should want Canada to do something which we did not want to do, would we be in as helpless a position? Most assuredly not. Britain would be at our back, and a hostile "demonstration" against Halifax would mean war with the British Empire. Yet we are not "independent." People who are shouting out for Canadian independence that we may feel our national manhood, should think of these things.

MINISTERS' SALARIES

The proposal to collect a purse of $5,000 to be presented to Premier Ross brings into prominence the question of the remuneration of public men. Mr. Ross is not the first instance of a Premier, who has been the recipient of contributions from his colleagues and supporters after many years spent in public life. Sir John A. Macdonald, Hon. A. S. Hardy, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier were all the recipients of presentations similar to that suggested for Mr. Ross.

It is neither dignified for the recipients, nor creditable to the country that such contributions should be found necessary. A country of the wealth and importance of Canada is able to and should pay those who occupy the chief positions in its service sufficient to enable them to dispense with charitable gifts at the end of a long period of public life, and a wealthy Province such as Ontario is equally able to provide for the support of those whom it entrusts with the conduct of its affairs. No Minister after serving the state for many years should be driven to accept charity from his friends. The State which accepts his services should recognize its obligation to provide for his support.

As a mere matter of policy the country should insist upon paying its Ministers adequate salaries. At present the pecuniary rewards to be obtained in private business are far greater than anything which public life offers and, so long as this continues, there will always be a danger that the ablest men will not be attracted to the public service. And while the salary of those whom the country places in the most responsible positions are so inadequate, the temptation of the Ministers to use their public positions to augment their salaries will be greater and in some cases, the interests of the country may suffer. This temptation should be removed as far as possible, and it should be impossible for a Minister to accept assistance from those who, in many cases, have accepted favors at his hands. The present condition is neither seemly, creditable to the country nor good business policy.

A SPLENDID PROPOSITION

The Gold Hammer Mines and Tunnel Company

The foregoing is a recently organized company for the development of a group of properties in the famous Clear Creek district, a section that has been steadily growing in popularity as a center of mining investment for the past five years.

The Gold Hammer company management comprises some of the best known leading business men of Denver. Among these the president, J. J. Joslin, and vice-president, Frank A. Joslin, his son, are at the head of one of the largest dry goods houses in Denver, Mr J. J. Joslin, having founded the house twenty-five years or more ago, and seen it grow into one of the large and substantial concerns of Colorado, and occupying probably the best corner in the city for the purpose.

Col. W. H. Combs, the secretary and treasurer, whose offices are in the Equitable building, is one of the moving spirits in a number of important mining enterprises, whose promotion has secured the investment of several hundred thousand dollars in Colorado mines. The colonel enjoys the distinction of having received the appointment on the staff of several successive governors of Colorado, and is at present occupying that position by Governor Orman's appointment. He has been engaged in mining operations for a number of years, and seems to have a faculty of getting hold of his share of the good things in that line.

Mr. J. F. O'Brien, the manager of the mines, and one of the directors, has had thirty years' experience in mining and expects to devote his entire time to making the Gold Hammer properties dividend producers.

A unique feature about the proposition is the guarantee offered by the company.

INVESTMENT GUARANTEED.

The company has arranged through the Western Bank of Denver, with the Pacific Underwriting and Trust Company to guarantee investors in the Gold Hammer Mines and Tunnel Company shares against loss by issuing a gold bond, payable in fifteen years. This bond is secured by first mortgages on real estate to cover the purchase price of the stock, and deposited with the Germania Trust Company of San Francisco, Cal. Attached to each certificate for 1,000 shares of this company is the following guarantee:

"This certificate of stock No. 100 for 10,000 shares in the Gold Hammer Mines and Tunnel Company is underwritten and guaranteed against loss of purchase price at twenty cents per share by a fifteen year gold bond, issued by the Pacific Underwriting Trust Company for one hundred thousand dollars. Said bond is on deposit in the Western Bank of Denver, Colorado, and may be exchanged for this stock certificate at any time within three years from date thereof that the holder of this certificate desires to surrender to the trustee of said bond and take up said bond."

It would seem from the above as if precaution had been taken by the Gold Hammer company to protect the investor from losing his investment, and is a gratifying departure in the line of promotion to note these evidences of good faith.

—Rev. J. H. Oliver, of Listowel, who was one of the temperance speakers Wednesday night, was the guest of Mr. R. A. Hamilton.

T. M. HUNTER CHOSEN

North Monaghan Selects Mr. Hunter for County Council

A public meeting was held in the town hall, North Monaghan, on Wednesday evening, called by the Reeve. There was a large attendance of electors. Mr. T. E. Bradburn, Reeve, occupied the chair, and stated the object of the meeting, which was to select a candidate for the County Council.

It was decided to make a selection by ballot, which was done with the following result:

T. M. Hunter, 26 votes.
T. E. Bradburn, 13 votes.
J. McIntosh, 5 votes.
H. Foster, 1 vote.
P. Costello, 1 vote.

Mr. Hunter was at once declared to be the candidate, and the choice was made unanimous by the meeting.

Mr. Hunter, in a well worded speech, thanked the meeting for the honor conferred upon him, and promised, should he be elected, as he hoped to be, that he would serve his constituents to the best of his ability.

After some further remarks by several ratepayers present, the chairman closed the meeting with cheers for the King.

It is understood that Mr. Costello, who is a member of the County Council, has pledged himself to retire at the end of this year in favor of Mr. Hunter. Should this prove correct, and no other candidate or candidates appear, the election will probably go by acclamation to the present efficient and capable representatives of No. 3 District, Mr. Geo. W. Fitzgerald, and to Mr. Hunter. We believe they would be entirely satisfactory to a large majority of the electors.

Some Fine Horses

Mr. Percy Pearson, of Montreal, has been in town this week, and picked up an extra fine lot of heavy horses. These animals are a superior bunch, being selected with great care. One car load has already gone east, and another will go to-morrow. Mr. Pearson will return again on Wednesday next for the day. He always pays the highest prices and therefore gets the best stock.

The CANADIAN STEEL AND COAL COMPANY was organized to mine and manufacture iron and coal, coke and steel in Canada at Atlantic tidewater.

The raw materials for these manufactures are:—

1.—COAL. 2.—IRON. 3.—LIMESTONE.

All these materials we have at hand.

1.—COAL.

The Company controls 3,000 acres of excellent coal areas in the Province of Nova Scotia, and efforts are being made to increase this to 10,000 acres by the purchase of some very valuable additional coal fields.

The coal has been thoroughly tested and found to be suitable in every way for the manufacture of iron and steel, and the supply is practically inexhaustible. The following analysis was made by the Canadian Geological Survey:—

ANALYSIS.

Moisture	4.05
Vol. Comb. Matter	30.72
Fixed Carbon	60.
Ash	5.23
	100.00

COAL VEINS.

The several layers or seams of coal available aggregate 27 to 30 feet in thickness.

TITLES.

These areas are held under Crown Lease for a period of 80 years. Royalty 10 cents per ton of coal sold.

2.—IRON.

The Company has acquired by purchase immense iron deposits on the North Shore of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, about 1350 miles from Sydney. The deposits are estimated to contain 20,000,000 tons [illegible] above sea level, with probably as much more below that line. The iron can be handled for $1.00 per ton or less. Quantities of this ore have been shipped to Great Britain and the United States, where it has given great satisfaction, and we can sell large quantities f. o. b. at the properties, netting us a profit of $2.00 per ton. This ore makes the finest steel.

3.—FLUX.

We are now negotiating for valuable deposits of dolomite and limestone of the most satisfactory quality, situated on the tide-water, within 100 miles of the works

MARKETS.

For six months in each year the Canadian markets can be reached by water at low freight rates, and at all times by rail. As Cape Breton is distant from Liverpool only about 2,300 miles; is nearer to Pernambuco, Brazil, than any point in the United States, and also nearer to Cape Town, South Africa, it has the advantage, in point of distance, for export business over any American steel-producing points, which, with scarcely any exceptions, are situated some distance from tide water. Under any conditions of the world's market, it is believed that the output of these works can be disposed of at satisfactory prices.

OUTPUT

When in full operation, the output is expected to be about as follows:—

1. IRON.—200,000 tons iron ore shipped direct from property, showing net profit of $2.00 per ton, total	$400,000 00
200,000 tons fine iron ore shipped in briquettes, showing net profit of $4.00 per ton, total	800,000 00
100,000 tons steel blooms, showing net profit of $3.00 per ton, total	300,000 00
2. COAL.—600,000 tons coal, showing net profit, at least, of $1.00 per ton, total	600,000 00
3. AIDS.—Government bounties (averaged) added to above per year for 6 years	100 000 00
Total yearly revenue	$2,200,000 00

GOVERNMENT AIDS.

To encourage the manufacture in the Dominion of iron and steel the Parliament of Canada has granted bounties as follows:—

	ON PIG IRON.	ON STEEL.
Apl. 21st, 1902, to July 1st, 1903	$2.70	$2.70
July 1st, 1903, " " 1904	2.25	2.25
July 1st, 1904, " " 1905	1.65	1.65
July 1st, 1905, " " 1906	1.05	1.05
July 1st, 1906, " " 1907	.60	.60

If the production of steel from the Company's works be as estimated, 300,000 tons per annum, the bounties to be received from the Canadian Government will be as follows:—

1904	$225,000
1905	215,000
1906	145,000
1907	85,000

or an average of $100,000.00 per annum for 6½ years........ $670,000.00

NET REVENUE

Total net annual profits		$2,200,000.00
LESS FIXED CHARGES:—
7 per cent. interest on preferred stock	$70,000.00
Sinking Fund	60,000.00
Incidentals	25,000.00
		155,000.00
Net yearly profits		$2,045,000.00

Equivalent to yearly dividends of over 30 per cent., or 15 per cent. half yearly on total capitalization.

If the capitalization was increased to .... $20,000,000.00 this estimate would still show a dividend-earning capacity of 10 per cent. per annum.

The capitalization of the Dominion Coal Co. is .... $20,000,000.00 earning fully 12 per cent., and is paying 8 per cent. guaranteed dividends on this enormous sum.

The capitalization of the Dominion Iron and Steel Co. is...... $26,000,000.00 on which it is believed 6 per cent. dividends will be earned.

The capitalization of the Canadian Steel & Coal Company is only $6,000,000.00 controlling, it is believed, equally valuable properties, and it is reasonable to expect much larger dividends.

Within the last few months Dominion Coal shares common rose in market value from $40 to $144 per share, and Dominion Iron & Steel Company's shares common rose over $30 per share in market value.

With such low capitalization the Canadian Steel and Coal Co's shares should show tremendous profits, and it is confidently believed they will.

When Buying Mining Stock Buy the Best

AN INVESTMENT IN THE

Pitkin Gold Belt Mining and Reduction Company

Which is Safe and Sure of Quick Returns, may Bring an Enormous Return at any Moment. It has the Possibilities of Rivaling the Great Mines of the Past.

This Company has a mine on a true fissure vein, in the center of the Gunnison Gold Belt, Colorado, which is the "Mother" lode or dike, which has produced 85 per cent. more gold than the total output of the Cripple Creek district.

This Mine is no Prospect. Nor is it Waiting on Your Subscription to Buy Machinery or for Development.

After a careful examination by experts, Joseph M. Bradley, M. E. and Mr. George Arbott, A. I. M. E., Amalgamated Copper Company's expert in Chihuahua, Mexico, they advised the purchase of the property. The property had shallow development upon it, showing two ore shoots from which smelting ore had been shipped to the Buena Vista Smelter.

The Company purchased and paid for the latest improved machinery and has put a shaft down 200 feet and intend to carry it down 1000 feet. On the 150 foot level 300 feet of development has been made and an ore shoot has been encountered and blocked out for 87 feet, carrying values in gold from 2 to 8 ounces or $40 to $160 per ton. The cost of mining, hauling, freight and smelter charges will be between $12 and $16 per ton.

Ed. McCarthy & Co., bankers, guarantee a shipping mine of smelting ore sampling from 2 to 6 ounces in gold, or $40 to $120 per ton, by January 1st, 1903, or all funds will be returned to subscribers upon presentation of receipt issued by said bank.

Also to prospective purchasers of $500 worth of stock we are offering a free trip to Colorado and return. You investigate first and purchase afterward. Could you expect anything fairer than this?

The capital stock of this company is $1,000,000, divided into 1,000,000 shares of stock at $1 each, full paid and non-assessable. A portion of the treasury stock is now offered at

25 CENTS PER SHARE—PAR VALUE $1.00

In one payment, or 20 per cent. down and the balance in four equal monthly payments, for necessary expenditures and improvements on a shipping mine.

A Clue That Failed.

Deductions in the manner of Sherlock Holmes do not always work out successfully. They did not in a case reported by the Washington "Post." A group of reporters were talking together, and one of them, who liked to play the amateur detective, devoted part of his time to watching a man standing some distance away.

"That man used to be in the army," he said.

"How do you know?"

"See how he puts his hand into his trousers pockets. He lifts up the side of his coat—look! he's doing it now—instead of pushing the coat back as we do. He acquired the habit from wearing a fatigue coat in the army. A fatigue coat, you know, is cut square about the body. To put the hand in the trousers pocket, one must lift up the side."

Some discussion followed, with the result that one of the reporters volunteered to lay their speculations before the stranger. He proved to be a worthy real estate dealer. After listening to the reporter's explanation, he replied, with much amusement:

"I'll tell you why I put my hand in my pocket that way. I used to be a butcher in New York thirty years ago, and I got that habit raising my butcher's apron to make change."

Cunning Siberian Natives.

When compelled to travel all night, the Siberian natives always make a practice of stopping just before sunrise and allowing their dogs to go to sleep. They argue that if the dog goes to sleep while it is yet dark and wakes up in an hour and finds the sun shining he will suppose that he has had a full night's rest and will travel all day without thinking of being tired. One or even two hours stop at any other time is perfectly useless, as the dogs will be uncontrollable from that time forward until they are permitted to take what they think a full allowance of sleep.

A Hopeless Case.

There was a brilliant reception at the house of Mrs. Amory. Among the guests was a certain Mr. Mackenzie, a man of grave and somewhat taciturn demeanor, whom several of the young ladies present had tried to engage in conversation, but without much success.

One of them spoke to the hostess about him.

"He seems to be rather uneasy and out of place at a party like this," she said.

"Yes," replied Mrs. Amory, with a bright smile, "he can't talk anything but sense."

COAL OUTLOOK SERIOUS

Anthracite Now Brings $9 a Ton at Suspension Bridge

Mr. J. H. McClellan returned last night from Buffalo, and in conversation with the Times, said that it was impossible to purchase coal at anything like normal prices. He secured a few cars at $9 per ton at Suspension Bridge. The coal will cost $10.50 on the track in Peterborough, and would be supplied to customers at $11 per ton.

Mr. McClelland regards the coal situation as more serious for Canada than at any time since the trouble began. He says that Toronto, Hamilton, London, and many other cities are in great distress, and with little hope of relief. The scarcity of cars is one of the greatest difficulties in the way. A year ago there was 20,000,000 tons of coal stored in the country dependant on the Pennsylvania mines for their supply. This includes Canada. Not only has this disappeared, but the mines are being worked partially—probably not more than 60 or 50 per cent. of their normal output.

Mr. McClellan thinks that it will be well on in January or February before regular supply can be had.

A Well Kept House

The delegation who visited Berlin last week put up at the Walper House, and were delighted with the way they were treated. This first class hotel is under the management of Mr. J. T. Ellis, brother of Mr. James Ellis, formerly with the C.P.R. here. "Jack" as he is familiarly known by his many friends, left no stone unturned to make it pleasant for the Peterborough crowd. They all came away carrying with them pleasant recollections of their visit and the famous Walper hostlery. It is proposed to make another trip to the pretty German city in a short time, to give those who did not go on the last an opportunity of visiting Berlin. To all such we would say, go to the Walper House, and you will come away delighted.

135 CHURCH ST., TORONTO

Mainly About People.

"What can we do with Rosslyn?" Disraeli once asked of Salisbury. "Make him master of the buckhounds, as his father was," suggested the latter. "No," replied the Premier, "he swears far too much for that. We will make him high commissioner to the Church of Scotland."

Senator Proctor of Vermont says the finest speech he ever made consisted of only four words. It was a retort to Senator Hoar's sarcastic little thrust in a speech directed at the Green Mountain senator. He said: "No man in Vermont is allowed to vote unless he has made five thousand dollars trading with Massachusetts people." Whereat Proctor said: "And we all vote."

The principal of a high school tells the following anecdote: One day at school I gave a bright boy a sum in algebra, and, although the problem was comparatively easy, he couldn't do it. I remarked, "You ought to be ashamed of yourself. At your age George Washington was a surveyor." The boy looked me straight in the eyes and replied, "Yes, sir; and at your age he was President of the United States."

A good story comes from the Davidson Theater, in Chicago, and runs to the effect that a man from up the State went in to see the opera the other night, pulling his money from his pocket before he reached the box-office window. "I want tew git a good seat," he said, loud enough to be heard all over the lobby of the theater, "and I want it right down the middle aisle, and close up tew the exercises." He got it.

A hunting party of ladies and gentlemen were detained by a storm at the hut of a Virginia backwoodsman. Dinner being served, there was an embarrassing paucity of knives. The mother, wishing to impress her aristocratic guests, called in a commanding tone to her young daughter, "Fetch some more knives, Sairey; you know we've got thousands of 'em." "Law, no, ma'm; they're all thar! Thar's 'Big Butch,' and 'Little Butch,' and 'Razor-Back,' and 'Bunty.'"

David Lloyd-George, a member of Parliament from Wales, tells a good story on himself in connection with a Disestablishment meeting in which he has been taking part in Wales. A few days previous, it seems, there had been a Church Defense meeting held in the same place, at which a certain prominent dignitary of the Establishment had spoken, referring to whom Mr. Lloyd-George's chairman observed: "In my opinion that Churchman is one of the biggest liars in North Wales, but, thank goodness, we've got a match for him here to-night!"

"Chums" tells of a certain wild beast tamer who had been on bad terms for some time with one of his neighbors, and the other day, as the result of a violent quarrel, the latter, with a friend, attacked the former just before he was timed to give his performance. The tamer, unwilling to make a scene, took refuge in the lion's den. Judge of the amusement of the spectators when they beheld the two men standing in front of the cage and shouting through the bars at regular intervals: "Come out of that, you big coward; come out of that!"

Some little while ago a rather eccentric cotton manufacturer, owning large mills not a score of miles from Halifax, England, and who was familiarly known in the district round about as "Owd H——," overheard one of the lads in his employ remark to somebody: "Aw wish Aw had 'Owd H——'s' brass, an' he wer i' th' warkhause." Quickly retiring, "Owd H——" sent for the offender into his office, and asked him what he would do with the money, supposing his wish were to be fulfilled. The youngster was quite equal to the occasion, promptly replying: "Whey, th' furst thing Aw'd do wod be ta fetch ye aat (out), maister." This clever reply so appeased the old gentleman that the boy was sent back to his work with half a sovereign in his pocket.

The other afternoon, says the New York "Tribune," when President Roosevelt reached Dupont Circle, a "seeing Washington" electric car hove in sight, and the guide continued his lecture through a megaphone in this way: "On the left we see the elegant residence of Mr. George Westinghouse, the millionaire inventor and electrician, formerly the home of the late James G. Blaine; a little to the left of front we perceive the palatial mansion of Mr. L. Z. Leiter, the Chicago millionaire, and father of the famous beauty, Miss Mary Leiter, now Lady Curzon, the wife of the Governor-General of India; in the park in front we are confronted by the statue of Admiral Dupont, and also in front we see the President of the United States on horseback." The crowd looked, and one woman said, "Whose statue is it, McKinley's?" "It's Roosevelt," the guide responded. "He ain't a statue yet."

Something Wrong With the Chamois.

There is a prominent doctor in Germantown who is busy telling a little joke on himself, says the Philadelphia "Evening Telegraph." It appears that he employed an Irish servant who had just arrived from the "ould sod." Starting out one morning, he noticed his office windows were rather dirty, and calling Bridget, he instructed her to clean them before he returned. At the same time he told her that he would stop and purchase a new chamois skin and send it home, and with this she was to clean the windows. After he had gone his rounds he found them thickly streaked with grease. He called Bridget, and the following colloquy took place:

"Bridget, didn't I tell you to clean the windows?"

"Yes, sor."

"And didn't I tell you to use the new chamois?"

"Yes, sor."

"Well, did you use it?"

"Sure I did, sor."

"Let me see the chamois," said the doctor, and Bridget promptly brought it. Then for the first time he learned that his wife had left the house a half hour before he did in the morning and had sent home some tripe. The doctor declines to say what happened to the chamois skin.

Jack—It is mighty hard to be the son of a self-made millionaire. Tom—Why so? Jack—A fellow can't decide whether to go into business and live up to his father's reputation, or go into society and live it down.—"Town Topics."

Their Vacations.

The musicians will live on the Sound, and the ping-pong players will go to Table Bay, suggests New York "Life." The summer girls will naturally go to the Isle of Man, and those too old to be loved will seek the Isle of Pines. Dipsomaniacs will go to Bar Harbor, brewers to Behring Straits, while all reformed drunkards will go to Haddam. The coal men will flock to Asheville, poets will go to Attica, geometricians to Cuba, tramps to Bath, horseback riders to Canterbury, funny men to Chestnut Ridge, golf players to Bunker Hill, philanthropists to the Bounty Islands, Boston girls to Chili, and chiropodists to Cornwall.

Printers will go to Ems, aurists to Erie, pawnbrokers to Hocking Valley, spiritualists to Knoxville, burglars to Lock Haven, Pullman car porters to Palm Beach, but there is some doubt about the Filipinos going to Liberty. Those who linger too long will go to Tarrytown.

All the stuffs will go to Turkey. Prohibitionists will go to the Water Gap, and all practical jokers to Cape Cod. Some Wall Street men will go to Great Bear Lake and others to Bull Run. Folks troubled with insomnia will go to Sleepy Hollow. Roulette players will go to Wheeling, and poker players to Council Bluffs. Fat men will go to Great Neck, thin men to Littleton, and melancholy men to Sulphur Springs.

The cooks will go to Pottstown, the anarchists to Bombay, cabmen to Hoboken, vivisectionists to the Catskills, and all the shoppers to Paw Paw.

Pool players will go to the Pyramids, leather men to Morocco, magnates to the Rockies, while those whose fortunes are falling will go to Sag Harbor.

All the peach growers will go to Pittsburg, and the lace-makers will go to Old Point. The confectioners will flock to Mt. Desert, and the gossips to Pekin.

And finally, those whose thoughts are fixed on Heaven will go to St. Petersburg.

And those whose thoughts are in the other direction will go to Fire Island.

Catabolic Man.

According to a writer in the "Lancet," the male human needs more food than the female, not only on account of his larger stature, but also because he is the more catabolic of the two. The man tends to expend energy and the woman to store it up in the form of fat; he burns the faster. This sexual difference shows itself in the very blood; the man has a larger percentage of chromocytes than the woman, showing that he needs a proportionately larger quantity of oxygen in order to maintain his more active combustion—a fact which one may associate with his comparative freedom from chlorosis; moreover, weight for weight, his pulmonary capacity is greater than that of the woman, whose smaller respiratory need is further shown by the facility with which she can without discomfort diminish her breathing power by means of the corset. "The great contrast between the metabolic activity of the two sexes," continues the writer, "was forcibly brought home to me by a military display given by a troupe of dusky Amazons, with whom were also a few male warriors. The women, in spite of their daily exertions, were all rounded and plump, some very much so, no single muscle showing through the skin, and it was noticed that their movements, though full of grace, lacked energy and 'go.' The men, on the other hand, were spare, their muscles standing out plainly under the shiny skin, and they, in further contrast with the women, displayed a truly amazing agility, bounding about and whirling round in a most astounding fashion; the women, in short, were essentially anabolic and the men were catabolic. I may here draw attention to the fact that men are apt to be larger meat-eaters than women, just as they are, possibly in consequence of this very fact, more prone to drink alcohol and to smoke tobacco."

Price of a Shave.

A man walking through the suburbs of a certain large town noticed a barber's pole to which was attached a signboard with the inscription, "Shaving One Halfpenny."

His chin being rough and his funds low he promptly entered the shop, seated himself in the chair, and asked to be shaved.

The knight of the razor carefully lathered and scraped away at one side of the customer's face, sponged it, and drew the cloth away with the usual flourish.

"But you don't call this finished?" expostulated his victim, keeping his seat.

"Beg pardon, sir, do you want the other side done as well?" said the barber with a hair-oily smile.

"Cert'nly I do. Do you think I can go out in the street half-shaved?" replied the other.

And the barber proceeded to operate on the other side of his customer.

When the job was finished the man, who began to smell a rat, fumbled in his pockets and fished out a halfpenny, which he tendered to the barber.

"Another halfpenny, if you please, sir," said the latter.

"What? You've got on your board outside, 'Shaving a ha'penny.'"

"Very true. But if you will have the goodness to observe, you'll find that that inscription is on each side of the board."

"I know that."

"Very good, sir. There are two sides to my board—and two sides to your face."

"I see," replied the man, with his hand on the door-knob, "and, if you will have the goodness to observe that ha'penny, you will find there are two sides to that as well."—"Tit-Bits."

The Proper Term.

Martha, the colored washerwoman, was complaining of her husband's health to one of her patrons. "He's ve'y po'ly, ma'am, ve'y po'ly. He's got dat exclamatory rheumatism." "You mean inflammatory, Martha. Exclamatory is from exclaim, which means to cry out." "Yes, mim," answered Martha, with conviction, "dat's what it is. He hollers all de time."

MORGAN IN THE OIL INDUSTRY—NEW YORK FINANCIER AT THE HEAD OF A $20,000,000 COMPANY TO EXPLOIT CALIFORNIA FIELDS

Bakersfield, Cal., Sept. 27.—J. Pierpont Morgan is about to identify himself with the oil business in California. On October 12, or a few days later, surveyors will be put into the field, and will run lines to the ocean from Sunset, Coaling, McKittrick, Midway and Kern River fields to determine by which route it is most feasible to transport oil to tide water. The surveys will run over the coast range at a number of points, and also will go down the San Joaquin valley parallel with the line of the Standard.

A company having a capitalization of $5,000,000 has been organized for the construction of lines, pumping stations, storage tanks, and the like. Mr. Morgan and his associates have also formed a separate company, capitalized at $20,000,000, half of which will be invested in proven ground and the other half turned into a reserve fund.

It is stated that the Morgan syndicate will be prepared to handle 2,000,000 barrels the first year, and will increase that amount at the rate of 1,000,000 a year until the whole demand of the market is met.

ST. PAUL & SUNSET OIL CO.'S GIGANTIC TRACT

will be developed and should prove a formidable rival for the new company.

THE ST. PAUL & SUNSET OIL COMPANY own and control a large tract of absolutely oil proven asphalt land in the very heart of the best oil producing land of Kern County, California, the district where flowing wells are situated. We have a bed of Liquid Asphalt underlying a portion of our lands. Our property is situated right at Sunset Station. A new line of railway is surveyed and will be constructed in a very short time, putting us not only in touch with Eastern cities, but in touch with tide-water. This, in addition to the railroad facilities we now have. Remember that we own our land—it is paid for and entirely free from debt.

PROFESSOR DR. RUD J. SCHIMPER, Analytical and Expert Chemist, of St. Paul, makes the following statement relative to the composition, what can be produced and the estimated profits of the Sunset Crude Oil. A copy of the original certificate can be seen at the office of the St. Paul & Sunset Oil Co., which is in substance as follows:

"This is to certify that the undersigned, Dr. Rudolph J. Schimper, Chemist expert, member of Parisian Academy, according to analysis made from the crude oil furnished me by the St. Paul & Sunset Oil Company, I find the following valuable products and with each bag to submit my estimate of its value:

1. LIQUID RUBBER—2000 lbs of this crude oil (6 bbls.) will produce 1,200 lbs. of liquid rubber, value of which is from 25c. per lb. and up. (Estimated value $400.00.)
2. SOLID RUBBER—2000 lbs of this crude oil (6 bbls) will produce 1,700 lbs. of solid rubber, value of which is from 30c. upwards. (Estimated value $420.00.)
3. FUEL BRIQUETTES—2000 lbs. of this crude oil (6 bbls.) will produce 2,000 lbs. (1 ton) of fuel briquettes, which, according to government tests made, is equivalent to two tons of best anthracite coal. (Estimated value $22.00)
4. ASPHALTUM—2,000 lbs. of this crude oil (6 bbls.) will produce ½ ton of asphaltum, value $25 to $35 per ton. 25 gal. of lubricating oil, value 30c. per gal. and upward. 40 gal. illuminating oil, value 10c per gal. and up. 60 gal. of distilled oil, value 5c. per gal. and upward. (Estimated value $54.00.)
5. SOAP—2000 lbs. (1 ton) of crude oil and filling will produce over 2,000 lbs. of soap, value 3c. per lb. and upward. (Estimated value $60.00.)

Id my opiniou many other valuable products can be obtained from the oil of that famous field.

Respectfully, DR. R. J. SCHIMPER, Chemist Expert."

THIS goes to show the immense profits that will accrue from our products when refined. We expect to commence Building Our Refinery in the very near future. The sale of the next allotment of stock will be made for that purpose. The largest flowing wells in California were brought in adjoining our property and their stock was taken off the market. We employ the best drillers who report rapid progress on our wells and we expect to bring in gushers equal, if not to excel any in the Sunset field. Our General Manager, Superintendent and Drillers, all are experienced oil men. The officers of our company are all thorough, competent and efficient men who have always made a success of their undertaking in life and who will see that the welfare of the St. Paul and Sunset Oil Company is furthered, portected and promoted to the most advantageous extent possible.

MILLIONS OF DOLLARS SHOULD BE PAID STOCKHOLDERS.

MILLIONS OF DOLLARS should be paid to the stockholders of the St. Paul and Sunset Oil Company when their property is fully developed, their refinery equipped and in full operation. ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS IN DIVIDENDS was paid by Kern County Oil Companies during the month of August alone.

SIX MILLION BARRELS is the consuming capacity of the Southern Pacific Railway engines, which are now equipped for burning oil. Outside of this consider other railway lines, smelters, factories, steamships, stationery engines, which are all heavy consumers of fuel oil and last but not least, hotels and private dwellings are falling in line with the procession in the use of fuel oil.

A GOOD REASON WHY YOU Should Invest in the stock of St. Paul & Sunset Oil Company. More fortunes have been made in oil than any other business. Consider the immense amount of money the Standard Oil Company has made for its fortunate stockholders, and the California oil companies have done better in proportion to their capitalization than the Standard Oil Company. Here is what $100 has accomplished for those who invested that amount in the following California companies in the beginning of their career:

Home Whittier $1,000 on an investment of $100.

Kern returned $2,200 on an investment of $100.

Peerless returned $1,800 on an investment of $100.

Dillon returned $2,500 on an investment of $100.

New York returned $30,000 on an investment of $100.

Union returned $150,000 on an investment of $100.

Home returned $50,000 on an investment of $100.

THERE is no reason in the world why the St. Paul and Sunset Company's oil holdings and property, when developed and handled, should not bring like returns.

CONTRARY to the general supposition the earth is the repository of all mineral wealth. When it is known and demonstrated beyond a question of a doubt where its wealth reposes and you put your money up to take it out, your money is invested. Hence you are an investor, not a speculator. A proven oil producing property does not draw its profits from the people but creates new wealth. It is therefore an investment.

CONSOLIDATED GOLD MINING COMPANY

Sparta District, Eastern Oregon

It may be equalled but never surpassed—and, frankly, we doubt, all things considered, if it has an equal. And here is

WHY:

1—A producing mine.
2—Over 200 acres, rich mineral land.
3—Title perfect.
4—No debts.
5—No high salaries paid.
6—Equipped with up-to-date mill and machinery.
7—Between 2000 and 3000 feet of underground workings.
8—Management in the hands of experienced miners.
9—No treasury stock has ever been sold and perhaps never will be.
10—Two hundred and fifty thousand shares in the treasury.
11—Capital only $1,000,000.
12—Par value of shares—one dollar; fully paid and non-assessable.
13—Experts and intending investors permitted to examine the mine.
14—Daily mail. Complete telephone facilities.
15—All conditions favorable for cheap mining and reduction of ores.
16—Ore averages more than ten dollars gold per ton.
17—Total expenses mining and treatment per ton not over four dollars.

The stock we are selling is private holdings upon which we have secured a limited option. To make it go quickly we are only asking FIFTY CENTS A SHARE, and will sell as small a quantity as TWO HUNDRED SHARES—of course, as much more as you wish to buy as long as we have any for sale.

Recollect this property is producing a profit to-day of not less than $60,000 annually. By "profit" we mean over and above all expenses.

References back of the mine and its managers are the best in the State of Oregon where the property is located.

We personally examined this property thoroughly, and believe it to be one of the coming heavy producers of the Eastern Oregon Gold Fields.

Send for prospectus and learn how a well-equipped producing mine looks.

BUY! WHY?

BECAUSE

THE SOUR LAKE OIL CO.

Has placed four-fifths of its stock in the treasury for development work; and because

Oil is reached in less than half the depth required on Spindletop Heights in Beaumont;

The people in Canada are well acquainted with the management, which is in the hands of Hon. JOHN L. BITTINGER, United States Consul General to Canada; F. S. Ashley, Vice-President of the Massachusetts Securities Co., and W. L. Marston, Vice-President of the American Union Oil and Refining Co.

These gentlemen have made a dividend payer out of one company and have raised the value of its stock from 5c per share to par value, or 25c, within a very short time;

The company is operating in the Sour Lake field, where fewer wells will tap the oil than at Spindletop; this insures a greater flow of oil, and it is of a better quality;

This is the first allotment of shares at the present price of FIVE CENTS PER SHARE; it is the lowest price at which you can buy, and the time left in which to buy at FIVE CENTS is short.

Some Railway Figures

New York, Dec. 5.—The great roads are making unprecedented reports as to earnings. Their figures are simply startling and should cause the sensible man to ponder seriously as to what the inevitable results in the security markets must be. For fact of their existence Look at Atch. just out with a net increase amounting to $363,112, while gross earnings improved over $500,000. This is the best monthly report ever issued by the company. It eclipses all record months when the gains were very much greater; it was also for a period when all influences were not as favorable as they might have been, nor as favorable as they will be in the early months of the coming year. Look at St. Paul operating in another section of the country, also for the same month reporting an increase in gross of $393,434 and in net of $304,363. These figures make another record-breaking month—the best earnings ever made in one month by the St. Paul system. It amounts to about 6 1-2 per cent. improvement over the next best month's results. Enormous gains are also reported by both the Canadian Pacific and the Louisville and N. It indicates the continued expansion of the business of this country. The coal roads show a pulling up also and indications are strong that they will speedily recover more than they lost. Such is the immensity of prosperity that it literally slops over the dark spots of the market. Indications are not lacking that the time is drawing near when the B. R. T. will be operated as economically as Metropolitan. When it is at the present ratio of earnings the stock will show 6 per cent. for shareholders. The outlook for these shares is far superior to what it was when the stock in 1899 was quoted at 138. These facts should cause thinking men to make up their minds to purchase at present prices. The money question, which at its worst is but a transient one is the only deterring feature, and with that out of the way the upward flight of prices will be phenomenal. We fail to see how anyone can anticipate materially lower prices and why stocks should not be immediately purchased.

Would You Like an Income of this Kind?

We cannot guarantee an income of this kind from 1,000 shares of stock, but we can guarantee that every dollar you invest in the guaranteed stock of The Gold Hammer Mines and Tunnel Company at 20 cents per share is secured by a GOLD BOND DEPOSITED IN BANK AT THE TIME OF THE PURCHASE OF THE STOCK TO THE CREDIT OF THE BUYER, WHICH INSURES HIM AGAINST LOSS. We can also guarantee, to the best of our judgment, that the development of the ore bodies will make the shares advance at least 100 per cent in twelve months, and, owing to the bond being deposited to the credit of the purchaser, entirely eliminates the feature of chance from the investment. The property is located right in the heart of the Clear Creek District at Idaho Springs, and completely surrounded by big producers.

Details of this proposition will be carefully explained in a handsome illustrated booklet, (the price of which is twenty-five cents), and is not for general distribution, but we will mail it free to parties who are sufficiently interested to write for it If you wish to make money you cannot afford to be without this book. If you do not care to make money we cannot afford to send it to you, as it costs us money. The book also gives the story of how Stratton and many others have made millions in mining. Money in Oil

Special Despatch to the Ontario & California Oil Co, Limited:

Chatham, Dec. 1, 1902.

The Gusher was turned on to-day, and in five hours filled up all the Standard Oil Company's available tankage—so far has given one thousand barrels, at the rate of fifty barrels per hour.

Talk about dividends, talk about advance in value—what investment will compare with this?—Figure it out—OIL two dollars per barrel—means earning one hundred dollars per hour—ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS invested in this Syndicate a few weeks ago—NOW ACTUALLY WORTH FORTY THOUSAND DOLLARS.

REASONS WHY	REASONS WHY
Stock in the Ontario and California Oil Co. may prove just as profitable within the next few weeks.	Prompt action on your part is required

1.—The Ontario and California Oil Co., Limited, is a home company, organized under the laws of Ontario, shares fully paid and non-assessable, built and equipped on the right principle—TO PAY PROFITS AND DIVIDENDS—when earned from the ground, and this object attained—NO STOCK FOR SALE BY THIS COMPANY.

2.—Owns the oil leases on one thousand acres, and are next door neighbors of the Big Gusher owners.

3.—Several drilling rigs NOW at different points on the Company's properties under the direction of the best oil men in Petrolea, men who are oil men in the full sense of the word (not speculators)—connected with oil refineries and the largest oil interests in Canada, and these oil men came to this Company, made their offers, put their money in, and are joining in the development of a large block of the Company's properties.

4.—Ten days to two weeks will complete a well. FIVE WELLS are being put down as fast as men and money can do it.

5.—One may be a gusher, or all may be gushers; in either case the advance will be REAL, and a few weeks will bring you greater profits than you ever dreamed of.

RISK! Yes—so there is in everything—otherwise you would not have the chance of buying One Thousand Shares for Two Hundred and Fifty Dollars, which in Thirty Days may be worth One Thousand to Ten Thousand Dollars. Inactivity has missed many an opportunity to make a fortune—don't wait now and wish later on.

ACT AT ONCE—The block of stock which the Company is offering at Twenty-five Cents per Share is daily getting [illegible]. Send for November report. Application Forms, etc., and get your order in ON TIME. Apply J. L. FINCH, Secretary Ontario & California Oil Company, Limited, Toronto, or

CAN WRITE THEM

Calkins, the Story Teller

Mr. Franklin W. Calkins, of Wyoming, Wis., who writes many interesting stories for the "Youth's Companion" says:—

"Food can make or unmake a writer. For a number of years, living the sedentary life of the writer and student, I suffered all the ills of nervous dyspepsia. I could eat nothing in the morning save a dry crust of toasted bread and a cup of weak coffee. For my dinner at 6 o'clock I had been in the habit of eating rare beef steak, the only food from which I seemed to get proper nourishment, but no meal was taken without the after pangs of indigestion; I was beginning to get disgusted with life.

About a year ago a friend suggested Grape-Nuts telling me of the benefit he had received from the food and I began with it as directed; I found immediate relief from my indigestion and in a short time my dyspepsia left me entirely. I have now used Grape-Nuts for a year and have no trouble with my stomach having eaten many enjoyable dinners.

I find in fact that all you say for Grape-Nuts is true and is certainly the food for brain workers, and the truth of your claims is proved in my own case. I have no appetite for meats."

A Successful Bazaar

The bazaar which was held on Thursday and Friday in the assembly room at the Y.M.C.A., under the auspices of the Girls' Guild of the George street church, was a decided success. The room was artistically decorated with flags and bunting of various colors. The tables were laden with dolls, fancy work, calenders, etc. On the platform were about three dozen beautifully made sofa pillows of various designs. The class room to the north was used as the tea room and was nicely decorated in the Japanese style.

Presentation and Address

A very enjoyable social evening was held in St. Andrew's school room on Thursday evening at the close of the choir rehersal, the occasion being the presentation of a handsome couch to Mr. Adam Gillespie. A very large company were present, and Rev. J. G. Potter, who presided, read an address, prepared by Mr. Davies, organist and choir master, on behalf of the choir, congratulating Mr. and Mrs. Gillespie on their marriage, and wishing them prosperity and happiness.

Banqueted at Guelph

Mr. W. G. McClellan, of the Dominion Bank, was entertained by the citizens of Guelph to a banquet on Tuesday evening, on the eve of his departure from that city. The Mayor occupied the chair, and in proposing the toast of "Our Guest," took occasion to refer to the many high qualities of Mr. McClelland, whose departure was universally regretted. Mr. McClellan will spend Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McClellan, 19 Gilmour street, and Monday he will go to Brampton for a couple of weeks, after which he will go to head office.

Imposing on the Press

Some individual, who evidently has no regard for the truth, wrote a letter to our little local contemporaries a day or two ago, enclosing what purported to be a resolution of the Bricklayers' Union, No. 17, protesting against the proposal to have the assessment roll printed. The "resolution" appears to have been a fake of the first water. It is understood that the labor unions of the town are united in their desire to have the assessment inequalities shown up, and this can only be done by having the roll printed, so that ratepayers may look it over and compare the assessments at their leisure.

The Late Mr. James White

The death occurred yesterday morning, about eleven o'clock, of Mr. James Whyte, 368 Charlotte street. The deceased had been ill for about three years with Bright's disease. He was born in Scotland nearly 60 years ago, and came to Canada when very young. After residing in Toronto for a short time, he came to Peterborough, where he engaged in the foundry business. He was highly esteemed and had many personal friends who will exceedingly regret his demise. He leaves a wife and brother, Mr. John Whyte, of Campbellford, to mourn his death. The funeral which takes place from his late residence, on Monday, at 3 o'clock, will be private, and it is requested that no flowers be sent.

Pe-ru-na Promptly Saved Her Life.

Miss Alice O'Neil, 812 Adams street, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"I cannot say too much in favor of Peruna. About a year ago I was completely worn out, had a serious cold and a hard cough which seemed to be in danger of affecting my lungs. If my system had been in a stronger condition it would have been much easier to throw off this cold, but I could not seem to get any relief until I took Peruna, and I must say that it did the work thoroughly. Within a week I could see a wonderful improvement, and I took Peruna four weeks and am in perfect health now."

ALICE O'NEIL.

WHAT PEOPLE SAY

About Pe-ru-na as a Remedy for All Diseases of Winter, Coughs, Colds and Catarrh.

That Peruna cures catarrh, coughs, colds, is well known to both the medical profession and the people generally. It is undoubtedly the most popular remedy for this class of diseases in existence. Read the following letters:

Pe-ru-na Cures a Cold at the Outset.

Miss E. M. Isaacs, Armstrong, Pa., Vice-President of the Fortnightly Club, writes:

"No one who has tried the comforts Peruna brings would ever be without it. I used to dread the slightest cold, as its consequences were so lengthy and so unpleasant, and the catarrhal condition which invariably followed so hard to get rid of, but since I have known of the blessed relief secured through the use of Peruna, I am free from all this unpleasantness and suffering.

"A few doses never fails to cure me of a cold and I keep well through its use."—Miss E. M. Isaacs.

Hon. W. J. Purman, ex-member of Congress from Florida, writes from 1426 Q street, N. W., Washington, D. C., as follows:

"From representations to me and my own experience I feel justified in recommending your Peruna to any and all persons suffering with catarrh, nervousness or stomach troubles. I regard it as a great tonic and remedy for such afflictions. I, and others to whom I recommended it, are using it now with beneficial results."—W. J. Purman.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

THE EVOLUTION AT SAULT STE. MARIE

The Remarkable Devlopment of the Great "Soo" Country and What it Means

WHAT BRAINS AND MUCH ENERGY CAN DO

A New York Paper's Description of the Great Work of Mr. Clergue

New York, Dec. 7—The Brooklyn Eagle today prints the following:

The original idea with which Mr. Clergue went to Sault Ste. Marie was very simple. He merely proposed that his company should develop the water power and sell it to manufacturing companies. The rapids at the outlet of Lake Superior, called Sault Ste. Marie, have a fall of 20 feet. The total power of the rapids is estimated at 130,000 horse power at low water. A local company had undertaken to build a canal that would furnish 20,000 horse power, but had encountered financial difficulties and was forced to stop. Mr. Clergue and his associates bought the canal and completed it. When it was ready for use they found they had an elephant on their hands, for no one wanted to buy their power. Mr. Clergue proposed that the company build its own factories, particularly as the mottled sandstone taken out of the canal made such splendid building material it was a shame to let it go to waste. All the stone was promptly put into buildings, while the dirt was used for filling in ground along the lake front. Not a spadeful of anything was wasted. Right here is the keynote to Mr. Clergue's policy: utilize the by-products.

The unbroken forests stretching for hundreds of miles to the north soon settled and fully determined the first factory. It would be a pulp mill to furnish wood pulp for making paper. It was decided to build a mill with a capacity of 20 tons a day. But it was scarcely in running order before it was found that the cost of operating was almost as great as a mill of 10 times that size. So the mill was promptly enlarged to a capacity of 150 tons of pulp a day. But the paper manufacturers of the United States promptly marked the price down as soon as this large output appeared and the anticipated profits vanished into thin air. Then began the marvelous evolution wrought out by Mr. Clergue.

IMPROVEMENTS IN CONSTRUCTION.

Up to this time the method of producing ground wood pulp was be holding a block of spruce wood against a grindstone. The product was a liquid called mechanical pulp. The liquid was taken to another machine which squeezed out about half the water leaving a sheet of pulp like a sheet of blotting paper. But this pulp could not be shipped to distant markets profitably; the freight charges on the water in it forbade that. Furthermore the grinding process left the resinous matter in the pulp, which decomposed on exposure to the aid and spoiled the pulp. The undertaking, which had cost a million dollars, was merely an annoyance and a source of loss.

The next step in the evolution was to produce a dry pulp. Paper men said it could not be done. No one would undertake to make the necessary machine. So some mechanical experts were called in who designed a machine which would work in theory. Having had a long training in mechanics, Mr. Clergue gave the machine his personal attention. A foundry and machine shop became necessary to build the new machine. This was the next step in evolution. Finally at a cost of $125,000 the first machine was turned out. After six months of experimenting a machine was evolved that was an entire success. Now no other style of machine is used. The mill immediately began earning a profit and today its output is 170 tons of dry pulp a day is shipped all over the world.

DIFFICULT PROBLEMS SOLVED.

Having solved the problem of making mechanical pulp at a profit, it was decided to increase the profit by making chemical pulp, which is a higher grade. Chemical pulp has a longer fibre and is mixed with mechanical pulp to produce the higher grade papers. To make chemical pulp sulphur is needed. At that time all the sulphur used in chemical pulp making came from Sicily. Being a monopoly the price was exorbitant and freight rates to Canada were prohibitive.

Mr. Clergue found that at Sudbury, Ont., were nickel mines. In treating this ore sulphurous acid gas worth $2,000 was allowed to pass off into the air every day at an expense and loss. Mr. Clergue wanted to save this gas, but chemists didn't think it could be done. He set his corps of experts at work on the problem. They found a process for saving the sulphur, a mine was bought the ore was shipped to Sault Ste. Marie and the manufacture of sulphite pulp was begun.

KRUPP MAKES A CONTRACT.

Next the chemical laboratory was ordered to inspect the residue remaining after the sulphur had been driven off and see what could be done with it. They found an alloy of nickel and steel so superior to anything else then known that Krupp, the great German gun maker, made a contract for five years' supply as soon as the matter was laid before him. Result, the addition of reduction works and a ferro nickel plant to the industries of the water power company.

Then it was found that certain alkalies from salt which was cheap and ready near at hand. They found the way. Result, the establishment of a chemical works. New methods were found for saving chlorine which is used in bleaching and in pulp making by which a much larger percentage was saved than was ever before possible, thus increasing the profits.

It was soon found that the sulphite mills could not use all the sulphur from the supply of nickel ore available so the manufacture of sulphuric acid and sulphurous acid was begun—another source of profit added. No sooner was this nicely settled than it was found that the nickel steel was too rich in nickel. The proper propotrion was only 3 1-2 per cent. of nickel, whereas the reduction works was turning out a product containing 7 per cent of nickel.

STEAMSHIPS AND RAILWAYS.

Mineralogists were at once sent out to find a mine of red hematite iron ore. Geologists said there was no such thing in Canada, but Clergue's experts stuck to their task until they found an extremely rich deposit of red hematite at Michipicoten, 150 miles from the Soo and only 12 miles of Lake Superior. It lies at the surface, so that it can be scooped up with steam shovels. A railroad was at once built to the lake. No steamships were available to carry the ore. So Mr. Clergue sent to England, where he bought four vessels, meanwhile beginning the building, ship building and railroad construction to Clergue's industries. Now the company has a fleet of 22 vessels, some of which will carry 6,000 tons of ore, and 400 miles of railroad under construction to bring wood to the pulp mills, nickel ore from the east and iron ore from the north to the banks of the power canal.

The ore in the mine, which has been named the Helen, assays 58 to 64 per cent iron, which is richer than the famous mines of Michigan and Minnesota. It is estimated that there are 30,000,000 of ore in sight. At first the output of the mine was sold to American furnaces but the sale of raw material is no part of the Clergue policy. The erection of blast furnaces and steel mills was at once begun. Now the company is rolling the rails for its own railroads, and filling liberal orders for others beside. These mills when completed will turn out 1,000 tons of material a day, including Bessemer steel, nickel, steel, armor plate, steel rails and structural steel, and will give employment to 4,400 men. The mills are the most up-to-date to be found anywhere; everything is done by electricity. The mills already use 4,500 power from the Canadian canal.

A PRAIRIE TODAY A TOWN TOMORROW

Eagle City Oklahoma is Being Built in a Hurry Today

A THOUSAND INHABITANTS

Wonderful Growth of the Latest Boom City of the Prairie Country

Eagle City, Okla, December 5— Over a thousand people arrived in Eagle City today on excursions from Northern Kansas, from Missouri and Arkansas accompanied by brass bands and glee clubs. The excursionists are all purchasers of lots in the new town and have come down to see the drawing, by which the location of their purchase is to be decided. The drawing commenced today and will be continued until all lots are drawn.

A structure, called Convention hall, 140 feet long, has been built for the accomodation of the visitors and arrangements for feeding them have been made. One thousand cots will also be placed in the hall, in order that excursionists may have a place to sleep.

The development of the new town has been somewhat retarded by the extreme difficulty of getting lumber and material on the ground. The bank is finished, all but the painting, and is doing business. There are four saloons in full blast. The pioneer store of Everhart & Buskirk, has been moved into its new building, and is ready for business. Everhart has had the Dilloh postoffice for some time, and the office happened to be situated right on the town site. The name of the office will be changed as soon as possible. Two grain firms have put in scales, and are buying poultry grain and produce.

The first building put up is Eckert's hotel and restuarant, a one-storey structure, floored with rough boards and sided and roofed with tar paper. The menu is very good, considering the difficulties under which it is prepared. Lodging is furnished by double bunks, placed along the wall in which the guests sleep head to head or feet to feet. There is plenty of the purest water here, and plenty to eat.

A wooded tract near town furnishes fine squirrel hunting, and jack rabbits sit on the hills and laugh at men with guns while the quail are remarkably numerous. Excellent black bass fishing is furnished by the North Canadian, and sportsmen from Kansas City and other large towns are taking advantage of the various opportunities to hunt and fish.

The first ball in Eagle City was held Monday night and dances will take place every night this week. To-morrow Governor Ferguson or some other prominent citizen of the territory will address the people, and Friday Chief Blue Bird and his Indians will give a war dance.

Stores are being opened up in tents and shanties of all kinds and what was yesterday a prairie will be a frontier town tomorrow. The first number of the Eagle City Star was issued yesterday by R. W. Hemphill, formerly of Marysville Kan.

PAY OF RAILWAY MEN

No Concerted Move for Increase in the West

Cleveland, Ohio, Dec. 3—Grandmaster P. H. Morrissey of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen who returned here yesterday from Chicago, where he was in conference with prominent representatives of his organization in the west and north-west, gave the request, a signed statement, which reads in part:—

"The reports emanating from Chicago that 170,000 men, represented by the established railway labor organizations, were forming a federation, or combination for the purpose of making a concerted demand for increased wages on the railwya companies in the Territory west of Chicago, are not authorative, and no such movement is in contemplation. Conferences of representatives of some of the classes of railway labor have recently been held in Chicago, but have had no relation to the formation of a plan for united movement.

"It is true, as has heretofore been officially stated, that the conductors and trainmen contemplate presenting requests for increased wages to lines in the western territory, within a short time but the procedure will be regular and orderly and in accordance with the established rules and customs of the Order of Railway Conductors, and Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.'

A FRIGHTFUL ACCIDENT

Three Persons Killed at Havelock on Saturday Evening

FATHER, MOTHER, AND SON

Two Others are Seriously Injured and May Not Recover

Inquest to be Held To Day by Dr. Gray, Coroner—The Father and Son Die at Nicholls Hospital

A frightful accident occurred at Havelock on Saturday evening by which three persons lost their lives. It appears that a farmer named James Rogers, with his wife, two sons and a daughter, who had been in the village shopping, were on their way home, and when they reached the C. P. R. crossing, just outside the village, the two seated carriage in which they were seated was struck by the local, which is due in the village at 8.10. Mrs. Rogers was killed instantly, and the others badly injured. Medical assistance was at once procured, and the injured ones taken to the station where their wounds were temporarily dressed. The father, daughter and one of the sons were placed on a freight train and brought to Peterborough, where they were taken to the Nicholls Hospital, arriving about midnight. The younger son, whose injuries were no so serious, was left at Havelock. The father died soon after reaching the hospital, and the son passed away yesterday about noon.

The daughter, whose injuries are also severe, is expected to recover. Both her jaws were broken, besides other wounds. Dr. Young, C. P. R. surgeon, was promptly notified, and had preparations made at the Hospital for their reception. The wounds were dressed by Drs. Young and Greer, assisted by Dr. Oldcroft, of Havelock, who did everything in their power for the sufferers.

The father was about 40 years of age, the mother 37, the injured boy at Havelock 9, the girl at the hospital 12, and the dead boy 11.

Dr. Gray, coroner, was notified, and had the two bodies shipped to Havelock last night. An inquest will be held this afternoon at Havelock, on the body of Mrs. Rogers.

Last night the condition of the remaining two were favorable.

DEADLY ATTACK ON RAIDERS

Villagess Attempt to Chastise Horse Thieves But Are Repulsed with Telling Effect

London, Dec. 6.—An extraordinary affray took place a few days ago at Lopatchevo, a populous village in the government of Kieff, Russia. This place has latterly earned an evil repute as harboring a band of cattle and horse thieves, who systematically raided the cattle of the village and hamlets in the adjoining district.

The rural police took little notice of the compaints of the victims, and the latter therefore took the matter of chastisement into their own hands. They organized an overwhelming attack upon Lopatchevo, which they approached in three columns from various points. They were no firearms among the attacking parties, but they were well equipped with stout cudgels. The enemy had, however, received warning, and were prepared for the onslaught, which was delivered with desperate vigor.

The conflict lasted a couple of hours, when the attacking party had to retire, leaving five of their number behind beaten to death. The defenders lost three killed, making eight fatalities altogether. There are 38 of the combatants in hospital, many of them injured for life.

Year by year, as soon as the dark nights of autumn begin, a veritable plague of horse stealing breaks out in the rural districts of Russia. There seems to be no means of checking this evil, which is now at its yearly zenith.

When one considers that the peasant's horse is almost his only property, and his chief instrument of labor, one can understand his bitter hatred of the horse thief. His hatred is nourished and fanned to fury by the knowledge of the light punishment which the Russian law provides for horse stealing. This is the explanation of the presence of lynch law in Russia and of its recent violent manifestation.

FATE OF THE HORSE THIEF.

The mode of lynch law most prevalent in Little Russia is this: When a horse thief is caught the men in the village club him to death, each trying to strike in such a way as to influct no injury more serious than a bruise. Far more horrible is the method of binding the feet of the criminal to the tail of a young and active colt. A lads leaps upon the animal's back and gallops away over ditch and meadow. A very few minutes of a ride like this and little is left of the horse thief.

A similar punishment is to bind the thief's feet to the axle of a cart and and then drive away as fast as the horse can travel.

Less general is the refined method of severing the knee tendons, which makes the thief a cripple for life.

A death of fearful agony is that by pin-pricks. For this mode of execution the thief is bound hand and foot to a bench or log, and the women of the village are then called together, and proceed to thrust needles and pins into the soles of the wretched victim's feet and other sensitive parts.

If the horse thief is short of stature his hands and feet are grasped by a number of peasants. One of the biggest and strongest of them then approaches from behind, seizes his head, and presses it backwards in the direction of the spinal column until the vertebrae snap.

Pitcairners Signal a Ship.

Belief that Mutineers are on an Island--Inhabitants Want them to Go

New York, Dec. 6.—The captain of the British ship Howth, from Australia, reports, according to a Herald despatch from San Francisco, that on September 25, when off Pitcairn Island, fire signals were noticeable. He says he made every effort to take his ship in, but was baffled in his attempts by the severe weather.

The captain is of the opinion that the mutaineers of the Leicester Castle, whose story was told yesterday in a despatch to the Associated Press from Queenstown, and that the signals were due to the desire of the inhabitants to get rid of the undesirable visitors.

REITZ IN NEW YORK

Ex-Transvaal Secretary of State Talks to Please the Clan-na-gael

New York, Dec. 8— F. W. Reitz, former secretary of state of the South African Republic was one of the principal speakers at a meeting tonight in Madison Square Garden concert hall, held under the auspices of the Clan na Gael, in commemoration of Manchester "martyrs." His remarks were confined chiefly to the last war in South Africa, which he charactreized as brutal and inhuman. He said the only reason peace terms were signed lay in the fear that the race would be exterminated through the deaths of the women and children in the concentration camps, where 25,000 had perished.

The State of Rio Grande do Sul is to guarantee 4 per cent. interest on the expenditure.

The heavy wrappings that encased the child's neck have been removed, and he can now move his head and control the muscles of his neck as freely as if he had never suffered from an affliction.

Americans Buy Millions of Acres of Ranching Land in Mexico

Salt Lake, Utah, Dec. 8— The purchase of millions of acres of Mexican territory along the borders of the United States for the purpose of creating one of the largest cattle-raising ranches in the world is the result of negotiations of American capitalists with Utah men as principals.

The purchased land comprises nearly 4,000 square miles of territory and extends along the border for 150 miles from a point sixteen miles west of El Paso, Texas.

The purchase price involves an initial expenditure of $21,000,000.

YUKON TELEGRAPH SERVICE

Hon. Mr. Sutherland Explains Cause of Interruption

Ottawa, December 5—Hon. James Sutherland, in consequence of the adverse criticism which has been passed on the working of the Yukon telegraph line, and the present breakdown, has had a memorandum prepared concerning the present delay in the transmission of messages. The memorandum includes a number of messages received from Mr. Phelan at Ashcroft, and Mr. Rochester, who is in charge of the line. The messages show that severe sleet and wind storms, which set in on the 26th ult., caused numerous breaks and that these storms have been frequent since. The men have been out constantly since, endeavoring to locate and repair breaks, but fresh breaks have occurred from day to day. Yesterday Mr. Phelan reported excessive storms with rain and sleet, followed by snow and heavy winds, bringing down great timber and causing continuous breaks over a section of 400 miles. Commenting on these despatches, the memorandum dwelt on the difficulty of maintaining an interrupted telegraph service in the face of storms of sleet and wind, which are the operators' chief drawbacks.

RUSSIAN AGITATORS ARE BEING PUNISHED

A Prince Has Been Deprived of His Official Position--Protecting Capital Invested in Italy

Agents of the Bond Working in the Transvaal—Have Seen an Undercurrent of Disloyalty Against Constituted Authority

London, Dec. 6.—With reference to the recent charges in the Afrikander Bond a Johannesburg correspondent says they should deceive none but those who wish to be deceived. The agents of the bond have for some time been working in the Transvaal, and it is believed that they have reported to the leaders of the organization that certain nominal changes would make possible a footing in what has hitherto been the enemy's stronghold. These agents have seen an undercurrent of disloyalty, not against the Crown, but against constituted authority which might be utilized to their own ends. Certain members of a prominent coterie has been making overtures resembling the course adopted in Cape Town. The movement is very small, but the machinations are of a kind which should be ignored.

PUNISHING THE AGITATORS.

London, Dec. 6.—A St. Petersburg correspondent says that the local committees which were appointed to inquire into the condition of agriculture, and which have been voicing widespread discontent with political and economic conditions in Russia, are now being made to suffer. Prince Dolgorouhoff has been punished for his action in connection with the Sudzha Committee, of which he was chairman. He has been deprived of his official position, placed under police supervision for five years, and forbidden to take part in public affairs for the same period.

PUTTING MONARCHY ON STABLE BASIS

London, Dec. 6.—In spite of the great obstacles to a definite understanding between Germany and the Czechs in regard to language in Bohemia, Vienna correspondent says there is reason to hope that the perservering efforts of the Cabinet will not have been quite in vain. A truce would suffice to avert the danger apprehended from Germany in connection with commercial treaties, and would place the economic relations of the dual monarchy on a stable basis for another ten years.

PROTECT CAPITAL.

London, Dec. 6.—A Rome correspondent says that the expropriation clause of the Municipalization of Public Services Bill, as amended in committee, proves that Signor Giolitti, Minister of the Interior, has a genuine desire to redeem his promise to protect capital whether foreign or Italian, invested in existing enterprises. It is provided that no business or enterprise shall be expropriated before the expiration of one-third of the peroid of the original concession, such time not to be less than ten years. There is also a rather complicated system of valuation for safeguarding the interests of shareholders and concessionaries, and appeal is allowed from the Board of Arbitration to a further board to be cominated by the president of the Court of Appeal.

INCOME FROM SUGAR BUSINESS

London, Dec. 6.—With the adoption of the French Sugar Duty Bill, says a Paris correspondent, the excise duty will be reduced from 75 to 36 per hundred kilos. M. Rouvier, Minister of Finance, thinks that in four or five years increased consumption of sugar will cover loss of $13,500,000 in revenue, but some people fancy that the refiners will pocket a large share of the reduction, and that consumption will not appreciably increase. Unless, however, the consumption does increase the output must be reduced from 1,100,000 to 400,000 tons. The State will in any case be relieved of ties, which in 1897 amounted to $13,800,000; and last year to $26,000,000.

London, Ont., Dec. 7.—It does not fall to the lot of many men to practically die and come to life again in the midst of funeral preparations, yet such is said to have been the experience last week of Mr. Frederick Horne, Clarence street, this city.

He had been ill for some time with bronchitis, and on Tuesday night his respiration ceased. His wife states positively that Mr. Horne ceased to breathe and had all the appearances of a corpse.

The sorrow-stricken group of anxious watchers as soon as they perceived this to be the case at once began preparations for the arrival of the undertaker. Warm water was procured and the body washed and bathed. It was while this was being done that the body was seen to quiver slightly, and presently the pulse beat feebly. The application of water and stimulants soon set the blood again in circulation, and as the minutes flew by the heart-beats grew stronger, until Mr. Horne slowly opened his eyes. He relapsed into a sleep, out of which he became stronger and better than he has been for some time. His condition improved gradually, and to-day he is on the road to recovery.

The application of warm water stirred the blood cells and won back the life that was slowly expiring. Undoubtedly if Mr. Horne had remained in the unconscious condition for a minute or so longer he would not be living to-day.

London, Dec. 6.—The past few months have found in the United Kingdom an unprecedented number of American buyers of thoroughbred cattle, whose purchases of high-class breeding stock aggregate many thousands of pounds. A number of the animals bought are intended for exhibition at the St. Louis Exposition. The prices paid range from $2,100 to over $4,250 per head. Scores of high-priced bulls and cows have been shipped during the past summer and fall. A number of purchases have also been made of tiny Dexter and Kerry cattle in Ireland, the breeding of which has recently become quite the fashion in England.

The ruling allowing the importation of Jersey and Guernsey cattle into the United States without the tuberculin test is expected to greatly stimulate purchases in those islands. The Agriculture Department's agents during the past ten years have inspected over twenty thousand head of cattle in Jersey and Guernsey and have not found a single case of tuberculosis. On the other hand, England and Scotland are badly infested, and breeders here on that account apprehend the early adoption of more stringent quarantine measures by the United States.

FOUND WIFE HAD MARRIED

MAN WHO DESERTED HIS BRIDE OVER THIRTY YEARS AGO

Gave no Reason for His Actions and Went Back Again—An Episode in Career of an Ohio Man

Benton Harbor, Mich., Dec. 7.—After thirty years absence and supposed to be dead, Mrs. Martha Conrad met at her home in this city her first husband.

Mrs. Conrad, thirty years ago, was the daughter of Dr. Samuel Thompson, a prominent physician of Dowagiac, now dead, and was wooed and won by Frank Berry, whose home was in Ohio. Three months after the wedding Berry bade his wife good-bye for a business trip to Benton Harbor, assuring his wife that he would return in twenty-four hours. After six months' absence the heartbroken wife was driven to anguish by a message from a woman claiming to be Berry's wife, informing her that Berry was in a dying condition at his home in Ohio and in his delirium called "Martha" so frequently that if she wished to see him alive to come atonce.

Though urged to go by her family and friends the young bride met her fate with an iron will, and remained in Dowagiac, leaving the unfaithful man to his fate.

Ten years later Mrs. Berry became the wife of Peter Conrad, at Decatur, Mich., to whom four children were born. Three years ago the Conrad home was established in Benton Harbor, where the husband has since conducted a profitable celery business.

Mrs. Conrad Sunday afternoon, on her return to the little farmhouse adjoining this city, was confronted by a tall bearded stranger, whom she readily recognized as her once devoted husband, but long ago supposed to be dead.

Berry had not known of his wife's marriage, and had come to get her, and if not properly cared for to provide her such comforts as desired.

Like Enoch of old he left never to return to mar the happiness of the woman he had all these years loved, but whom he deserted. Berry left for Dowagiac, thence to his business in Ohio, but will give no reason for his action of thirty years ago, when he deserted his young bride. The above was given out by Mrs. Conrad here yesterday afternoon.

Dr. Lorenz in Washington

Washington, Dec. 7—Dr. Adolph Lorenz the distinguished Vienna surgeon, whose operations in cases of congenital dislocation of the hip have made him world famous, accompanied by Dr. Frederick Muller, his operating assistant, arrived in Washington late this afternoon. So far the local association of physicians has been unable to discover a case of hip dislocation in Washington that would be susceptible of operation by Prof. Lorenz's method, and the prospects for a clinic at which the distinguished surgeon could show his skill are not bright.

THE STRIKE MAY AGAIN BE DECIARED ON

It is Doubtful if the Labors of the Commission will Have a Peaceful Termination

Every day it becomes more apparent that the trouble at the pennsylvania mines is by no means settled. It is even doubtful if the labors of the commission will have a peaceful termination. In fact, there seems the ever-present danger of the strike being again declared on, and in even greater ferocity than before. An attempt has been made to arrive at an agreement outside the commission, but it failed. The men appear to be standing loyally to their bargain, but if there is substantial truth in the statement of union miners that nearly 3,000 men have been black-listed and denied employment in the anthracite district because of their prominence in the strike, the coal operators would seem to have broken faith with the public, President Roosevelt and the miners. It was an essential condition of the truce agreed to by the coal trust and the United Mine Workers that the strikers should return to work, and conversely the operators bound themselves to take the strikers back into their employ. Discrimination against strike leaders, under such circumstances, is dishonorable and contemptible. The coal trust, however, has shown a readiness to dishonor its agreements and obligations that is entirely compatible with the breach of faith charged by the black-listed miners.

A FANTASTIC RUMOR

We have become accustomed to a variety of reports during the agitation for temperance reform, which we have ignored as both unlikely and pernicious, but we cannot allow currency to the rumor that the anti-prohibitionists intend presenting Mr. Ross with a purse, without giving it as our very decided opinion that such rumors tend to no good, even if wholly foundationless. The antis have won the day, but we do not think that so complete a victory after all represents the wishes of the Province. We are of opinion that a stricter and more impartially administered license law is what is wanted by the people, and not a reversal, as would seem of their verdict of four years ago. There is no doubt that the liquor interests feel grateful to Mr. Ross, but that they intend to reward him or that he would accept it we decline to believe.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Some contemporaries are calling it the Grand Trunk Pacific railway. Why the Pacific? Grand Trunk is a good enough name for the whole system, no matter how it may grow.

Away back in Shakespeare's time Puck said: "I'll put a girdle round about the earth in forty minutes." The commercial and Pacific Cable Company ask only thirty-nine minutes in which to flash a message around the world by July, 1903. It now takes thirty-nine hours to accomplish the same thing, but that is too slow in these twentieth century days.

Attacks upon the "rummage sale," still a popular institution in American cities, continue in one form or another. The trouble and vexation to those in charge of it may be at once conceded. Only last year an officer of a Brooklyn charity, went out of his way to record a protest against this way of raising church debts. The labor organizations also have threatened, because the bits of "rummage" sold competed with the new-made products of union labor. Nevertheless, the sales were not suppressed. It remained for the microbe to accomplish what all other agencies had failed to do. The Federated Trades of Milwaukee are submitting to the city board of health evidence which goes to show that the abandoned articles of bric-a-brac, partially worn carpets, and antique house furnishings, the staples of "rummage counters," are the homes of numberless colonies of bacteria. At present the case is still pending.

A big development of the peat industry is likely to take place in Newfoundland next summer, and the movement has been hastened owing to the high prices prevailing this fall in imported coal. A local company has been organized and Mr. Rubey has been sent to Toronto to acquire the necessary information about the manufacturing and preparing the peat for fuel. About one-fifth of the whole surface of the island, it is estimated, is covered with peat, which is said to be very well suited for fuel when properly manufactured. The company referred to have acquired from the Government a grant of a twenty-square mile area, in the vicinity of Cape Freels, on the coast, where they will begin development operations next spring. Should they succeed their example will, no doubt, be followed by others.

Captain Morrison, the clever editor of the Ottawa Citizen, who went through a campaign in South Africa, puts it this way:—Dewet will not enhance his reputation in the public estimation by abusing the men who served under him. While the ignorant commando Boers of the rank and file may have got tired of the hunting to which they were subjected in the last two years of the war sooner than did a man like De Wet who was building up a world-wide reputation the longer he was able to elude the British, still the fight which the Boer people put up against an army of nearly half a million men should prevent the word cowardice being associated with their name. De Wet also shows petulance rather than good judgment in referring to Kitchener's blockhouse system as the "blockhead system." It only took two or three "drives" after the system was completed to convince the Boer leaders that it was time to negotiate for peace.

Mr. E. F. T. Griffin, the C.P.R. Company's land commissioner in the northwest, is quoted as saying that "the influx of Americans into our country been enormous. Up to the end of June we sold 1,000,000 acres, and since then I suppose we have sold probably another 100,000. Pretty nearly one-half of this has gone into the hands of the Americans. Our sales this year have been three times what they were last, and people here have no conception of the tremendous development which is going on. Of course, prices are going up. I should estimate that land has increased 50 per cent. over this time last year, and it will continue to rise. The people are becoming prosperous and wealthy, and all property is advancing rapidly."

Rarely do you find material for a pathetic story on man's inhumanity to man like the following from a bulletin issued by the Chicago health Department:

While the Thanksgiving dinner of turkey was being prepared for the seventy fortunate inmates of the Chicago Home for Friendless Dogs and Cats last Thursday, an unfortunate father—Charles F. Maloney, of 650 State street—was trudging through the South Division, carrying his diphtheria-stricken 3-year-old daughter in his arms in search of some asylum, home or place where she could be taken in and cared for. Refused admission at hospital and dispensary, one after another, he finally reached a police station, whence he was directed to the health department, but the child died before he arrived at the commissioner's office.

—The five year old lad who arrived in town by C.P.R. yesterday morning, was sent back to Toronto. The Chief received a message with information regarding the boy from his aunt, who resides in the city.

VETERANS' LAND GRANT

Already Many of the Veterans Have Received Their Papers

Most of the veterans of the Fenian raid in 1866 in Peterborough, as well as elsewhere, have received their certificates from the Ontario Government. The remainder of them will be forwarded as fast as the claims can be verified and the certificates filled in. Accompanying each certificate is a circular giving full information as to the mode of procedure for the selection of lots, as well as a statement showing the townships in which locations can be made, with the name of the Crown lands agent under whose direction each of these townships is. The six thousand certificates do not comprise all who are entitled to land as there are a considerable number of claims to be considered. A room has been fitted up at the Parliament buildings, Toronto, for veterans, and hung with maps, so that veterans, while visiting Toronto, may become acquainted with the country in which their land is located. It will be under the general charge of Mr. Southworth.

The CANADIAN STEEL AND COAL COMPANY was organised to mine and manufacture iron and coal, coke and steel in Canada at Atlantic tidewater.

The raw materials for these manufactures are:—

1.—COAL. 2.—IRON. 3.—LIMESTONE.

All these materials we have at hand.

1.—COAL.

The Company controls 3,000 acres of excellent coal areas in the Province of Nova Scotia, and efforts are being made to increase this to 10,000 acres by the purchase of some very valuable additional coal fields.

The coal has been thoroughly tested and found to be suitable in every way for the manufacture of iron and steel, and the supply is practically inexhaustible. The following analysis was made by the Canadian Geological Survey:—

ANALYSIS.

Moisture	4.05
Vol. Comb. Matter	30.72
Fixed Carbon	60.
Ash	5.23
	100.00

COAL VEINS.

The several layers or seams of coal available aggregate 27 to 30 feet in thickness.

TITLES.

These areas are held under Crown Lease for a period of 80 years. Royalty 10 cents per ton of coal sold.

2.—IRON.

The Company has acquired by purchase immense iron deposits on the North Shore of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, about 350 miles from Sydney. The deposits are estimated to contain 20,000,000 tons [illegible] above sea level, with probably as much more below that line. The iron can be handled for $1.00 per ton or less. Quantities of this ore have been shipped to Great Britain and the United States, where it has given great satisfaction, and we can sell large quantities f. o. b. at the properties, netting us a profit of $2.00 per ton. This ore makes the finest steel.

3.—FLUX.

We are now negotiating for valuable deposits of dolomite and limestone of the most satisfactory quality, situated on the tide-water, within 100 miles of the works

MARKETS.

For six months in each year the Canadian markets can be reached by water at low freight rates, and at all times by rail. As Cape Breton is distant from Liverpool only about 2,300 miles; is nearer to Pernambuco, Brazil, than any point in the United States, and also nearer to Cape Town, South Africa, it has the advantage, in point of distance, for export business over any American steel-producing points, which, with scarcely any exceptions, are situated some distance from tide water. Under any conditions of the world's market, it is believed that the output of these works can be disposed of at satisfactory prices.

OUTPUT

When in full operation, the output is expected to be about as follows:—

1. IRON.—200,000 tons iron ore shipped direct from property, showing net profit of $2.00 per ton, total	$400,000 00
200,000 tons fine iron ore shipped in briquettes, showing net profit of $4.00 per ton, total	800,000 00
100,000 tons steel blooms, showing net profit of $3.00 per ton, total	300,000 00
2. COAL.—600,000 tons coal, showing net profit, at least, of $1.00 per ton, total	600,000 00
3. AIDS.—Government bounties (averaged) added to above per year for 6 years	100 000 00
Total yearly revenue	$2,200,000 00

GOVERNMENT AIDS.

To encourage the manufacture in the Dominion of iron and steel the Parliament of Canada has granted bounties as follows:—

		ON PIG IRON.	ON STEEL.
Apl. 21st, 1902, to July 1st,	1903	$2.70	$2.70
July 1st, 1903, " "	1904	2.25	2.25
July 1st, 1904, " "	1905	1.65	1.65
July 1st, 1905, " "	1906	1.05	1.05
July 1st, 1906, " "	1907	.60	.60

If the production of steel from the Company's works be as estimated, 300,000 tons per annum, the bounties to be received from the Canadian Government will be as follows:—

1904	$225,000
1905	215,000
1906	145,000
1907	85,000
or an average of $100,000.00 per annum for 6½ years	$670,000.00

NET REVENUE

Total net annual profits		$2,200,000.00
LESS FIXED CHARGES:—
7 per cent. interest on preferred stock	$70,000.00
Sinking Fund	60,000.00
Incidentals	25,000.00
		155,000.00
Net yearly profits		$2,045,000 00

Equivalent to yearly dividends of over 30 per cent., or 15 per cent. half yearly on total capitalization.

If the capitalization was increased to .... $20,000,000.00 this estimate would still show a dividend-earning capacity of 10 per cent. per annum.

The capitalization of the Dominion Coal Co. is .... $20,000,000.00 earning fully 12 per cent., and is paying 8 per cent. guaranteed dividends on this enormous sum.

The capitalization of the Dominion Iron and Steel Co. is ...... $28,000,000.00 on which it is believed 6 per cent. dividends will be earned.

The capitalization of the Canadian Steel & Coal Company is only $6,000,000.00 controlling, it is believed, equally valuable properties, and it is reasonable to expect much larger dividends.

Within the last few months Dominion Coal shares common rose in market value from $40 to $144 per share, and Dominion Iron & Steel Company's shares common rose over $30 per share in market value.

With such low capitalization the Canadian Steel and Coal Co's shares should show tremendous profits, and it is confidently believed they will.

BUY! WHY?

BECAUSE

THE SOUR LAKE OIL CO.

Has placed four-fifths of its stock in the treasury for development work; and because

Oil is reached in less than half the depth required on Spindletop Heights in Beaumont;

The people in Canada are well acquainted with the management, which is in the hands of HON. JOHN L. BITTINGER, United States Consul General to Canada; F. S. Ashley, Vice-President of the Massachusetts Securities Co., and W. L. Marston, Vice-President of the American Union Oil and Refining Co.

These gentlemen have made a dividend payer out of one company and have raised the value of its stock from 5c per share to par value, or 25c, within a very short time;

The company is operating in the Sour Lake field, where fewer wells will tap the oil than at Spindletop; this insures a greater flow of oil, and it is of a better quality;

This is the first allotment of shares at the present price of FIVE CENTS PER SHARE; it is the lowest price at which you can buy, and the time left in which to buy at FIVE CENTS is short.

Wall Street Flooded with Pessimistic Talk

New York, Dec. 6—The market is down at a comparatively low level, and as usual the street is flooded with gloomy and pessimistic tales. It always is when it is down, and strange to say much of this talk emanates from sources which about September 1st last, when the market was close on top prices were radiantly bullish. They are probably as wrong now as they were then. The talkative western contingent are also quiet at present, and whenever an expression of opinion can be gathered from them at all it is all to the bad. We are in a period of rest and dullness prior to market movement in the opposite direction to the last one, and the last one was a severe downward movement. It will be more than likely be more or less of a drag before the start, and stocks will be inclined to heaviness; that is what manipulators like when they are engaged in the process of accumulating. Stocks cannot be successfully accumulated with a brass band. If you sell stocks at the present time when the market is inclined to weakness, you will, in our opinion, be caught and compelled to make a loss. If you will courageously purchase them when attacked, we believe you will make fair profits in so doing. The traders on the floor of the Exchange have been working on the bear side, discounting what is expected to be an unfavorable bank statement or any weakness after its announcement on Saturday. Stocks should, we believe, be purchased; the traders have pretty generally gotten short of stocks the past three or four days, and they are at the moment the active element of the market, cliques slowly accumulating and the commission houses practically doing nothing. In the past three years each upward movement in the market of any dimensions has been preceded by just such a period and just such a state of affairs. An upward movement once under way will give a different tinge to Wall street stories. Bullish feeling will be engendered and people will become interested—they always do. Stocks will as usual prove more attractive to speculators when more active, at a range of prices from 5 to 10 per cent. above those ruling at present.

Summary—The market was without particular feature running after the opening and recovering in the last hour. A. C. P., Sugar and Norfolk and Western particularly resisting any declining tendency. B. R. T. and Manhattan, and N.Y.C. were firm. Deposits decreased over $4,000,000, while loans increased about $1,000,000 and a half. Indications for the coming week promise but little more than a traders' market. Either purchase when weak or sell on the bulges, looking for only comparatively small profits. It matters but little which side you make first, if done as outlined above. Money closed 5 1-2 and 6 per cent. Sales 168,300.

LARDEAU MINES

CAPITALIZED AT $100.000

The Lardeau Mines, situated in West Kootenay, British Columbia, offers a splendid chance for investors. There is every reason to believe that the Lardeau Mines WILL PAY A PROFIT OF TWO HUNDRED AND SEVENTY PER CENT. per year. No stock-jobbing; a small close corporation with large profits to each shareholder. Those who are fortunate enough to buy stock at 10 cents CAN RELY ON AN ANNUAL INCOME OF $135 from an investment of $100. In other words you get your principal back and $35 besides every year. What better can you want? This is your golden opportunity.

FROM 1,000 SHARES OF STOCK

THAT IS WHAT CALUMET & HECLA PAYS

Would You Like an Income of this Kind?

We cannot guarantee an income of this kind from 1,000 shares of stock, but we can guarantee that every dollar you invest in the guaranteed stock of The Gold Hammer Mines and Tunnel Company at 20 cents per share is secured by a GOLD BOND DEPOSITED IN BANK AT THE TIME OF THE PURCHASE OF THE STOCK TO THE CREDIT OF THE BUYER, WHICH INSURES HIM AGAINST LOSS. We can also guarantee, to the best of our judgment, that the development of the ore bodies will make the shares advance at least 100 per cent in twelve months, and, owing to the bond being deposited to the credit of the purchaser, entirely eliminates the feature of chance from the investment. The property is located right in the heart of the Clear Creek District at Idaho Springs, and completely surrounded by big producers.

Details of this proposition will be carefully explained in a handsomely illustrated booklet, (the price of which is twenty-five cents), and is not for general distribution, but we will mail it free to parties who are sufficiently interested to write for it. If you wish to make money you cannot afford to be without this book. If you do not care to make money we cannot afford to send it to you, as it costs us money. This book also gives the story of how Stratton and many others have made millions in mining. These valuable pointers will make you money if you will take advantage of the present opportunity. Write for particulars, and you will not regret it. This is not a gamble, but a bona fide speculation without chance of loss.

Money in Oil

Special Despatch to the Ontario & California Oil Co, Limited:

Chatham, Dec. 1, 1902.

The Gusher was turned on to-day, and in five hours filled up all the Standard Oil Company's available tankage—so far has given one thousand barrels, at the rate of fifty barrels per hour.

Talk about dividends, talk about advance in value—what investment will compare with this?—Figure it out—OIL two dollars per barrel—means earning one hundred dollars per hour—ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS invested in this Syndicate a few weeks ago—NOW ACTUALLY WORTH FORTY THOUSAND DOLLARS.

REASONS WHY	REASONS WHY
Stock in the Ontario and California Oil Co. may prove just as profitable within the next few weeks.	Prompt action on your part is required

1.—The Ontario and California Oil Co., Limited, is a home company, organized under the laws of Ontario, shares fully paid and non-assessable, built and equipped on the right principle—TO PAY PROFITS AND DIVIDENDS—when earned from the ground, and this object attained—NO STOCK FOR SALE BY THIS COMPANY.

2.—Owns the oil leases on one thousand acres, and are next door neighbors of the Big Gusher owners.

3.—Several drilling rigs NOW at different points on the Company's properties under the direction of the best oil men in Petrolea, men who are oil men in the full sense of the word (not speculators)—connected with oil refineries and the largest oil interests in Canada, and these oil men came to this Company, made their offers, put their money in, and are joining in the development of a large block of the Company's properties.

4.—Ten days to two weeks will complete a well. FIVE WELLS are being put down as fast as men and money can do it.

5.—One may be a gusher, or all may be gushers; in either case the advance will be REAL, and a few weeks will bring you greater profits than you ever dreamed of.

RISK? Yes—so there is in everything—otherwise you would not have the chance of buying One Thousand Shares for Two Hundred and Fifty Dollars, which in Thirty Days may be worth One Thousand to Ten Thousand Dollars. Masterly inactivity has ruined many an opportunity to make a fortune—don't wait now and wish later on.

ACT AT ONCE—The block of stock which the Company is offering at Twenty-five Cents per Share is daily getting smaller. Send for November report, Application Forms, etc., and get your order in ON TIME. Apply J. L. [illegible], Secretary Ontario & California Oil Company, Limited, Toronto, or

About Bonusing

Orillia News-Letter: The bonusing by towns to get manufacturing establishments is getting played out, although the practice is still kept up. Some towns are staggering under the burden of taxes to pay bonuses to manufacturers which are really not worth the price. Most of the companies looking for bonuses are depending to a large extent on the town's money to start them in business.

A SOLDIER'S FOE

Knocked Down by Unexpected Enemy

Coffee so affects the brain and nerves that proper nutrition is interfered with and the final ending is frequently nervous prostration.

"During the Spanish-American war I went with my troop to Chickamauga," says Lieut. J. G. Talbott, of Springfield, Ills. "If there is any one place on earth where one drinks more coffee than another it is in the army. It is a soldier's 'back bone' and I can assure you that I drank my share. After several months of hard drilling my health gave out, the chief cause being coffee, bad food, over-exertion and heat.

On the advice of the surgeon, I tendered my resignation and with my heart full of regret and my nervous system shattered, I returned home. Almost the first thing the doctor whom I consulted advised me was to quit coffee. That was the first intimation I had that coffee had anything to do with my condition. The next thing was, 'What shall I drink?'

My wife's mother used your Postum Food Coffee and knew how to make it right, so I tried it and grew very fond of it. My nervous trouble soon left; my old time health came back, and that Fall I gained so in flesh that the boys on returning from 'muster out' hardly knew me. Quitting coffee and using Postum did wonders for me

BEET SUGAR MEETING

Addressed by Prof. Shuttleworth, of Guelph Agricultural College

A meeting of those interested in the erection of a beet sugar factory in Peterborough was held in the market hall on Saturday afternoon, and was fairly well attended. The meeting was addressed at some length by Prof. Shuttleworth, of Guelph Agricultural College, who gave an interesting talk on the growth and cultivation of the sugar beet and the advantage it would be to the farmer if a factory was erected in Peterborough. Prof. Shuttleworth also spoke of the success of the Berlin and Wallaceburg factories, and the great advantage the farmers were deriving from them.

It was proposed to run another excursion to Berlin at an early date and to charter a special train so as to start early in the morning and return the same day or stop over if desired, the fare to be about $3. Nothing definite as yet has been arranged.

About Beet Sugar

Now that the Ontario Sugar Company is making sugar, and very pretty sugar, from beets at Berlin, people are naturally taking more interest in the concern and are talking and asking about it. We recommend to such as are curious that they send to Berlin and secure a copy of the "News Record" of November 8th, or the "Daily Telegraph" special issue of November 22nd. These are both illustrated and both devoted to a sketch of the rise and progress of the beet sugar industry. Views of the works at different stages are given, and portraits of most of the directors, as well as of the indefatigable managing director, Mr. Williams.

Increase in Lockage

Bobcaygeon Independent: The season of navigation has been a longer one than usual, commencing early and closing late. As an excursion season it was not good, the weather being too wet, and cool. June, July, August and September were very near even in number of boats passing through, and for scows, August, September and October were the best months. The total lockages for the season were 569, and of these 404 were boats, 119 scows, and 246 cribs. Mr. McFarlane reports a large increase in traffic through his lock at Lovesick. When he first went there three years ago, the lockages were only 170, this season they totaled 514. The number made for steamers was 353, for barges 77, rafts 84. The development by the T. V. N. Co'y, of the Kawartha Lakes, with their steamer service, has much to do, of course, with the increase of traffic.

Further particulars, time tables, etc., on application to Agents of the Grand Trunk Railway.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

NOTE.—The Times requests its readers to furnish the paper with items of a personal and social nature, either by phone or in writing.—[Ed. Times]

—Mr. James McRoberts, Millbrook, was in town Saturday.

—Mr. John Miller, Evening News, Toronto, spent Saturday in town.

—Rev. Mr. Yule, of Bethany, was in town Saturday.

—The Rev. Canon Harding, of Apsley, was in town last week.

—Mr. Joseph LeMay, of Rapid City, Man., is home visiting his sister, Mrs. Joseph Batten, 251 McDonald street.

—Lakefield News: Mrs. A. Wilson and family have removed to Peterborough where they will reside in future.

—Miss Mamie Roberts, 146 Shuter street, Toronto, who has been visiting friends in town for the past couple of weeks, returned home Saturday.

—His Lordship the Bishop of Toronto passed through town on Saturday on his way to Hastings, where Confirmation services were held yesterday.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

—The Board of Works will meet this evening.

—It is not true that barkeeps are putting more shirt collar on the beer to make up for the referendum expenses.

—A blaze in the house occupied by Dr. Blanchard, corner of Louis and Charlotte streets, early on Saturday morning, gave the fire brigade a run. There was little damage done.

—In the list of donations to the prize list of the Winter Fair at Guelph, by the pork packing establishments, we find the Geo. Matthews Company, Peterborough, set down for $25.

—Bobcaygeon Council has laid several stretches of hardpack gravel walks, five feet wide, at 5c. a running yard. Planks, sleepers and nails for similar width of walk would cost 9c. a running yard, exclusive of cost of construction.

—Bankers are complaining that they cannot get enough money to supply their customers. Those of us who have had the same experience with our creditors will know how to sympathize with the poor bankers.

—Dr. Bryce, secretary of the Provincial Board of Health, says that the increase in the number of cases of typhoid fever in the city is largely due to infected milk. Once upon a time, when there was a Board of Health in Lindsay, we used to hear of milk inspections at regular intervals.

—Do your shopping for Christmas as early as possible, if you would have the pick of the goods. The shops look very inviting now. All the best places are represented in the Times' advertising columns. You can make no mistake in going directly to them.

—Preparations are being made to do work on the canal at Hastings. The blasting scow has been taken there and a number of men will be engaged during the next few months in blasting rock in the river below the locks.

THE PRISONER

Who escapes from jail is by no means free. He is under the ban of the law and punishment is written over against his name. Soon or late he will be caught again and bear added punishment for his short escape from his cell.

Those who by the use of palliative powders and tablets escape for a time from the sufferings of dyspepsia are in the same condition as the escaped prisoner. Soon or late they will go back to the old condition and pay an added penalty for temporary release.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures dyspepsia and other diseases of the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition. Its cures are lasting.

"For about two years I suffered from a very obstinate case of dyspepsia," writes R. E. Secord, Esq., of 13 Eastern Ave., Toronto, Ontario. "I tried a great number of remedies without success. I finally lost faith in them all. I was so far gone that I could not bear any solid food on my stomach for a long time; felt melancholy and depressed. Could not sleep or follow my occupation (tinsmith). Some four months ago a friend recommended your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' After a week's treatment I had derived so much benefit that I continued the medicine. I have taken three bottles and am convinced it has in my case accomplished a permanent cure. I can conscientiously recommend it to the thousands of dyspeptics throughout the land."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood and lungs.

KRUGER'S VERSION OF HOW THE WAR STARTED

He Says that Great Britain is Wholly Responsible for the Trouble

BLAMES MR. CHAMBERLAIN AND SIR A. MILNER

He Had Already Publicly Announced his Attention of Reducing Residence Period

London, Dec. 8.—We now come to the period immediately preceding the serious crisis. In the meantime the English and the English press, both in South Africa and England, were agitating and vociferating against the Republic. An election had taken place in the previous year in Cape Colony, in which the Afrikander party had gained the victory, a fact which drove Rhodes and all his jingo clique to fury. Sir Alfred Milner, instead of confining himself to his role of Governor, showed himself in his true colours and openly espoused the side of the jingoes in Cape Colony. It was evident to all that a crisis was near at hand, which, if not carefully treated, could only end in catastrophe. But where there are two parties it avails nothing that one is yielding and compliant when the other at all costs pushes matters to extremes, and, as in this case, to a war. That the Government of the South African Republic, in the negotiations that preceded the war, was yielding and compliant is shown by the manner in which the correspondence with England was conducted at the time.

The question of the franchise was that which Sir Alfred Milner and Mr. Chamberlain employed as a pretext to force a war upon the Republic. Before, therefore, discussing the negotiations concerning the franchise question, it is well to mention the fact that as early as the beginning of 1899 I had held meetings of the burghers at Rustenburg and Heidelberg in order to obtain their support for my proposal to reduce the period for securing a full franchise from fourteen years to nine years. From there I went to Johannesburg, and there declared at a public meeting that I hoped later to reduce the period of nine years' residence to a still shorter period.

FORCED BY CHAMBERLAIN.

This fact deserved special mention, because it was probably that which startled Mr. Chamberlain and Sir Alfred Milner and impelled them to hurry on the crisis. Firmly determined as they were to force a war on the Republic, these two men saw that they must lose no time, since I myself had begun to introduce reforms which might presently deprive them of their pretext for going to war. Sir Alfred Milner was in England at that time, and doubtless turned his stay to account to arrange with Chamberlain how they must set to work to carry out their Imperialist programme. By the time he returned the whole thing was settled [illegible] arranged.

[illegible] league at Johannesburg began by drawing up a petition to the Queen in which they enumerated a mass of grievances which, as British subjects, they claimed to have against the Republic, and ended by asking for the intervention of the British Government. Mr. Fraser, the acting British Agent, refused to receive the petition. For this he was rapped over the knuckles by the Colonial Secretary, who was just seeking an opportunity to meddle with the internal affairs of the Republic, with the result that on a later occasion, Mr. Conyngham Greene, the real representative of the British Crown at Pretoria, who had also been to England with Sir Alfred Milner, knew better what was expected of him. In the meantime Sir Alfred Milner had declared that an anti-British movement existed among the Afrikander population in South Africa. This, mark you, after he had cabled to England in 1897, on the occasion of the Queen's Jubilee, that the Afrikanders in Cape Colony were very loyal to England.

A second petition was drawn up by the league and signed by 21,684 British subjects. The signatures were collected by every kind of fraud. The Government of the Republic obtained many sworn declarations which stated that individuals had signed as many names as came into their head. In the same way, the names of deceased and absent persons were placed on the lists. This is easily understood, when one realises that the persons who went round with the lists were paid according to the number of names which they obtained. A few days later the Government at Pretoria received a petition with nearly 23,000 signatures, in which the signers, Uitlanders of every nationality, declared that they were satisfied with the administration of the country. But it was not Mr. Chamberlain's object to receive a genuine petition, so long as he could obtain a weapon with which to attack the Republic, and this weapon was afforded him by the aforesaid petition which was speedily despatched to him by the British Agent, Mr. Greene.

THE BLOEMFONTEIN CONFERENCE

Meanwhile at the commencement of May, Sir Alfred Milner had sent a cablegram to England, which would have done credit to a sensation mongering journalist. In this despatch he declared that Her Majesty's Government must give some striking proof of its intention not to be ousted from its position in South Africa, that thousands of British subjects were kept permanently in the position of helots, and that the case for intervention was overwhelming. Mr. Chamberlain thereupon sent a despatch, dated May 10, 1899 in which he acknowledged the receipt of the petition to the Queen, recapitulated all the grievances of the Uitlanders, and ended by suggesting to Sir Alfred Milner that a conference should take place between him and myself at Bloemfontein, at which the question would be discussed. In the meantime, prompted by a sincere desire to put an end to the prevailing disquiet, President Steyn, before the receipt of this despatch, had made the same proposal to both myself and Sir Alfred Milner. We both accepted the invitation and the well known Bloemfontein conference met on the 31st day of May, 1899, and lasted several days. With me were Schalk Burger and A. D. Wolmarans, members of the Executive Raad, and J. C. Smuts, the State Attorney. Mr. Abraham Fischer, a member of the Executive Raad of the Orange Free State, kindly offered to act as interpreter.

The conference came to nothing. Sir Alfred Milner showed from the commencement that he had not the least desire to come to an agreement. He demanded:

1. Franchise after five years residence.
2. An alteration in the oath of naturalization
3. Increased representation of the new burghers in the Volksraad.

After several day's discussion I offered:

1. Naturalization after two year's residence. Full franchise after five years more (or seven years in all, instead of fourteen, as the law then stood.).
2. Increased representation of the Uitlanders in the Volksraad.
3. An oath of naturalization similar to that in the Orange Free State.

I demanded, however, that the franchise should be made to depend on the possession of a certain amount of property and naturalization on the production of proof that the individual concerned possessed civic rights in his own country. I also asked that, as a compensation for the concessions which I was making, the British Government should accept the principle of arbitration in the case of differences between the two States. Sir Alfred Milner, however, declared that the concessions were quite insufficient.

During this conference I pointed out to Sir Alfred that a quantity of the signatures appearing on the petition to the Queen were spurious, whereupon the latter answered:

Very well, we will investigate the matter.

He asked me whether the petition which had been addressed to the Government of the Republic did not also contain false signatures. I denied this positively, and I said I was prepared at once to appoint a committee to enquire into the genuineness of both petitions. I said I was further prepared to grant the British Government the right of nominating Englishmen to act as members of this committee. Only the committee must not be appointed from England, or acquire an official character, as this might make it appear as though the Republic were under British suzerainty. Hereupon Sir Alfred would hear no more, and said:

"Let us drop the subject."

For the rest, he continued to insist upon what he called "his irreducible minimum." He declared that he had other grievances, which would remain, even if the franchise question was settled, and refused to produce them until the franchise question had been settled in his way.

The same evening I went to Sir Alfred, asking him to meet me again for further deliberation; but Sir Alfred answered that he "considered this unnecessary and that the conference was ended."

THE HAVELOCK ACCIDENT

INQUEST ON THE REMAINS BEGAN YESTERDAY AND ADJOURNED

Further Particulars of the Tragedy—The Boy and Girl Doing Nicely—How it Occur[red] No Blame Attached to the Railway

Further particulars of the distressing accident at Havelock on Saturday are at hand. It appears that Mr. Rogers, his wife, two sons, and a girl—Edith C. Smith by name—were seated in a sleigh. When they approached the track they heard the train, and Mr. Rogers, instead of waiting till it had passed, whipped his horses up and attempted to cross in front of the train. In the front of the sleigh was seated Rogers, his wife and the girl, who is 12 years of age. The two boys occupied the rear seat. The engine struck the rig square in the centre, between the two bob-sleighs. The little girl was thrown over into a vacant lot, having both jaws broken. Rogers and his wife were carried on the cowcatcher a considerable distance—probably an eighth of a mile. The elder boy was also thrown some distance.

It was probably fifteen or twenty minutes after the accident that a man happened to see the body of Mrs. Rogers, lying on the side of the track. The alarm was given, and moans were heard coming from the 9 year old boy, Walter, who was lying behind a pile of wood, and suffering from a dislocated ankle. When found he said that he had just woke from a sleep, having been stunned.

After arriving at Nicholls Hospital Rogers died, and a few hours later the elder boy passed away. The girl, who was taken from the Barnardo Home last May, will recover, as also will the youngest boy, Walter, who is only slightly injured. Dr. Young, assisted by Dr. Greer, (who is the hospital physician this month) and Dr. Oldcroft, of Havelock, did everything in their power to save the boy, but without success. He was frightfully hurt, having his skull fractured, besides many other injuries.

Yesterday Dr. Gray, coroner, accompanied by County Crown Attorney Wood, went down to Havelock and opened an inquest on the remains of the three victims. After empannelling a jury, the inquest was adjourned until Thursday, when evidence will be taken, and a verdict reached.

Not the slightest blame is attached to the railway. The boy says that they all heard the whistle of the engine, and it was then that Rogers whipped his horses into a run to get across the track.

Coroner Gray issued permits for burial and the funeral of the three victims will take place this afternoon.

Madrid, Dec. 8—The alleged Anarchist Antonia Pulgar, or Perez, who was arrested at Orense yesterday and who said he had come from Buenos Ayres to assassinate King Alfonso, was examined by a Magistrate today.

He said he was a member of a society which had deputed him to murder the King. He produced a dagger which was to have been used in accomplishing his purpose.

DIES ON WEDDING DAY

An Iowa Man Kills Himself at His Home

Des Moines, Iowa, December 8—Bert. McNutt was to have married Miss Magdalene Guth at noon Thursday, but failed to appear.

When his parents went to their home an hour later they found him writhing in death agony.

He had shot himself and died in three hours, leaving a letter to his fiancee protesting his affection for her, but not explaining the reasons for his suicide. His relatives believe he was mentally deranged.

A TOUCHING TRIBUTE

Written by a Husband to His Aged Wife

This touching tribute by a Peterborough husband of three-score and ten to his wife on her seventieth birthday, which occurs to-day, helps wonderfully to revive our faith in human nature in these days, when matrimonial unhappiness is so freely exploited on all sides:

"Thy hand hath led me to the light,
And life is new to me,
And all I hoped so sweet and bright,
And beautiful with thee.

'Twas thus I sang one day in June,
Far in our honeymoon,
And now at seventy say in tune,
It was not sung too soon.

Upon your cheeks the roses' tint,
For me will bloom away,
For time's slow changes on us print
So imperceptibly.

I see to-day your auburn hair,
And swear I see no gray,
Nor wrinkles on your face, still fair,
As on your wedding day.

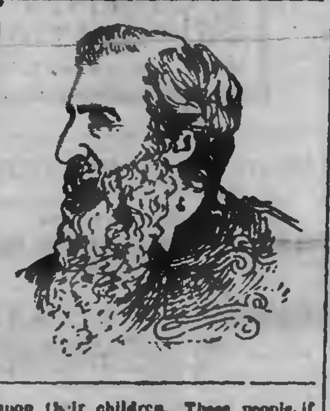
So here this little bunch of flowers,
I hand you as a pledge,
In memory of our wedded hours,
There is no "ragged edge."

A MAN OF BUSINESS IS GENERAL BOOTH

Founder of the Salvation Army — Now at Winnipeg

He Tells of His Colonization Plans for Canada

Has Personally Inspected the Land in the Edmonton District



Winnipeg, Dec. 8—A representative of The Times called upon General Booth at the officers' quarters of the Salvation Army yesterday and was given a genial reception by the veteran salvationist, and founder of the Army, who, notwithstanding the weight of many years, is standing the fatigue of his journey remarkably well, especially considering the amount of work he is doing and the number of public meetings he is addressing.

"I landed in New York," he said, "nine weeks ago, and struck this country at St. John, N.B. I visited Halifax, Montreal, Kingston, Ottawa, Hamilton and Toronto. Crossing into the United States I addressed meetings at Buffalo, Columbus, Toledo and Chicago. I visited St. Paul and Minneapolis and from there came to Winnipeg, by way of Duluth and Grand Forks. I was here twice before so that the metropolis of the Great West is not entirely new to me. From here I go to Des Moines and then right on to 'Frisco. From there I will take my way back to New York by a southern route, leaving for England about the first of March. My next tour will be through Europe and on to India, Australia and South Africa, finishing up," he characteristically added, "in heaven, where I hope to meet you."

TOUR A GREAT SUCCESS.

"Are you satisfied with the results of your trip?"

"Yes, very much so. I have had very good meetings all the way through and not a single gathering that could be put down as a failure. Everywhere they have been great crowds fighting for admission. There has always been a kind feeling and great sympathy, and, so far, the campaign may be regarded as a somewhat remarkable success."

"In what condition do you find your army of followers?"

"I find the army greatly advanced in every respect as a whole in the States, and in every department in Canada. I hope we are going to do even better in the future than we have in the past. The difficulties in Canada are in common with the difficulties in any other movement in this new country—we want more people to work with."

"Have your colonization projects developed satisfactorily yet?"

"Not in Canada. I spent a great deal of money in inspection of land in the Edmonton district and sent three officers out to look over the country. I made a proposition to the Dominion government, but they did not see fit to give me the assistance that I required, so nothing further has been done here but I hope that we will be able to establish some of these colonies in Canada, which have proven to be such a great success elsewhere. I have fifteen land colonies now at work, some in Australia and some in South Africa, and a very large one at the mouth of the Thames in England. One in Colorado has been a most marked success. We took up 2,000 acres there and settled people upon the land from the American cities. They are all doing well and are paying back the money advanced to get them started.

HIS PLANS OF COLONIZATION.

"My idea," continued the general, "is this. You offer a man 160 acres of land and you might as well offer him a white elephant. But you give him some sort of a shanty to live in, a cow and a few of the necessaries of life, and you can get what you want most of all in the West—peasant farmers. These are the people who have made England, and they are the backbone of a country. They are living upon meagre wages in the Old Country, with no prospects for their old age, excepting dependence upon their children. These people, if aided to a certain extent, would come out here and do very well. They would soon pay back what money was advanced them, and from the standpoint of a money-making venture alone, if you are not influenced by humanitarian motives, it is a good movement. I have just bought 22,000 acres in Western Australia and spent a good deal of money on it. I have three farms in South Africa and one in Natal, to which the people and the government have subscribed with great liberality. I spent $750,000 upon the colony at the mouth of the Thames, and today I could, if I wished, sell land that I bought there for $100 an acre, for $2100. We are going to make a city there, and the Army will get back every cent it has expended."

Terrific Gale and Snowstorm

Despatch from Collingwood Tells of Demoralized Traffic--Steamers Frozen In

Collingwood, Ont., Dec. 8.—Dense snowstorm and terrific gale from Northwest has demoralized traffic on road and railway in the northern district. The second train from Collingwood broke down eight miles south of here while pushing through drifts, and had to return. The north-bound freight engine became disabled near Stayner, and the engine was despatched to bring train through. Gale and blinding storm also cause much uneasiness in marine circles because of non-arrival of last vessels out. Word comes that the Germanic is frozen in at Richards Landing, on north shore, and two tugs have been sent from the Sault to her rescue. The City of Midland arrived at Owen Sound last night. The steamer Atlantic is still somewhere on northshore, having left a few days ago with a big load of freight. Huronic is also on Lake Superior on her last trip from Sarnia. Boats running ten days later than last year, because of pressure of freight business.

SCENE OF DISORDER WAS ALL PREARRANGED

Scheme of Nationalists to Raise the Deadweight of Public Indifference

Suppression of Chinese Piracy—Sir Ernest Satow Urged to Use His Influence to Make the Chinese Government Adopt Strong Measures

London, Dec. 8.—The Paris correspondent of the Times says it would be a mistake to think that Saturday's violent scene in the Chamber of Deputies was improvised. It was a scandal prearranged by the Nationalists and members of the right, in which the Republican majority artlessly became an involuntary accomplice. It was one of those schemes of which Nationalism has the secret, a scheme for raising the deadweight of public indifference, which is beginning to bear the party down. Parliamentarism is the great enemy of the Nationalists, and of the right, because it thwarts their ambition. After cheering Boulanger crying "Panama," and shouting "Vive l'Armee," during the Dreyfus affair, they are now trying to make the Humbert fraud the battering-ram against the walls of the Republic.

TO STOP CHINESE PIRACY.

London, Dec. 8.—The Hong Kong correspondent of the Times says that Sir Ernest M. Satow has conferred with the China association on the illegal Chinese duties, the increase of piracy and the further opening of the southern waterways to foreign craft. The local bodies urged Sir Ernest to use his influence in order to make the Chinese Government adopt strong measures for the suppression of piracy and lawlessness in Southern China. Information has been received that the Chinese have abandoned the illegal tax on opium at Canton and Swatow.

COMMERCIAL TREATIES.

London, Dec. 8.—The Vienna correspondent of the Times says public opinion is preoccupied with the question of commercial treaties. It is believed that the Hungarian Premier's arrival at Vienna is connected with the same subject. Emperor William has sent to Count Goluchowski, the Austro-Hungarian Minister of Foreign Affairs, a richly framed photograph of himself, "as a momento of the renewal of the triple alliance." Nieue Freie Presse interprets this gift as a sign that the Austro-German negotiations will be conducted with all friendliness.

The correspondent says the treaty with Italy is irrevocably doomed, mainly because the Hungarians want to destroy the wine clause, on which subject Austria-Hungary has made formal engagements with France. Italy will not take offence, knowing that the treaty will be denounced by Austria-Hungary regretfully, as an unavoidable concession to Hungarian sentiment.

A NEWSPAPER FICTION.

Berlin, Dec. 8.—The announcement that Prince Henry of Pless is to succeed Dr. Von Holleben as the German Ambassador, is a newspaper fiction. In fact, the Kaiser has no intention of recalling Dr. Von Holleben, who does not express any desire to retire from his post. Prince Henry of Pless has recently chosen a diplomatic career and is still very young. He is at the disposal of the Kaiser, and it is well known that the monarch is holding him in reserve for some good diplomatic post.

SULTAN NEARLY CAPTURED

His Troops Suffer Heavily But Repulse the Tribesmen

London, Dec. 8—A despatch from Tangier, Morocco, says the Zemmour tribesmen, who attacked the forces of the Sultan of Morocco, have suffered a crushing defeat. The troops lost heavily, however, and the Sultan himself narrowly escaped capture.

LABOR UNIONS IN POLITICS

Organizations in New Orleans to Pay Poll Taxes So That All May Vote

New Orleans, Dec. 8—The labor unions of New Orleans have announced their intention to enter actively into politics. Their action is the result of the recent street car strike, the men holding that they would have won a signal victory had not Gov. Heard and Mayor Capdevielle taken the side of the company.

The Street Car Men's Union had adopted resolutions calling upon all members to take part in politics, in all primaries and elections. The key to the political situation in Louisiana is the poll tax. No one can vote in the next State and city elections which occur in 1904, unless he pays the poll tax for 1902 before Jan. 1. In order to vote the entire strength, the Street Car Men's Union has offered to pay out of its treasury all the poll taxes of its members, 1,500 in number. The other unions have followed its example and now it is certain that every union man in New Orleans will have his poll tax paid for him and thus be entitled to the ballot.

Some objection has been raised to the union paying these individual taxes but the city treasurer has overruled all objections and accepted the money tendered him. This ensures the enrolment of the entire union vote of the city. There is no one to pay the poll taxes of the non-union voters, and unless they do so themselves they will be disfranchised. Only 10,565 citizens have so far fitted themselves for the franchise, of which nearly half are union men, who hope for a similar victory to that recently won in San Francisco.

Germany's Claim Against Venezuela

Berlin, Dec. 8—It is stated officially that Germany's claim against Venezuela amounts to 3,000,000 Bolivars ($600,000).

The semi-official Cologne Gazette today prints a very strong anti-Venezuelan article. It says that in the face of German patience, Venezuelan boldness has become insolence, and it is necessary that Germany step forward vigorously or lose the esteem in which she is held, not only in Venezuela, but in all America.

Dr. Lorenz at the White House

Washington, Dec. 8.—Dr. Adolph Lorenz, the eminent Vienna surgeon, was presented to President Roosevelt this morning by Baron Hengelmuller, the Austrian Ambassador. Dr. Lorenz was warmly greeted by the President, who expressed great interest in the work which the specialist has accomplished for the benefit of humanity.

Premier Balfour Makes the Announcement in the Commons

Britain and Germany to Act—To Enforce Their Claims Against the President

London, Dec. 8.—Premier Balfour announced in the House of Commons today that an ultimatum had been sent to Venezuela, and that, in the event of a satisfactory reply not being received the British and German Governments will take measures to enforce the claims against that country, which are being pressed by merchants and others, and have not been met owing to the state of unrest of the South American Republic.

KAISER'S ADVICE TO WORKMEN

Have Nothing to Do with Socialists, He Tells Them

Berlin, Dec. 8.—Although Emperor William has cancelled his shooting and other engagements owing to his inflamed left eye, he to-day received a deputation of workmen of Breslau, who were on their way to Potsdam. The leader of the deputation presented a patriotic address thanking the Kaiser for his address to workmen at Essen on the occasion of the funeral of Herr Krupp.

In replying to the address the Emperor said that the working classes had always been objects of great interest to him. German workmen abroad were always deservedly respected. Socialist agitators had been for years trying to persuade the workmen that if they did not belong to the Socialist party they would be incapable of guarding their own interests. This was a gross lie. A serious mistake of the agitators was that they tried to sow class hatred by disseminating cowardly libels in order to strengthen their own power.

"Workmen must have nothing to do with such men. They should send simple honest men from the workshops to Parliament, and they would be welcomed as representing German labor, not as Socialists, and the representatives of other classes would work with them willingly for the country's good.

Denmark for Arbitration

Copenhagen, Dec. 8.—The lower house to-day passed a resolution to the effect that it would be desirable hereafter in making treaties with foreign powers to insert a clause similar to the one in the recently proposed treaty with the United States, that all differences arising therefrom should be referred to The Hague Arbitration Tribunal.

THE REFERENDUM RESULT

The vote on the referendum has been accepted by the prohibition party as a sign of advancement for their cause. To gain a goodly majority of the votes cast is of little account, however, if the total vote does not come within eighty thousand of that required to put the Act into effect. The net result has been but so much time and effort and public money wasted. It was said on prohibition hustings, and stated in black type in prohibition literature, that those who did not vote would be counted by the party as "in favor of the open bar." If that were true, the Act was buried out of sight by the anti-voters and abstainers on Thursday. But we do not so understand the matter. The apathy of non-voters was more reasonably to be accounted for on the theory that they had no faith in the efficacy of the Act as a temperance measure, believing that it would lead to worse evils than the bar itself. That they abstained from voting shows that were the Act to be made operative by a majority vote only, there would not be behind it that strong weight of popular sentiment that would insure its being observed. Then it has been said, with how much truth we know not, that the vote of Thursday was largely of a political character; that the Conservatives turned out in force at certain unexpected points, voting less from good will to the Act than from a desire to make their influence felt on tactical grounds. We prefer to believe that both Conservatives and Reformers voted purely from conscientious conviction and a sense of duty.

Another aspect of the vote is a warning to the bar-keepers that they must observe the law as it exists. One half the odium attaching to the bar business in the minds of even moderate drinkers, is the defiance of law, by a few persons in the trade, whose greed for money gets the better of their discretion. A public house on one of the principal streets of Peterborough is noted for the number of its Sunday frequenters. Why is the law not enforced against that house? Whose duty is it? Without a doubt, the vote "Yes," in Peterborough was largely augmented by men not dissatisfied with the license law of the Province, as it stands, but who have been irritated by the breaches of the law as to Sunday selling. If the men in the trade will misbehave in that fashion, public irritation arises against them, and incidentally against the traffic in general. The innocent are made to suffer in public esteem with the guilty. A distinct gain would be made by enforcing the present liquor law.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Eight of the fifteen Ontario cities gave a majority for prohibition, the aggregate being 2,262. Seven cities gave 1,809 against. In 1898 Brantford was the only city that gave a temperance majority.

A fond wife down in Ohio surprised her husband the other day by presenting him with a pail full of money which she had extracted piece-meal for a year from the receipts of his general store, and which he had never missed. And now he is in doubt whether to make her treasurer of the concern or keep her away from the cash drawer entirely, for fear the habit will grow on her and she may absorb all the receipts without his knowledge.

The Military Gazette speaks approvingly of Col. Buchan's pamphlet, "With the Infantry in South Africa," which was given as a lecture before the Canadian Military Institute. Col. Buchan urges that in any future emergency of the kind some provision be made for "Wastage," or losses by wounds, disease, death and other happenings, such as the depot system. Another lesson learned in the war by our men was the lack of training in "signalling," in sending and receiving heliograph messages by day, and lantern messages by night. At out-stations they had to requisition men and instruments from the Imperial troops for this purpose. This work should be a part of the training of the Canadian militia.

The State of Rio Grande do Sul is to guarantee 4 per cent. interest on the expenditure.

BEET SUGAR MEETING

Addressed by Prof. Shuttleworth, of Guelph Agricultural College

A meeting of those interested in the erection of a beet sugar factory in Peterborough was held in the market hall on Saturday afternoon, and was fairly well attended. The meeting was addressed at some length by Prof. Shuttleworth, of Guelph Agricultural College, who gave an interesting talk on the growth and cultivation of the sugar beet and the advantage it would be to the farmer if a factory was erected in Peterborough. Prof. Shuttleworth also spoke of the success of the Berlin and Wallaceburg factories, and the great advantage the farmers were deriving from them.

It was proposed to run another excursion to Berlin at an early date and to charter a special train so as to start early in the morning and return the same day or stop over if desired, the fare to be about $2. Nothing definite as yet has been arranged.

About Beet Sugar

Now that the Ontario Sugar Company is making sugar, and very pretty sugar, from beets at Berlin, people are naturally taking more interest in the concern and are talking and asking about it. We recommend to such as are curious that they send to Berlin and secure a copy of the "News Record" of November 8th, or the "Daily Telegraph" special issue of November 22nd. These are both illustrated and both devoted to a sketch of the rise and progress of the beet sugar industry. Views of the works at different stages are given, and portraits of most of the directors, as well as of the indefatigable managing director, Mr. Williams.

Chicago, Dec. 8—Meyer Kreeger, the seven-year-old son of L. Kreeger, who was operated on by Prof. Lorenz for "wry neck," has recovered the use of his neck. This was the only case of the kind treated by Prof. Lorenz during his first visit to Chicago.

The heavy wrappings that encased the child's neck have been removed, and he can now move his head and control the muscles of his neck as freely as if he had never suffered from an affliction.

The CANADIAN STEEL AND COAL COMPANY was organized to mine and manufacture iron and coal, coke and steel in Canada at Atlantic tidewater.

The raw materials for these manufactures are:—

1.—COAL. 2.—IRON. 3.—LIMESTONE.

All these materials we have at hand.

1.—COAL.

The Company controls 3,000 acres of excellent coal areas in the Province of Nova Scotia, and efforts are being made to increase this to 10,000 acres by the purchase of some very valuable additional coal fields.

The coal has been thoroughly tested and found to be suitable in every way for the manufacture of iron and steel, and the supply is practically inexhaustible. The following analysis was made by the Canadian Geological Survey:—

ANALYSIS.

Moisture	4.05
Vol. Comb. Matter	30.72
Fixed Carbon	60.
Ash	5.23
	100.00

COAL VEINS.

The several layers or seams of coal available aggregate 27 to 30 feet in thickness.

TITLES.

These areas are held under Crown Lease for a period of 80 years. Royalty 10 cents per ton of coal sold.

2.—IRON.

The Company has acquired by purchase immense iron deposits on the North Shore of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, about 1350 miles from Sydney. The deposits are estimated to contain 20,000,000 ton re above sea level, with probably as much more below that line. The iron can be handled for $1.00 per ton or less. Quantities of this ore have been shipped to Great Britain and the United States, where it has given great satisfaction, and we can sell large quantities f. o. b. at the properties, netting us a profit of $2.00 per ton. This ore makes the finest steel.

3.—FLUX.

We are now negotiating for valuable deposits of dolomite and limestone of the most satisfactory quality, situated on the tide water, within 100 miles of the works

MARKETS.

For six months in each year the Canadian markets can be reached by water at low freight rates, and at all times by rail. As Cape Breton is distant from Liverpool only about 2,300 miles; is nearer to Pernambuco, Brazil, than any point in the United States, and also nearer to Cape Town, South Africa, it has the advantage, in point of distance, for export business over any American steel-producing points, which, with scarcely any exceptions, are situated some distance from tide water. Under any conditions of the world's market, it is believed that the output of these works can be disposed of at satisfactory prices.

OUTPUT

When in full operation, the output is expected to be about as follows:—

1. IRON.—200,000 tons iron ore shipped direct from property, showing net profit of $2.00 per ton, total	$400,000 00
200,000 tons fine iron ore shipped in briquettes, showing net profit of $4.00 per ton, total	800,000 00
100,000 tons steel blooms, showing net profit of $3.00 per ton, total	300,000 00
2. COAL.—600,000 tons coal, showing net profit, at least, of $1.00 per ton, total	600,000 00
3. AIDS.—Government bounties (averaged) added to above per year for 6 years	100 000 00
Total yearly revenue	$2,200,000 00

GOVERNMENT AIDS.

To encourage the manufacture in the Dominion of iron and steel the Parliament of Canada has granted bounties as follows:—

	ON PIG IRON.	ON STEEL.
Apl. 21st, 1902, to July 1st, 1903	$2.70	$2.70
July 1st, 1903, " " 1904	2.25	2.25
July 1st, 1904, " " 1905	1.65	1.65
July 1st, 1905, " " 1906	1.05	1.05
July 1st, 1906, " " 1907	.60	.60

If the production of steel from the Company's works be as estimated, 300,000 tons per annum, the bounties to be received from the Canadian Government will be as follows:—

1904	$225,000
1905	215,000
1906	145,000
1907	85,000

or an average of $100,000.00 per annum for 6½ years........ $670,000.00

NET REVENUE

Total net annual profits		$2,200,000.00
LESS FIXED CHARGES:—
7 per cent. interest on preferred stock	$70,000.00
Sinking Fund	60,000.00
Incidentals	25,000 00
		155,000.00
Net yearly profits		$2,045,000 00

Equivalent to yearly dividends of over 30 per cent., or 15 per cent. half yearly on total capitalization.

If the capitalization was increased to .... $20,000,000.00 this estimate would still show a dividend-earning capacity of 10 per cent. per annum.

The capitalization of the Dominion Coal Co. is .... $20,000,000.00 earning fully 12 per cent., and is paying 8 per cent. guaranteed dividends on this enormous sum

The capitalization of the Dominion Iron and Steel Co. is........ $28,000,000.00 on which it is believed 6 per cent. dividends will be earned.

The capitalization of the Canadian Steel & Coal Company is only $6,000,000.00 controlling, it is believed, equally valuable properties, and it is reasonable to expect much larger dividends.

Within the last few months Dominion Coal shares common rose in market value from $40 to $144 per share, and Dominion Iron & Steel Company's shares common rose over $30 per share in market value.

With such low capitalization the Canadian Steel and Coal Co's shares should show tremendous profits, and it is confidently believed they will.

THE SOUR LAKE OIL CO.

Has placed four-fifths of its stock in the treasury for development work; and because

Oil is reached in less than half the depth required on Spindletop Heights in Beaumont;

The people in Canada are well acquainted with the management, which is in the hands of Hon. JOHN L. BITTINGER, United States Consul General to Canada; F. S. Ashley, Vice-President of the Massachusetts Securities Co., and W. L. Marston, Vice-President of the American Union Oil and Refining Co.

These gentlemen have made a dividend payer out of one company and have raised the value of its stock from 5c per share to par value, or 25c, within a very short time;

The company is operating in the Sour Lake field, where fewer wells will tap the oil than at Spindletop; this insures a greater flow of oil, and it is of a better quality;

AN INVESTMENT IN THE

Pitkin Gold Belt Mining and Reduction Company

Which is Safe and Sure of Quick Returns, may Bring an Enormous Return at any Moment. It has the Possibilities of Rivaling the Great Mines of the Past.

This Company has a mine on a true fissure vein, in the center of the Gunnison Gold Belt, Colorado, which is the "Mother" lode or dike, which has produced 25 per cent. more gold than the total output of the Cripple Creek district.

This Mine is no Prospect. Nor is it Waiting on Your Subscription to Buy Machinery or for Development.

After a careful examination by experts, Joseph M. Bradley, M. E. and Mr. George Arlott, A. I. M. E., Amalgamated Copper Company's expert in Chihuahua, Mexico, they advised the purchase of the property. The property had shallow development upon it, showing two ore shoots from which smelting ore had been shipped to the Buena Vista Smelter.

The Company purchased and paid for the latest improved machinery and has put a shaft down 200 feet and intend to carry it down 1000 feet. On the 100 feet level 300 feet of development has been made and an ore shoot has been encountered and blocked out for 97 feet, carrying values in gold from 2 to 9 ounces or $40 to $200 per ton. The cost of mining, hauling, freight and smelters charges will be between $12 and $25 per ton.

Ed. McCarthy & Co., bankers, guarantee a shipping mine of smelting ore sampling from 2 to 6 ounces in gold, or $40 to $120 per ton, by January 1st, 1903, or all funds will be returned to subscribers upon presentation of receipt issued by said bank.

Also to prospective purchasers of $500 worth of stock we are offering a free trip to Colorado and return. You investigate first and purchase afterward. Could you expect anything fairer than this?

The capital stock of this company is $1,500,000, divided into 1,500,000 shares of stock at $1 each, full paid and non-assessable. A portion of the treasury stock is now offered at

25 CENTS PER SHARE—PAR VALUE $1.00

Poor Crops from Abroad

New York, Dec. 8—Evidence is coming to the surface, indicating that European crops will not be good. This will greatly benefit our exports. Previous reports were that European crops were going to prove to be above the average indicating that demands upon America would be less than usual. Now comes the reports of shrinkage in previous estimates covering all producing parts of Europe. These revised reports come from the United Kingdom, Germany and France and are open confessions of shortage. Foreign purchases from America must consequently be liberal this coming year. This will cause international exchange rates to shortly be much more favorable, also greatly increase the quantity and value of our exports. It will prove to be a factor that will have a most beneficial effect. The American crop picture is a far different one; an enormous crop already harvested, with prices at excellent figures. The railways are struggling to move same. It will put large amounts of additional cash in the hands of the farmer and the communities around him, swell railway earnings most enormously and cause consumers to have greatly increased purchasing capacity. There is already a locomotive famine on hand, the Pennsylvania has hired over 100 additional locomotives, while the manufacturers of the iron horse are working night and day, being absolutely overwhelmed with business. It is idle to expect that a dull and drooping stock market can last for any great time. The longer delays the more intense and rapid will be the upward movement once it starts. On top of the new business offering through transportation of the crops, mercantile business has already hampered the roads with the prodigiousness of the amount of business they are transacting. Freight movements are beyond all precedent and some of the roads have been absolutely blocked with loaded cars. Never in their history have they been called upon to handle so large a business and at such lucrative rates. The advance in freight rates going into effect on January 1st will greatly increase net earnings, more than off-setting the advance in wages.

Summary—The market opened up in some instances, notably St. Paul, Manhattan, Metropolitan and Copper. Slight recessions were afterwards recorded, then advances took place throughout the list. Variations were infinitesimal and in many stocks the market was a nominal one. The undertone was firm and the buying, what little there was, was considered good. Selling was spasmodic and small in volume. Nothing much can be said about such variations and dealings as occurred today. It is simply a waiting market. The next activity should lead to better prices. Tomorrow's letter will deal with "Activity will soon follow present dullness."

Money in Oil

Special Despatch to the Ontario & California Oil Co, Limited:

Chatham, Dec. 1, 1902.

The Gusher was turned on to-day, and in five hours filled up all the Standard Oil Company's available tankage—so far has given one thousand barrels, at the rate of fifty barrels per hour.

Talk about dividends, talk about advance in value—what investment will compare with this?—Figure it out—OIL two dollars per barrel—means earning one hundred dollars per hour—ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS invested in this Syndicate a few weeks ago—NOW ACTUALLY WORTH FORTY THOUSAND DOLLARS.

REASONS WHY	REASONS WHY
Stock in the Ontario and California Oil Co. may prove just as profitable within the next few weeks.	Prompt action on your part is required

1.—The Ontario and California Oil Co., Limited, is a home company, organized under the laws of Ontario, shares fully paid and non-assessable, built and equipped on the right principle—TO PAY PROFITS AND DIVIDENDS—when earned from the ground, and this object attained—NO STOCK FOR SALE BY THIS COMPANY.

2.—Owns the oil leases on one thousand acres, and are next door neighbors of the Big Gusher owners.

3.—Several drilling rigs NOW at different points on the Company's properties under the direction of the best oil men in Petrolea, men who are oil men in the full sense of the word (not speculators)—connected with oil refineries and the largest oil interests in Canada, and these oil men came to this Company, made their offers, put their money in, and are joining in the development of a large block of the Company's properties.

4.—Ten days to two weeks will complete a well. FIVE WELLS are being put down as fast as men and money can do it.

5.—One may be a gusher, or all may be gushers; in either case the advance will be REAL, and a few weeks will bring you greater profits than you ever dreamed of.

RISK! Yes—so there is in everything—otherwise you would not have the chance of buying One Thousand Shares for Two Hundred and Fifty Dollars, which in Thirty Days may be worth One Thousand to Ten Thousand Dollars. Masterly inactivity has missed many an opportunity to make a fortune—don't wait now and wish later on.

ACT AT ONCE—The block of stock which the Company is offering at Twenty-five Cents per share is daily getting smaller. Send for November report, Application Forms, etc., and get your order in ON TIME. Apply J. L. FINCH, Secretary Ontario & California Oil Company, Limited Toronto, or—

By the Pupils of Mr. Rupert Gliddon a Successful Affair

The quarterly recital of the pupils of Mr. Rupert Gliddon was held in St. John's school room last evening, under the auspices of the Girl's Guild. The excellent music furnished on the occasion goes far to show the ability of Mr. Gliddon. The following pupils took part in the recital: Adult members of the orchestra, Miss Florence Butcher, Miss Marguerite Burnett, Miss Kathleen Wallis, Miss Geraldine King, Miss Ethel Best, Miss Rubina Elliott, Miss M. Robertson, Miss Mollie Meldrum, Miss Daisy Sawyers, Miss Annie McFarlane, Frank Halpeny and Max Cuncannon. The proceeds went to the "Piano Fund," in the Girl's Guild.

A SUCCESSFUL ENTERTAINMENT

Bridgenorth Football Club Gives a Pleasing Concert

The Bridgenorth Football Club closed their season on Friday night by giving a grand concert in the town hall. They have had a very successful season, out of eight matches in which their team took part they were winners in seven, and their popularity was well shown by the way the hall was filled on Friday night. After paying the expenses of the season and of the concert, the club has $32.25 cash on hand to begin business in the spring. Among other selections on the programme were solos by Miss B. Kelly, Miss P. Udy, and Mr. A. Morrison, and a speech by Mr. E. Brumell, secretary's statement read by Dr. J. A. Morgan, recitation by Mr. J. Jopling. There were also a number of tableaux, dialogues, etc., and everybody had a good time.

All Bridgenorth wants now is a rink to be able to put out a good hockey team, and it will have it if the boys take hold in earnest.

On Friday last Mr. Wm. Anderson, M.P.P., chairman of the Committee of the County Council on Roads and Bridges, accompanied by Mr. J. E. It is understood that the necessary piers will be placed in position during the present winter.

The remains were interred yesterday, both bodies being taken to the cemetery in one hearse. To add to the affliction of the family the mother of the little ones lies ill at the hospital

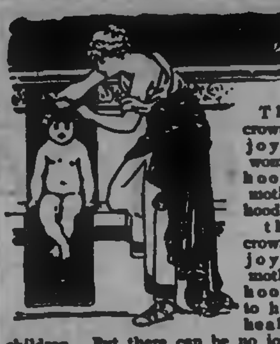
A Splendid Investment

The Silver Bear Mining & Cooperation Co., in the rich Slocan district. The mine was one of the "Lucky Swede" group, on the south fork of Kaslo Creek. It is opened by three tunnels, one of which is 240 feet long and every opening on the vein shows ore running from $75.00 to $240 per ton in values. The mines at either end of it have about same grade as that of Silver Bear and have yielded profits of over $2,000 per car load of twenty tons. $30,000 is to be spent to complete development and equip with a concentrator. Some of its neighbors are now paying dividends of 1c per share each month and even more. There is every reason for confidence that this mine will be paying dividends within a year at the outside. The price of the stock will be until December 19th, 10c. per share; from that date until January 1st, 15c. per share; after that the Company will not sell any stock under 25c. per share.

Mr. George Stetham (Box 540, Peterboro P.O.) is authorized to take orders and forward remittances for shares to the Company.



The crowning joy of womanhood is motherhood and the crowning joy of motherhood is to have healthy children. But there can be no joy in motherhood without health, and without health for the mother there can be no health for the child.

It is of vital importance for women to know that the health of mother and child is in general entirely within woman's control. The thousands of women who have used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription when expecting motherhood, have testified that it made them healthy and happy in the days of waiting, made the baby's advent practically painless, and gave them health to give their children.

Mrs. W. J. Kidder, of Hill Dale Farm (Enosburg Center), Enosburg, Vt., writes: "During the past year I found myself expecting maternity, and in rapidly failing health. I suffered dreadfully from bloating and urinary difficulty. I was growing perceptibly weaker each day and suffered much sharp pain at times. I felt that something must be done. I sought your advice and received a prompt reply. Took twelve bottles of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and also followed your instructions. I began to improve immediately, my health became excellent, and I could do all my own work (we live on a good sized farm). I walked and rode all I could, [illegible] it. I had a short, easy confinement and have a healthy baby boy."

The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, containing 1008 pages, is given away. Send 31 one-cent stamps for expense of customs and mailing only, for the book in paper covers, or 50 stamps for the volume bound in cloth. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

—A house on London street is placarded with a diphtheria card.

—A drunk at the police court yesterday was let off with a reprimand.

—On Saturday afternoon the death occurred of Daniel Mildon, who died at the Nicholls Hospital. The cause of his death was gangrene of the foot. He was 80 years of age. His remains were sent to his home in Havelock on Saturday evening for interment.

—Belleville Council has decided to impose a license bill of $10 on all dealers in cigars, cigarettes and tobacco. The drugstore men objected, and were told that they were going outside their legitimate business in handling cigars and confectionery.

—At the coming municipal elections the people of Collingwood will vote on a by-law to grant a bonus of $25,000 and a fixed assessment for 10 years to a wire nail and fencing industry, to employ at least 100 men.

—Orillia Collegiate classes are now being instructed in the metric system, a chart and a full set of apparatus having been supplied by the Education Department free of charge.

—Diphtheria has again broken out in Haliburton County. Eight members of one family in Hindon Township are down with the dread disease, and it has also appeared in Anson Township. The infection is said to have been brought from a lumber camp, but it is known that it has made its appearance almost periodically for the past twelve or fifteen years, and it would seem that the germs are always present. The county health officials should ask the aid of the Provincial Health Board and make a determined effort to stamp out the disease.

CURES KIDNEY DISEASE

It's a well known fact that the kidneys are accountable for nearly 75 per cent. of the deaths of a year. If you have a headache, if your skin is jaundiced, if you have headaches and neuralgic pains in the head, if your urine is highly colored, and causes pain when urinating, if it is scalding—you can correct this condition by taking Powley's Liquified Ozone. Just read Mrs. Barriball's letter. It goes to show the value of our preparation:—

THE OZONE COMPANY, Ltd.,
TORONTO, ONT.

Gentlemen: About ten years ago I had a bad case of diphtheria, which left a weakness in my whole system, especially a sore throat, which was a great annoyance. I used to get medicine from my doctor, which helped me, but did not cure. I was advised to try "Ozone," which I did, with the result that it cured my throat entirely, and have had no return of the trouble since. I also had kidney trouble, which was very bad. Since taking "Ozone" I have been relieved of this trouble also. We have used the remedy in our family for some time, and so confident are we of its curative powers that we would not be without a bottle of it in the house. We also recommended it to several of our friends, who found it an excellent family remedy.

Powley's Liquified Ozone is oxygen in stable liquid form, its action is diuretic—it cleans out the kidneys and relieves the inflammation that affect those organs. It will stop back pains very quickly.

Write our consulting physicians a full statement of your symptoms and get a specialist's advice free of charge. Address all communications to the Consulting Department of the Liquid Ozone Company, 229 Kinzie Street, Chicago, Ill.

KRUGER TELLS HOW HE FLED FROM SOUTH AFRICA

Ex-President Narrates How and Why it was Decided

His Welcome in France and His Snubbing by German Emperor

Interesting Events Described by the Old Man in His New Book

London, Dec. 9—Lord Roberts had at last pushed forward to Johannesburg, and, as we were informed that he intended, with a flying column, to cut the Delago aRailway line to the east of Pretoria, it was resolved that I should leave Pretoria with the Government and transfer the seat of government, to the East of the Republic. On the afternoon of my last day in Pretoria, May 29, 1900, while my things were being packed, I received the American lad, Jimmy Smith, who brought me an address in which thousands of schoolboys in Philadelphia, the city which was the first to declare its independence of Great Britain, "sent a message of sympathy to the leader of the people which was now engaged in defending its independence against the same nation." He also handed me a Transvaal flag which had been embroidered in America. I thanked the boy and the American gentleman who had accompanied him, and one hour later, when it was already dark I drove with a few faithful friends to Eerste Fabrieken, the first station on the eastern line. From here I went by railway, over Middelburg, to Machadodorp, where the seat of government was provisionally established. I lived in my saloon carriage, to which a telegraph apparatus had been fitted; my work was no less arduous than at Pretoria, and I was constantly sending telegrams to encourage the burghers in the fight.

As Machadodorp is one of the coldest places in the Transvaal, and at that time I was suffering greatly from my eyes, of the burghers and moved on to Waterval Onder, which lies on the Eland River, among high mountains and enjoys a very mild climate in winter. Here I occupied a scantily-furnished little house, where I spent the happiest two months I have known since my departure from Pretoria. The seat of government however, remained at Machadodorp; and the State Secretary and the members of the Executive Raad also remained there, but came every morning by train to Waterval Onder to the sittings of the Executive Raad, in order to attend to the current business. From here, too, were issued the decrees and requisitions, the provisions for furlough, the enactments against dilatory burghers and officials, the orders for the reorganization of the army, and the necessary measures were taken to frustrate the proclamations of the enemy and their consequences. Toward the end of August President Steyn and his escort arrived at Waterval Onder to discuss the position in the country.

I YIELDED TO THE PRESSURE

The result of Dalmanutha made it clear to the Commandant-General and the other officers that it was not possible for their small force of burghers to repel the enemy or to continue to fight him in the way they had done hitherto, and that it was better to so as to leave the commandos freer in their movements. We moved on to Nelspruit, a station of the Delagoa Railway, about half-way between Waterval Onder and the Portuguese frontier. The removal of all the baggage, wagons, carts, horses, mules, and so forth, gave great difficulty but the excellent manner in which the Netherlands South Africa Railway Company had so far satisfied every demand made upon it was now repeated. On arriving at the spot which had now been selected as the seat of government, we received Lord Roberts' proclamation annexing the South African Republic. I at once issued a counter proclamation.

Meanwhile it became evident that the hope that we should be able to arrest the enemy's progress in the mountains was futile, thanks to his overwhelming superiority of numbers; and, when the enemy began to advance from every side on Nelspruit, a decisive step became necessary. A council was called, consisting of the members of the Transvaal and Orange Free State Governments and a number of officers, including the commandant-General, and resolved to to endeavor to promote the cause of the Republics. General and Vice-President Schalk W. Burger was to hold office as Acting State President during my absence.

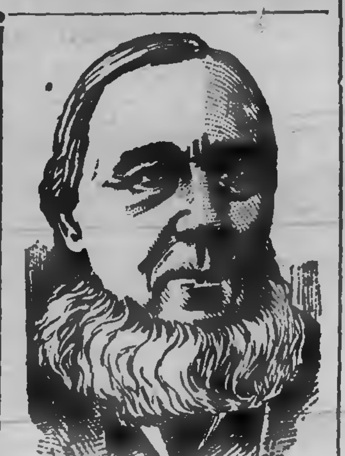
If my departure from Pretoria was a bitter blow to me, my departure, under such sorrowful circumstances from the land to which I had devoted my life, was doubly bitter. I saw it swarming with the enemy, who, in his arrogance, was already declaring that the war was over and that only guerilla bands now infeste the country. I had to bid good-bye to the men who had stood beside me for so many years and to leave my country and my people, my gray-haired wife, my children, my friends, and the little band of lion-hearted fighters who, surrounded as they were on every side, had now to make their way through an uninhabited district to the north of the Republic, there to reorganize and re-commence the struggle. My age prevented me from riding and it was, therefore, impossible for me to accompany the commandos further. On the other hand it was a consolation to leave the government in the hands of such true men as Schalk Burger, Reitz, Louis Botha and De la Rey, and I knew the loyal support which they would receive from the noble President Steyn. On the evening of September 10, we took leave of one another at Nelspruit, and I was left alone with the escort which the Executive Raad had given me for my protection.

THE JOURNEY TO EUROPE.

On the next day, after spending the night at Crocodile Poort, I began my long pilgrimage to Europe, a journey the result of which neither had nor could have been anticipated. From Crocodile Poort I travelled in the private railway carriage of the manager of the Netherlands South African Railway Company. At Hectorspruit I waited a few hours for President Steyn and a few other friends, who had come there to take leave of me, and then continued my journey to Lorenzo



Marques over Komati Poort, the last station in the Republic, and past the frontier station, Ressano Garcia, where the director of the Portuguese Railway took charge of the train. At Lorenzo Marques, the train was not stopped at the station, but shunted to a siding, so that, as darkness had already set in, I was able to reach Consul-General Pott's house unobserved. It was my intention to remain there until I could embark for Europe on board the first outgoing steamer, which would have been the steamship Herzog, of the German East African line. But on the next day the Portuguese Governor arrived, and said that he had been instructed to take me to his own house as the guest of the Portuguese Government. When I showed some hesitation the Governor declared that I must accompany him at once, and that, if I refused, he must employ force. This action must undoubtedly be ascribed to the pressure brought to bear upon it by the British Government, for the Portuguese Governor governed only in name; the real governor was the British Consul at Delagoa Bay. Governor Machada, who was probably fulfilling a disagreeable task, greatly against his own wish, treated me with great kindness, but would not allow me to move without accompanying me. None of the members of my escort, who were also quartered at the Governor's house, was allowed to set foot in the town unless accompanied by an aide-de-camp, and even then they were not permitted to enter into conversation with anyone. At first, the two gentlemen who travelled with me, as well as a few other friends, were at least allowed to visit me; but this, too, was very soon forbidden, on the ground as we were informed, that the British Consul had complained. This position lasted some weeks during the whole of which time I was practically a prisoner in the Governor's house, and it was there that I kept my seventy-fifth birthday. I was not allowed to receive the congratulations of the burghers who thronged the town, and who were reduced to shouting good luck to me from the street outside.

THE FRIST RAY OF LIGHT.

that broke through this night of affliction was the Queen of Holland's offer to carry me to Europe on a man-of-war, an act which was appreciated in the highest degree by the whole Boer nation. Now, at least, all uncertainty was removed as to my being able to pursue my journey. As the ship however was still some distance from Delagoa Bay, I was not able to embark until October 21, and then the Gelderland, whose captain and officers received me with every mark of friendship and loving kindness, had first to take in coal. The journey from Delagoa Bay to Dar-es-Salam, where the Gelderland arrived on the morning of the fifth day, passed off very well. It is true that, at first, I suffered a little from seasickness for the first time in my life, but I was soon able to light up my pipe again, a certain proof that the sickness was past. At Dar-es-Salam some German officials came on board and invited me to a dinner which they wished to give in my honor. I begged, however, to be excused, in view of the sorrowful circumstances of my country. The same thing happened at Djibouti, where we arrived on November 2. From here the journey was continued to Suez. Every ship that passed the Gelderland saluted, and I was cheered by the passengers on board those which came close enough. One French ship even went out of her course to salute the Gelderland the the only exceptions were most of the English ships, of which, at one time, as many as five were in sight near Sardinia. From Suez we proceeded to

THE WEALTH OF THE FARMERS INCREASING

While Their Debt is Decreasing at an Amazing Rate

SOME INTERESTING STATISTICS

Comprehensive Report on Agricultural Conditions in Ontario

Toronto, Dec. 9—The Ontario Department of Agriculture has published a comprehensive report giving details of the values of the agricultural resources of the Province in 1901, with tables showing the comparative values during the last ten years, a number of other valuable statistics are given, with regard to crops, weather, mean temperature etc., which would prove extremely useful to all students of Canada's growing agricultural resources.

In quoting the average value of live stock one of the reasons for the country's prosperity is easily seen. The average value of working horses was $85, about $13 higher than the price in 1892 Cattle figured at $36.21, the highest since 1886; and all classes of live stock had increased in value at about the same ratio. The price of farm labor had also risen, the average rate per year being $165 with board, and $263 without, or for the working season $17.78 per month with board, and $27.05 without, which were considerably higher than the average for any time during the previous ten years.

ACRES UNDER CULTIVATION.

There were assessed in the province 23,436,173 acres of which 56.8 per cent was cleared, as compared with 22,885,464 acres and 53.4 per cent. cleared in 1892.

The production of wheat was 15,943,229 bushels, from 911,557 acres. This means a crop of 17.4 bushels, worth $11.56 per acre, a fairly strong argument against extensive wheat growing in this mixed farming country. The production of oats was considerably less than any year since 1894, both in total and yield per acre; the crop amounting to 78,334,490 bushels, or 32.5 bushels, worth $11.77 per acre. Although the crop was smaller the high prices prevailing, owing to the war in South Africa, made it worth several millions of dollars more than the larger crops of several previous years. Similiarly the potato crop, although only 18,116,367 bushels, nearly three million bushels less than in 1900, had a gross market value of over $3,000,000 in excess of the 1900 crop. The value of the potato crop was in marked contrast to that of the wheat, being $50.06 per acre, or $13.31 higher than the average for the previous nine years. Hay was also a splendid crop, averaging 1.81 tons, with a value of $14.47 per acre, a very much more valuable crop than it had proved for ten years before. The total hay crop was 4,632,317 tons, worth $37,012,213.10.

LIVE STOCK FIGURES.

There were in the province 620,340 horses, worth $50,033,465; 2,507,830 cattle worth, $59,527,119.10; 1,761,790 sheep, valued at $7,722,793; 1,491,885 hogs, worth $9,256,712; while the poultry numbered, in all species, 9,746,226, valued at $3,896,172.

There were in the province 1,167 cheese factories, which produced 134,942,517 lbs. of cheese from 1,434,840,530 pounds of milk. The cheese was worth $12,200,073, while $10,614,538 was paid for the milk. This represent d a decline of nearly a million dollars in value of both cheese and milk since the previous year, although over 7,000,000 more pounds of cheese were made, the value of the cheese declining from 10.19 cents to 9.09 cents per pound

There were registered against the farmers of the province 5,757 chattel mortgages, as security for $2,854,759, a decrease of over a quarter of a million dollars in this line of liability since the previous year.

VETERANS OF 1866

COL. MCMILLAN OF GUELPH HAS A WORD TO SAY

He Speaks Strongly in Favor of the Veterans Locating and Colonization Association

The following from the St. Catharines Star, will be of interest to the Veterans of Peterborough.

Col. J. P. McMillan, of Guelph, is one of the recent arrivals at the Welland House, where he will remain for a few days to enjoy the comforts and the invigorating advantages of that popular hostelry.

Knowing that Col. McMillan is one of the prominent, most enthusiastic and energetic of the Veterans of 1866, and that it was he who, some years ago, instituted the movement to secure medals and land grants for the veterans of those stirring times, the Star called upon him this morning and asked for his opinion regarding the Veterans' Locating and Colonization Association as a means of assisting those entitled to grants of land, in selecting suitable locations at a minimum of expense.

"I believe that it is an organization that will prove of inestimable benefit to the Veterans," was the colonel's answer to the question. "There is, I am aware," he continued, "a movement on foot in some of the Veteran Associations to send out one or more of their own members to select the grants. But my firm opinion is, and I have gone into this matter thoroughly—my opinion is that this would be a costly move, and would not be in any way so satisfactory as having the grants selected by the Locating and Colonization Association. If members of the different Veterans' Associations were sent out, those chosen would have to be live, up-to-date business men. Now men of this class cannot spare the time for such a trip unless they are well paid for it. And in order to pay them sufficiently to induce them to undertake the duty, the local associations would have to tax their members very heavily, and one-half—say—of the members of each association would be in a position to contribute to a fund for this purpose, while the remaining half would be unable to do so. The Veterans' Locating and Colonization Association offers to do the work for $10 a member—$5 down, and $5 when the grant has been located. Moreover, the men sent out by the local associations would have no knowledge of the new country, and would be at a great disadvantage in that respect, whereas the Locating and Colonization Association has had men out prospecting for mineral land for two years past. These men know the new country perfectly, and can make first-class selections at once. They could commence the work as soon as the certificates are issued, while the representatives of the local associations could not be ready to start for some time later. The Veterans' Locating and Colonization Association has for its president Col. L. Buchan, C.M.G., for vice-president Mayor Hendrie, Jr., of Hamilton, and for Secretary-treasurer, Major Donald M. Robertson, of Toronto. These men could not afford to deal unfairly with the veterans even if they wished to do so. But we can loon confidentially for the fairest and most impartial treatment from them all. They are all well-known soldiers, men of the strictest integrity, to whom we can trust our interests with the utmost assurance of receiving all that is our due."

"I attended the meeting of the St. Catharines Veterans' Association last evening and received most hearty and comrade-like treatment. The association is a fine one, and its members are thoroughly intelligent, progressive men."

Col. McMillan was formerly a resident of Cornwall. He is devoted heart and soul to the cause of the Veterans, and is ever ready and anxious to forward their interests by any and every means in his power.

THE GERMAN AND THE BRITISH NAVY

The Two Great Sea Fighting Nations Compared

IMPROVEMENTS BEING MADE

The Feverish Haste of Germany to Get Her Navy Strengthened

Berlin, Dec. 9—To enable the reader to draw a proper comparison between England and the other powers, the year 1906 is selected, when the French and Russian programmes will be carried out as well as the new additions voted in the other states this year. Only battle ships and large cruisers of over 5,000 tons which were not launched prior to 1883 and 1884 respectively, are taken into consideration. According to this reckoning, in 1906 England will have 57 battleships, 52 of them over 10,000 tons, with an aggregate displacement of 765,000 tons, and 70 large cruisers, 29 protected, with an aggregate displacement of 648,440 tons. France will have 32 battleships, 23 over 10,000 tons, totaling 349,720 tons, and 28 cruisers, 22 protected, or 243,171 tons. Russia will have 25 battleships, 19 over 10,000 tons, or 247,241 tons, and 18 cruisers, 5 protected, of 100,606 tons. The United States will have 20 battleships, 19 over 10,000 tons, of 247,241 tons, and 18 cruisers, 13 protected, of 176,155 tons. Germany will have 19 battleships, 18 of over 100,000 tons of 212,405, and 11 cruisers, 5 protected, of 51,750 tons. Japan will have 7 battleships, 6 over 10,000 tons, of 93,501 tons and 6 cruisers, all protected of 58,776 tons.

It is evident that England alone is, as far as battleships are concerned, superior to the combined Franco-Russian forces. France shows considerable progress in a strong fleet of protected cruisers, being only a little behind that of England while Russia and Germany lay principal stress on battle ships. The United States are quickly proceednig in both directions, but will hardly be able to man their ships as rapidly as they build them.

A Wonderful Tonic and Strengthener

Said a druggist today, "No doubt about it, the tonic that gives the best results is the biggest seller, and that is Ferrozone. It enriches and purifies the blood, restores strength and energy to the feeble, and is a scientific reconstructor that was always popular. In Chlorosis, Anaemia, Tiredness, Langour, Brain Fag, Indigestion and Dyspepsia its action is prompt, and satisfactory cures always follow. Yes, I recommend Ferrozone to my customers because I believe it is the best tonic and strengthening medicine that money can buy." Large boxes cost 50c.

WHAT TEACHERS WANT

The Minister of Education Agrees With Them

The deputation appointed by the Ontario Educational Association waited on Hon. Richard Harcourt, Minister of Education, and presented the recommendations of the association in regard to Public school matters. Favorable consideration was promised of the request to lengthen the Model school term to one year, and to increase the representation of the Public school section of the O. E. A. on the Educational Council to three. The resolution requesting that no teaching certificates be granted to persons under twenty-one years of age, was, it was stated by Mr. Harcourt, covered by the extension of the Normal school term recently announced. The Minister was also disposed to grant the request that all new text books before authorization be subject to review by a committee of the O. E. A.

C. P. R. PENSION FUND

Circular Notifying Employees Will be Issued This Week

Montreal, Dec. 9—The C.P.R. new pension fund, it is announced, will go into force on January 1st. The trustees of the fund, Sir Thomas Shaughnessy and Mr. D. McNicoll will issue a circular this week notifying the employees of the rules and regulations governing the fund, which are based on the most liberal terms, being exceedingly advantageous to the men upwards of 20,000 of whom will benefit thereby. It differs from the Grand Trunk, the Pennsylvania and other systems in the fact that it is a pension fund pure and simple, and has no insurance department connected therewith. A quarter of a million dollars was set aside as a nucleus to the fund at the annual meeting of the shareholders in 1901.

LAW TO BE INFORCED

Liquor Selling During Prohibited Hours to Be Stopped

We are requested by Mr. Cochrane to publish in The Times the following letter which has been received from the License Department.

Mr. Cochrane says that if any hotelkeeper is found violating the law at any time, and particularly on Saturday nights and Sundays and is convicted, after this published notice has been given to him, he must place the responsibility upon himself and not upon the Inspector, as it is his intention to carry out the instructions of the Department rigidly and strictly.

Toronto, Dec. 8, 1902.

Dear Sir,—I am directed by the Honorable the Provincial Secretary to inform you that complaints have reached the Department with regard to the lax enforcement of the License law in your License District, particularly relating to violations on Saturday nights and Sundays.

It is the desire of this Department that you shall see to it that the License Law is strictly observed. If you find that you are unable, by your efforts, to bring about a proper observance of the law, you should communicate with this Department, and state what additional assistance is required. I have the honor to be, Sir,

Your obedient servant,
J. K. STEWART,
Provincial Inspector.

FIFTY-FOUR SAILORS HAVE BEEN DROWNED

Record of Disaster on Great Lakes--To Press for Settlement

Cleveland, Dec. 9.—The record of disaster on the great lakes for the past two weeks shows a greater number of drownings than have occurred in any two weeks for many years. No less than fifty-two sailors have been drowned. It is significant that all the vessels wrecked belonged to the old wooden schooner class, with the exception of the Bannockburn, owned by the Montreal Transportation Company. She was modern and staunch in every particular, and built where they knew how to build vessels from dire necessity—in England. She is the greatest loss of the season, being worth with her cargo of grain $210,000. Moreover, he crew numbered 20 men.

This record of disaster will probably continue for two weeks longer. Coal has jumped to $1 a ton for upper lake ports, and it is a tempting morsel. Insurance has expired, so that all vessels that are now putting out do so without financial protection. The season from the commercial standpoint has been the heaviest ever known. The commerce which has passed through Sault Ste. Marie canals up to December 1 measured over 26,000,000 tons greater than last year. The amazing growth of lake commerce will be appreciated when it is related that as late as 1894 the total ore movement was only 7,000,000 tons.

Ottawa, Dec. 9—Professor Asser, the Dutch jurist who was appointed arbitrator to settle the amount of damages due the four United States schooners which were seized off Copper Islands in 1892 by Russian cruisers, has decided that the seizure was illegal, as became made outside of Russian waters. The claims of five Canadian sealers also seized by the Russians are based on exactly the same grounds as those of the American vessels, and it is expected that the Government will now push for a settlement. The amount involved is about $65,000 with interest.

According to the St. Petersburg correspondent of the London Morning Post, however, the Russian Government is not satisfied with the award. Russia has no objection, of course, to paying the stipulated sum, but she objects entirely to the principle of the award, whereby she is not allowed to chase trespassers beyond the limits of her territorial waters. She regrets the decision, especially since it serves as a sort of precedent for the settling of a similar dispute between Russia and Great Britain, which is to be tried by The Hague tribunal.

CZAR WAS AFFECTED

Signed First Death Warrants for Four Penitent Murderers

Livadia, Dec. 9—For the first time since the beginning of his reign, Czar Nicholas signed a death warrant, or rather four of them at once, for the Russian law imposes the death penalty only in a very few extreme cases. The hangman's victims were deported criminals, who on the way to Siberia had murdered several guards.

A telegram from the place of execution, Krasnoyarsk, informed Nicholas that the murderers were very penitent, and on the scaffold begged the forgiveness "of the little white father," asking that he write to their parents that they died by disease, "as the news of their execution might kill the old folks." The Czar caused this last request to be carefully executed, and personally placed a hundred rouble note in each letter.

He was very much affected by the criminal's penitence, and told the court that he would never have signed the the death warrants had not the Governor advised him that it was absolutely necessary in the interests of discipline.

GREAT BRITAIN WILL END INTOLERABLE SITUATION

The Nation's Only Object in Proceeding Against Venezuela

Found Germs of Sleeping Sickness—Scientists Have Discovered the Cause of a Peculiar Disease in Uganda

London, Dec. 9.—In an editorial article to-day the Times says that in President Roosevelt's recent message to Congress there is a sentence which can scarcely fail to recur to any one thinking of the position of Venezuela and the threatened action of Great Britain and Germany. It would be difficult to conceive a better illustration of the President's remarks about the proper policing of the world than that afforded by the Caracas authorities. The Times says no one supposes that Great Britain has any other object in regard to Venezuela than to put an end to a state of things which has become intolerable. It is to be hoped that President Castro will be brought to his senses without the use of extreme measures by British and German warships. Whatever the result of the present controversy, adds the Times, the situation not merely in Venezuela, but with large differences and reservations in one or two other South American States, is discouraging to those who hoped much from the establishment of self-governed communities in South America.

CAUSE OF "SLEEPING SICKNESS."

London, Dec. 9.—The Commission sent out by the British Foreign Office and the London School of Tropical Medicine to investigate the disease called "sleeping sickness" in Uganda, has already discovered the germ and cause of the disease.

OBSTRUCTION IN AUSTRIAN PARLIAMENT.

London, Dec. 9.—Unfortunately, says a Vienna correspondent, it is not probable that the Czechs will suspend their obstructive tactics. The Reichsrath meets to-day, and sits until about December 20. There seems little chance that the Austro-Hungarian Tariff Bill or the Ausgleich can be presented in the course of this short period, but there is time for a vote on account of next year's estimates, if the Czech's would consent to withdraw or suspend their multifarious urgency motions with which they have blocked Parliamentary business since October. This concession the Czechs are apparently unwilling to grant; firstly, because it is understood that they demand the immediate introduction of the Czech language as the official language in Bohemia before they will allow Parliament to work; and secondly, because they make it a matter of personal pique that the Austrian Premier, Dr. Von Korber, shall not be able this year to obtain provisional sanction for the estimates by Parliamentary means. If, when the Tariff Bill and Ausgleich are introduced, an understanding has not been reached between Czechs and Germans, the situation will be so knotty that unless it is resolutely treated, it may strangle Austrian Parliamentary institutions for good.

London, Dec. 9.—The King of Portugal concluded this morning a visit of three weeks to England, and started home-ward by way of Paris.

SEVEN KILLED IN ACCIDENT

Dreadful Consequences of Derailment of an Intercolonial Train

Halifax, N.S., Dec. 9.—Seven persons were killed and a dozen injured, some of them seriously, in an accident on saturday afternoon, at Belmont station, on the Intercolonial Railway, eight miles from Truro. The victims of the disaster were passengers on No. 26, one of the fastest trains on the road. It had arrived at Truro from Halifax an hour and twenty minutes late and left there behind time. Just opposite Belmont station it is supposed that the pilot of the engine became partly detached; at any rate, the big locomotive jumped the track and plunged along the ditch a distance of three lengths of itself, when it toppled and fell, burying Engineer Samuel Trider underneath its boiler, and hurling Fireman Harry Campbell fifty feet away. The engine and baggage cars telescoped and along with the mail and express car, lay along the track a mass of wreckage. A second class carriage, containing a dozen passengers, had its top and sides completely separated from the bottom, and the passengers were thrown with terrible force to one end, where the dead, dying and wounded lay among a pile of splintered wood and twisted irons when all was over. The moans and cries of the injured and dying were heart rending and the sight they presented appalling to the stoutest heart. No time was lost in starting the the rescue work, and the dead and injured were soon carried into the station. Three were dead when taken out of the car and four others succumbed a few minutes afterwards.

It was some time before Engineer Trider could be got out. When reached at last he was found with his feet jammed up against the firebox and his body buried in the sand and mud. He was quite dead, but there was not a single mark upon him, and it was evident that he had died from suffocation by the mud and steam.

A GHASTLY SIGHT.

The waiting room of the station presented a ghastly sight, with the dead covered with sheets and the injured suffering unimaginable agonies. In one corner Frank Kennedy, a passenger, lay dying, his legs broken and his hips crushed. A little further along was an old man, with a dreadful gash in his head, and a girl of twenty terribly mangled. The only woman killed was Miss Minnie Crooks, who was on her way to Boston, where she lives, after a visit to her mother in this city. She was a nurse in Waverley Hospital. Engineer Trider was born near Windsor, N.S., and had been on the Intercolonial for 25 years. He was considered one of the most careful and competent engineers on the road. He and Conductor Milligan, who was in charge of the wrecked train, were both in the Palmer Pond accident which happened on the Intercolonial near Dorchester, in 1896.

Curiously enough, the passengers on the first class carriages escaped unhurt, though some of them were shaken up.

Brief Period for Venezuela

President Castro Must Settle Quickly or Take the Consequences

Berlin, Dec. 9.—While the limit of time given to Venezuela in which to make an answer to the ultimatums of Germany and Great Britain is not disclosed, the correspondent of the Associated Press was officially informed that it is very brief. The German Foreign Office still hopes that President Castro will recognize the gravity of the situation, and yield at the last moment.

Telegraphic communication with La Guaira is slow. Events happening to-day are not likely to be translated from the cipher until to-morrow.

The morning papers here made absolutely no comment on the Venezuelan situation, with the exception of the Verwaerts, which says; "Although President Castro has expressed his willingness to satisfy the German and British demands, military action against him has begun," and the Lokal Anzeiger, which remarks that "President Castro's efforts to drive a wedge between Germany and Great Britain have failed."

Premier Balfour makes the following statement:

"For the past two years we have had grave cause of complaint on various occasions of unjustifiable interference by the Venezuelan Government with the liberty and property of British subjects. No efforts have been spared by the British Government to obtain an amicable settlement of these cases, but in none of them have satisfactory explanations been forthcoming.

"Latterly, the representations of the British Minister have been practically unnoticed. There are also cases in which British subjects and companies have large claims. We have been acting in conjunction with the German Government, which also has large claims against Venezuela."

The Foreign Office says: "There is not the slightest desire to coerce Venezuela, and if any answer had been made to our repeated protests and demands, no such action as now taken would have been proceeded with. It was the persistent and insulting disregard to all representations which compelled us to move. It's now too late in the day for anything but purely diplomatic arrangements to be accepted in satisfaction for our injuries."

London, Dec. 9—One of the largest English creditors of Venezuela informed a representative of the Associated Press to-day that the ultimatums of Great Britain and Germany had a 72 hours limit, and therefore will expire on Wednesday. The Foreign Office, while not denying the correctness of this statement, intimated to-night that the period is liable to extension. There are indications of a possible settlement, although, apparently, nothing definite has yet been decided upon.

DEATH OF A GREAT AMERICAN

Thomas Brackett Reed, one of the greatest of American statesmen of the past half century, died in Washington yesterday morning, after an illness of only a few days. He was a native of the state of Maine, and was as sturdy and vigorous a man as ever came from the state of robust men. He was a man of strong intellectual power and made good use of the education that it was his good fortune to acquire, having worked his way through college by teaching during vacations, and dropping out a year occasionally. While teaching he kept up his studies, and in 1860 he graduated from Bowdoin college, and then again taught school and studied law. He came into active life at the beginning of the civil war, and naturally entered the army. Like all young lawyers he was an enthusiastic politician, and in 1877 was elected to congress from Portland, Maine, and served till 1899, when he retired to make some money. Politics and money-making did not run together in the case of Mr. Reed, and at the end of twenty-two years' service he was literally as poor as the proverbial church-mouse. During the last six years of his term in congress he served as speaker of the house of representatives, and no abler man ever filled the chair. He was an autocrat in his rulings, and he was always right. One of his celebrated decisions was that every member present should be counted to make up a quorum whether or not he answered roll call. Mr. Reed had the ambition to become president of the United States, but like Clay and Blaine, who had also filled the speaker's chair, he could not rally the necessary political strength to ensure the nomination from his party. This defeated ambition soured his otherwise genial nature, and since his retirement from Congress he has been a cynical critic of his old party associates. He moved to New York and at once became one of the leading corporation lawyers of the country, and was in a fair way to make an independent fortune. Thomas B. Reed was a statesman and a scholar, and in his death another of the great Americans of the war and reconstruction periods has been mustered out.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Perhaps the north pole may yet be discovered, as lots of other things have been, by accident. A company of Alaskan prospectors were caught in an ice drift several years ago, and were carried almost within reaching distance of the coveted spot; but, strange to say, they were more interested in getting out alive than in adding to the scientific knowledge of the world, and sailed away as rapidly as they could.

The infamous anonymous yellow circular issued broadcast in Chatham on Tuesday night was of a piece with the slander-mongering of the anonymous letter writer. The circular was headed, "A Prohibition Manifesto," and gave a list of the names of citizens who had signed the Business-men's Manifesto against the Liquor law, classified under offensive headings. One hundred dollars reward has been offered for the discovery of the author, who, if he is known, will not reside in Chatham any more. The feeling excited is intense.

The income of the following powers is said to be: Russia, $[illegible]; France $710,[illegible]; United States $[illegible]; Great Britain, $[illegible]; Austro-Hungary, $[illegible]; Germany $[illegible]; Italy, $[illegible]. It will thus be seen that the government of Russia has the largest income, France coming next, while Uncle Sam is third in the list. Of course this does not imply that Russia is richer than the United States, the fact being that she is relatively poor; while France, though a very prosperous country, does not approach the Colossus of the West in riches. Uncle Sam's expenses for the year 1901 were exceeded by those of three other nations—Russia, France and Great Britain—as will be shown by the following statement—Russia, $752,276,522; France, $710,354,475; Great Britain, $683,000,000; United States, $621,588,506; Austro-Hungary, $539,543,961; Germany, $537,000,000; Italy, $333,360,320.

Port Said, where we stopped to take in coal. The voyage from here to Marseilles was exceedingly unpleasant, quite apart from the numbers of newspaper correspondents who made fruitless attempts to interview me. A storm raged which sent the waves flying over the ship, and the vessel pitched and rolled to such an extent that my sickness returned.

At the end of the voyage, the captain of the Gelderland invited my friends and myself to an official dinner. The saloon was decorated with the Dutch colours and with a Transvaal banner, the same flag which the American schoolboys had sent me, with an address, from Philadelphia. In consequence of the bad weather, we arrived one day late, on November 22, in the harbour of Marseilles.

THE WELCOME IN FRANCE.

I went on shore after cordially thanking the captain of the ship and his officer for the kindness and consideration which they had shown me; I still retain the pleasantest recollections of my voyage on the Gelderland. Thousands of people were shouting their greetings with the loudest enthusiasm. The president of the committee for the Independence of the Boers which had lately been formed, "interpreted the feeling of all Marseilles," as he himself said when he welcomed me and added that the enthusiasm which I beheld around me would convey more to me than any words which he could utter. I declared that I gratefully accepted the welcome offered me, although, in view of the sorrow in which my country was wrapped, I had not come in order to be festively received.

"The war in South Africa," I continued, "has exceeded the limits of barbarism. have fought against many barbarous Kaffir tribes in the course of my life; but they are not so barbarous as the English, who have burnt our farms and driven our women and children into destitution, without food or shelter. I hope that God will not abandon the Boer nation. But, if the Transvaal and the Free State are to lose their independence, it shall only happen when both nations have been annihilated with their women and children."

On the road to the hotel stood thousands of people, who cheered me continually, as I passed, and during the afternoon, a number of deputations came to welcome me.

This splendid reception was a thorn in the side of the English at Marseilles, and they tried to spoil the procession by throwing coppers from the windows of an hotel among the populace, in order to raise tumult. But this proceeding narrowly escaped having serious results, as the people, furious at this behavior, stormed the hotel, so that police protection had to be sent for.

After receiving a series of deputations left Paris on December 1, amid scenes of undiminished enthusiasm and escorted by the authorities and private societies for Cologne. On the way to the French frontier the same scenes were repeated which had marked the journey from Marseilles to Paris. At every station where we stopped I was received by great crowds. The same thing happened in Belgium. The enthusiasm which I witnessed in France, not only delighted me, but confirmed me in my hope that my journey would not be in vain.

SNUBBED BY THE KAISER.

This hope, however, was doomed to be very soon frustrated. On the evening of the same day we reached Cologne, where an enthusiasm reigned such as Cologne has, perhaps, never beheld before.

Here, shortly after my arrival, I received a telegram from the German Emperor saying that his Majesty could not receive me at that time as he had a hunting engagement. We then resolved to proceed to The Hague; but, before leaving Cologne I received a series of deputations who gave me every mark of sympathy.

For the rest, I had, throughout the war replied to every inquiry from the scene of war that my confidence was still unshaken, but that it must be left entirely to the Generals in the field to decide whether and how, under the stress of circumstances, they wished to alter their previous resolutions. During the peace negotiations I had only one answer to all the questions put to me as to what I thought of peace—namely, that all would happen as God wished. And, when peace was at last concluded, I applied to the Generals the text in the Bible, II. Cor., viii., 3:

"For to their power, I bear record, yea, and beyond their power they were willing of themselves."

Nor, in so far as I myself am concerned, will I consent to lose courage because the peace is not such as the burgers wished it. For, quite apart from the fact that the bloodshed and the fearful sufferings of the people of the two Republics are now ended, I am convinced that God does not forsake his people, even though it may often appear so.

2.—IRON.

The Company has acquired by purchase immense iron deposits on the North Shore of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, about 350 miles from Sydney. The deposits are estimated to contain 20,000,000 ton [illegible] re above sea level, with probably as much more below that line. The iron can be handled for $1.00 per ton or less. Quantities of this ore have been shipped to Great Britain and the United States, where it has given great satisfaction, and we can sell large quantities f. o. b. at the properties, netting us a profit of $2.00 per ton. This ore makes the finest steel.

3.—FLUX.

We are now negotiating for valuable deposits of dolomite and limestone of the most satisfactory quality, situated on the tide water, within 100 miles of the works

MARKETS.

For six months in each year the Canadian markets can be reached by water at low freight rates, and at all times by rail. As Cape Breton is distant from Liverpool only about 2,300 miles; is nearer to Pernambuco, Brazil, than any point in the United States, and also nearer to Cape Town, South Africa, it has the advantage, in point of distance, for export business over any American steel-producing points, which, with scarcely any exceptions, are situated some distance from tide water. Under any conditions of the world's market, it is believed that the output of these works can be disposed of at satisfactory prices.

OUTPUT

When in full operation, the output is expected to be about as follows:—

1. IRON.—200,000 tons iron ore shipped direct from property, showing net profit of $2.00 per ton, total	$400,000 00
200,000 tons fine iron ore shipped in briquettes, showing net profit of $4.00 per ton, total	800,000 00
100,000 tons steel blooms, showing net profit of $3.00 per ton, total	300,000 00
2. COAL.—600,000 tons coal, showing net profit, at least, of $1.00 per ton, total	600,000 00
3. AIDS.—Government bounties (averaged) added to above per year for 6 years	100 000 00
Total yearly revenue	$2,200,000 00

GOVERNMENT AIDS.

To encourage the manufacture in the Dominion of iron and steel the Parliament of Canada has granted bounties as follows:—

	ON PIG IRON.	ON STEEL.
Apl. 21st, 1902, to July 1st, 1903	$2.70	$2.70
July 1st, 1903, " " 1904	2.25	2.25

July 1st, 1905, " " 1906	1.05	1.05
July 1st, 1906, " " 1907	.60	.60

If the production of steel from the Company's works be as estimated, 300,000 tons per annum, the bounties to be received from the Canadian Government will be as follows:—

1904	$225,000
1905	215,000
1906	145,000
1907	85,000
or an average of $100,000.00 per annum for 6⅔ years	$670,000.00

NET REVENUE

Total net annual profits		$2,200,000.00
LESS FIXED CHARGES:—

Sinking Fund	60,000.00
Incidentals	25,000.00
		155,000.00
Net yearly profits		$2,045,000.00

Equivalent to yearly dividends of over 30 per cent., or 15 per cent. half yearly on total capitalization.

If the capitalization was increased to .... $20,000,000.00 this estimate would still show a dividend-earning capacity of 10 per cent. per annum.

The capitalization of the Dominion Coal Co. is .... $20,000,000.00 earning fully 12 per cent., and is paying 8 per cent. guaranteed dividends on this enormous sum.

The capitalization of the Dominion Iron and Steel Co. is...... $28,000,000.00 on which it is believed 6 per cent. dividends will be earned.

The capitalization of the Canadian Steel & Coal Company is only $6,000,000.00 controlling, it is believed, equally valuable properties, and it is reasonable to expect much larger dividends.

Within the last few months Dominion Coal shares common rose in market value from $40 to $144 per share, and Dominion Iron & Steel Company's shares common rose over $30 per share in market value.

With such low capitalization the Canadian Steel and Coal Co's shares should show tremendous profits, and it is confidently believed they will.

Would You Like an Income of this Kind?

We cannot guarantee an income of this kind from 1,000 shares of stock, but we can guarantee that every dollar you invest in the guaranteed stock of The Gold Hammer Mines and Tunnel Company at 20 cents per share is secured by a GOLD BOND DEPOSITED IN BANK AT THE TIME OF THE PURCHASE OF THE STOCK TO THE CREDIT OF THE BUYER, WHICH INSURES HIM AGAINST LOSS. We can also guarantee, to the best of our judgment, that the development of the ore bodies will make the shares advance at least 100 per cent in twelve months, and, owing to the bond being deposited to the credit of the purchaser, entirely eliminates the feature of chance from the investment. The property is located right in the heart of the Clear Creek District at Idaho Springs, and completely surrounded by big producers.

Details of this proposition will be carefully explained in a handsomely illustrated booklet, (the price of which is twenty-five cents), and is not for general distribution, but we will mail it free to parties who are sufficiently interested to write for it. If you wish to make money you cannot afford to be without this book. If you do not care to make money we cannot afford to send it to you, as it costs us money. This book also gives the story of how Stratton and many others have made millions in mining. These valuable pointers will make you money if you will take advantage of the present opportunity. Write for particulars, and you will not regret it. This is not a gamble, but a bona fide speculation without chance of loss.

BECAUSE

THE SOUR LAKE OIL CO.

Has placed four-fifths of its stock in the treasury for development work; and because

Oil is reached in less than half the depth required on Spindletop Heights in Beaumont;

The people in Canada are well acquainted with the management, which is in the hands of HON. JOHN L. BITTINGER, United States Consul General to Canada; F. S. Ashley, Vice-President of the Massachusetts Securities Co., and W. L. Marston, Vice-President of the American Union Oil and Refining Co.

These gentlemen have made a dividend payer out of one company and have raised the value of its stock from 5c per share to par value, or 25c, within a very short time;

The company is operating in the Sour Lake field, where fewer wells will tap the oil than at Spindletop; this insures a greater flow of oil, and it is of a better quality;

This is the first allotment of shares at the present price of FIVE CENTS PER SHARE; it is the lowest price at which you can buy, and the time left in which to buy at FIVE CENTS is short.

Money in Oil

Special Despatch to the Ontario & California Oil Co, Limited:

Chatham, Dec. 1, 1902.

The Gusher was turned on to-day, and in five hours filled up all the Standard Oil Company's available tankage—so far has given one thousand barrels, at the rate of fifty barrels per hour.

Talk about dividends, talk about advance in value—what investment will compare with this?—Figure it out—OIL two dollars per barrel—means earning one hundred dollars per hour—ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS invested in this Syndicate a few weeks ago—NOW ACTUALLY WORTH FORTY THOUSAND DOLLARS.

REASONS WHY
Stock in the Ontario and California Oil Co. may prove just as profitable within the next few weeks.

REASONS WHY
Prompt action on your part is required

1.—The Ontario and California Oil Co., Limited, is a home company, organized under the laws of Ontario, shares fully paid and non-assessable, built and equipped on the right principle—TO PAY PROFITS AND DIVIDENDS—when earned from the ground, and this object attained—NO STOCK FOR SALE BY THIS COMPANY.

2.—Owns the oil leases on one thousand acres, and are next door neighbors of the Big Gusher owners.

3.—Several drilling rigs NOW at different points on the Company's properties under the direction of the best oil men in Petrolea, men who are oil men in the full sense of the word (not speculators)—connected with oil refineries and the largest oil interests in Canada, and these oil men came to this Company, made their offers, put their money in, and are joining in the development of a large block of the Company's properties.

4.—Ten days to two weeks will complete a well. FIVE WELLS are being put down as fast as men and money can do it.

5.—One may be a gusher, or all may be gushers; in either case the advance will be REAL, and a few weeks will bring you greater profits than you ever dreamed of.

RISK! Yes—so there is in everything—otherwise you would not have the chance of buying One Thousand Shares for Two Hundred and Fifty Dollars, which in Thirty Days may be worth One Thousand to Ten Thousand Dollars. Masterly inactivity has missed many an opportunity to make a fortune—don't wait now and wish later on.

ACT AT ONCE—The block of stock which the Company is offering at Twenty-five Cents per Share is daily getting smaller. Send for November report. Application Forms, etc., and get your order in ON TIME. Apply J. L. FINCH, Secretary Ontario & California Oil Company, Limited Toronto, or

To Dismiss Water Commissioners

The Belleville waterworks has been administered by a Board of Water Commissioners for a number of years, and that the plan has not given entire satisfaction is made plain by the fact that at the coming municipal elections the people will be asked to vote on a by-law to dismiss the commissioners and place the plant in charge of the Council. During the discussion on the subject one of the aldermen pointed out that the city has only 800 consumers, yet the consumption is 320,000,000 gallons, as compared with St. Thomas, where 2,000 consumers use only 200,000,000 gallons. The statement was also made that although Belleville's flat rate of $10 is the highest in the Province, it is the only plant worked at a loss.

Evangelist Kennedy's Success

The many friends of Mr. H. D. Kennedy will be pleased to read the following, which was taken from the Sault Ste. Notwithstanding bad roads and weather crowds have driven in for miles around to attend the services conducted by Evangelist Kennedy, of Peterborough, who is with us. Upwards of eighty persons have been soundly converted, whole families swept into the Kingdom, and the churches gloriously revived. Mr. Kennedy's work in the district the last few months has proved very successful, over four hundred have been converted and the work still goes on. Mr. Kennedy leaves us this week for Richard's Landing, where Evangelist Maclachlan will join him in services there."

ANOTHER CHILD DEAD

One More of the Ailing Children Succumb to Scarlet Fever

Another of the children of Mr. Aisling died at Nicholls Hospital about three o'clock yesterday. This makes the third death in the family during the past three days. There are still three children left, all down with the dread disease. There is no blame attached to the death authorities in connection with the outbreak. Every precaution had been taken to prevent the spread of the disease.

OLD FOGY NEW

Experience Teaches People

"My parents considered coffee simply a harmless beverage for old and young, so when a mere baby I commenced to drink it, and when I reached womanhood, found myself troubled with nervousness, headache and an irritable temper and to obtain relief, I drank more and more coffee, thus adding fuel to the fire.

I grew worse until life was one black night of pain. My nerves were shattered, body wrecked with suffering, my stomach gave out and utterly refused to digest the most simple foods, and finally I lay for weeks starving and longing for food, but unable to eat more than just enough to keep me alive.

While in this state, my next door neighbor brought in a fragrant cup that I supposed was some new grade of coffee, and although I had suffered so terribly from its effects, the temptation was too strong to resist, and I drank it with relish. I noticed it had a rich agreeable taste and I drank it without distress. She repeated the kindness two or three mornings.

I began to congratulate myself that it was not coffee that hurt me after all. I was assuring my friend of this one day when she astonished me by saying that I was not drinking coffee, but a pure food drink called Postum Food Coffee, made from nourishing grain for building up the system and nerves instead of tearing them down.

I then began to drink Postum regularly, and to get well slowly, but surely. Today I am a strong, hearty woman; my nervous system is entirely rebuilt and with a reserve force of strength in time of need; I sleep well and awake refreshed and feel bright for each day's task, with no indigestion or stomach trouble, and a good, strong active brain ready for any mental strain or toil. There is no doubt on earth that coffee nearly killed me.

A friend of mine was obliged to resign her position as school teacher, because of extreme nervousness caused by coffee drinking. I induced her to use Postum in place of coffee, and at the end of four months she began teaching again, her nervousness gone and feeling and looking ten years younger; her sallow complexion having become a beautiful healthy bloom." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

ELLEN FRANCIS, THE PALMIST

Married a Whitby Man and Has not been Seen Since

The following despatch from Buffalo indicates that palmists do not always tell their subjects as much as they might about the future. There is no doubt that the Ellen Francis referred to is the palmist who was here recently:

Buffalo, N.Y., Dec. 7.—R. G. Lynn, of Whitby, Ont., met a woman known as Madam Ellen Francis, a palmist, in October. She read his palm and told him that the lines indicated that he was to be married before Christmas. Later he proposed to the palmist and she accepted. Lynn sold his boarding-house in Whitby and came to Buffalo with the woman. They hadn't been here four minutes before the woman disappeared and with her went about $300 belonging to Lynn.

They arrived in Buffalo at 6.30 o'clock last night. When they got to the street Madam Francis spied a green car stopping near the station and she said to Lynn: "Run over and ask the conductor where we might find a good hotel."

Lynn did as he was told. When he came back Madam Francis had disappeared.

"I'm really annoyed about this," said Mr. Lynn to a number of reporters. You mustn't mention this in your papers; if you do, I shall be provoked."

Dr. Pierce's GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY Restores LOST FLESH AND STRENGTH

"I was a total wreck—could not sleep or eat," writes Mr. J. C. Beers, of Berryman, Crawford Co., Mo. "For two years I tried medicine from doctors but received very little benefit. I lost flesh and strength, was not able to do a good day's work. I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and when I had taken one bottle I could sleep and my appetite was wonderfully improved. I have taken five bottles and am still improving."

The sole motive for substitution is to permit the dealer to make the little more profit paid by the sale of less meritorious medicines. He gains; you lose. Therefore, accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery."

Mr. T. J. Tilley, foreman for the Bell Telephone Company, who was away all summer repairing the long distance lines of the company, and who returned here with his men to install the telephone exchange at the Canadian General Electric Company's Works, was yesterday morning made the recipient of the following address, on the occasion of the separation of the gang for winter:

Thos. J. Tilley, Esq.,

Dear Sir, — As we are about to leave you we thought the least we could do was to show you we appreciated your kindness since our connection with you, and ask you to accept this small token in remembrance of us. Wishing you the compliments of the season, we remain,

Yours respectfully,
R. C. MERRIFIELD,
C. W. HALSTEAD.

Accompanying the address was a handsome pipe and case, with a plug of Mr. Tilly's favorite tobacco, and a box of Vestas.

Mr. Tilly replied in felicitous terms, and hoped that they would have a pleasant time in the city to which they were going. The men leave for Kingston this morning, while Mr. Tilly remains to take charge of this section.

IN CANADA'S GREAT AND VAST NORTHERN WILDS

Government Surveyor's Report on a Great Undiscovered Region

A WONDERFUL COUNTRY TO BE OPENED UP

Report of a Memorable Region—About Great Slave Lake—A Great River Discovered

Ottawa, Dec. 10—The Canadian Department of the Interior has just published J. W. Tyrrell's report of his survey of the wide region between Great Slave Lake and Hudson's Bay, across the Barren Grounds. In this journey he crossed an area of about 30,000 square miles to the north of Doobaunt Lake, that had never been mapped till he brought home rich material for this purpose.

He accomplished 1,720 miles of surveys and in doing this he and his small party travelled 4,000 miles with sledges, and canoes. He fixed the geographical position of many hundreds of points; obtained 300 photographs, the larger part of which appear in the volume now published; discovered a river, hitherto unknown, that is navigable for hundreds of miles; and found the position of the Height of Land that separates the rivers flowing to the Arctic from those which run to Hudson's Bay.

It was a very notable journey lasting from April to December, 1900, involving considerable hardship and the hardest kind of work, but it was enjoyed by every man in the party. There remain very few opportunities to carry out exploratory work in North America on so large a scale.

The journey to Hudson's Bay led Tyrrell straight to Chesterfield Inlet, the long, narrow bit of sea that penetrates far to the west. About one hundred and fifty years ago two ships were sent from England to try to discover the Northwest Passage to China.

After sailing across Hudson's Bay, they found this deep inlet, up which they pushed, believing that these waters would certainly carry them to the Pacific Ocean. They ascended about one hundred miles when they discovered that the water was growing fresh, and finally they proved that it was only a deep narrow bay; so they went back very much disgusted.

The Height of Land, or water-parting between the rivers of the Arctic and the Atlantic systems is not far east of Great Slave Lake, and is only 1,234 feet above the sea at the place where Tyrrell crossed it. A great deal of the country traversed was comparatively level. Series of lakes were met extending in an east and west direction which greatly assisted the explorer, for travel by water in his light canoes was easier than land travelling.

In the photographs taken of the region near Great Slave Lake, a large amount of timber is seen. In some places there was timber of important size.

"He tells of a nice grove of "white spruce trees containing trees of ten and twelve inches in diameter." This was the last timber of importance seen on the journey east, for this grove is not far from the Barren Lands.

Spruce and birch trees are the chief timber in this northern region. Where the timber ceases the landscape is indeed a picture of desolation, although it produces much grass, mosses and other vegetable life for the support of the numerous herds of caribou and musk oxen which wander over the country.

We have little idea of the large lakes of Northern Canada. Great Slave Lake for example, is almost as large as Lake Erie or Lake Ontario. One of Tyrrell's pictures shows high waves on this lake in which small boats could scarcely survive, another shows ice ridges piled up by ice pressure on the frozen surface of the lake to a height of twenty to thirty feet.

When Alexander Mackenzie floated down the river named after him, into Great Slave Lake, he followed the shore of the lake for many days, searching for its outlet. It was a long and difficult task to find it, and so his journey to the sea on the northern coast of the continent was considerably delayed.

One hundred and fifty miles east of Great Slave Lake the explorer found the junction of the Hanbury and Thelon rivers, the Thelon being the great discovery of the trip. He followed the Thelon to the east and found that for 134 miles it had an average width of 300 yards, a depth of 6 feet and a current of three miles an hour.

The depth of the channel in most places was from ten to fourteen feet, but in a few places there were sand bars over which the water was not more than three feet deep. Not a single rapid worthy of the name exists. At several points the current is very swift, but not too swift for canoes going either up or down the river.

Tyrrell says that the Thelon River is one of the finest in Canada and is navigable for river boats or other boats of light draught all the way from Hudson's Bay through Chesterfield Inlet to the forks of the Hanbury, a distance of 550 miles, excepting perhaps, at two rapids on the River above Baker Lake, where some improvements in the channel might be made. He believes that this large, navigable highway, extending far into northern Canada, is open for navigation during the months of July, August, September and October.

While descending the Thelon he found at one place the putrefying carcasses of hundreds of deer on both sides for a mile or more, where they had apparently been slaughtered by Esquimaux as was shown by the fact that many of them were carved and deprived of the choicest cuts of meat. The Esquimaux at an encampment not far away asserted that this fearful destruction of deer was due to the fact that they had been caught in the spring ice floe and drowned. This statement, however, was not believed.

The chief food supply of the country consists of the great herds of Caribou, and the fish of various kinds which are abundant in all the lakes and streams. There are a large number of musk oxen also, but the natives find it so easy to slaughter them that they are rapidly diminishing in number.

The photographs which accompany the report are large, and, though not of the very best quality, they vividly illustrate the aspects of that little-known region. We see the dog sledges that carried the supplies for the party to Great Slave Lake; the forts of trading posts of the Hudson's Bay Company that are scattered far and wide; Great Slave Lake spreading away like a sea, with its wooded shores and the buildings of traders on its banks; views of the little lakes stretching eastward; fine waterfalls in some of the rivers, and wide and noble stretches of the Thelon river.

Among the valuable features of the report are the tables of the determination of latitude and magnetic declination, tables of distances and elevation, and a complete meteorological record, all of which cover many pages.

CUT WILL BE LARGE

Nearly Nine Hundred Million Feet to be Taken Out

The Department of Crown Lands has made an estimate of the probable cut of pine sawlogs and square timber during the present season on territory held under timber license from the Crown. The quantities which are based upon the report of the respective agencies are as follows, in feet, board measure:

Sudbury	121,000,000
Parry Sound	171,000,000
Biscotasing	40,000,000
Whitney	50,500,000
Webbwood	150,000,000
Sault Ste. Marie	130,000,000
Port Arthur	13,000,000
Arnprior	40,000,000
Pembroke	100,000,000
Peterborough	44,000,000
Rat Portage	25,000,000
Total	884,500,000

In addition to this quantity, there will be a large number of railway ties, probably 1,500,000 taken out, as well as telegraph poles and fence posts, hardwood, etc., and a considerable cut of hemlock and hard woods, the last mentioned for fuel and charcoal purposes, as well as for use in furniture making, etc. The quantity of pine cut during the winter of 1900-01 under authority of timber license was 652,000,000 feet, and during last winter 850,000,000 feet. From the reports of the timber agents it is apparent that the chief difficulty the lumbering firms are experiencing is scarcity of labor, men being hard to get and wages high. Provisions and other supplies are also dear, and the expenses of operating are correspondingly greater. The cut during the present winter will be a heavy one, as the demand for timber is good and prices rule high. The only thing that will tend to keep down the cut is the difficulty in obtaining labor.

CHILD MURDER IN B C

Police Make a Ghastly Find where a Chinaman was seen Burrying Something

Vancouver, Dec. 10.—A man reported to the police to-day that ten days ago he saw a Chinaman burying something in the bushes at the east end of the city at night.

He said he had forgotten the incident in the interval, but he thought it should be investigated.

Police were sent to the spot with spades, and dug up a child with its throat cut from ear to ear. No particulars are known, but it is undoubtedly a case of murder.

A rigid investigation is being prosecuted.

THE NEW WORLD WONDER OPENED BY ROYALTY

The Great Dam Over the River Nile Formerly Completed

WHAT THE WONDERFUL STRUCTURE MEANS

The Dam's Proportions—Immense Benefits to Be Derived From Its Construction

London, Dec. 10—H. R. H. the Duke of Connaught, formerly opened the great dam of the River Nile at Assouan today. He represented His Majesty, the King, just as he officiated at the emissary of the late Queen on February 12, 1899, when the corner-stone of the wonderful work was placed in position.

This enterprise, of which Sir John Aird, M.P., was contractor, and Sir Benjamin Baker, and Mr. Fitzmaurice chief engineers, is one of the many boons conferred on Egypt by British rule. Splendid engineering feat as it is, the economical results to be affected by it are even more beneficial. It is an epoch in Egyptian history.

WHAT THE DAM MEANS.

Briefly, this dam will store up, and control the waters of the Upper Nile, thus increasing arable land by one million acres and providing irrigation during the dry seasons for an immense area of territory. The Nile is the chief source of Egyptian agriculture. It gathers in its course to the sea millions of tons of rich mud and silt, and during the rainy season, overflows its banks, and deposits this fertilizing material over a large strip of territory on each side of the river. When the water recedes it leaves a fertile area from which great crops of cotton, sugar, tobacco, etc., are obtained.

A REVIVAL OF WISDOM.

In the time of the Pharaohs works of this kind were constructed, and one channel, dating from the rule of Joseph the Israelite, still survives. For thirty centuries Egypt has been declining under misrule, incapacity and poverty. At different periods undertakings to increase the utility of the Nile were set on foot. But none were of much value.

Twenty years ago, when the overlordship of Egypt passed to Great Britain the repair and extension of the Nile dams was at once begun. The restoration of the Cairo barrages was the first step. Engineers then declared that the Nile supply of water would have to be stored if additional results were to be achieved. Recognizing the ability and administrative success of Lord Cromer's rule in Egypt, London capitalists offered to construct two large dams across the river at Assouan and Assiout, thus creating two large reservoirs of water, which could be used as required for irrigation purposes. The cost would be $25,000,000 not to be paid for until successfully completed. Sir Ernest Cassel, the financier furnished the money.

THE DAM'S PROPORTIONS.

At Assouan the river is over a mile wide. The dam is a solid granite wall, ninety feet above low water, and sixty feet wide at the top. In some places the foundations go down one hundred feet below the surface. The dam is pierced by 180 sluice gates to regulate the flow of water. It stores up over 1,000,000,000 tons of water. The water thus dammed back will affect a strip of country 140 miles long. The work has employed 8,500 natives working in day and night shifts. Owing to two successive low Niles, which has not happened before for forty years, progress was greatly facilitated.

The Assiout dam is not yet completed. It will be half a mile long. It will store up water for the Ibrahimieh Canal. The two dams will add 2,500 miles of cultivatable land to Egypt, valued at $400,000,000 adding $2,000,000 yearly to the national revenues. As the navigation by river is thus closed, a canal with four locks has been made at Assouan for the river boats.

EFFECTS ON EGYPTIAN OPINION.

These immense irrigation works have done much to cause native appreciation of British rule. The officials in charge are looked upon by the simple natives and benefactors and friends. An Egyptian statesman, bitterly hostile to England's occupation, said to Lord Milner several years ago: "Do not suppose that if Great Britain were to retire from Egypt we would let the engineers go. I myself should be the first to do everything I could to retain them."

A touching story is told of native devotion. In 1888, when the Nile was very low, the people of Girga province saw their lands unflooded and starvation staring them in the face. A British resident official, an engineer, decided to try a temporary dam. It was a doubtful undertaking, a desperate remedy. But by working night and day, with willing native helpers, it was built. When the people saw the water with its rich deposits flooding their land their joy and gratitude knew no bounds. They called for a religious thanksgiving in the mosque of the chief town of Girga. Now, the presence of a Christian in the mosque is offensive to devout Mohammedans. For him to attend a religious service in the mosque is abhorrent to their minds. But in this case they insisted on the Englishman attending the service, their thankfulness overcoming the traditional exclusiveness and intolerance.

WHAT EGYPT OWES TO BRITAIN.

Lord Milner, in his famous book where this remarkable episode is recorded says: "Any improvement in his water supply is a thing which goes straight home to the heart of every Egyptian. It is the one sort of benefit which you can confer upon him, of which the value is not only indisputable, but universally recognized. The most successful, the most creditable, the most unquestionably useful of all the services rendered by our country to Egypt have been connected with this vital problem of water."

This was written in 1893 as a plea for the Assouan reservoir. Today the reservior with its store of blessing for the poor fellaheen, or native cultivators, is an accomplished fact. He has not only been relieved from oppression and semi-slavery, but put in the way of making a comfortable living. He does not object to honest taxation for beneficent purposes.

During the construction of the dam thousands of Europeans and Orientals have flocked to the scene. Hotels have been built to accommodate tourists. The dam has been the talk of three continents. It is one of the greatest triumphs of British industry, power and foresight in rejuvenating and reforming a down trodden country.

CANADIAN PULP COMPANY

Will Conduct Operations in Vicinity of North Bay

London, Dec. 10.—The prospectus is published of the British Canadian Pulp Company, with a capital of £500,000, formed to acquire freehold limits at North Bay, Ontario. The company will manufacture and sell pulp. The President will be F. A. Ritchie, President of the Kinleith Paper Company, and the Vice-President, Judge McDougall, Toronto.

TO RECLAIM ALBERTA LANDS

Canadian Pacific will Use Waters of the Bow to Irrigate the Land

Montreal, Dec. 9.—The Canadian Pacific Railway officials have planned considerable work for next year in connection with their Western extensions. They include double-tracking, the building of a number of new lines West of Winnipeg, and a scheme of irrigation which will reclaim two and a half million acres of land between Calgary and Medicine Hat, a scheme which has been brought out for some time past, and which will be carried into effect just as soon as the plans are approved by the executive.

In the scheme of irrigation the water will be taken from the Bow River, and it is calculated it will take three dollars per acre to turn the water upon the land, which is otherwise admirable in quality, and which needs this application to make it profitable.

100,000 ADDED

Western Population by End of Year will Thus be Augmented

Winnipeg, Man., Dec. 10.—The reports issued by the Dominion immigration department indicate that the population of Manitoba and the Territories will by the end of the present year have augmented by fully 100,000 souls.

From January to October 31 the number of immigrants registering at Winnipeg was 64,000. The returns for November have not yet been completed by the authorities, but it is estimated that the number will be in the neighborhood of 5,000, making a total of 69,000, with another month's arrivals to be added. These figures do not, however, show the total arrivals. The officers were wont to estimate that fully 35 per cent. of the immigrants were of the independent class, and do not register at the immigration office. This percentage is, therefore, added to the net total.

TO WORK THE MINES

The Molybdenite Deposits in Hastings County

An important discovery has been made of molybdenite in Hastings County, which created considerable interest among certain people who are looking for Canadian minerals. A Toronto syndicate has purchased the property, and will soon commence to operate the same, as large deposits have been discovered on the properties purchased. They have also secured an adjoining property, which contains very fine qualities of corundum. The samples brought to Toronto show that the ore is very rich, and experts who have seen the samples say that it is a very rich discovery. The Toronto syndicate intends to organize a Canadian company, take out a charter, and carry on the work of development.

It is said that this metal also abounds in the northern part of Peterborough County, and a search for it will probably be made in the spring and summer. It is worth $400 per ton.

Lightning Remedy For Cramps

Some people have cramps pretty often, others only now and again, but when you do have them it's a mighty quick relief you want. Polson's Nerviline is as sure as death to relieve cramps in five seconds, it's instantaneous, just a few drops in sweetened water and the pain is gone. Buy a bottle of Nerviline today, and keep it handy. Nerviline is a common household necessity and only costs 25 cents.

COMBINED BRITISH AND GERMAN FEETS, TAKE THE FIRST WARLIKE STEP

Seized the Vessels of the Venezuelans--Towed them Out of the Harbor

British and German Subjects in Caracas Arrested by Order of President Castro—Given 48 Hours

Caracas, Venezuela, Dec. 10.—At four o'clock this afternoon the combined British and German fleet seized and towed outside the harbor of La Guayra all the vessels which were then there. These were the warships General Crespo, Totumo, Oseun, and Margarita. The ships were manned by 300 men. The news of the capture of the warships is not yet generally known in the capital. Great excitement will undoubtedly prevail when it is announced.

Must Start at Once For Caracas.

Paris, Dec. 10.—Owing to the gravity of the situation in Venezuela, the Foreign Office has directed M. Wiener, newly appointed French Minister to Venezuela to start immediately for Caracas without waiting for the arrival here of the Venezuelan Minister, Gen. Velutini, as at first intended. The Foreign Office has selected Count De Peretti De Rocca as the French representative in the arbitration with Venezuela, and has ordered him to proceed to Caracas immediately with M. Wiener. The arbitration covers the losses sustained by French citizens whose houses were burned and whose plantations were destroyed during the revolution. The sessions of the arbitrators will be held at Caracas. The French officials probably will depart within two days. On their arrival at Caracas there will be a formal resumption of diplomatic relations between the two countries.

Arrest Britishers.

Caracas, Venezuela, Dec. 10.—All British and German subjects in Caracas were arrested yesterday.

Doubt the Arrests.

Berlin, Dec. 10.—The officials here have no confirmation of the announced arrest of all the German and British subjects at Caracas, and discredit the statement. They say that possibly a Germans and Englishmen have been arrested under some pretext by President Castro.

Castro is Defiant.

Kingstown, St. Vincent, Dec. 10.—The British cruiser Indefatigable brings reports that President Castro is defiant and indifferent to the threatened blockade.

Blockading La Guayra.

Cologne, Dec. 10.—A despatch to the Cologne Gazette says three German warships and the British cruiser Indefatigable are now blockading at La Guayra, the port of Caracas, Venezuela.

Why They Were Arrested.

London, Dec. 10.—At the Foreign Office the arrest of the British subjects is thought to provide against their ill-treatment.

Gunboat Seized.

London, Dec. 10.—The Admiralty has received information of the seizure of the Venezuelan gunboat Bolivar at Port of Spain, Island of Trinidad.

Given Forty-eight Hours.

Caracas, Dec. 10.—It is said on good authority that the captain of the British cruiser Retribution this afternoon sent a special courier from La Guaira to Caracas with an ultimatum for compliance with the note deposited yesterday by the British and German Ministers at the home of the Foreign Minister before their departure from Caracas. It is said the ultimatum gives a maximum of 48 hours in which Venezuela is to accede. The note, it is said, requests the immediate cash payment of $34,000 each to Great Britain and Germany, and for the settlement of claims arising from past revolutions by a mixed tribunal, the same as the last agreement made with France.

THE COUNTY COUNCIL

The Probable Candidates in Several Divisions

The elections for members of the County Council will take place this year, and considerable interest is being taken in connection with the matter in several divisions.

In the First Division, Mr. William Anderson, M.P.P., and Mr. E. A. Peck are likely to be returned by acclamation. Both gentlemen are able and popular representatives. Indeed The Times is of the opinion that it would be a great mistake if any change were made in this division. Mr. Anderson, by reason of his being in the Legislature, would prove a valuable man to the Council. In Mr. Peck's case, there are many reasons why he should be returned. He is likely to be the next warden; he is convenient to the County officials and can be consulted at any time when important matters arise which require quick attention; he has an intimate knowledge of county affairs, and best of all, is at all times willing to work unsparingly in the interests of his constituents and the whole county.

In the Second Division, represented by Mr. Geo. W. Fitzgerald and Paul Costello. Mr. Costello, it is said, will retire. Mr. T. Hunter, of North Monaghan, will be the new man. Mr. Hunter is well qualified for the position, and his election is fairly certain. Mr. Fitzgerald has been in the County Council for three terms and has proven himself to be one of the best men at the board. He is progressive and at the same time careful as regards the expenditure of County monies. Mr. Fitzgerald is sure to be returned with a sweeping majority.

In the Third Division there is not likely to be any contest. Warden Eastland and Mr. Robert Shaw will come back to the Council next year, with the confidence of their large constituency substantially renewed. During Mr. Eastland's term as Warden the affairs of the county were never more ably managed. He is ever watchful of the interests of the ratepayers, more particularly of those living in the north. It would be a great loss, not only to the north country, but also to the whole county, if Mr. Eastland was to be left out. This also applies to Mr. Shaw. However, The Times is pleased to say that there is little danger of this.

In the Fourth Division Dr. Jeffs, of Havelock, retires. Mr. Pearce will again be a candidate, and should be returned. He has been identified with the County Council for many years, as well as his father before him, and is therefore familiar with the work. We have not heard who is likely to succeed Dr. Jeffs.

In the Fifth Division there will be a sharp contest. The present members are Messrs. W. H. Casement, of Lakefield, and Richard Crowe, Dummer. Mr. Casement is one of the ablest men that ever sat at the County Council board, and we hope to see him returned. Mr. Crowe is also a worthy representative. The new men spoken of are Messrs. Dennis Maloney, Reeve of Douro; and R. Hawthorne, Dummer. In this division certainly the ratepayers have good material to choose from. Mr. Maloney has made his mark as a capable and progressive Reeve, and would be a good man in the higher council. Mr. Hawthorne is an ex-member of the County Council, where he served with credit to himself.

THE TIDE STILL RISES.

REFERENDUM VOTE GOES OVER 162,000 FOR THE ACT.

A number of Counties and Districts Yet to Come that Will Add Probably Ten Thousand

For	162,130
Against	86,874
Majority for	75,256

The vote in favor of the liquor act now exceeds one hundred and sixty-two thousand, and there are more returns to come, probably enough to make the final figure over 170,000 for the act, and the majority 80,000. In the total reported above there is nothing for Addington, East Peterborough or the Nipissings, and very incomplete returns from Parry Sound, East Huron, Centre Grey, North Hastings, South Ontario, East Victoria and other ridings. It would not occasion surprise, therefore, were the aggregate vote for the act to be increased by over 10,000 on a final statement.

HARD CASE FOR DR. LORENZ

Austrian Professor Performs the Most Difficult Operation He Has Had Here

Baltimore, Dec. 10.—Bloodless surgery was demonstrated for the second time in Baltimore to-day by Dr. Adolph Lorenz. The demonstration took place in the amphitheatre of Johns Hopkins Hospital. Two little girls with congenital hip dislocation were operated upon.

May Lehman, daughter of Police Officer Lehman of the Northeastern district, was the first child. The case was pronounced the most difficult that the specialist had treated in this country, and some doubt was expressed as to whether the results would be satisfactory. Annie Hanf was the second case, and Dr. Lorenz hopes for better results. The age of each child was announced as 7 years, but in the case of May Lehman, an attendant who heard the announcement corrected the age to 5 1/2 years. The child was fully large enough for one of 7.

DEAD MAN'S ISLAND

Mr. Theodore Ludgate Has Got a Settlement

Mr. Theodore Ludgate, of Vancouver, formerly a resident of Peterborough, has offered to erect a saw mill to cost $300,000, and to cut one hundred million feet annually, from which the stumpage dues to the province would be $400,000 a year, in order to get a settlement with the city.

It will be remembered that Mr. Ludgate some years ago secured a lease of Dead Man's Island, in Vancouver Harbor, from the Militia Department, Ottawa, but has been unable to build his mill, owing to legal proceedings instituted by the province as to the ownership of the island.

SOCIALISTIC MEETINGS

Addresses to be Delivered on Saturday Night and Sunday Afternoon

A public meeting will be held on Saturday evening in the Maccabees Hall on Water street, under the auspices of Peterborough Socialistic League No. 22, to be addressed by Mr. James Simpson, Provincial Chairman of Ontario Socialistic League. Subject: "Socialism and Trades Unionism." Silver collection.

On Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the same Hall, another address will be delivered by Mr. Simpson, entitled "Socialism Inevitable," to which the public are cordially invited.

Mr. Simpson is a prominent trades unionist and socialistic worker. He was a candidate at the last election for the Ontario Legislature in one of the Toronto constituencies, and has done much to elevate the condition of the laboring classes. He is a fluent speaker, and interesting and instructive addresses may be expected.

VOTE OF THANKS

Passed by Harmony Lodge I. O. G. T. to Ministers

At the regular meeting of Harmony Lodge No. 457 I.O.G.T., the following resolution was adopted:

That this lodge desires to place on record its appreciation of the very valuable services rendered to the cause of temperance by the ministry of our town and county in the late referendum fight, and also to all our lay temperance friends, both Conservative and Reform, who worked hand in hand to poll the grand majority of some 2,800. Especial praise should be given to the Rev. Mr. Potter and his executive for the grand work they did in organizing the county in so short a time they had at their disposal. We are glad to note that East Peterborough polled more than the required vote, and West Peterborough would have done the same had the temperance votes been anything like fairly polled. We also hope that some permanent organization shall be formed in the county to further the good work done, and see that all temperance laws are enforced.

PROTECTION WRIT FOR JOHN L.

Federal Court Gives Him Immunity From Arrest for Debt in Massachusetts

Boston, Dec. 10.—John L. Sullivan is to be exempt from arrest on civil action during his stay in this State. He obtained a writ of protection on his own petition from Judge Lowell in the United States District Court to-day. Sullivan alleged that he has filed a petition in bankruptcy, now pending, and that he believes persons whose debts are dischargeable in bankruptcy intend to arrest him for the debts on the ground that he intends to leave New York.

The petitioner said that he is here temporarily and intends to return to New York and he wished to be protected by the court from any arrest while here.

Sullivan was at the Federal building all the forenoon and did not leave until he had in his pocket the writ of protection issued by the court.

CANADA'S CHEESE TRADE

The Montreal Gazette has prepared its usual season's report of the exports of Canadian cheese and butter, which, for the season just closed, shows most gratifying results, both as to volume of shipments and values both here and at the point of destination. Further pleasing features of our growing exports of dairy products are, that all indications point to a continuance at least for the next season, of the comparatively high prices now ruling, particularly of cheese.

The season of 1902 has been a record one in cheese, but three particulars stand out prominently, the increase of over 15 per cent in the aggregate volume of exports, the fact that this increased output did not lower prices, as farmers realized on the average $1.50 per box more this season than last, and the marked improvement in quality, compared with recent years. These influences has resulted in one of the most successful years in the history of the trade, for not only have the farmers made big profits, but the middlemen also have come out well. Since the opening of navigation there have been exported from Montreal 2,400,171 boxes of cheese, which have returned to the Canadian producer in round figures about $17,-287,000, an increase of $5,400,000 over the returns of the previous season. Three factors were operative in creating and maintaining the high average prices—First, the fact that the season opened with the markets bare of old cheese; second, the remarkably high average quality of the cheese; and, thirdly, consumption kept up throughout the season, despite the higher prices. Well into July the imports into Britain were absorbed almost as fast as they arrived, with little or no accumulation of stocks; which naturally made for steadiness. In fact before the end of June, it became evident that English buyers would have to depend almost exclusively on Canada for their supplies from this side, as there had been a decrease up to that period of over 50 per cent. in the exports from New York. The great bulk of the cheese produced in Northern New York also which formerly came to Montreal, is now being shipped to Chicago and the Western States, and large quantities of Wisconsin cheese, which formerly found a market in Montreal are now required for consumption in the manufacturing districts springing up in the Southern States. Indeed, many in the trade believe in this connection that before many years Canada will be experiencing a demand for cheese from the United States. It does not of course, follow from this that the U. S. is making less cheese, but rather that it is consuming more, and this increase in home consumption is growing year by year. This is a fact for which British importers will have to reckon more in in future.

The Canadian exports for the season, and their value, compared with previous years, were as follows:

Year	Boxes	Cost Value	Spot Value
1902	2,400,171	$17,287,253	$18,400,300
1901	1,781,072	13,541,591	13,165,856
1900	2,077,000	16,500,000	17,97[illegible]
1899	1,896,496	14,025,000	16,171,3[illegible]
1898	1,900,000	12,000,000	12,500,000
1897	2,102,985	14,126,000	14,720,000
1896	1,726,237	11,000,000	12,000,000

The improvement in the quality of the cheese was largely due to the strong note of warning sounded by some of the leading authorities at last winter's dairy convention, which has had some effect in waking up the manufacturing branch of the industry.

CANADA AND THE EMPIRE

The decision of the English Government to permit the import of cattle from Argentina on the most favorable terms, i. e., —practically free from vexations and frequent embargoes, is far-reaching in its effect. Canada is nominally in the same favored class, but only nominally so. We suffer long and severely from scares and productive embargoes for that their aim is to protect the English cattle trade is plain to even the most loyal. Now if England and Canada are going to treat each other in this way there will be very little room left for the play of Imperial sentiment. A blow like this will be one more set back to Anglo-Canadian trade, which is low enough at the present without further decrease. The attack of Lloyds on our fast Atlantic service from Halifax, also is not calculated to promote friendly feeling. What right has an insurance exchange to say that we cannot compete with New York, when even the Americans themselves admit that we can?

C. P. R. PENSION FUND

Circular Notifying Employees Will be Issued This Week

Montreal, Dec. 9—The C.P.R. new pension fund, it is announced, will go into force on January 1st. The trustees of the fund, Sir Thomas Shaughnessy and Mr. D. McNicoll will issue a circular this week notifying the employees of the rules and regulations governing the fund, which, are based on the most liberal terms, being exceedingly advantageous to the men upwards of 30,000 of whom will benefit thereby. It differs from the Grand Trunk, the Pennsylvania and other systems in the fact that it is a pension fund pure and simple, and has no insurance department connected therewith. A quarter of a million dollars was set aside as a nucleus to the fund at the annual meeting of the shareholders in 1901.

Chicago, Dec. 8.—The discovery of a new means of causing rhythmic beats in a strip of heart muscle is announced from the University of Chicago. The stimulus is oxygen, and Dr. David J. Lingle is the discoverer. He has been working on the lines of Prof. Jacques Loeb's announcement made two years ago that a solution of salt would start a heart to pulsating.

It has long been known that the heart is extremely sensitive to oxygen and to carbon dioxide, the gas produced in vitiated air. But heretofore the action of oxygen has been thought to be confined to the purification of the blood. Dr. Lingle shows that this gas has the power directly to sustain the beats of a strip of heart muscle removed from the body of a turtle, and to keep it going for from 24 to 72 hours. Even then the muscle stopped only because dissolution set in, and, in fact, the strip continued to beat for 24 hours of the 72 with part of it already dead.

London, Dec. 10.—In rebuking Sir Horace Rumbold for what he had written in the National Review concerning his conversation on official matters with the Emperor of Austria, Lord Lansdowne said that new regulations would be issued which would render it impossible for members of the diplomatic service, even after their retirement, to publish observations on their experiences in the countries in which they had been employed.

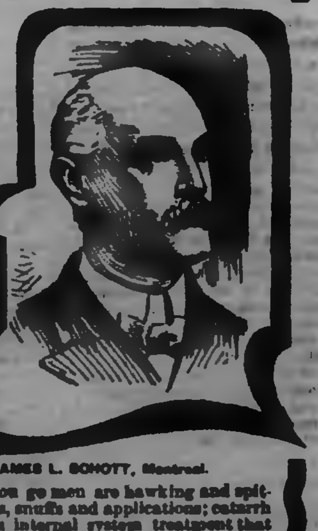
Catarrh of the Entire System Cured.

James L. Schott of Montreal had the Disease in a Most Severe Form—Cured by Powley's Liquified Ozone.

Oxygen—Nature's great health giving element, which is fed the blood from the stomach through the lungs and through the pores of the skin is absolutely essential to life. If by any means the supply should be cut off from any one of these sources, your blood does not contain its full nourishment—the vitality of your system is lowered—and the tissues and membranes through which your arteries pass do not receive the food necessary to keep them in a healthy condition. Congestions are produced in the membranous linings of the various organs of the body, such as the nose, throat, bronchial tubes, lungs, stomach, bowels, kidneys and the organs peculiar to the female sex. These congestions are attacked by the germs of catarrh, always producing chronic catarrh—always more or less loathsome, according to the length of time you have been troubled. Mr James L. Schott, of Montreal, had catarrh of the system so badly the diseased portions gave out a most offensive odor. He writes:

The Ozone Co., Limited—Gentlemen: I am a man of 45 years of age and have been afflicted with catarrh for the last thirty years, which by this time has penetrated my entire system. I had tried everything without success, and at last decided to try Ozone. I have used six bottles of the remedy, and I can feel that it has benefited me. It has stopped the bad odor which arises from catarrh, and I feel no headaches or pain. The disease was too deep seated to be easily cured, and it took time, as you know that catarrh is one of the most stubborn diseases to get the upper hand of. Still, I have the consolation of knowing the Ozone effected a cure, as I continued persistently in its use. To those afflicted I cannot praise it too highly. (Signed)
JAMES L. SCHOTT, 20 Voyer St., Montreal.



JAMES L. SCHOTT, Montreal.

Catarrh is about the most prevalent disease in Canada. Everywhere you go men are hawking and spitting in the most disgusting manner. You should give up the use of inhalers, snuffs and applications; catarrh is a system disease, due to the lack of oxygen in the blood that requires an internal system treatment that will supply that defect, more local treatment will avail nothing. Take Powley's Liquified Ozone frequently—it is Nature's blood food. You will shake off this terrible disease and make your system so healthy that the germs of any disease cannot make their attack. Powley's Liquified Ozone is wonderfully effective—we have statements from grateful people all over Canada who have been cured. If you are not already acquainted about its power to cure disease—ask your pastor—ask your druggist—ask your neighbor. Ozone is not a combination of drugs—not a medicine and contains no alcohol.

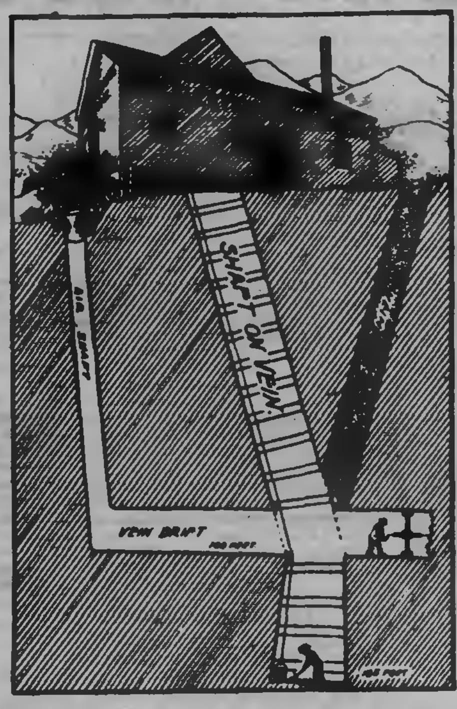
Finance and Mining



INVESTMENT in new mining companies is the poor man's opportunity to acquire wealth; the great mines of this country were developed almost altogether by people of moderate means, and it is no unusual thing to find that some of the stock of such companies which have made pronounced success is divided among thousands of small subscribers. To-day the poor man has his chance of wealth, "as wild cat mining companies can not do business in these enlightened days." If he neglects to take advantage of it he will have himself to blame.

THE ELECTRIC SPARK GOLD MINING COMPANY will in less than one year from to-day pay your investment back in dividends, if you buy now. This is not guesswork, but based on facts and figures. This is a business proposition from which every possible risk is strictly eliminated; there are no chances connected with it; it is simply a question of whether a person has the money to spare to place in a good safe investment, which will unquestionably bring large annual returns. We present herewith in a small way the location of the mineral veins on our property. The vein at the bottom of the shaft is about 4 feet wide, the shaft is 120 feet deep, the vein matter is very rich, of which we will be pleased to send samples to anyone who will ask for them.

The ore from this mine contains GOLD, SILVER and COPPER, which aggregate values of from $25 to $85 per ton; $10 ore from this mine will pay a handsome profit to work. We are located ¾ of a mile from BLACK HAWK, GILPIN COUNTY, COLORADO, on the Colorado & Southern Railway, only 40 miles from Denver. This is one of the oldest and RICHEST MINING SPOTS in the country. One great historian has called this county the GOLDEN BOWL with a silver rim; the central part of the county abounds with hundreds of rich gold mines, while the outer edge is dotted with silver mines. The Electric Spark Company is located almost in the center of this famous golden bowl.

We have placed a small block of our stock on the market at 20 cents per share; certificates issued from 100 shares up.

When Buying Mining Stock Buy the Best

AN INVESTMENT IN THE
Pitkin Gold Belt Mining and Reduction Company

Which is Safe and Sure of Quick Returns, may Bring an Enormous Return at any Moment. It has the Possibilities of Rivaling the Great Mines of the Past.

This Company has a mile on a true fissure vein, in the center of the Gunnison Gold Belt, Colorado, which in the "Mother" lode or dike, which has produced 85 per cent. more gold than the total output of the Cripple Creek district.

This Mine is no Prospect. Nor is it Waiting on Your Subscription to Buy Machinery or for Development.

After a careful examination by experts, Joseph M. Bradley, M. E., and Mr. George Arlett, A. I. M. E., Amalgamated Copper Company's expert in Chihuahua, Mexico, they advised the purchase of the property. The property had shallow development upon it, showing two ore shoots from which smelting ore had been shipped to the Buena Vista Smelter.

The Company purchased and paid for the latest improved machinery and has put a shaft down 250 feet and intend to carry it down 1000 feet. On the 150 foot level 200 feet of development has been made and an ore shoot has been encountered and blocked out for 80 feet, carrying values in gold from 2 to 6 ounces or $40 to $120 per ton. The cost of mining, hauling, freight and smelters charges will be between $12 and $15 per ton.

Ed. McCarthy & Co., bankers, guarantee a shipping mine of smelting ore running from 2 to 6 ounces in gold, or $40 to $120 per ton, by January 1st, 1903, or all funds will be returned to subscribers upon presentation of receipt issued by said bank.

Also to prospective purchasers of $500 worth of stock we are offering a free trip to Colorado and return. You investigate first and purchase afterward. Could you expect anything fairer than this?

The capital stock of this company is $1,000,000, divided into 1,000,000 shares of stock at $1 each, full paid and non-assessable. A portion of the treasury stock is now offered at in one payment, or 20 per cent. down and the balance in four equal monthly payments, for necessary expenditures and improvements on a shipping mine.

25 CENTS PER SHARE—PAR VALUE $1.00

BECAUSE

THE SOUR LAKE OIL CO.

Has placed four-fifths of its stock in the treasury for development work; and because

Oil is reached in less than half the depth required on Spindletop Heights in Beaumont;

The people in Canada are well acquainted with the management, which is in the hands of HON. JOHN L. BITTINGER, United States Consul General to Canada; F. S. Ashley, Vice-President of the Massachusetts Securities Co., and W. L. Marston, Vice-President of the American Union Oil and Refining Co.

These gentlemen have made a dividend payer out of one company and have raised the value of its stock from 5c per share to par value, or 25c, within a very short time;

The company is operating in the Sour Lake field, where fewer wells will tap the oil than at Spindletop; this insures a greater flow of oil, and it is of a better quality;

This is the first allotment of shares at the present price of FIVE CENTS PER SHARE; it is the lowest price at which you can buy, and the time left in which to buy at FIVE CENTS is short.

STOCK MARKETS
Nothing to Liquidate

New York, Dec. 10—From now on stocks should be bought whenever weak. We are nearing the end of a long period during which money was scarcer than stocks. We are approaching a period when stocks will be scarcer than money. The two months' depression with more or less high money rates have caused a most drastic liquidation. Stocks carried upon margin are now of a very small quantity. The great wire houses with extreme western connections report their holdings to be at exceedingly low ebb. The stocks not taken up and paid for by their clients have been disposed of by them in the open market. Even the eastern commission houses are carrying less stocks than for any time since the decline of May 9th, 1901. These facts account for the absence of any marked liquidation during so dull a period. Stocks are in possession of people able to care for them, people not easily frightened, the veterans of Wall Street. A vast amount of stock has also been purchased for cash by investors who were attracted by the bargains offering, and has been taken entirely from the street.

The floating supplies are therefore limited. Such buyers hang on to their holdings permanently. We spoke in yesterday's letter of certain stocks being especially active during a close money dull period, thereby attracting what activity there is in the market to them. Such stocks at present are copper and Sugar. Both of these issues are now very strong, showing strong indications of going higher. We feel inclined to advise our clients to purchase them. To do so at the present, we believe will prove profitable. Some slight money flurries will be likely between now and the first of the year; they will cause the market reactions as they occur. On these reactions you should purchase the better issues courageously—they will be but temporary at the best, merely affording splendid opportunities to make a bargain purchase. The facts and conditions are directly ahead of us to warrant a splendid advance in prices after the first of the year. They are bound to have a certain effect upon prices once temporary factors are eliminated. The men who will buy when stocks are down due to temporary factors, will make more money than those who buy when the unfavorable features cease to exist.

Summary—After early inactivity a sharp drive was made against the market by the bears, accompanied by stories of a likely general calling of loans preparatory to semi-annual interest and dividend disbursements; also considerable pessimistic talk was engendered by reports of possible American embroilment over the Government's foreign complications of Venezuela, recalling another unpleasant episode through the politics in that country during the Cleveland administration. Declines ranged from 1 to 3 points. Stocks were bought on a scale by inside interests and investors. Sellers were principally the trading element; the market becoming generally oversold. A sharp advance on the short interests should be near. To catch same buy on any further declines. Copper, Metropolitan, Manhattan, Missouri, Pacific, St. Paul, Baltimore and Ohio, Reading, Pennsylvania, New York Central and the Pacifics. Money closed 4 per cent; sales 553,200.

Money in Oil

Special Despatch to the Ontario & California Oil Co, Limited:

Chatham, Dec. 1, 1902.

The Gusher was turned on to-day, and in five hours filled up all the Standard Oil Company's available tankage—so far has given one thousand barrels, at the rate of fifty barrels per hour.

Talk about dividends, talk about advance in value—what investment will compare with this?—Figure it out—OIL two dollars per barrel—means earning one hundred dollars per hour—ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS invested in this Syndicate a few weeks ago—NOW ACTUALLY WORTH FORTY THOUSAND DOLLARS.

REASONS WHY	REASONS WHY
Stock in the Ontario and California Oil Co. may prove just as profitable within the next few weeks.	Prompt action on your part is required

1.—The Ontario and California Oil Co., Limited, is a home company, organized under the laws of Ontario, shares fully paid and non-assessable, built and equipped on the right principle—TO PAY PROFITS AND DIVIDENDS—when earned from the ground, and this object attained—NO STOCK FOR SALE BY THIS COMPANY.

2.—Owns the oil leases on one thousand acres, and are next door neighbors of the Big Gusher owners.

3.—Several drilling rigs NOW at different points on the Company's properties under the direction of the best oil men in Petrolea, men who are oil men in the full sense of the word (not speculators)—connected with oil refineries and the largest oil interests in Canada, and these oil men came to this Company, made their offers, put their money in, and are joining in the development of a large block of the Company's properties.

4.—Ten days to two weeks will complete a well. FIVE WELLS are being put down as fast as men and money can do it.

5.—One may be a gusher, or all may be gushers; in either case the advance will be REAL, and a few weeks will bring you greater profits than you ever dreamed of.

RISK! Yes—so there is in everything—otherwise you would not have the chance of buying One Thousand Shares for Two Hundred and Fifty Dollars, which in Thirty Days may be worth One Thousand to Ten Thousand Dollars. Masterly inactivity has missed many an opportunity to make a fortune—don't wait now and wish later on.

ACT AT ONCE—The block of stock which the Company is offering at Twenty-five Cents per share is daily getting smaller. Send for November report. Application Forms, etc., and get your order in ON TIME. Apply J. L. FINCH, Secretary Ontario & California Oil Company, Limited, Toronto, or

All new members and beginners will thus have the same privileges as old members.

The Late Mrs. Little

We are sorry to be obliged to chronicle the death of Eva Bell Jones, beloved wife of Mr. David W. Little, local manager of the Singer Sewing Machine Company, which occurred on Tuesday evening. The deceased was born in New York State 31 years ago, and leaves no children. For the past six years she has been an invalid, and an operation performed two years ago was unsuccessful in restoring her health. She was a member of the George street Methodist church. The funeral service will be held at Mr. Little's residence, 380 George street, this afternoon at 3 o'clock, and will be private. The remains will be taken to Kingston for burial, where her parents are living.

Grace Darling Group in Lake District

The Grace Darling Group is being operated by the Electric Spark Gold Mining company, with Omaha, Neb., parties being largely interested. A steam plant of machinery has been recently installed and a new and commodious shaft building of 20x40 feet dimensions has been erected. It is one of the most convenient shaft houses in the county, the ore bins being located under the building so that they can be filled at any time and under any conditions of weather. Since installing the machinery and putting up the new building, the shaft was thoroughly retimbered from top to bottom so as to make it safe as possible for mining operations, and a first class job was done. Sinking operations are under way and the shaft is being sunk on a 100 foot lift which will put it down 200 feet in all. A depth of 130 feet has been reached and there is a change and an improvement noticeable in the shaft with almost every round of holes fired. The vein is being followed down in the shaft and the crevice is now fully three feet in width, and it shows signs of making solid mineral at an early date. Assays have been taken and the mineral in the shaft has shown increasing values as depth is being gained. Only one shift is engaged in sinking but the company may decide to put on a night shift to hasten the work.

Before sinking was commenced the 70 foot level was extended and they had a nice pocket of surface ore at that depth shipments from which were made to the local sampling works and to the Golden smelter, and the returns in each case were entirely satisfactory. Connections were made between the 100 foot level and the surface, which furnish splendid ventilation throughout the mine workings, as well as an additional outlet for the miners in case of danger. The company will, no doubt, decide to sink the shaft 200 and possibly 300 feet deeper, as they realize that depth has been necessary in all the well known surrounding mines such as the Williams, Clay County, Justice and others, equally as well known, which, in the aggregate, have produced hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of gold and silver ores, and most of which are actively producing today. All of these mines had their surface pockets but it was necessary to go down several hundred feet in order to get the mineral body in solid form, and at these depths each of the properties paid handsomely for the cost of sinking and developments. The Electric Spark company realize that there is no exception to the rule in mining in this county and will deepen their shaft and carry on liberal developments and there is hardly any doubt but that before next spring the property will be developed in such shape as to enter the list of producers in that section of Gilpin county. The interests of the company are being looked after by John C. Martin, of Black Hawk, as agent, with George Rogers, an experienced practical mining man in charge as superintendent.

A Good Cheese Season

Mr. George W. Fitzgerald, the popular cheese buyer for Hodgson Bros., Montreal, states that the season just closed was the best in the history of the local cheese board, the number of boxes shipped by the board being 65,562, representing 5,123,394 pounds or $571,151.28. Mr. Fitzgerald states that he shipped during the season 15,000 boxes or 1,080,000 pounds representing $134,510.20. There were sold to the local trade from 300 to 3500 boxes. The sales of the board this year are over $100,000 above those of last year.

Mr. Fitzgerald has just returned from Montreal, where he has been winding up the season's affairs with his firm, whom he will represent next year.

The attention of veterans is called to the fact that all applications for land must be fyled with the Crown Lands Department, Toronto, before the end of this month. The Municipal committee room at the Parliament buildings is open each evening for the convenience of the veterans desirous of obtaining information relative to location of their land grants. Plans showing the route of the Temiskaming Railway and the location of lands already taken up in that district are on view there and an official is in attendance to give any information veterans may require.

GLASS OF WATER

Upset Her

People that don't know about food should never be allowed to feed persons with weak stomachs.

A little over a year ago a young woman who lives in Mercer, Mo., had an attack of scarlet fever, and when convalescent was permitted to eat anything she wanted. Indiscriminate feeding soon put her back in bed with severe stomach trouble and inflammation of the kidneys.

"There I stayed," she says, "three months, with my stomach in such condition that I could only take a few teaspoonfuls of milk or beef juice at a time. Finally Grape-Nuts was brought to my attention and I asked my doctor if I might eat it. He said, 'yes,' and I commenced at once.

The food did me good from the start and I was soon out of bed and entirely recovered from the stomach trouble. I have gained ten pounds since my recovery and am able to do all household duties, some days sitting down only long enough to eat my meals. I can eat anything that one ought to eat, but I still continue to eat Grape-Nuts at breakfast and supper and like it better every day.

Considering that a year ago I could stand only a short time and that a glass of water seemed 'so heavy,' I am fully satisfied that Grape-Nuts has been everything to me and my return to good health is due solely to it.

I have told several friends having nervous or stomach trouble what Grape-Nuts did for me and to every case they speak highly of the food." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

THE MAYORALTY

Now that Mayor Denne has announced his retirement from that honorable position so ably filled by him during the past two years, the question arises, "Who will be our next Chief Magistrate?" While Alderman G. M. Roger has not yet given a definite reply to a large number of prominent citizens who are urging him to accept the nomination for Mayor, still he has promised to give the matter his serious consideration. The Times hopes, in the interests of our progressive town, that his answer will be in the affirmative. Alderman Roger has had considerable experience in municipal affairs, and during a long term of office has always had the courage of his convictions, and never swerved from his duty as a representative of his fellow citizens. "The interests of the town first and always," has ever been his motto on all momentous questions, and his legal acumen and sound judgment has on more than one occasion been no mean factor in securing the adoption of profitable and progressive municipal legislation when thousands of dollars were at stake. Mr. Roger has undoubtedly every qualification necessary to transform a valuable Alderman into an able and model Chief Magistrate, and it is to be hoped that his well-known interest in this go-ahead Town of Peterborough will at this crisis in our town's history, when the best are none too good to compose the personal of our civic board, submit to that personal sacrifice necessarily entailed by an acceptance of the Mayoralty position, and allow his name to stand as a candidate for Mayor. Mr. Roger's many friends and supporters feel strongly that their welfare and that of the town in general demands that he should acquiesce to their earnest solicitations and they are consequently impatiently awaiting his reply

NOTE—The Times requests its readers to furnish the paper with items of a personal and social nature, either by phone or in writing.—[ED. TIMES]

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

—The Children's Aid Society acknowledge with thanks the receipt of $25 from Mr. A. P. Choate towards the funds of the Society.

—At a meeting of the Committee of the Whole Council held Tuesday evening, Ald. McGregor's municipal fuel yard project was discussed. His proposal was that the question be decided by a vote of the people at the municipal elections. The decision of the meeting was that the question be submitted to a vote of the electors qualified to vote on a money by-law, and that if they be favorable, the necessary legislation be applied for.

—The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson, who live at No. 13 Parnell street, will sympathize with them in the great loss which they have sustained through the death of their darling two year old son, Charles, which occurred on Tuesday evening. The funeral will take place from the family residence this afternoon.

At a meeting of St. Paul's Young Men's Guild Tuesday evening, Mr. Horace E. Ayers resigned the position of president, and Mr. Jas. Connall, vice-president, was chosen as his successor. Mr. R. F. McWilliams was elected vice-president, and Mr. Fred Houston added to the executive. The evening was marked by a series of interesting one-minute speeches by all present on subjects drawn from a hat.

"I wrote to Doctor Pierce, who sent me a very kind letter and advised me."

Thousands of weak and sick women can trace the beginning of a new life of perfect health to that letter written to Dr. Pierce.

Sick and ailing women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures weak and aching backs, headaches, nervousness and other womanly ailments by curing the womanly diseases which cause them.

"In the spring of 1901 I became very ill," writes Mrs. Alvena Scholtz, of Lake Washington, Lesueur Co., Minn. "My back was very weak and ached so that I could do no work at all, so I was obliged to take to my bed. I felt a constant desire to urinate and the pains in abdomen were almost unbearable. I wrote to Dr. Pierce, who sent me a very kind letter, and advised me to take his 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I took six bottles of each and am a well woman now. I cannot say enough in favor of Dr. Pierce's medicines."

"Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong, sick women well. Accept no substitute for the medicine which works wonders for weak women.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the most desirable laxative for delicate women.

Capture of Bolivar was Made Peacefully--Want Present Land Tax Stopped

Two Great Japanese Political Parties United—Authorization to Certain Religious Orders in France

Port of Spain, Trinidad, Dec. 11—The surrender of the Venezuelan flagship Bolivar to the British was made peacefully. Three o'clock was the hour when the time limit of forty-eight hours given by England and Germany to Venezuela expired. No reply to the ultimatum was received and the exact terms were unknown. A boat crew all armed left the British cruiser Charybdis at nine o'clock in the evening and went on board. The four officers and twenty-five men of the captured vessel were taken on board the British sloop Alert, which then towed the Bolivar alongside the Charybdis. Seals were affixed on the effects of the captain and officers. The Bolivar was commissioned three weeks ago and supplied with arms and ammunition. All the British warships except the Charybdis sailed out of port at four o'clock Wednesday morning. The sloop Fantome has gone to Barrancas to command the Orinico, and open it to the trade of all nations. The cruisers Indefatigable and Retribution are bound for the northern coast of Venezuela, and the Alert for the Gulf of Paria. The captured Bolivar, manned by British sailors from the Charybdis, and flying the British flag, sailed for Venezuela to aid in the capture of the rest of Castro's fleet. Commodore Montgomerie of the Charybdis, refused to disclose his plans to even his own officers. All the vessels left under sealed orders. The flagship Ariadne arrived yesterday, and Commodore Montgomerie went on board to consult with Vice-Admiral Douglas. been sent to La Guayra to run messages, as an interruption of the cable isThe torpedo boat destroyer Quail has feared. The British Minister from Caracas is expected here.

London, Dec. 11—Two great Japanese political parties, says a Tokio correspondent, are united in opposition to the Cabinet, and are strenuously combatting the continuance of the present rate of land tax, though they are indorsing the Cabinet's policy in regard to a naval increase. The two parties have held general meetings, at which this policy was declared, and Count Okuma and Marquis Ito have agreed on a method for producing an unanimous vote in the Lower House, so as to make opposition by the House of Peers difficult. The resulting situation is similar to that existing in the early sessions of the Diet, when the whole Lower House combined to attack the so-called "Clan Cabinet." The correspondent says the great basis of the present dispute is not fiscal, but a question of party government versus bureaucracy. Marquis Ito considers that the land tax is theoretically sound, but unseasonable. He recommends that funds be obtained for the naval increase by a reduction of the Cabinet schemes for extending the railways, telegraphs, and telephones, and by other economies. The Cabinet is unwilling to alter the budget, so that no ground for a compromise is at present visibel.

London, Dec. 11—A Paris correspondent says that five religious orders which the Government recommends for authorization include the Algerian White Fathers and St. John de Dieu Brothers. The Government's recommendation states that the schools of the former diffuse the French language and civilization among the Arab children. St. John Brothers assist the state in caring for the sick and homeless, and are necessary in the relief of the poor.

NEW ZEALAND HELPS THE AUSTRALIAN SUFFERERS

Will Pay Freight on Fodder to be Sold for Their Benefit

London, Dec. 10.—A correspondent at Wellington, New Zealand, says the New Zealand Government has resolved to pay freight on fodder, to be sold for the benefit of the sufferers from the drought in Australia. The Premier considers this no more than a neighborly action.

Greater Speed for Tariff Bill.

London, Dec. 10.—A Berlin correspondent says the changes in the rules of the Reichstag will doubtless expedite the second reading of the Tariff Bill, and perhaps the scheme may be so modified that the third reading of the measure may be reached, and become a more efficient weapon for treaty negotiations. At present the main feature of the situation is the coalition of Conservatives, Clericals and National Liberals. The extreme Agrarians calculate that the Government can be driven to an attitude of irreconcilable hostility to the liberal elements resulting from the situation, similar to the last years of Bismarck's Chancellorship, with the differences that the present Government is more dependent upon the reactionaries than that of Bismarck. However the political Liberals will be able to influence the general population depends upon the economic conditions of the next few years. There is reason to believe that the Government appreciates the danger of giving too free rein to the reactionaries tendencies of the present majority.

Better System of Communication.

London, Dec. 10.—A Brussels correspondent says that the international conference of the representatives of the leading railways in Europe opened yesterday. The proceedings were private, but the object is understood to be the establishment of a better system of communication between England and the continent. In consequence of the late delivery of the London Morning Mail in Brussels, Paris morning papers containing telegrams published in the London morning papers of the same day, arrive in Brussels seven hours before the arrival of the London papers, from which the telegrams are reproduced.

Loyally Support Their Bishop.

London, Dec. 10—A Paris correspondent says that $5,000 have been raised in the diocese of Dijon to make up for the bishop's stipend of $150 suspended by the Government. The organizers of the movement announce that, if necessary, they will make a fresh appeal every three years.

The Duel Has Been Cancelled.

London, Dec. 10.—A Paris correspondent says there will be no duel between M. Vallé, Minister of Justice in the Cabinet, and M. Syveton, member of the Chamber of Deputies, in consequence of last Saturday's disorders in the Chamber. There are equal recriminations on both sides, but in any case it is as well that the Minister of Justice should not violate a law which, though seldom enforced ought especially to be a law for him.

Prince of Monaco's Army.

London, Dec. 10.—A despatch from Monte Carlo says the Prince of Monaco has decided to abolish his army by July 1, 1904. The entire army, thirty-two strong, will discard picturesque uniforms wherein they are now seen strolling about the terraces and gardens of Monte Carlo.

WILL HUMAN LIFE BE PROLONGED?

It Would Appear That Science will Soon Solve the Mystery

OXYGEN AN IMPORTANT FACTOR

The Vital Forces of Life May Soon be Under Human Control

Chicago, Dec. 12—New discoveries are being made by physiologists associated with Dr. Jacques Loeb of the University of Chicago. The latest one is by Prof. David J. Lingle one of the men who for several years has been one of Prof. Loeb's chief assistants in his experiments into the question of what causes the heart to beat and what sustains its action when once started.

Prof. Lingle now comes forth with the theory that it is not only the salt known as sodium chloride which stimulates and causes heart action, but that oxygen gas is even a more important factor in sustaining heart action.

According to the results of the experiments by the university professors the time is not far distant when physicians will know just how much sodium chloride and how much oxygen and how much of something else to inject into a dead person's veins in order to restore him to life. The question is asked by some of those who have learned of the recent discoveries made in regard to the heart beat.

"How long will it be until scientists will know how to promote longevity?"

Prof. Lingle wanted the result which he has attained partly by accident. While experimenting with a strip of turtle's heart which he was moving from one vessel containing sodium chloride, he noticed that the beating of the strip was greatly increased when it came into contact with the air.

Noting this, the professor took a piece of strip cut from the ventricle of a turtle that had ceased to beat as a result of violence inflicted in preparing it for experiment, placed it in a solution of salt and then put the beating strip of heart in a jar of oxygen gas.

Here the beating was sustained for seventy-two hours. No one had been successful in maintaining the beat of a single strip of heart for so long a time as this.

REMEMBER MONROE DOCTRINE

Paris Newspapers' Advice to England and Germany

The American giant is ready to uphold the Monroe Doctrine against all and is determined to have no tutor or master outside of Washington.

WESTWOOD CHEESE FACTORY

Business of the Season Wound Up—A Very Good Record

The patrons of Westwood Cheese Factory held their meeting for winding up the business of the season in the factory on Friday, November 28th. The amount of milk delivered at the factory was 2,340,468 pounds or 782,468-3,000 standards, from which was made 216,940 pounds of cheese, being an average of 10.83 pounds of milk per pound of cheese. The amount received from sales of cheese was $21,817.75, being an average of a little over 10 cents per pound. The interest received on this sum was $61.35, and the value of the whey at 50 cents per standard was $462.06, making the total value of the business of the season $22,323.16. The total value of the milk per standard was $22.53 and the value to the patrons after paying all expenses was $23.94. The four patrons sending the greatest amount of milk were John C. Breckenridge, 94,575 pounds; Ben. Cardwell, 83,086 pounds; and Wm. John Harrison, 80,367 pounds; Graham, 60,137 pounds, and the average for each of the 82 patrons was 27,065 pounds. The factory has had a very very prosperous season's business showing, in every respect an increase over the business of the previous season.

C. P. R. PENSION SYSTEM

The System is Officially Defined by President Shaughnessy

Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, president of the Canadian Pacific issued today his circular in connection with the pension department. The administration is under a committee composed of the president, vice-presidents and the chief solicitor.

The benefits of the pension fund apply only to those persons who have been required to give their entire time to the company, estimated upon the proportion of salary or wages received. The age limit is 65 years. The usual physical examination when retirement is asked is provided for.

The pension allowance authorized shall be granted upon the following basis:

For each year of service an allowance of one per cent of the average monthly pay received for the ten years preceding retirement. For instance, an employee has been in the service for forty years and received on an average for the last ten years 50 dollars per month the pension allowance would be forty per cent. of fifty dollars or twenty dollars per month.

The acceptance of a pension allowance does not debar a retired employe from engaging in other business, but such retired employee cannot so engage in other business nor re-enter the service of the company, except with the consent of the committee without forfeiting his pension allowance.

PREDICT HIGH MEAT PRICES

Westerners tells of Shortage in Packing Houses and on the Ranges

Omaha, Neb. Dec. 10—The provision supply at the South Omaha packing houses is nearly 10,000,000 pounds short as compared with this date last year. The figures mean high prices for all classes of meats next year, whether or not the packing house merger goes through.

The stocks of provisions at South Omaha today aggregate 10,139,366 pounds, as against 20,307,415 pounds on the same date last year. The falling off, while largely due to the shortage in cattle, is more largely due to the remarkable decrease in the receipts of hogs. The term "provisions" includes only the cut and prepared meats and the great staples of the retail markets outside of beef quarters.

The western ranges have been almost denuded of cattle, which were hurried to the markets during the fall just closed because of the high prices they brought.

Robert Foote, of Johnson county, Wyo., one of the best-informed men in the State on range conditions, declares that Wyoming herds are reduced until only those required for breeding purposes are left. Western Nebraskans bring similar reports, while the new cattle territory of the Belle Fourche district, S.D., is put in the same class with Colorado and Montana, that of having closed the present season with most unfavorable signs for the coming year.

The shortage in hog receipts is due to the partial drought last year. The receipts of all stock yards of the country this year have shown a falling off of nearly 20 per cent. An improvement is expected next season.

The Agonizing Pains of Rheumatism

Swollen, aching joints, muscles are stiff and sore, every movement accompanied by pain. The most potent remedy is Polson's Nerviline, which has five times the pain-subduing power of any other preparation. Apply Nerviline copiously, rub it on well and then bind in a hot flannel bandage. This will cure the worst cases in a short time. Try Nerviline for Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica or Lumbago—it's all right and only costs a quarter.

OFFICERS AND MEN OF THE CAPTIVE WARSHIP TAKEN ON THE ALERT

Venezuelan Situation in Brief

The principal British creditors whose claims are enforced by the ultimatum against Venezuela are the railway and harbor improvement companies. Some of these complain of defaults in interest guarantees by the Venezuelan Government. Another corporation which took up an issue of bonds, claims a considerable amount of unpaid interest. There are also claims for damages to railways and other properties from war losses and also for unpaid charges for freight.

The German claims are larger in amount and more varied in nature and responsibility.

The fact that Britain and Germany have each presented a separate ultimatum to Venezuela, although acting in common in other respects is due to the circumstance that their claims on Venezuela are not identical.

Germany will co-operate with Britain on every point. Venezuela will therefore, not be able to play off one power against the other.

Identical declarations were made by the German and British Ambassadors at Washington to the effect that the interests of United States citizens would be strictly respected, and that no measures taken by the squadrons in Venezuelan ports would have results of a permanent nature.

The pressure to be exercised on Venezuela is of a temporary character, and Customs seizures will form the immediate objective.

CANADIANS IDLE; GERMANS BENEFIT

Steel Rail Mills at Sault Ste. Marie Closed Down

FIVE HUNDRED OUT OF WORK

Germany Won't Buy Any Canadian Goods, Yet she is Allowed to Flood this Market with Steel Rails.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., December 12—The following official statement of the reason for the closing down of the steel mills of the Algoma Steel Company has been handed out by the president of the company, Mr. F. H. Clergue: "The rail mill has shut down, having filled all orders booked, which have amounted to something over 30,000 tons. The company hope to secure the Temiscaming Railway order, on which to start up again. There being no duty on rails coming into Canada, the present slaughter price of German rails has enabled the Canadian roads to supply their requirements at prices less than cost at the Soo mills owing to great difference in labor conditions. The Soo mills in every step of their processes, from the mines to the finished product, pay American wages, amounting on the average to 100 per cent. more than German wages. Canada is now sending abroad over $5,000,000 annually for rails, of which amount more than $4,000,000 would be expended in Canadian wages and materials if these orders were given to the Soo mills. The Soo mills have cost over $3,000,000, and over 500 men are thrown out of employment by their closing down."

ESCAPED MURDERER CAUGHT

Charles Grether, Who Got out of Stroudsburg Jail, Found in a Barn

Stroudsburg, Pa., Dec. 10 — Charles Grether, the murderer and burglar, who escaped from jail here on Saturday, was captured last night. As was the case several years when Puryear, the negro murdered, broke jail and was lynched by a mob of boys, Grether was captured by boys.

The best men of the town, disgusted with Sheriff Mervine's neglect, were indifferent about the capture, and many expressed the hope that the criminal would not be captured. Grether was found by David Smoke, a young bootblack, and four friends near Spragueville, late in the afternoon. They discovered him in a barn and pulled him out of a haymow.

Smoke and Charles Mansfield, son of ex-Judge Barnett Mansfield, led the fight in the barn. Grether was armed with a gun which was supposed to have been given him by Van Duskirt, the other escaped murdered who parted with Grether at the Stroudsburg brewery. Van Duskirt gave Grether all of his clothes that he could spare, and they shook hands and parted. VanBuskirt has not as yet been found.

Grether's bold dash for the second time for liberty showed him in his true light. His second escape was even more daring than the first. Near Spragueville Grether, at the point of a pistol, ordered a farmer to give him his horse. He had some difficulty in mounting, and gave up the attempt when he saw Smoke and his friends close to him. It was then he took refuge in the barn. He was brought to the Stroudsburg jail.

Sheriff Mervine is away in Maine cutting Christmas trees, and upon his return he is likely to be asked for the second time by the Monroe county bar to resign his office. Gov. Stone is likely to fix the day soon for Grether to be hanged.

SOCIALISTIC MEETINGS

Addresses to be Delivered on Saturday Night and Sunday Afternoon

A public meeting will be held on Saturday evening in the Maccabees Hall on Water street, under the auspices of Peterborough Socialistic League No. 20, to be addressed by Mr. James Simpson, Provincial Chairman of Ontario Socialistic League. Subject: "Socialism and Trades Unionism." Silver collection.

On Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the same Hall, another address will be delivered by Mr. Simpson, entitled "Socialism Inevitable," to which the public are cordially invited.

Mr. Simpson is a prominent trades unionist and socialistic worker. He was a candidate at the last election for the Ontario Legislature in one of the Toronto constituencies, and has done much to elevate the condition of the laboring classes. He is a fluent speaker, and interesting and instructive addresses may be expected.

—The curlers will get to work next week, as the ice is expected to be ready to-morrow.

A MILK COMPANY

A Good Prospect That One will be Formed in Peterborough

Those engaged in the milk business in Peterborough propose to unite and form a joint stock company, and the matter is so far advanced that the success of the scheme is almost assured.

A meeting was held some time ago which was attended by most of the milk vendors. A committee was appointed to investigate and see what could be done. The committee reported to a meeting held on Wednesday night, recommending that a joint stock company be formed This would place all the vendors on a business foundation, and if each and every man in the business now would take shares and an interest in the company, it would surely be a success. The plant to clarify the milk, at a central distributing point, would cost about $3000. Several men were willing to sell out their business, and this would require a little extra money. The different routes would have to be valued, in order that the company might be able at any time to take over any routes offered them.

After some discussion, a provisional Board of Directors were appointed, among whom were Messrs. Stothart, Wilson, Hooper, Milburn and Cox. These men will take all steps possible to make successful arrangements.

The scheme is a good one, and was first proposed, we think, by Dr. Halliday, Mr. H. P. Kennedy, and others Now that the milkmen themselves have taken the matter up, there is every hope of success. The advantages to the consumer is being served with pure milk, free from contagion, is a sufficient guarantee that the business will go to the company. It means purer milk, and more prompt service, with less labor on both sides. If the proposal goes through all milk will be clarified, and all cans, etc., will be thoroughly sterilized.

A meeting will be held in the near future to hear the report of the directors, and for the making of final arrangements.

THE FIRST CANADIAN BANK

The Bank of Montreal Was Launched Eighty Five Years Ago

The Times is indebted to a subscriber for the following concerning the Bank of Montreal, which will be read with interest:

In the summer of 1817 a number of prominent merchants of Montreal after holding several meetings, formed a company with a capital of $1,000,000 and started the Bank of Montreal. They had no charter, for in those days the obtaining of rights for private companies was a very difficult and tedious undertaking, as, after the necessary legislation had passed the Provincial Government, the whole matter had to be sent to the British Government for sanction. It was a great puzzle to the bank how to issue bills for circulation without making each stock holder personally liable for their payment, but at last the following form for the reading of their notes was adopted:

"The President and Directors of the Bank of Montreal promise to pay A.B., or bearer, the sum of five dollars (or other amount) out of the joint funds of the Association, and no other."

This form was of course dropped when the charter was obtained. Several years ago one of these old notes was presented for payment to the Metropolitan Bank in Montreal. John Grey, a retired drygoods merchant, was the first President of the Bank; Robert Griffin the first cashier. The Directors were some of the most prominent business men of the city. They were Hon. John Richardson, Samuel Gerard, Thomas Thain, Horatio Gates, George Auldjo, John Molson, Thomas A. Turner, William Ermatinger, Zabdiel Thayer, and David David. On the 1st of October, 1817, the first bank note ever issued in Canada was issued by the Montreal Bank. Notwithstanding the prejudice of the habitants against paper money, the Bank prospered until 1824, when Samuel Gerard was made President. He, by his mismanagement, had lost the one-third of its capital by 1827. John Molson then became President, and the losses were redeemed in a few years, but for five years at that time the bank paid no dividend. It occupied for the first few years of its existence a small building in St. Paul street, and then moved into a much larger one where the present Montreal post-office stands. Forged $5 notes appeared in 1820

Conflicting Statements Made Regarding the Britishers and Germans

Hostages Held by Castro

Another Venezuelan Vessel Seized and Another Being Sought For

London, Dec. 11.—The Central News says it was reported in the lobby of the House of Commons this afternoon that the allies have landed bluejackets at La Guayra for the purpose of effecting the capture of President Castro, and that fighting is going on in the streets. The Foreign Office here has no information to this effect.

London, Dec. 11.—Under Secretary Cranborne has announced that the British Vice Consul at La Guayra and some women and children were taken on board a British man-of-war yesterday evening, and added that it was reported that President Castro held the British and German prisoners as hostages.

La Guayra, Venezuela, Dec. 10.—The British cruiser Indefatigable arrived here at 6 o'clock this evening, from Guanta, the port of Barcelona, where she is believed to have been in search of the Venezuelan gunboat Restaurador.

The German cruiser Vineta and the British cruiser Retribution left here at 6 o'clock this evening. It is supposed they have on board Venezuela's answer to the demand of the foreign powers, which arrived on a special train from Caracas at 3 o'clock. The German Charge d'Affaires, Herr Von Pilgrim-Baltazzi, the British Minister Haggard, and the personnel of the British Legation, are still on board the warships.

What is termed an inopportune demonstration and the strange method resorted to in the transmittance to the Venezuelan Foreign Minister of the demands of Great Britain and Germany are freely criticised here.

The Government has sent 2,000 men and 12 guns from Caracas to reinforce the garrison at La Guayra. These troops are camping to-night at Cuaracuti, distant one hour from La Guayra. All day and all night ammunition has been carried to Fort Lavigia, which crowns the harbor and preparations are being made to resist the foreign forces. Volunteers to the number of 800 men, all from La Guayra, have been armed to-day and are are requesting arms. It is asserted here that the Government can find sufficient men to resist the foreign forces as the movement is popular. Everywhere one meets men of all classes and conditions carrying Mauser rifles.

The news of the capture at Port of Spain, Trinidad, of the Venezuelan gunboat Bolivar by the British cruiser Charybdis was communicated to President Castro by a representative of the Associated Press. The event created intense excitement.

Curacao, Dec. 11.—There was a great patriotic demonstration in Caracas Tuesday night. On receipt of news that the Venezuelan warships had been seized by the British and German squadron, large crowds paraded the streets carrying banners. Violent speeches were made, and a mob attempted to break in the doors of the German Legation and Consulate shouting "Death to the Germans!" The police made no attempt to disperse the demonstrators.

All the British residents were arrested except Messrs. Cherry and Willis, the latter being director of telephones. They escaped to a place of safety. Ninety-seven Germans were arrested.

Violent speeches were delivered at various points. The populace marched to the palace of President Castro, who made an address. The mob then moved on to the German Legation, shouting "Death to the Germans!"

The windows were shattered with stones and attempts were made to force the doors, but the latter resisted these efforts, and Mme. Von Pilgrim-Baltazzi, the wife of the German Charge d'Affaires, who has been ill in bed for the past two months, and therefore could not leave Caracas with her husband, was thus saved from the violence.

The crowd then marched to the German Consulate and to the residence of Dr. Koehler, again stoning the windows and attempting to force an entrance.

The excitement was still intense when at 10 o'clock at night the Government ordered the arrest of all German and English residents. One hour later 205 persons prominent in social and commercial life were crowded together in the police station.

The United States Minister, Bowen, addressed himself to President Castro to secure their release. He represented that he had been charged with their care. Finally he convinced Castro that he was acting within his rights, and the President consented reluctantly to release the principal prisoners.

Paris, Dec. 11.—A Venezuelan Government communication to the representative here protests that Great Britain and Germany, acting in concert, have committed an act of hostility in a manner as arbitrary as it is unprecedented by the seizure of the Venezuelan vessels lying at La Guaira. The communication says that indignation in Venezuela is at its highest pitch, and the Government is resorting to justifiable reprisals. At the same time, adds the communication, President Castro has appealed to the Venezuelan people to take up arms. It has decreed a general amnesty for all political offenses, and has ordered the restitution of the confiscated property of Venezuelan citizens.

Dr. Cleaver's Lecture

A large audience attended the lecture last night at St. Paul's church by the Rev. Dr. Cleaver, of the Sherbourne street Methodist church, Toronto, on Victor Hugo's masterpiece, "The Story of Jean Valjean." The intensely cold weather no doubt kept many away, but those who attended were well repaid for coming out, as the lecture was eloquent, interesting and instructive. The ladies of the church under whose auspices this grand literary treat was given are deserving of much credit.

A UNITED STATES AVOWAL

The agitation which has been started in the Northwestern States in favor of some system of reciprocity between Canada and those States finds little or no support in Canada. For this there are several reasons. At present the United States tariff on Canadian produce is far higher than the duty imposed on American goods brought to Canada. There must be a greater equality in the two tariffs before a satisfactory basis could be found for reciprocity negotiations. Canada has already given to the United States almost everything she can afford to give while she has received nothing in return, and she is not at present in a position to make any satisfactory bargain. It is also evident that the Northwestern States would gain at Canada's expense if the reciprocity which they suggest were carried into effect. They propose to reduce or abolish the duty on Canadian wheat. The effect of this would be to assist the United States to control the Canadian wheat crop and to enable American millers to grind Canadian wheat. This would not be to the advantage of Canada, for it is to Canada's interests for her to grind her own wheat and to control the marketing of her own crop for her own advantage. A reduction in the American duty on Canadian wheat is not therefore very strongly desired in Canada, and in return for this reduction it is proposed in the United States that the Canadian market should be thrown open to the American manufacturer. Canada cannot afford to do this to any greater extent than she has already done. She cannot afford to allow the American trusts to gain control of the Canadian market to the destruction of Canadian industries and let the American trusts to gain consumers.

Canada has learned that she can be self reliant and that it is better for her to manufacture her own raw materials to supply her own market. And the tariff policy of the United States has done much to teach her this lesson. This is now being recognized in the United States. An interesting interview recently given to the Washington correspondent of the New York Evening Post reviews the history and causes of the failure of reciprocity with Canada and expresses the opinion that the exclusive tariff policy of the United States has strengthened an anti-American sentiment in Canada in regard to commercial questions. This official dates the beginning of the bad tariff relations between the two countries at a period just after the Civil War, when the protective interests then growing stronger rapidly, secured the repeal of the treaty under which the United States was sending manufactured goods to Canada to exchange for raw materials. "The result was," he says, "that whatever anti-American sentiment existed in Canada was strengthened, and the raw products which formerly had come here she sent abroad to enter into direct competition with products from this country, while her attention was turned for the first time in the direction of manufacturing. The rapid extension of the anti-American spirit in Canada, and her determination to become independent of American manufacturers led to her adoption of a protective tariff which seriously curtailed the demand for our goods. Then our tariffs began to discriminate against Canada, widening the breach, and the situation had become tense when the Joint High Commission went to work in 1898."

In the selection of the Joint High Commission he is of the opinion that another mistake was committed. The commission was composed chiefly of politicians instead of diplomats, and there was no surprise when it failed to achieve its object. In the meantime the American tariff had caused a change in Canadian industries which was a remedy for the ill-effects of the tariff in Canada. "Our tariff he says, "ruined the market for Canadian barley, and as a result Canada had to abandon that crop, but her ingenuity was equal to the emergency. She converted her barley fields into pastures, and her Government undertook to direct the promotion of the dairy industry on a large scale. In a few years a most remarkable change had taken place in the country districts. Barley was a forgotten crop, and in its place was high-class dairying. A market was found in England for Canadian butter and cheese, and our dairy products, which up to that time had practically monopolized the English market, so far as imports from this side of the water were concerned, received a damaging and, perhaps permanent, backset."

As a result of the American tariff policy, he says, "we have made Canada our commercial enemy." At present this official is of the opinion that concessions on lumber offer probably the only avenue of commercial approach to Canada, and that "we shall get nothing whatever from her without lumber concessions of some sort." But he does not believe that the United States will give any concessions on this line. "The strong opposition of the American lumber trade to such concessions," he says "is well known, and as we continue to mix our economic with our partisan politics, no abatement of that opposition is in sight, or even in prospect as far as we in Washington can judge." In the meantime, Canada can afford to watch with equanimity the discussion in the United States regarding reciprocity. She can get along very well without any reciprocity treaty and the demand for it is to be found in the United States rather than in Canada. When the two tariffs are more upon an equality it will be possible to arrange a reciprocity treaty which would be satisfactory to both countries, but, at present, Canada can afford to make no concessions without receiving far more substantial advantages than the United States is likely to be willing to give.

MORE COLD IN SIGHT

Real Old-Fashioned Winter is Evidently Here For Sure

The sleighing season in Peterborough really opened yesterday and a large amount of frigidity that kept everything outside on the move all day long. Tuesday marked the coldest day of the year so far, and the first touch of winter. The temperature never sank very low, but it got down far enough to give some apprehensive once an idea of what is to come later in the season.

Despite its premature chilliness, yesterday was thoroughly enjoyed by horsemen and those who could secure horses. From noon until dark the merry jingle of the sleigh bell was heard on the streets, and the wolf robes flared out behind the cutters as jauntily as if they had not been closely associated with moth balls all summer. Nearly every livery stable had all its cutters out, and there were many who waited too long and were forced to see more fortunate neighbors dash by with merry chimes and loud crunching of the frozen road.

As a result of the sleighing wood is beginning to move. An odd load is seen on the market, for which $6 is asked for hardwood. Farmers who bring wood in are usually waylaid before they reach the market, and the wood purchased.

TO COPE WITH LABOR UNIONS

Chicago Employers' Association Formed to Ward Off Strikes

Chicago, Dec. 10.—The Employers' Association of Chicago, an organization to deal with labor problems, has been formed and Frederick W. Job, formerly chairman of the Illinois State Board of Arbitration, will be at its head.

The work of organizing the large employers of labor, including every branch of industry in the city, has been going on for some time, but the men connected with it refuse to give out the details. It is known, however, that some of the wealthiest men in the city are interested in the association. The phenomenal growth of labor unions in the past year has awakened the large employers to the necessity of dealing with the employees and through this organization it is hoped to avoid the numerous strikes which have seriously interfered with the business interests of the city.

Mr. Job's duties will be in the nature of a labor commissioner, and he will have authority to act for the employers in any dispute that may arise. Many of the leading business men of the city who are large employers of labor do not object to unions as such, but want to be relieved from the necessity of dealing with the committees when strikes are threatened.

MISS CARNEGIE KISSED KING

Then Took Him In to the Nursery to See Her Doll

Glasgow, Dec. 10.—The London correspondent of the Glasgow Herald states that King Edward sent a cordial message to Andrew Carnegie before the latter sailed for the United States.

He adds that when Mr. Carnegie's six-year-old daughter Margaret was brought in to see the King on the occasion of the latter's visit to Skibo Castle His Majesty asked the child for a kiss. She complied readily and then invited the King to go to the nursery to see her doll. King Edward laughingly accepted the invitation and visited the nursery.

The CANADIAN STEEL AND COAL COMPANY was organized to mine and manufacture iron and coal, coke and steel in Canada at Atlantic tidewater.

The raw materials for these manufactures are:—

1.—COAL. 2.—IRON. 3.—LIMESTONE.

All these materials we have at hand.

1.—COAL.

The Company controls 3,000 acres of excellent coal areas in the Province of Nova Scotia, and efforts are being made to increase this to 10,000 acres by the purchase of some very valuable additional coal fields.

The coal has been thoroughly tested and found to be suitable in every way for the manufacture of iron and steel, and the supply is practically inexhaustible. The following analysis was made by the Canadian Geological Survey:—

ANALYSIS.

Moisture	4.05
Vol. Comb. Matter	30.72
Fixed Carbon	60.
Ash	5.23
	100.00

COAL VEINS.

The several layers or seams of coal available aggregate 27 to 30 feet in thickness.

TITLES.

These areas are held under Crown Lease for a period of 80 years. Royalty 10 cents per ton of coal sold.

2.—IRON.

The Company has acquired by purchase immense iron deposits on the North Shore of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, about 350 miles from Sydney. The deposits are estimated to contain 20,000,000 tons ore above sea level, with probably as much more below that line. The iron can be handled for $1.00 per ton or less. Quantities of this ore have been shipped to Great Britain and the United States, where it has given great satisfaction, and we can sell large quantities f. o. b. at the properties, netting us a profit of $2.00 per ton. This ore makes the finest steel.

3.—FLUX.

We are now negotiating for valuable deposits of dolomite and limestone of the most satisfactory quality, situated on the tide water, within 100 miles of the works

MARKETS.

For six months in each year the Canadian markets can be reached by water at low freight rates, and at all times by rail. As Cape Breton is distant from Liverpool only about 2,300 miles; is nearer to Pernambuco, Brazil, than any point in the United States, and also nearer to Cape Town, South Africa, it has the advantage in point of distance, for export business over any American steel-producing points, which, with scarcely any exceptions, are situated some distance from tide water. Under any conditions of the world's market, it is believed that the output of these works can be disposed of at satisfactory prices.

OUTPUT

When in full operation, the output is expected to be about as follows:—

1. IRON.—200,000 tons iron ore shipped direct from property, showing net profit of $2.00 per ton, total	$400,000 00
200,000 tons fine iron ore shipped in briquettes, showing net profit of $4.00 per ton, total	800,000 00
100,000 tons steel blooms, showing net profit of $3.00 per ton, total	300,000 00
2. COAL.—600,000 tons coal, showing net profit, at least, of $1.00 per ton, total	600,000 00
3. AIDS.—Government bounties (averaged) added to above per year for 6 years	100 000 00
Total yearly revenue	$2,200,000 00

GOVERNMENT AIDS.

To encourage the manufacture in the Dominion of iron and steel the Parliament of Canada has granted bounties as follows:—

	ON PIG IRON.	ON STEEL.
Apl. 21st, 1902, to July 1st, 1903	$2.70	$2.70
July 1st, 1903, " " 1904	2.25	2.25
July 1st, 1904, " " 1905	1.65	1.65
July 1st, 1905, " " 1906	1.05	1.05
July 1st, 1906, " " 1907	.60	.60

If the production of steel from the Company's works be as estimated, 300,000 tons per annum, the bounties to be received from the Canadian Government will be as follows:—

1904	$225,000
1905	215,000
1906	145,000
1907	85,000
or an average of $100,000.00 per annum for 6⅔ years	$670,000.00

NET REVENUE

Total net annual profits		$2,200,000.00
LESS FIXED CHARGES:—
7 per cent. interest on preferred stock	$70,000.00
Sinking Fund	60,000.00
Incidentals	25,000 00
		155,000.00
Net yearly profits		$2,045,000 00

Equivalent to yearly dividends of over 30 per cent., or 15 per cent. half yearly on total capitalization.

If the capitalization was increased to .... $20,000,000.00 this estimate would still show a dividend-earning capacity of 10 per cent. per annum.

The capitalization of the Dominion Coal Co. is .... $20,000,000.00 earning fully 12 per cent., and is paying 8 per cent. guaranteed dividends on this enormous sum.

The capitalization of the Dominion Iron and Steel Co. is .... $28,000,000.00 on which it is believed 6 per cent. dividends will be earned.

The capitalization of the Canadian Steel & Coal Company is only $6,000,000.00 controlling, it is believed, equally valuable properties, and it is reasonable to expect much larger dividends.

Within the last few months Dominion Coal shares common rose in market value from $40 to $144 per share, and Dominion Iron & Steel Company's shares common rose over $30 per share in market value.

With such low capitalization the Canadian Steel and Coal Co's shares should show tremendous profits, and it is confidently believed they will.

BUY! WHY?

BECAUSE

THE SOUR LAKE OIL CO.

Has placed four-fifths of its stock in the treasury for development work; and because

Oil is reached in less than half the depth required on Spindletop Heights in Beaumont;

The people in Canada are well acquainted with the management, which is in the hands of HON. JOHN L. BITTINGER, United States Consul General to Canada; F. S. Ashley, Vice-President of the Massachusetts Securities Co., and W. L. Marston, Vice-President of the American Union Oil and Refining Co.

These gentlemen have made a dividend payer out of one company and have raised the value of its stock from 5c per share to par value, or 25c, within a very short time;

The company is operating in the Sour Lake field, where fewer wells will tap the oil than at Spindletop; this insures a greater flow of oil, and it is of a better quality;

This is the first allotment of shares at the present price of FIVE CENTS PER SHARE; it is the lowest price at which you can buy, and the time left in which to buy at FIVE CENTS is short.

$33,000 ANNUAL INCOME

FROM 1,000 SHARES OF STOCK

THAT IS WHAT CALUMET & HECLA PAYS

Would You Like an Income of this Kind?

We cannot guarantee an income of this kind from 1,000 shares of stock, but we can guarantee that every dollar you invest in the guaranteed stock of The Gold Hammer Mines and Tunnel Company at 20 cents per share is secured by a GOLD BOND DEPOSITED IN BANK AT THE TIME OF THE PURCHASE OF THE STOCK TO THE CREDIT OF THE BUYER, WHICH INSURES HIM AGAINST LOSS. We can also guarantee, to the best of our judgment, that the development of the ore bodies will make the shares advance at least 100 per cent in twelve months, and, owing to the bond being deposited to the credit of the purchaser, entirely eliminates the feature of chance from the investment. The property is located right in the heart of the Clear Creek District at Idaho Springs, and completely surrounded by big producers.

Details of this proposition will be carefully explained in a handsomely illustrated booklet, (the price of which is twenty-five cents), and is not for general distribution, but we will mail it free to parties who are sufficiently interested to write for it. If you wish to make money you cannot afford to be without this book. If you do not care to make money we cannot afford to send it to you, as it costs us money. This book also gives the story of how Stratton and many others have made millions in mining. These valuable pointers will make you money if you will take advantage of the present opportunity. Write for particulars, and you will not regret it. This is not a gamble, but a bona fide speculation without chance of loss.

STOCK MARKETS

Preparing for a Dicker in Chicago G. W

New York, Dec. 12—The powers controlling the financial affairs and general management of the Chicago G. W., stocks have been livening up recently. An additional amount of stock for purpose of extending the company's lines has been authorized by the board of directors, and President Stickney has been hustling around in the West, calling upon certain of the managers of certain large railway interests. It is known in Wall Street that the Chicago G. W. is for sale. President Stickney openly admits it is only a question of time when this notorious rate distributing road will be found in the possession of some one or more of the greater lines. It is simply a question of price, and that price is known to be greatly above the current quotation given the property in Wall Street. Just as the authorized additional issues of St. Paul stock was recently used as a club under threat of building through to the Pacific to force the Union Pacific to give the St. Paul a through route to the coast so is the recent authorization of Chicago G. W. Board a club to hasten and coerce a sale of its lines to the greater powers dominating railway affairs in the country through which it runs. Bear in mind that the Chicago G. W. cannot be broken and bankrupted by means of a war on rates inasmuch as it is the only railway existing in the United States without a bond thereon; consequently it has no interest to meet at fixed periods, being only compelled to take in sufficient money to run its lines. Its managers in such a war would more than make up any losses thus placed upon them by selling short the stocks of its rivals. To the others it would prove ruination. They therefore must purchase and will certainly do so in time. Once done, sufficient business will be given the line to make its stock rule nearer the price it would cost them to control it. Being low in price it costs but an infinitely small sum to carry, consequently those who will purchase it now and wait are sure to meet with certain reward. Indications are strong that the dicker will shortly be pulled off, and that the control will change hands. We strongly advise the purchase either outright or on margin of the stock, and suggest to present stockholders not to part with same save at greatly better prices than those now ruling.

Summary—A tempestuous and stormy stock market existed the greater part of the day. The bear attack was principally directed against St. Paul, Union Pacific and the Steel stocks. The first issue falling 2 points, Union Pacific dropping three, while Steel fell from 34 to 31 1-2. The decline in the three standards did much to unsettle matters and the selling was general, indiscriminate prices falling from 1 to 3 points. It ought to be near the turning point in the market. Various rumours were industriously circulated with the view to depressing prices, and the bears worked energetically. The bulwarks of today's market were Copper and Sugar. The finest array of bargains so far for 1902 are offering at present. We note material increase in our outright purchase orders. For investment a good rally is due is nothing more at present. Tomorrow's letter, "Severe market pounding. Money closed at 9 per cent. Sales 1,356,000.

Rare Indian Remains

Campbellford Herald:—A few weeks ago Mr. Arcastus Lane, who resides on lot 25 in concession 12 of Seymour discovered the skeletons of four Indians who were interred on his farm perhaps long before a white man set foot upon the soil. While he was ploughing the ploughshare grated upon something which he supposed to be [illegible], but which upon examination proved to be a human skull. He secured a shovel and began digging and in a few minutes only a few inches below the furrow he unearthed three other skulls all in a good state of preservation, with the teeth still free from decay, in the jaws. Upon further investigation he found the bones of the bodies were there also, and it would appear that the deceased Indians were buried in a sitting posture, facing the north. They were close together. One skull was very large, and two were small, probably those of [illegible] size. The skulls were visited by quite a number of persons, and a few days afterwards Mr. Lane re-interred them in [illegible] of the [illegible] where they probably [illegible] never again be disturbed.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Veterans' Association was held in the Council Chamber last night. A number of the veterans of '66, together with a number of the South African veterans, were present.

The meeting was held to consider what steps would be taken with regard to the Government grant to the veterans. A number of letters were read and after considerable discussion it was decided to leave the matter stand until next March, when Mr. J. B. McWilliams would be in a position to give some valuable information concerning the land.

The constitution of the association was altered so as to admit as members men who served in South Africa. The following officers were elected:

Hon. Pres.—Col. J. Z. Rogers.
Pres.—A. Poussette.
Vice-Pres.—F. R. J. Mitchell.
Capt.—Major Langford.
Lieut.—John Irwin.
Sergt.-Major—H. T. Holmes.
Sergt.—Wm. Logan, Geo. Stethem.
Sec.-Treas.—J. D. Collins.

The secretary-treasurer's report was presented by Mr. J. D. Collins, and showed a balance to the credit of the association after paying all accounts.

A vote of thanks was tendered Mr. J. B. McWilliams for the valuable assistance he had rendered to the association.

PRIZE FIGHTER'S HEARTS

Coffee Shown to be the Cause of His Weak Heart

Frank Wallis, the Illinois champion feather weight, says:

"Nearly all my life I drank coffee, and it finally put me in such a condition that training for any fight was almost impossible.

My breathing was poor and slight exertion always made me very tired. I could not understand it, for I was otherwise well and strong, until one day, in training quarters, a friend and admirer of mine asked me if I drank coffee. I told him 'yes,' and he said that was what ailed me.

This was two weeks before an important fight of mine was due. He explained how coffee affected the heart and nerves and told me of the good qualities of Postum Food Coffee. I immediately commenced using it in place of coffee. The result was wonderful. My nervousness left me, my breathing bothered me no more, my confidence returned, and I was as good as ever in a short time.

I returned victor of the fight, which I am confident I would not have been had I continued the use of coffee."

"I sleep well enough at night,
And the blamedest appetite
Ever mortal man possessed."

Riley's farmer is the very picture of a man advanced in years, yet in the enjoyment of perfect health. A good appetite, good digestion and sound sleep, are the chief factors in a vigorous old age. Life is sustained by food, when it is properly digested and assimilated. When digestion fails, there is a loss of nutrition which soon shows itself in physical weakness, nervousness, sleeplessness, etc.

Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It strengthens the body in the only way possible,—by enabling the assimilation of the nutrition extracted from food.

"I used ten bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and several vials of his 'Pleasant Pellets' a year ago this spring, and have had no trouble with indigestion since," writes Mr. W. T. Thompson, of Townsend, Broadwater Co., Montana. "Words fail to tell how thankful I am for the relief, as I had suffered so much and it seemed that the doctors could do me no good. I got down in weight to 125 pounds, and was not able to work at all. Now I weigh nearly 160 and can do a day's work on the farm. I have recommended your medicine to several, and shall always have a good word to say for Dr. Pierce and his medicines."

MORMON SETTLEMENTS OF THE NORTHWEST

The Sect are Developing a Large and Prosperous Colony in Canada

THEY OWN AN IMMENSE BEET SUGAR FACTORY

Thousands of Mormons will Come in Next Year—They have good Schools

Winnipeg, Manitoba, December 12.—J. M. Tanner, superintendent of Mormon church schools throughout all the Mormon colonies, and assistant-superintendent of Mormon Sunday schools, is just now in Winnipeg and is putting up at the Clarendon hotel. Mr. Tanner has returned from inspecting the Mormon colonies of the Northwest Territories, and he gives an interesting and enthusiastic accoun tof what he has observed.

THE COLONIES.

The Canadian Mormon colonies are in Southern Alberta and extend for a distance of fifty miles from Lethbridge, along the St. Mary's river. In these colonies there are some 5,100 highly contented and prosperous settlers. The immigration to Canada began in 1887, but more than half the present number of settlers have arrived within the last two years. The settlers are of just the kind to make successful and hardy pioneers in a new country. No people have done more pioneer work than the Mormons. In Utah, in Nevada, in Arizona, in Old Mexico, in Wyoming and in Idaho the Mormons have been among the earliest settlers, and by their labor and enterprise, many desert regions have been changed into flourishing agricultural districts. In the Northwest Territories, Mr. Tanner declares, they have found the greatest "snap," and have achieved the quickest prosperity. The fertility of the country has yielded most satisfactory returns for their labor and the colonies are prosperous and contented; more prosperous, in Mr. Tanner's opinion, than any other Mormon colony anywhere.

FLOURISHING FARMS.

Grain, cattle and sheep are the chief sources of wealth. Last year the Mormon settlements produced 625,000 bushels of grain, while the settlers own also some 25,000 head of cattle and about 80,000 sheep. An attempt is now being made to cultivate fruit. The settlers came to a great extent from districts where fruit is plentiful, and in the Northwest Territories the lack of fruit has been felt. Mr. Tanner is going to Ottawa to learn what are the prospects for fruit cultivation with a view to introducing fruit culture in the Mormon colonies. He is also interested in agriculture. The settlers dislike bare prairie, and intend to cultivate shade trees on their farms and in their villages. Another branch of the agricultural industry to which attention is given is the cultivation of sugar beets. Already a considerable amount have been grown and the roots are found to yield a large percentage of sugar. The industry is to be greatly developed, and at Raymond, one of the newer villages, a sugar factory to cost half a million dollars is in course of construction, and is expected to be running by the beginning of next September.

THE VILLAGES.

The settlers congregate in villages, where they live while farming the surrounding country. There is no communistic plan; everything is held individually as in other Canadian settlements, but the Mormons prefer to live in villages for the sake of social advantages, for religious reasons and because they are able to have better schools, where it is possible to grade the pupils. These villages are very prosperous. At Cardston, one of the older villages, the houses are chiefly of frame construction, but it has been found possible to make excellent bricks and many brick houses are now being built. The village of Sterling is only two years old, but here a school costing $6,000 is being built. Raymond is less than a year old, but its 800 inhabitants raised last year, 180,000 bushels of grain. Here a roller mill costing $30,000 is in course of construction, also a school to cost $10,000, and here also the sugar factory which will cost $500,000 is being built.

IRRIGATION.

The climate of the Mormon settlements, Mr. Tanner says, is no colder than Northern Utah, but it is more windy. Last year there was an ample rainfall, but so as not to be entirely dependent upon nature, an irrigation canal has been constructed. It is fed by the St. Mary's River, and runs for sixty miles from Sterling. It is twenty feet wide and some five feet deep.

ENTHUSIASTIC CANADIANS.

Mr. Tanner says the Mormon settlers are enthusiastic Canadians. They appreciate the liberty which they enjoy in Canada, and the respect for law, which is enforced is another feature which pleases them. They are becoming naturalized as fast as possible. Some have taken up homesteads, but most of their lands have been purchased from railway companies. The farms are generally 160 acres in extent, but many own larger tracts of land. Mr. Tanner finds that most of those who were Republicans in the United States are Conservatives in Canada, while the Democrats often become Liberals.

THE SCHOOL SYSTEM.

The schools differ not at all from the other schools of the Northwest Territories. There are no Mormon church schools with the exception of Sunday schools, and it is the ambition of the settlers to make their schools the best in Western Canada. The Mormons impose no religious restrictions upon the teachers they engage. In the past, most of the teachers have come from Ontario, but lately some have come from Regina. The teachers' salaries vary from $400 to $800 per year. In the future there is likely to be a supply of Mormon teachers. Already there are two qualifying in Regina, and Sterling Williams, a fourth year student of Manitoba college, will graduate next spring and intends to devote himself to teaching in the Mormon settlements. Mr. Williams, who is a grandson of Bingham Young, is himself a Mormon, who came to the Northwest Territories in 1887.

REED SMOOT.

When asked for an explanation regarding the controversy in the United States about Reed Smoot, the candidate for the United States Senate, Mr. Tanner explained that Mr. Smoot is not the candidate of the Mormon church. He is one of the twelve apostles, the second highest quorum in the government of the Mormon church, but he is also a business man, and a large woollen manufacturer. He is a Republican. There is a prejudice against him, because he is a Mormon, but he claims the privileges and rights of a citizen of the United States. It is as a Republican, not as a Mormon that he is a candidate.

NO POLYGAMY.

Mr. Tanner says that there is no polygamy among the Mormons of the Northwest Territories, and never has been. In Utah there are still a few Mormons who have not abandoned polygamous practices, but the custom has never prevailed in Canada.

MORE SETTLERS.

Mr. Tanner anticipates that the Mormon settlers in Canada will be doubled in numbers within the next year or two. He is very much impressed with their prosperity and the capabilities of the country, and he intends to report upon the settlements most favorably. The settlers, he thinks, are just the kind needed by Canada and Canada suits them admirably.

Grace Darling Group in Lake District

The Grace Darling Group is being operated by the Electric Spark Gold Mining company, with Omaha, Neb., parties being largely interested. A steam plant of machinery has been recently installed and a new and commodious shaft building of 30x40 feet dimensions has been erected. It is one of the most convenient shaft houses in the county, the engine being located under the building so that they can be filled at any time and under any conditions of weather. Since installing the machinery and putting up the new building, the shaft was thoroughly retimbered from top to bottom so as to make it safe as possible for mining operations, and a first class job was done. Sinking operations are under way and the shaft is being sunk on a 100 foot lift which will put it down 300 feet in all. A depth of 130 feet has been reached and there is a change and an improvement noticeable in the shaft with almost every round of holes fired. The vein is being followed down in the shaft and the crevice is now fully three feet in width, and it shows signs of making solid mineral at an early date. Assays have been taken and the mineral in the shaft has shown increasing values as depth is being gained. Only one shift is engaged in sinking but the company may decide to put on a night shift to hasten the work.

Before sinking was commenced the 70 foot level was extended and they had a nice pocket of surface ore at that depth shipments from which were made to the local sampling works and to the Golden smelter, and the returns in each case were entirely satisfactory. Connections were made between the 100 foot level and the surface, which furnish splendid ventilation throughout the mine workings, as well as an additional outlet for the miners in case of danger. The company will, no doubt, decide to sink the shaft 200 and possibly 300 feet deeper, as they realize that depth has been necessary in all the well known surrounding mines such as the Williams, Clay County, Justice and others, equally as well known, which, in the aggregate, have produced hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of gold and silver ores, and most of which are actively producing today. All of these mines had their surface pockets but it was necessary to go down several hundred feet in order to get the mineral body in solid form, and at these depths each of the properties paid handsomely for the cost of sinking and developments. The Electric Spark company realize that there is no exception to the rule in mining in this county and will deepen their shaft and carry on liberal developments and there is hardly any doubt but that before next spring the property will be developed in such shape as to enter the list of producers in that section of Gilpin county. The interests of the company are being looked after by John C. Martin, of Black Hawk, as agent, with George Rogers, an experienced practical mining man in charge as superintendent.

WORK FOR "SOO" STEEL MILLS

Company Will Probably Get Contracts From Ontario Government

Toronto, Dec. 12—Hon. F. R. Latchford, Minister of Public Works, stated yesterday that he understood that the contract for the steel rails to be used on the construction of the Temiskaming Railway would be let to the Algoma Steel Company of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. He felt sure that both sides of politics would stand by the commissioners in their endeavor to help a Canadian industry. At present on account of the low financial condition in Germany steel manufacturers, in order to keep their men employed were turning out steel rails below cost price, so that the German tenders might be the lowest, but they considered that Canadian workingmen must be considered first. It will take 8,000 tons of steel rails for the first sixty miles of the road and five miles of siding. The contract price has not been announced and will not be made public until after the meeting of the Temiskaming commissioners next week, when the contract will be awarded.

SOCIALISTIC MEETINGS

Addresses to be Delivered on Saturday Night and Sunday Afternoon

A GREAT ENGINEERING FEAT ACCOMPLISHED

The Big Water Works Tunnel Under Lake Erie Finished

A WONDERFUL PIECE OF WORK

Begun Over Six Years Ago Great Difficulties and Dangers

Detroit, Dec. 12—The big waterworks tunnel under Lake Erie to supply Cleveland with water has been completed. It is spoken of as one of the most gigantic engineering feats of modern times.

Over six years ago the work was begun on the construction of a tunnel connecting the city with a crib located five miles out in Lake Erie. A big crib was towed in sections from the shore and in the lake to a depth of 114 feet. Then it was pumped empty of water and a force of men began digging a tunnel to connect it with the waterworks station, on the shore. At the same time another force of men started to dig at the shore end of the proposed tunnel.

For about six years the diggers have kept at work, breathing compressed air and working by the aid of electric lights.

On Saturday the two sets of workers met far out and deep below the stormy surface of the lake. So exactly had the calculations of the engineers been made, that, as the superintendent of the construction is quoted as saying, "There is apparently not an inch's difference between the sides of the shore section and those of the new section. Nor is there any perceptible difference in the level of the two floors."

The tunnel is nine feet in diameter and 26,000 feet in length, and its construction cost the city of Cleveland $1,500,000.

WOMEN'S FOREIGN MISSIONARY SOCIETY

Annual Meeting of St. Paul's Church Society Yester day Afternoon

THE ELECTION OF OFFICERS

Report of the Secretary Read—A Very Successful Meeting

The annual meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of St. Paul's church was held yesterday afternoon in St. Paul's church. There was a good attendance.

Miss Dickson, president, occupied the chair. After devotional exercises the secretary read the following report:

Report of St. Paul's Auxiliary of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society for 1902

Of the true influence and work of the Auxiliary for the past year God alone can judge. A report can only deal with the outward working, which changes little from year to year. Our efforts may appear feeble and the results indefinite to us; but no service is too small to be used by God. So if we believe, and act on our belief, that mission work, as carried on by our Society, is not merely a side issue or pastime, but one phrase of life's chief end, one way of living not for self, but for others, one way of being workers together with Christ for the world's uplifting to a better, happier and holier life, then it cannot fail to bear fruit to life everlasting.

The membership this year is 165, of the Auxiliary members 64 are members of the General Society, and 16 are life members, two having been added this year. The average attendance was 44, which is a decrease of four from the previous year. The meetings have been characterized throughout the year by interesting programmes, arranged by two different ladies for each month. In April we commenced the study of "Via Christi," a book recommended by the Central Board to be studies in all Auxiliarys of the W.F.M.S. It gives a glimpse at the lives and work of all the great missionaries, beginning with St. Paul, up to the present century. Its study ought to be a great stimulous to us, and lead to further investigation of the work done for Christ in the past ages. It shows us also how, line by line, step by step, the present Christian nations have been brought out of heathen darkness into the light of Christ, at the cost of numerous lives spent for Him throughout the bygone centuries. And so it brings hope and courage to all striving for the conversion of the heathen nations of to-day. Every life and gift given now will prove in the end to be a stepping stone to carry the heathen into the Light. At our last annual meeting we had the pleasure of hearing an address from Mrs. Wilkie, who with her husband, Dr. Wilkie, gave so many years of faithful service in the mission field of Central India.

On June 3rd the annual meeting of the Presbyterial Society was held in this church, when Miss White, one of our missionaries then home on furlough from India, gave an address, telling of her work among the women and children of that land. There were a number of delegates present from different parts of the Presbytery, whom the ladies of this Auxiliary entertained at tea in the schoolroom of the church.

The Auxiliary continues to send—as it has for many years—"The Interior," one of the best religious papers published, to our lady missionaries in Central India. This is only a little thing to do, but—aside from the value of the reading matter—how it must cheer the hearts of these women, so far away from home, to feel that they are regularly remembered by a band of women interested in their work. And not only do the missionaries enjoy the paper, but they tell us that the Hindu students in the Mission College also eagerly look forward to its coming.

The Missionary Review is also subscribed for, for the use of our own members, and it is the earnest desire of your committee that the members should freely circulate it among them. We would also draw attention to the missionary library in connection with the Auxiliary. Several valuable new books have been added to it this year; altogether it is a collection of books well worth reading. The number of subscribers to the Missionary Tidings is not as large as it should be. We would not only ask for more subscribers to this magazine, the organ of our Society, but we would plead with those who do take it to read it, being persuaded, that without fail, it will awaken a deeper interest in the cause it deals with.

In September, a box was sent to the Hurricane Hill Reserve. It contained a bountiful supply of warm clothing—mostly new—for the old men and women on the reserve and for the small children: besides many fine quilts, yarn and other useful articles. The total value was $67.72. Of the great help this clothing is to the missionaries and teachers in their work among the Indians few of us realize. One missionary says in last month's "Tidings": "If only the ladies who send the clothing knew how important a part it is in our work, they would feel that they are doing greater work that they at present imagine." And another missionary tells us that if it were not for the judicious distribution of the clothing sent by the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society the Indian children could not be kept in school. And, of course, the education, religion and secular, of the young, is the only hope for our Indians.

The annual Thanksgiving meeting was held in October, when the Thankoffering was the largest ever yet received, being $222.00. Again this year the Stuart Settlement Sunday school favored us with a subscription of $4.00. Total amount contributed $481.22. In November, Mrs. Laing, one of our oldest and most faithful members, passed away. For many years she was unable to attend the meetings of the Auxiliary; but to the last she continued to show her interest [illegible] to work, pray and bring our willing offerings, that so we may help to make straight in the desert, a high way for our God; that we may at last share honorably in His joy, when there appears before Him a great multitude, which no man could number, of all nations, and kindreds, and peoples, clothed in white robes, and with palms in their hands, crying, Salvation to our God which sitteth upon the Throne, and unto the Lamb.

M. H. LECH, Secretary.

The report was on motion adopted.

Mrs. McClelland, of Toronto, delivered an excellent address.

Mrs. Sanderson sang a solo very acceptably.

Representatives from St. John's church, the George street church and the Murray street church, delivered greetings. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Miss Dickson, president; Mrs. J. F. Dennistoun, 1st vice president; Mrs. McPherson, 2nd vice president; Mrs. A. E. Lech, secretary; Miss Kingan, treasurer.

The meeting concluded with devotional exercises.

NEW LINES IN THE WEST

C. P. R. Pursuing an Active Policy Says Chief Engineer

Montreal, Dec. 12.—Mr. McHenry, the chief engineer of the C.P.R., has returned from a trip which has included the western boundary of Manitoba. In regard to the new lines which had been planned, and upon which a certain amount of work had already been done, he said that the C.P.R. was carrying out a vigorous policy in the West, and that a considerable amount of work and a large outlay would be immediately in order. The lines which have been projected west of Winnipeg will cost, all told, in the neighborhood of $10,000,000.

There had already been a certain number of branch lines built in the North-West, but Manitoba needed, and was receiving, earnest attention at the hands of the company.

POISON IN CANDY SHE GAVE

St. Louis Girl Accused By Dying Friend on Trial for Murder

Aledo, Ill., Dec. 12—Interest in the trial of Miss Tona Dunlap charged with the murder of Miss Alice Dool, increases day by day. Miss Dool was a saleswoman in a dry goods store at a weekly salary of $5.50. Miss Dunlap and she had long been friends.

The State's theory is that Miss Dunlap poisoned Miss Dool that she might secure her place as clerk. Evidence to sustain this charge is found in the dying words of the victim, and a crushed piece of chocolate candy which when analyzed by a Chicago chemist showed the presence of strychnine.

As she was dying Miss Dool said to her sister: "The candies she gave me were so bitter, so bitter. Oh, why did Tona do this?"

THE COAL OUTLOOK

Mr. J. H. McClellan Returns from Buffalo Last Night

Mr. J. H. McClellan, of the McClellan Coal Company, returned from Buffalo last night, where he had gone to purchase coal. He secured ten cars, paying $10 per ton at Suspension Bridge. This coal will cost $10.75 on the cars at Peterborough, and will be delivered to consumers at $12.

Mr. McClelland says that it is almost impossible to get coal at any price. Thousands and thousands of people in the great American cities have nothing to burn except their furniture. On Sunday last tens of thousands of persons were obliged to stay in bed to keep warm. The outlook is not at all hopeful: There is a shortage of cars; the mines are not being worked to their full capacity; many of them are not being worked at all; there is no coal on hand anywhere. While in Toronto he saw an order for 50 cars given, at $16 per ton at Niagara Falls.

Mr. McClellan did not think cheap coal was in sight.

CASTRO'S FRENZIED CALL OF VENEZUELANS TO ARMS

Asks Uncle Sam's Officers To Persuade Britain and Germany to Settle

Without Further Reprisals—Vessels Sunk by Germans—Europe Stands Clear—Patriotism Rampant

Washington, Dec. 12.—A cablegram received at the State Department to-day from Minister Bowen at Caracas states that the Venezuelan Government has requested him to propose to Great Britain and Germany that the difficulties arising out of the claims for alleged damages and injuries to British and German subjects during the civil war be submitted to arbitration.

Caracas, Venezuela, Thursday, Dec. 11.—The Government has taken preservative measures at La Guayra. All the deposits of coal at the navy yard and all the British cars on the La Guayra Railroad have been brough here, rendering impossible the transportation of the allied troops by rail. General Ferrer, the Minister of War, spent all day to-day in choosing spots in the mountains where trenches are to be dug.

The Governor of Caracas has issued the following decree: "All Venezuelans living in the Federal district, between the ages of 18 and 50 years, must enroll themselves in the militia; and such persons refusing to go voluntarily, as patriotism demands, will be declared traitors, and sent before the tribunals."

Yesterday, after a long conference with President Castro, United States Minister Bowen obtained the liberation of the remaining British and German subjects who were held prisoners.

The order for the release of the prisoners has made a good impression, and is looked upon as a politic act on the part of President Castro.

La Guayra, Venezuela, Dec. 12.—The defensive preparations at the strategic points on the heights back of the town are being vigorously pushed forward. The deposits of powder in the fortresses of Lavigia and San Carlos have been removed. Great patriotic demonstrations are being made, and everyone capable of bearing arms is offering his services.

The embargo placed upon the harbor corporation has been removed.

SHOT A BEAR.

"My Friend Tooley" Does Some Execution Out in Douro

Yesterday Mr. M. Tooley, the genial proprietor of the Queen's Hotel, Charlotte street, and Mr. Charlie Westlake drove out into Douro, armed with a rifle and a couple of shot guns, in search of game. Anything from a tame chicken to a ground hog was acceptable to the sportsmen. They tied their horse at the edge of a swamp not far from Mahoney's corners, and proceeded to business. They had with them a small mongrel canine—a brute that knew nothing whatever about hunting. In a few minutes the hunters and the dog became separated, and in a short time the terrific barking of the dog told the sportsmen that something was up. They hastened in the direction of the noise, and were soon startled by the approach of a huge brown bear with a young cub at its side. Bruin was making directly for the hunters, and as there was no chance of escape, Mr. Tooley, after a silent prayer, braced himself for the onslaught. He waited till the bears had approached to within 20 paces, and then fired. On account of the fright the aim was bad, and the huge monster, which Mr. Tooley says must have weighed at least a ton, escaped, and scampered off. But the young one was not so fortunate. The bullet entered the side of the cub, and it rolled over dead.

The sportsmen had enough of hunting for one day, and after securing their game, they returned to town, proud of their prowess.

Stenography as it Should Be

In the commercial world of workers there is a wonderful demand for a certain class, whose ranks, unlike so many others, are not filled to overcrowding and who are worth a far better range of salaries than the ordinary office clerk, in proportion. This class is that of stenographers and typewriters. A good stenographer has many calls for his accomplishment, from that of editors and reporters down to the stenography of letter writing in any business office. The dearth of good stenographers has been attributed to the laborious system of shorthand now in ordinary use. Pitman's is the course usually studied. In conversation with the headmaster of a certain school where the commercial course is one of the chief departments, he said that he found that with the ordinary run of students a large percentage become very discouraged before the system was thoroughly mastered. Some few very diligent and determined students had been known to master it in from three to six months, but the ordinary length of study was fully a year or two years. It is quite certain there is much to be memorized, position of character, shading, dots, dashes, and the "pour assinorum" the 'tick' hoop make up a medley which means protracted effort to acquire. But in stenography, as in all else in these days of progress, a great improvement has been invented, which simplifies the quasi foreign language of shorthand to a remarkable degree. This system has been christened the "Syllabic," and by it all changes of position in the writing of the signs, all dots, all shading have been eliminated, and the whole reduced to a small number of characters which can be so combined as to represent any word whatever. There is a small list of abbreviations and of phrases, and the whole science is contained in a matter of about one hundred characters. The inventor of this system was Mr. Boyd. Its Canadian home is on Yonge street, Toronto, under the principalship of Mr. W. T. Moon. Already schools have been established at Winnipeg, Brandon and other Canadian points beside Toronto and all report wonderfully favorable business. By referring to Mr. Moon's ad in our columns, our readers will get information where to apply if they so desire. The course is guaranteed to be mastered in six weeks, the student in that time being able to attain the speed of one hundred words per minute.

A MAN WHO THREW OVER $40,000 AWAY

Took a Carriage and Gave the Money to Those Who were in Need

TWO THE ACT OF A CRAZY MAN

Gave Thousands Away in Twenty Dollars Gold Piece—Would Not Loan Any

St. Joseph, Mo., Dec. 12.—Benjamin W. Gist, of Falls City, Neb., threw away $40,000 here in seven days. He is not a drinking man and is believed to be in his right mind. Young Gist is twenty-one years old and fell heir to the money he threw away a short time ago, through the death of some relatives. The bulk of it was left to him at the death of an uncle whose favorite he was. When the uncle died Gist was not of age, and another guardian was appointed guardian for him. His guardian said the money should have been divided between the nephews and nieces of the dead man, and there was talk of bringing suit to break the will. The suit was not filed, however, and when Gist became of age there was nothing to do but to deliver the legacy over to him.

For several weeks the money remained in the banks untouched, and young Gist says he was thinking all the time of dividing it among his relatives, or at least, of giving them a share of it. He owns a farm and considerable other property in addition to the legacy. The relatives of the young man kept clamoring for a division of the $40,000 and quarrelled among themselves as to how it should be divided. They were not willing to allow Gist to apportion it as he pleased.

"I will see my aunt about it," said the young man. "She will advise me and I will take her advice."

The aunt lives in Atchison, county, Missouri. She thought her own children should have the most of the money. Then Gist went to see an uncle, who said he would rather see the money given to the poor than to one member of the family. He thought his brother should have divided it among the brothers and sisters instead of giving the entire sum to one nephew.

"I shall draw out my entire deposit during the next few days," he said, "and I want all of it in gold."

With the sacks of money in the carriage beside him, Gist went out into the district where the poor live and distributed $20 gold pieces among them. To give himself courage he took several drinks, but at no time during the seven days he was sowing gold pieces did he become intoxicated. When he met children on the street he gave them gold pieces. Old men and women profited by the liberality and were made comfortable for many months to come by his gifts.

Gist gave away $5,000 the first afternoon, and followed it up the next day by giving away a larger sum. He became reckless at times, and, ordering the driver to stop where he found a crowd assembled on the street, sowing the gold pieces broadcast. He gave money alike to the deserving and undeserving, to "the just and the unjust," as he expressed it. His one desire was to get rid of the $40,000 and place it where it could not be collected again. He succeeded in giving it all away. It is said that he paid $100 for a box of cigars and $5 for every drink that was taken at his expense. When he had his shoes shined he paid the bootblack a $20 gold piece and would not accept the change. All he desired was that the money should be placed in circulation.

Several attempts were made to borrow money from him but Gist refused to loan it. He appeared to know impostors as they approached him, and refused to invest in any of their schemes. If they secured any of his money it was by picking it up from the street where he had thrown it. Soon after Gist had made his last visit to the bank he was arrested by Patrolman Pendelton, who found him throwing money into a crowd of people at the Union passenger station. Gist had been drinking some that day and the policeman sent him to the central station where he was held until his relatives could be notified.

Two of his uncles came to the city at once, and the young man was taken into court where one of the uncles was appointed guardian for him. An effort was made then to recover some of the money Gist had thrown away, but very little of it could be found.

THE GERMAN INVASION

It seems as if the Canadian people are unable to profit by the experience of the U.S. which, under a protective tariff, has become the greatest nation in the world. It seems as if despite the very plainest demonstrations of the value of a protective tariff at home also, the old bogie of free trade is still adhered to. The free trade fad dies hard, but in Canada has got to die; and it might as well, any better, die now as any time.

These remarks are called forth by the shutting down of the steel works at the Soo. Just now times are very bad in Germany; as a consequence the steel mill workers get distress pay. This low rate of pay enables the steel manufacturers of Germany to ship to foreign ports at low prices, and if we want to pay our own men at distress rates we can meet German competition, but not otherwise. The bounty of $3.00 a ton is not a protective duty. It is not high enough. Not only Clergue but the U. S. people also feel that they are up against it. When we pay for rails and railways with wild lands we can afford to be generous.

DR LORENZ'S OPERATIONS

It is satisfactory to learn that Dr. Adolf Lorenz, the great Viennese surgeon, has visited Johns Hopkins university one of the great centers of medical science on this continent and held a clinic at which he demonstrated on two patients his method of successfully operating for congenital hip dislocation. He further states that since coming to America he has performed over a hundred similar operations, all of which have proved successful. The method employed appears to be to first obtain X-ray photographs showing the position of the bones. Having studied these Dr. Lorenz proceeds to operate and by a dexterous manipulation of the limb, after arranging the ligaments, succeeds in placing the bone properly in the socket. If the results are so uniformly successful as claimed there seems to be no reason why other specialists should not acquire similar manual dexterity in treating this class of deformity, and there is little doubt that among the brilliant staff of the great Baltimore university will be found specialists who will be able to imitate the doctor from Vienna and make his method of treatment available for the benefit of humanity on this continent. If Dr. Lorenz has discovered a means of restoring the use of their limbs to congenital cripples of this description he has conferred a boon upon mankind which will cause his name to be forever held in grateful remembrance.

We don't understand exactly why Pietro Mascagni has to go to his concerts in New York city with a police escort. We have heard performers, however, who had to be escorted to their hotels afterwards by a body guard, but Mascagni makes good music.

Great Britain and Germany are preparing to throw ultimatums and other old things at poor, little, shrinking, hardup Venezuela. And Grover Cleveland ought to be one of these days.

That Venezuela affair is a sort of Division Court suit.

Read The Times' ads. before going out to do your shopping. It will pay.

Andrew Carnegie provides a $2,000,000 home for his daughter. Some enterprising young fellow will lay siege to it one of these days.

It is probable that the present difficulty in Venezuela is the direct result of the "shirt sleeves" diplomacy of that small potato politician of Cleveland's Cabinet, Mr. Olney. The truculent Venezuelans were quite incapable of understanding the calmness of Great Britain in the face of that insolent communication, and they ran away with the idea that they were quite safe in being as mean as they liked as long as Uncle Sam would stand up beside them. And they are acting accordingly.

LOOK TO CANADA FOR RECIPROCITY

The National League Meeting in Detroit Discusses Fair Trade

What is Needed to Give Minnesota and Other States Prosperity

Detroit, Dec. 11.—The annual convention of the National Reciprocity League opened yesterday, with the keynote of high protection and reciprocity. Mr. Fred B. Smith, President of the Detroit Chamber of Commerce, declared that every member of the chamber favored reciprocity with France, Canada, and Cuba.

Hon. Eugene Hay of Minneapolis, as a high protectionist, believed that reciprocity was the natural sequence of protection. He knew of nothing which would cause the State of Minnesota and the city of Minneapolis to prosper like a fair reciprocity treaty with Canada.

Governor Cummins of Iowa believed the high duty on steel and iron was indefensible, and should be reduced. He was convinced that the United States would gain more by the acceptance of the treaty with France than with Cuba, for Europe was not likely to continue to receive United States goods unless the United States took goods in return.

Mayor Maybury of Detroit though the Senate of the United States could arrange a treaty with Canada which would mean a great increase of trade for both countries, and which would not injure American manufacturers.

H. T. Shaver of Chicago was in favor of reciprocity with any country which would enter into treaty with the United States on fair terms.

Mr. John Charlton said that mutual reciprocity in natural products between the two countries, and the granting to the United States by Canada of the most-favored-nation position in her tariff, was the true solution of the trade difficulty. The first move must come from the United States and must come soon. Allow extreme protection to fasten itself upon Canada, and the interests to spring up that such a policy will call into existence, and the day for broadened trade conditions was past.

Senator McMullen declared that Canada was in no hurry over a reciprocity treaty. One thing he could positively assure the convention of, and that was the Alaskan boundary dispute must first be settled.

A SETBACK FOR MARCONI

His Wires Near Glace Bay Have Been Coiled Up

Halifax, Dec. 11.—The Glace Bay Gazette says: "Something strange has happened at Table Head, that does not look encouraging to Marconi's schemes. The greater portion of the wires connecting the tower and leading to the operating room have been taken down, coiled up and stored away. One story is that a powerful current was put on for the transmission of a message, and the wires burned out. Another is that the arrangement of the wires was different from that at Poldhu, and the new plant has been found faulty, and a change is necessary. Marconi has not met with the success expected, but he is as confident as ever."

Five Roman Catholic Orders Permitted to Remain in Existence

London, Dec. 11.—The Times' Paris correspondent says: Five religious orders, which the Government recommends for authorization, include the Algerian, White Fathers, and St. John de Dieu Brothers. The Government recommendation states that the schools of the former diffuse the French language and civilization among Arab children. The St. John Brothers assist the State in caring for the sick and homeless and are necessary assistants in the relief of the poor.

SLEW THE MAD MULLAH

Report That He Was Assassinated While at Prayers

Aden, Arabia, Dec. 11—A rumor has reached here of the assassination of the Mad Mullah in Somaliland. The report was brought to the coast by a native runner from Garroro. The Mullah is said to have been killed by a spear thrust in the stomach, inflicted while he was praying.

Haji Mohammed Abdullah, the Mad Mullah, so-called, belonged to the Habr Suleiman Ogaden tribe of Somaliland. He was in the prime of life, and only recently became a dominant factor in the military and political situation of the protectorate of Somaliland, by forcing the neighboring tribes into allegiance.

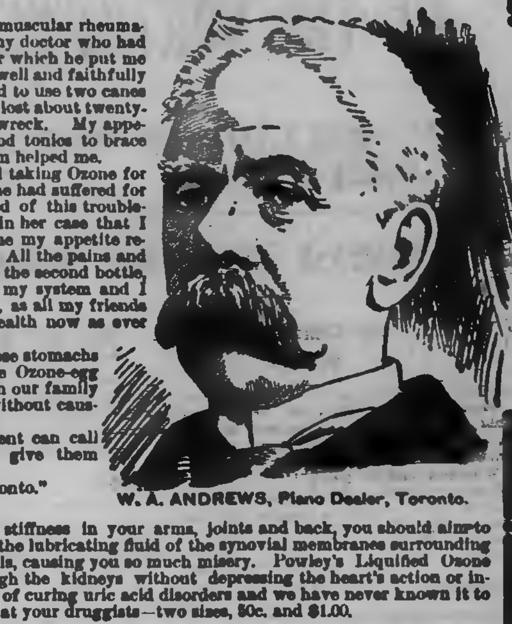
W. A. Andrews, a Prominent Piano Dealer of Toronto, Cured of Chronic Rheumatism by Nature's Blood Food—Powley's Liquified Ozone.

"Last August I was attacked with severe muscular rheumatism. So bad was this attack that I called in my doctor who had to administer injections to allay the pain, after which he put me through the sweating system. He attended me well and faithfully for five weeks. When I got up I was compelled to use two canes to get around the house. During all this time I lost about twenty-five pounds in weight; in fact I was a complete wreck. My appetite and sleep left me. I tried a number of good tonics to brace me up and give me an appetite, but none of them helped me.

"About this time my daughter commenced taking Ozone for a chronic sore throat and quinsy, from which she had suffered for years. In a short time she was completely cured of this troublesome disease. So effective was the preparation in her case that I commenced using it myself, and in two days' time my appetite returned and my sleep became as good as ever. All the pains and aches had vanished by the time I had started on the second bottle, and I threw away my canes. Ozone toned up my system and I became a new man. I gained rapidly in flesh, as all my friends can testify. I look well and enjoy as good health now as ever I did in my life.

"I advise weak and debilitated people, whose stomachs refuse oil emulsions and even milk, to use the Ozone-egg emulsion which we have used so effectively in our family and proved such a fine food and flesh builder without causing the least nauseous effect.

"Any person wishing to verify this statement can call at No. 12 Elm St., where I will be glad to give them my experience. (Signed)
"W. A. ANDREWS, 12 Elm St., Toronto."



W. A. ANDREWS, Piano Dealer, Toronto.

If you want to get rid of the soreness and stiffness in your arms, joints and back, you should aim to rid the system of the uric acid that is drying up the lubricating fluid of the synovial membranes surrounding the joints, and which is racking the nerve tendrils, causing you so much misery. Powley's Liquified Ozone will eliminate the uric acid from the body through the kidneys without depressing the heart's action or injuring the stomach. It is a new and better way of curing uric acid disorders and we have never known it to fail. You can obtain Powley's Liquified Ozone at your druggists—two sizes, 50c. and $1.00.

—A SURE WINNER—
The Electric Spark Gold Mining Company

INVESTMENT in new mining companies is the poor man's opportunity to acquire wealth; the great mines of this country were developed almost altogether by people of moderate means, and it is no unusual thing to find that some of the stock of such companies which have made pronounced success is divided among thousands of small subscribers. To-day the poor man has his chance of wealth, "as wild cat mining companies can not do business in these enlightened days." If he neglects to take advantage of it he will have himself to blame.

THE ELECTRIC SPARK GOLD MINING COMPANY will in less than one year from to-day pay your investment back in dividends, if you buy now. This is not guesswork, but based on facts and figures. This is a business proposition from which every possible risk is strictly eliminated; there are no chances connected with it; it is simply a question of whether a person has the money to spare to place in a good safe investment, which will unquestionably bring large annual returns. We present herewith in a small way the location of the mineral veins on our property. The vein at the bottom of the shaft is about 4 feet wide, the shaft is 140 feet deep, the vein matter is very rich, of which we will be pleased to send samples to anyone who will ask for them.

The ore from this mine contains GOLD, SILVER and COPPER, which aggregate values of from $25 to $85 per ton; $10 ore from this mine will pay a handsome profit to work. We are located ¼ of a mile from BLACK HAWK, GILPIN COUNTY, COLORADO, on the Colorado & Southern Railway, only 40 miles from Denver. This is one of the oldest and RICHEST MINING SPOTS in the country. One great historian has called this county the GOLDEN BOWL with a silver rim; the central part of the county abounds with hundreds of rich gold mines, while the outer edge is dotted with silver mines. The Electric Spark Company is located almost in the center of this famous golden bowl.

We have placed a small block of our stock on the market at 20 cents per share; certificates issued from 100 shares up.

STOCK MARKETS
Severe Market Pounding

New York, Dec. 12—Most drastic measures have been taken to shake out speculators; the greater powers are apparently parties to the plan. It is self-evident that every endeavor is being made to loosen up as much of the little long interest as is left in the market. Even a tipster is suing certain large operators for alleged breach of faith, though exactly why they should be responsible to him for their market transactions is not clearly discernable. The advice of Wall Street's veteran operator to "sit tight," seems apropos at the moment he declared his continued belief in the future and again asserts that neither he nor any of the members of the Southern Pacific pool have sold any of their stock. The weakness of the steel shares would indicate that the interests behind them also favored the range of lower prices. Banks are close in their scrutiny of collateral offering for loans. They always are when the market is down. One thing is certain, no matter if the market does go a bit lower it should see early the coming month much better prices than those ruling at present. It is a time when courage is as essential as margin when dealing in stocks. The courageous operator will buy stocks at the present level irrespective of seeming surface conditions, because nine chances out of ten are in favor of good profits being made in so doing. The courageous operator does not expect to purchase on exact bottom, but the nearer he comes to it naturally the more he is pleased. He does however buy stocks when they are down and cheap. At such times the market is usually more or less demoralized, as it has been since Wednesday afternoon. At such times stocks are selling at bargain prices. No man can state at exactly what prices the turn will come, but come it will; consequently stocks should be picked up today. There is nothing ahead to warrant recessions in trade activity. Money has been the two edged sword used to the manipulators to bring about the current range of prices in Wall St. as elsewhere. Bargains are appreciated and they are to be had at the moment.

ENGAGED.

Marriage is very largely an accident. In few cases do men or women set up a standard of manly or womanly excellence and choose by it. In most cases people become engaged as the result of propinquity rather than because of any deep rooted preference.

And so it often happens that the wife enters upon the obligations of maternity just as thoughtlessly as she entered on the marriage relation, because no one has warned her of the dangers she faces.

Thousands of women become invalids for lack of knowledge of themselves. It is to this large body of women that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription comes as a priceless boon, because it cures womanly ills.

"Favorite Prescription" establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong, sick women well.

"After my first child was born," writes Mrs. Jordan Stant, of Fawcettsgap, Frederick Co., Va., "my health was very poor for a long time, and last winter I was so bad with pain down in back I could hardly move without great suffering. My husband got me a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and a vial of his 'Pleasant Pellets,' which I used as directed. In four days I was greatly relieved, and now, after using the medicine three months, I seem to be entirely well. I can't see why it is that there are so many suffering women when there is such an easy way to be cured. I know your medicines are the best in the world."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets the favorite family laxative. One 'Pellet' a laxative, two 'Pellets' a cathartic dose.

EXCURSION TO BERLIN!

Farmers should be interested in the fact that an opportunity will be given them to thoroughly investigate the merits of the beet sugar industry as it is carried on at the large factory in Berlin. A special train has been secured for on or about December 30th, which will go and return the same day. The rate will not be higher than $2, return. The hour of starting will probably be about 6.30 a.m. and of returning about 10 p. m.

The School Holidays

The 22nd of December, the day the schools close, falls on Monday, and the Times has been asked if they would not close on the Friday night previous. We understand that this is the rule in such cases.

The Cabbies Acquitted

The hackmen, who were charged at the police court with furious driving, were let off with a warning from the Magistrate. He explained that the circumstances surrounding the alleged offense were of such a nature as to mitigate it, and he would accordingly exercise clemency. But it won't be safe to try it again.

A Sad Message

Yesterday a telegram was received in Peterborough addressed to Joseph Gibson, a young lad who works for Mr. James McIndoo, a farmer in North Monaghan, stating that his father had been killed by a train. The despatch was from the boy's mother, who resides at Pontypool.

Entertainment and Lecture

The entertainment and lecture given last night in St. Luke's Sunday school, under the auspices of the Young Men's Guild, was a great success. Dr. Hoyle, K.C., who delivered the address, is an eloquent and forcible speaker, and was listened to with great attention. The musical part of the program was also excellent.

THINK HARD

It Pays to Think About Food

The unthinking life some people lead often causes trouble and sickness, as illustrated in the experience of a lady who resides in Fond Du Lac, Wis.

"About four years ago I suffered dreadfully from indigestion, always having eaten what I liked, not thinking of the digestible qualities. This indigestion caused palpitation of the heart so badly I could not walk up a flight of stairs without sitting down once or twice to regain breath and strength.

I became alarmed and tried dieting, wore my clothes very loose, and many other remedies but found no relief.

Hearing of the virtues of Grape-Nuts and Postum Food Coffee, I commenced using them in place of my usual breakfast of coffee, cakes or hot biscuit, and in one week's time I was relieved of sour stomach and other ills attending indigestion. In a month's time my heart was performing its functions naturally and I could climb stairs and hills and walk long distances.

I gained ten pounds in this short time and my skin became clear and I completely regained my health and strength. I continue to use Grape-Nuts and Postum for I feel that I owe my good health entirely to their use. I like the delicious flavor of Grape-Nuts and by making Postum according to directions it cannot be distinguished from the highest grade of coffee." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

A Cab Upset

Ellis, of this city, has been appointed manager of the branch. For many years Mr. Ellis has been the capable accountant in the Kingston branch of the Standard Bank. The appointment comes as a recognition of good business qualities. Mr. Ellis has made himself popular in the city, and his many friends wish him success in the advanced position.

Heavy Shipments of Livestock

Lindsay Post: Large shipments of live stock were made by local stock buyers this week. Mr. P. B. McIlhargey shipped two carloads, one comprising sheep and the other cattle, to the Toronto markets to-day. Mr. W. J. Moore also consigned two loads of hogs and cattle to the same point to-day. Mr. Hill sent a load from Gelert, Mr. Parkin one from Haliburton, and Messrs. McDougall, Brandon & Austin two from Fenelon Falls. Mr. J. H. Brandon, of the above firm, says he paid $5.35 per hundred for live hogs at the Falls this week. Prices paid this week by Messrs McIlhargey and Moore are as follows: Hogs $5.70, butchers cattle $3 to $3.25, export cattle $4 to $4.25, milch cows $25 to $35, calves 3 to $6, spring lambs 3 to $3.25, and sheep $2.50 to $3.00.

Children's Day

Saturday will be children's day at Times Bookstore, and we invite the mothers as well as the children to come and see our display of dolls, games and toys. We are showing all new goods, and by buying here will save money. Come and see our display whether you buy or not. Times Bookstore, Market Block, Peterborough. (Saturday, the 13th instant, we will have on sale a large display of dolls. Mothers should buy early and have first choice Times Bookstore.)

Make Your Christmas Purchase Early

The signs are good for Christmas trade and the wise buyer is spreading his purchases over a long period in order to avoid the rush. With many, of course, this is not possible and there must necessarily be a rush at the last. But, there are many who can as well buy now as well as later, and these will get the pick, and help the others, less fortunate, by taking time by the forelock. As was said in these columns last year consideration for the comfort of others, the hard-worked salespeople and delivery employees, will suggest the need for early morning shopping by all who have the opportunity. The rush in the stores can be made less annoying and many a poor, tired employee saved an extra step if due heed be taken of the old proverb, "Bear and forbear." Late purchasers, and especially the workers in stores who are rushed to death, should make all who can buy early.

LOCAL LEGAL

Judgment Reserved in the Appeal Case Wason vs. Douglas

In the Division Court at Osgoode Hall yesterday was heard the case Wason vs. Douglas. E. B. Edwards, K.C., for defendant, appealed from judgment of Lount, J., at trial dismissing the action, which was brought for damages for trespass on an island between two branches of a stream, to which island plaintiff claimed title, and for a declaration as to the boundary of his land. The defendant also claimed title to the land on a dispute being as to the land intended to be conveyed by the respective deeds. The trial judge entered judgment for plaintiff, and made the declaration asked. The appeal was taken on the grounds that the question of the boundary had been determined by a former judgment of a Divisional Court in granting a new trial or by a survey made by consent of both parties, and that the findings were not supported by the evidence. G. H. Watson, K.C., and G. Edmison, for plaintiff, opposed appeal. Judgment reserved.

Good Whisky or Bad Whiskey

Toronto Star:— Among the other temperance reforms that are urgently needed is an inspection of the whiskies sold in barrooms in city and country. Strong drink can be sufficiently injurious without the adulteration that must be practised in some licensed places, where vile liquor is sold day in and day out, apparently with no fear of detection and punishment.

One Common Cause of Headache

Perhaps the most general cause of headache and pain across the eyes is nasal catarrh. The simplest cure is to inhale the medicated air of Catarrhozone which traverses every air cell and nose. It kills myriads of germs at every breath, clears away mucous discharges, preserves and heals the membrane and unfailing in diseases of the Throat and Lungs, Deafness, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Catarrh. Threatened With Bright's Disease--Pe-ru-na Restored Him to Health.

O. Fred Lindstrom, Past Grand Master Independent Order of Odd Fellows, Past Chancellor Twin City Lodge, No. 63, Knights of Pythias, also Past Chief Patriarch, Ridgely Encampment, No. 2, writes from 1923 University Ave, St. Paul, Minn.

"Peruna has my hearty endorsement. There is no medicine I know of which can compare with it. I contracted a severe cold several years ago, which from neglect developed into urinary trouble, and threatened Bright's disease. As one of my friends was cured of Bright's disease through the use of Peruna I thought I would try it also, and used it faithfully for three and one-half months, when my health was perfect once more. I have never had any trouble since, and therefore think it is but just to give it unlimited praise."—O. Fred Lindstrom.

Catarrhal inflammation of the mucous lining of the kidneys, also called "Bright's disease," may be either acute or chronic. The acute form produces symptoms of such prominence that the serious nature of the disease is at once suspected, but the chronic variety may come on so gradually and insidiously that its presence is not suspected until after it has fastened itself thoroughly upon its victim.

At the appearance of the first symptom Peruna should be taken. This remedy strikes at once at the very root of the disease.

PRESIDENT CASTRO WILL ABANDON LA GUAIRA.

War Vessels take up Positiong Commanding the Town and Fortress

Which will be Evacuated—Castro Defies Germany—Refuses to Yield on Any Point

Berlin, Dec. 13—President Castro's reply to the German ultimatum is a refusal to yield on any point.

La Guaira, Venezuela, Dec. 13—The British steamer Charybdis, flying Commodore Montgomery's flag, the German cruiser Vineta and the German training ship Stosch, arrived here this morning and have taken positions commanding the town and fortresses. Several merchantmen, the Dutch steamer Prins Willem IV., a British steamer of the Harrison line, and a royal mail steamer arrived off the port today, but were prevented from entering the harbor by the captain of the British cruiser Indefatigable, who said he would not be responsible for what might happen if the vessels were allowed to enter. The steamers applied for lighters to enable them to discharge their cargoes, but the request was refused by the customs house authorities, who declared that the vessels might enter the port as usual, there being no reason for there remaining outside. All ammunition is being removed from the fortress and barracks here and taken to Caracas, and it is apparently the intention of the government to abandon the town.

To Blockade Venezuelan Coast.

New York, Dec. 13—A despatch from Port of Spain, Trinidad, says: "Advices have been received showing that Great Britain and Germany will now resort to the second and more drastic course to force Venezuela to pay her debts. The second step will be the blockading of Venezuelan coast, which may be inaugurated today. The British warships will establish the blockade from Orinico River to La Guaira, while German vessels will attend to the coast from La Guaira to the Colombian line. It is not likely that Great Britain and Germany will land forces in Venezuela before reinforcements arrive. At present, the greatest number of men that the allied ships could spare to send is three thousand. It is significant that three thousand additional troops arrived at St. Lucia from England on Wednesday. The British and Germans are convinced that President Castro must be brought to terms as quickly as possible, and that a blockading measure is now necessary.

Warships in Line of Battle.

New York, Dec. 13—A despatch from La Guaira says: "The situation here has assumed a more serious phase and even hostilities appear imminent. The British cruiser Charybdis, flying the flag of Commodore Montgomery, the German cruiser Vineta, and German training ship Stosch, having just arrived in port, and have taken positions in line of battle. There has been great military activity in this port and all preparations indicate a movement to resist the attack.

Refuses to Yield.

Berlin, Dec. 13—The Foreign Office has not yet received the text of President Castro's reply, but only a bulletin from the German Charge d'Affaires, Herr Von Pilgrim-Baltazzi, dated Dec. 10th, announcing that the President's answer had been placed in his hands that day, and that he refused to yield to the German demands on all points. This telegram, with the text of the reply, was filed at Port of Spain, Island of Trinidad. With this exception the Foreign Office has received no news since yesterday to indicate that the situation has grown worse.

A landing force is not considered probable under any contingency. The orders to blockade the coast stand, and that is all the naval commanders are authorized for the present to do. Any proposition that Minister Rowen might make in behalf of President Castro would be received in a good spirit, and carefully considered, out of regard for the channel of its transmission, but no proposition to arbitrate has yet reached Berlin. Neither is the Foreign Office aware that the United States had made so far any suggestion to arbitrate. Herr Von Pilgrim-Baltazzi is still on board of a British warship in the Harbor of La Guaira.

BRITISH RETALIATON AGAINST THE WORLD

Significant Action in Regard to Ocean Steamship Subsidies

London, December 14.—There has just been issued the report of the Select Committee on Foreign Steamship Subsidies, which has a significant bearing as regards Anglo-Saxon relations.

This committee was appointed by the Government and has as its mission to find the effect of foreign subsidies on British trade.

The committee's chairman was Mr. Evelyn Cecil, M.P., and its verdict can hardly fail to influence legislation in the British Parliament. The report demands that in future British subsidies should be granted to lines ensuring rapid communication with the Empire, fast carriers of food supplies in time of war and vessels fulfilling the admiralty requirements. This is all in favor of the fullest possible assistance to the Canadian fast service.

RECOMMENDS RETALIATION.

A further recommendation of the highest significance is that the British Empire retaliate upon the United States and other foreigners who exclude British, Canadian, and all foreign ships from their coasting trade by making the Empire an ocean unit and treating all shipping between Empire ports as engaged in the coasting trade and to protect same from unfair foreign intrusion by enacting a law that foreign ships be admitted into inter-imperial trade only when equal privileges or compensating advantages are granted by the foreigners to inter-British shipping.

AMERICAN INFLUX INTO DOMINION

London Morning Post Makes Some Comments Thereupon

RELIES UPON FRENCH CANADA

Canadians in United States Would Return to Defend Their Fatherland

London, December 13—The Morning Post publishes an editorial today on the fears of the Americanization of Canada and says: "If American born settlers in Canada are considering the advance guard of an invading army, what of the Canadian born citizens of the United States? There are not as yet 300,000 of the former, and of the latter there are more than a million, of whom the majority are French-Canadians.

"The presence of the French population in Canada, who would make any sacrifice to avoid the fate of the French colonists of Louisiana is an assurance that the Dominion of Canada will never willingly change independence for the dubious benefits of American citizenship, even if the loss of sea power led to the shattering of the Empire.

"Should the United States attempt a war of conquest, we believe, as Sir Wilfrid Laurier believes, that the world would see an exodus from the United States of loyalists, French-speaking heroes, loyal to the traditions of British freedom."

Nervous and Sleepless

There is just one cure and that is plenty of food for the blood and nerves, which is best supplied in Ferrozone, than which no blood builder, nerve tonic, or strength producer is better. Ferrozone promotes healthy digestion, which results in improved nutrition. The blood grows rich and red, furnishes stability to the entire system, and the store of nerve force and energy increases daily. THEY EAT NO BREAKFAST NOW

The People of Manchester City Have a New Idea

NEW PLAN TO PROLONG LIFE

Physical Health Culture Society Argues that Food is not Needed After Sleep—Several Members Testify to Success of the Experiment.

London, Dec. 13.—Manchester has been the cradle for many notable movements in England. The term "Manchester School" has in recent years carried a significance outside the domain of politics, where it still stands for free-tradeism, anti-expansionism, and individualism.

The Manchester people are now pioneers in a movement which has survived the first ordeals of derision and incredulity. The cry in Manchester today is "No breakfast," as the cry a generation ago was "Cheap bread."

The new crusade is being waged under the banner of the Manchester Physical Health Culture Society, of which many prominent citizens are members. The Lord Mayor presided at a large meeting of the society this week, where the speakers recounted their personal experience in going without their breakfast. The physiological basis of the plan is thus expounded by a medical believer in it:

"Properly digested food only restores waste muscular tissue, supplies heat and force and feeds the brain and nervous system. The brain and nervous system control and give power and action to all the muscles of the body, including the stomach. This power of the brain is derived from rest and sleep alone, and not from food. The digestion of food is a tax upon the brain energy and it is necessary that the tax should occasionally stop. During the sleep comparatively little waste occurs. Food is not so much needed after a long sleep as after prolonged work. All curative power is brain energy."

After this statement the laymen of Manchester defended the doctor's statement of their faith. One robust young man said that he began last June on the no-breakfast plan. He had severe headaches on the second and third days and intermittent headache during the first week. The second week he became convinced that it was an entirely good think, and he was of that opinion now. He took a cup of cocoa at morning and at night. They must not, he said, belittle the morning pang of hunger. It is the very real thing at first, but it disappears. He took his first meal at 12.15 p.m., and the second at 6.15 p.m. He felt that he had derived great benefit from the plan.

Another young athlete who rises at 6 in the morning said he took his first meal at noon and the second in the evening. He said the great thing was to avoid the chaff of companions by not talking about the matter. He advised experimenters not to tell their friends when they began, as the latter would be sure to say that they were looking pale and ill. He had not been sick since he began the experiment, but when he told his friends about it months afterward they at once began to discover unfavorable signs in his appearance. A hostile critic declared that the fundamental physiological error or the breakfastless idea, was in saying that the brain did not supply energy to the muscles. The latter derived their power from digested food and blood tissues. What the brain did was to liberate muscular energy as required.

Whether or not the new school has any sound physiological basis it is certainly making converts in Manchester. The speakers did not touch on the questions of local conditions, though it is probable that a man's feeling in the morning in the humid, heavy air of Manchester is not the same as in the exhilarating atmosphere of New York. Even the change from London to New York has been known to have the result of giving a man a hearty appetite for his breakfast every morning.

MORE BIG SCHEMES FOR EMIGRATION

Syndicates of British Capitalists Have Eyes on New Ontario

MORE SETTLERS FOR ALBERIA

Passages Have Been Arranged for More Than a Thousand Early in Spring

London, December 14—The Canadian Government's arrangements here for next season's emigration are making rapid strides.

It is authoritatively announced today that an English syndicate of capitalists is being formed to secure from the province of Ontario a similar concession to that granted by the Provincial Government to a United States syndicate, whereby two million acres of land was sold at one dollar per acre, with a view to taking in to New Ontario 50,000 United States settlers within three years.

It is stated that the British syndicate commands a large sum of money.

The Canadian Government has approved of a scheme promoted by Rev. Mr. Barr for the colonization of British agriculturalists in Alberta. The scheme, it is expected, will lead a special party of two thousand going to Alberta from England. Passages have already been arranged from Liverpool for more than one thousand early in the spring.

Site for Royal Mint

Ottawa, December 14—The selection for the site of the Ottawa branch of the Royal Mint has been referred to a committee of the Privy Council, but it is not likely that anything will be done in the matter until after the Christmas holidays. The Militia Department objects to site once contemplated—Nepean Point—for the reason that the land is required for military purposes.

SOO LANDMARK DISTURBED

House Built By Fur Traders Over 100 Years Ago Burned Down

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Dec. 14— The residence of ex-Indian Agent William Van Abbott, with entire contents, was burned this morning about four o'clock. This removes one of the old landmarks and the oldest frame building in town, it having been built in part upwards of one hundred years ago by parties engaged in fur traffic and opponents to the Hudson's Bay company, who also had a post here.

The inmates of the burned building barely escaped with their lives. The policeman, who forced the door, found Mr. Van Abbott in his bed unconscious, but managed to bring him outside.

Robert Says He Is Willing to Fight Any Man in World

Portland, Ore, December 10— Robert Fitzsimmons and James J. Jeffries gave a sparring exhibition here last night, and before going on the stage Fitzsimmons declared his intention of entering the ring again. He said:

"I am willing to fight any man in the world, bar nobody. I did intend to quit the ring after my fight with Jeff, but I am as good a man today as ever I was, and better than any other fighter that I know of, except the present champion."

POISON FOUND

Mrs. Maude Kiehl Suspected of Killing Brother-in-Law to Face New Charge

Cortland, N. Y., Dec 14. – Maude Kiehl, the 18-year-old widow, who was arrested a few weeks ago on suspicion of having caused the death of her brother-in-law Adam Kiehl, and released after examination, may soon be forced to face a new charge.

Strychnine was found in Adam Kiehl's stomach in quantities. He died suddenly. His sister, Francis Kiehl, declared at the time of his death that his young sister-in-law loved him and was intensely jealous, as he was soon to marry.

William Kiehl, the husband of the girl who was accused of Adam's death also died suddenly last February.

Since the girl was released the coroner has been probing into the death of her husband. He made public today the report of E. M. Chamott, a chemist, of Cornell, who states that he has found arsenic in large quantities in the body of William Kiehl, which was recently exhumed. Coroner Santee announces that he will hold an inquest, beginning Dec. 15.

Prior to her release on the former charge, Mrs. Kiehl, who was confined in the county jail here, was the object of much sympathy. Her mother and her golden-haired baby boy were with her. She is slight and olive-skinned with dark, luminous eyes, and is beautiful.

Coroner Santee says that the young wife had trouble with her husband, and had left him last January, returning to him a few days prior to his death.

NEW YORK PRESS OPINION

Consider Venezuelan Situation Has Taken Serious Turn

New York, December 13— American newspapers consider the situation in Venezuela much more serious since the destruction of the Venezuelan fleet.

The New York Times says: "It can hardly be denied that England and Germany went beyond their proper limits when they actually seized and destroyed armed vessels belonging to the Government of Venezuela. That act is fairly comparable to acts of wanton devastation in warfare, which for a long time have been discountenanced by civilized nations. Great Britain and Germany are not justified in destroying any Venezuelan property whatever, save such as may be necessary to destroy in prosecution of their primary purpose. In sinking the Venezuelan ships of war they have established a just counter claim, putting Venezuela in a position to demand that the value of the ships be deducted from the debts due."

The New York World says: "Venezuela's strength lies in her weakness. As for landing forces to do things inland, the Boers have shown how big and costly a fight a few fighting people can draw a big but far-off nation into."

The New York Sun says: "Germany and Great Britain are merely following the example set by the United States for the treatment of obdurate South American delinquent and recalcitrant republics. The Monroe doctrine is not concerned. When it is attacked, there will be time to talk of sympathy for the invaded sister republic and of our duty and responsibility as the principal power of the western hemisphere."

The New York Tribune thinks the spirit of conciliation is lacking all round. It hopes Great Britain and Germany will act with moderation, which is so worthy a tribute of great power.

Hinted at Grave Crime

New York December 13—Mrs. Sarah Waters, a wealthy woman, aged about 80 years died yesterday. The district attorney at once ordered an investigation and embalming of the body was stopped. Mrs. Water's estate, worth $100,000 or more, has been in litigation. She had deeded away all her property and in the suit which followed, a commission was appointed to examine her mental condition. Alexander S. Bacon, attorney in the proceedings, said yesterday in court that he doubted if Mrs. Waters would live to have her insanity tested and he hinted at a grave crime in connection with her illness.

GERMANY'S SCHEME TO CONTROL TURKEY

It Is Alleged That a Gigantic Trust Is Now Being Formed

CONTROL OF GREAT RAILWAYS

Under It Nearly all the Turkish Railways Will It is Asserted Be Operated—Control of Quays Secured

Vienna, Dec. 14—If a communication sent from Constantinople to the Deutsche Zeitung is true, Germany holds the commercial interests of the Turkish Empire in the hollow of her hand as completely as though she had spent millions in conquering the country by the sword.

This remarkable letter, which to day is the chief topic of conversation in Continental diplomatic circles, can hardly have escaped the summarization in your cable despatches, although an appreciation of its true import demands an examination of its details.

According to the Zeitung correspondent, Herr Gwinner, Director of the Deutsche Bank of Berlin has been feted, decorated by the Sultan, and has, in a series of conferences at the Yildiz Kiosk, managed to discover a source of revenue as the required guarantee for the Bagdad Railway negotiating at the same time an agreement for the amalgamation of nearly all existing Turkish railroads, together with acquisition of all the quays; in short, it is the formation of a big trust, under German control.

The Anatolian road was already under the control of the Deutsche Bank, while the Oriental Railways, while actually in the hands of the bank, have been under the nominal control of an Austrian corporation. Of the 100,000 shares which form the capital of the Oriental Railways, 88,000 are owned by the Oriental Railways Bank, at Zurich, and in this bank the Deutsche Bank in Berlin is the principal shareholder. The Zurich Bank, however, also owns 39,000 shares—the majority— in the Salonica-Monastir Railway, and it is proposed, indeed, to merge this line together with the two systems already mentioned, in the trust. Finally, the control of the line from Constantinople Junction to Salonica is also dependent on the Oriental Railway Company, and, as the latter is dependent on the bank in Zurich, which, again, is controlled by the Deutsche Bank, nothing seems to stand in the way of the Deutsche Bank—or, at least, the syndicate to which it belongs— getting hold of every existing railway line in Turkey, including the Bagdad Railway, a section of which it is contemplated to begin at once. The surplus earnings on a section of the Anatolian Railway would set free the revenue which now serves as a guarantee for it, so that this revenue could serve as a guarantee for the first section of the Bagdad line, the expected surplus from other sections of the Anatolian line serving as a guarantee for a further extension of the Bagdad line.

As to the quays, that of Haidar Pasha is already the property of the Anatolian Railways Company, which built the artificial harbor which was opened on Tuesday. To this same railway company—that is, practically, to the German syndicate— the Sultan, according to the correspondent of the Deutsche Zeitung, means to lease the quays of Constantinople, now owned by a French company. The 41,000,000f. necessary for the purchase would naturally be placed at His Majesty's disposal by the Deutsche Bank, and nobody else. The correspondent adds.—

"Once in possession of both quays the German trust would be able so to fix quay dues and other imposts, and to make regulations, as to exclude competition from any side. In possession of all the railways in existence, and, most probably, with the Sultan's promise to grant the necessary concessions for new junction lines, the German trust would hold the trade of Turkey in the hollow of its hands; and Germany would have conquered Turkey, for all commercial purposes, without greater effort than the platonic friendship shown by the Kaiser for the Sultan."

HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE

WILL OPEN BEFORE HON. JUSTICE BRITTON AT NOON TO-DAY

Three Cases Carew, vs. G. T. R., Armstrong vs. Armstrong and Fairbairn vs. Quinn

The non-jury sittings of the High Court will open today before Hon. Mr. Justice Britton, of Kingston. There are three cases.—Carew vs. G.T.R.; Armstrong vs. Armstrong; and Fairbairn vs. Quinn. Synopsis of statements of claim are given as follows:—

CAREW V. G. T. R.

The plaintiff, S. B. Carew, is a farmer residing in the Township of Emily, and is the owner of the south half of lot 15 in the 3rd concession of that township, containing 100 acres and used as a farm. The Grand Trunk railway line crosses the land, separating one part from another, and plaintiff has frequently made requests, as entitled, that proper crossings be constructed for his convenience, but this has not been done, and plaintiff further claims that the defendants have trespassed and infringed upon his rights, property, privileges and advantages and have been guilty of wrongful acts in the construction and operation of their railways through his land. He claims that the defendants should be enjoined by the order of the Honourable Court from continuing in possession of the lands across the plaintiff's farm and from running their engines and cars and from maintaining fences upon and across the plaintiff's property and from maintaining a severance of parts of lands. He also claims that an order be made by the court that the defendants do construct a proper crossing for the plaintiff over the railway line and that they comply with the provisions of the statute. He claims $500 damages and that defendants be enjoined from further trespass and such other relief as the court deems necessary.

The defendants state that on March 2nd 1855 John R. Carew, then owner of the lands mentioned, in consideration of $613.50 conveyed by deed a portion thereof to the Midland Railway and the defendants have continuously been and now are the lawful owners thereof. They long ago offered without prejudice, a right of way to plaintiff but he refused. Defendants say they are not guilty as in plaintiff's statement of claim.

Robert Ruddy, of Millbrook, solicitor for plaintiff; John Bell, Belleville, solicitor for defendant.

ARMSTRONG V. ARMSTRONG.

The defendant is a farmer residing in Manvers and the plaintiff is his wife. Plaintiff claims a declaration that she is entitled to alimony from husband, (and also to interim alimony) sufficient under the circumstances and that the defendant may be ordered to pay the same and that for these purposes all necessary directions be given. Abuse and ill-treatment on the part of defendant and two grown-up sons William and Norman, by a former wife is alleged. Defendant denies these allegations and says plaintiff had no justification for leaving him, and that he is ready and willing to receive her back again as his wife.

Robert Ruddy, of Millbrook, plaintiff's solicitor; Dennistoun, Peck & Stevenson, defendant's solicitors.

FAIRBAIRN V. QUINN.

The plaintiff, John Fairbairn, is a farmer of Smith, as is also the defendant, Archibald Quinn. Plaintiff claims that in May, 1901, and various times since, defendant broke and entered and trespassed on his land, throwing down and damaging fences, and drove over the land with his horses and committed damages and injuries to the soil, notwithstanding that he had been notified not to so enter and trespass. Plaintiff claims damages and an injunction restraining the defendant, his servants, and agents from entering and trespassing on the said land and other such relief as the case requires.

Defendant claims he is entitled, by prescription, to a right of way, on, over and across the plaintiff's land mentioned, but in so enjoying his prescriptive right denies that he did injury to the plaintiff's lands. Defendant claims that for a period of 40 years before the right of way was obstructed by plaintiff, it had been used without interruption. Defendant claims that plaintiff has unlawfully interfered with the enjoyment by defendant of said right of way.

Plaintiff joins issue with defendant, and in reply states that defendant has always obtained leave and license from him to use said right of way, and to lay down and open bars or gates across said right of way.

Edmison & Dixon, plaintiff's solicitors; R. B. Wood, defendant's solicitor.

A REFUGE FOR CASTRO GERMANY IS DISLIKED

British and Germans in La Guaira--Had Barricaded Themselves in British Company's Office

British Cruiser Alert Captured the Venezuelan Gunboat Zumbador on Saturday Morning

The Daily Telegraph prints a Port of Spain despatch, dated Friday, stating that the British cruiser Alert captured the Venezuelan gunboat Zumbador at ten o'clock on Friday morning at La Guaira. The Zumbador arrived at Port of Spain on Friday afternoon in charge of a prize crew, who report that all the Venezuelans aboard were put ashore except two Government soldiers, who were wounded in a fight which was still progressing, at La Guaira between the Government forces and revolutionists.

The Daily Mail has a despatch from Willemstad, Curacao, dated Dec. 11, stating that foreign residents of Puerto Cabello are taking refuge on board the German cruiser Vineta and the British cruiser Ariadne, and that the vessels are threatening to bombard the port.

Germany Disliked

Evidences of dislike of Germany are apparent, both in print and conversation. The destruction of three Venezuelan vessels by Capt. Scheder's orders is sharply condemned as unnecessary, and impolitic, and the hope is expressed that Admiral Douglas will not be drawn by his colleague into an entanglement of a serious nature, but will be content with the maintenance of a pacific blockade.

The utility of that method of coercing a feeble State is questioned by some of the ablest writers of the press, and the futile results of the blockade of Crete in 1897 are cited as an illustration that nothing is gained by a hollow expedient for the avoidance of appearance of warfare.

London, Dec. 14—Up to 2 o'clock this afternoon, according to official statements, nothing had been received at the Foreign Office here anent the Venezuelan Government asking Minister Rowen to act as arbitrator. Something, it was added, possibly might arrive later in the day, although no official intimation was received that this is likely.

The United States Embassy also was without instructions or information regarding any Venezuelan matters.

British People Want Arbitration.

London, Dec. 13—Secretary Hay, of the United States has cabled the British and German Governments notifying them of President Castro's offer of arbitration through U. S. Minister Rowen at Caracas. Mr. Rowen has been authorized from Washington to use his own discretion in securing arbitration. But he was told that in the arbitration, if one should follow, that he would represent not the Government of the United States, but that of Venezuela, at its request.

Arbitration the Shortest Way.

In London there is a great relief over the announcement that President Castro had asked the United States Government to take steps to submit the questions at issue between his country and Britain and Germany to arbitration. Englishmen are in no mood for a new campaign in a mountainous country and United States intervention is considered the shortest out of a troublesome situation.

The press this morning are generally of the opinion that Britain has nothing to gain and everything to lose by prosecuting her claims against Venezuela in German company. They are by no means agreed on the question of arbitration, however. Many journals contend that war has already begun, since the seizure and destruction of ships were hostile acts, and that a blockade cannot be regarded as a pacific contrivance.

A Refuge for Castro.

It is asserted in official quarters in Berlin that neither the British nor the German Government proposes in the present circumstances to despatch an expeditionary force into the interior of Venezuela. If President Castro takes refuge in the hills he will not be followed, and his army will not be molested, unless it advances to the coast.

The German Government believes that the only feasible method of punishing Castro and his coadjutors is to deprive them of their monetary supplies. This, it is considered can be effected by the seizure of the Customs houses. Without money they will, it is anticipated, be incapable of sustaining themselves at the head of Venezuelan affairs.

ANOTHER NEW RAILWAY

Proposed Railway From Sudbury Through Peterborough to Ottawa

Messrs. Johnston and Falconbridge, of Toronto give notice of an application to be made by the Canada Central Railway Company for authority to construct a number of lines. One of these is of especial interest to Peterborough. It will run from Sudbury to Scotia Junction, thence southerly, via Balsam or Sturgeon Lakes, in the Townships of Bexley, Verulam or Fenelon, to the capital of Ontario. A continuation of the company's main line from Tete Jaune Cache, by way of the Thompson and Fraser River valleys, to Vancouver is also proposed, as well as a branch from the company's main line in Keewatin district to Fort Churchill on Hudson Bay; a line from some point on the Thompson River or its tributaries to Waddington Harbor, or Bute Inlet, and a line from near the site of Fort Assiniboia to some point on the Peace River and westerly to Portland Canal on the Pacific.

WEATHER NOTES

Monday —Fair, not much change in temperature; snowfalls in some places.

TURKEYS ARE VERY SCARCE

The Prospects For Cheap Christmas Fowl are Not Encouraging

The offerings of dressed poultry on the Peterborough market continues scarce and prices are soaring high.

The probabilities are that the receipts of dressed turkeys will not be sufficient to supply the demand during the holidays. Dealers attribute the scarcity to the fact that many of the young birds died during the month of June as a result of the cold wet spring.

The quality of the birds marketed is not up to the mark, but all selected lots meet a ready demand at from 11c to 12c per pound.

The increased demand from South Africa has had considerable to do with advancing the prices in Canada this fall. Last week a large exporting firm in Montreal shipped 10,000 pounds to Cape Town, realizing 14c per pound on board ship. From eight to ten carloads were recently sent to British Columbia where an urgent demand is ruling, and an Ottawa firm are preparing to send several tons west next week.

Geese and ducks are coming forward in large quantities. Chickens are not as plentiful as they were last year, although supplies are quite ample to meet all requirements, but higher figures are ruling in sympathy with the increased price for turkeys. Dealers report very little stock in cold storage and the general concensus of opinion is that high prices will continue for some time.

TIRED DR. LORENZ OUT

One Operation in Philadelphia Occupied Forty Minutes—His Endurance Taxed

Philadelphia, Dec. 14—Dr. Adolf Lorenz treated four cases of congenital hip dislocation in the Jefferson Medical College Hospital this afternoon. The last case was an unusual operation, which taxed the skill and endurance of Dr. Lorenz to the limit, and which, when ended, brought forth applause from the physicians and students of Jefferson College's senior class.

It had been the intention of Dr. Lorenz to perform five operations, but the manipulation of the tiny leg and hip of his last subject overtaxed his endurance and he had to close the clinic. The remaining patient will be operated on today. The four operations were pronounced successful. The subjects operated on were a two-year-old girl, suffering from dislocation of both hips, a three year-old boy and a nine and a six-year-old girl all suffering from the dislocation of one hip each.

The last case occupied forty minutes. The girl's leg looked as though the slightest wrench would pull it from her body. Unable to stretch it by ordinary pulling, Dr. Lorenz looped a soft rope of silk around the ankle and while he kneaded and manipulated the hip and thigh, Drs. Muller and Ashley pulled with all their might. For ten minutes the hauling and kneading were kept up, but so delicately were the hip and thigh manipulated that not a ligament cracked.

Finally Dr. Lorenz succeeded in forcing the femur into the socket and with a sigh of relief announced that the operation was a success. He lifted a shaking hand and announced that the clinic was over.

LIFE WITH ANARCHISTS

The North American of Philadelphia, gives an interesting sketch of the woman, Mrs. Dexheimer, who was an anarchist and attended meetings at which lots were drawn for the killing of President Roosevelt. She declared that she was tricked into joining the society by Emma Goldman, and was not long a member until she rued her choice.

The anarchists are known by numbers, not by names, and they are called together by communications written in cipher. Three times the murderous gang assembled in a little room over a saloon in Market street, Philadelphia, and proceeded to ballot, each one present drawing from the box or receptacle in which the papers containing the names, addresses and numbers of the members were, until some one produced the order, "You must commit the deed."

The first time the ballot alloted the crime to one, Meloy, of Paris. He arrived in America later, but was persuaded to return home, and was reported to have been killed by a runover in the street. It was not an accident. An anarchist must either kill his victim or die. The second time the order to kill was given to one Mullin, but it was ineffectual. The man with the number drawn turned out to be dead. The third time a Mrs. Schroeder, of Philadelphia was selected for the awful deed. Her courage failed her. She took acid.

Then Mrs. Dexheimer sickened on the whole business and left the organization. She presented a profound silence for a time, but at a mother's meeting she was moved to recite some of her experiences. Her mind became easier, but at once her life was endangered. She has been practically in hiding ever since, and is now in New York, guarded night and day by detectives, in constant fear of attack, for her former associates have sworn to stab her in the back. Here is a curious story. The detectives think that her mind is somewhat unbalanced, but she says she can give proof for all she avers and could tell a great deal that is not expedient for her to reveal.

The surprising feature of her recital is the secrecy and ramifications of the anarchists, the ambition that impels them on, that some day all the workmen in the world will rise in rebellion and wreck their vengeance upon all the forces that oppose them in the form of organized capital.

THE STUDY OF MEDICINE

Our esteemed contemporary the Hamilton Times, puts it this way:—The Ontario Medical Council has decided to raise the standard of medical matriculation, or in other words, make it more difficult for a young man to begin the study of medicine. Isn't that absurd? What is wanted is not more obstacles in the way of beginning the study of medicine, but more study of it. We have enough half-baked doctors with half an alphabet to their names, who have read Caesar and Thucydides, and who in a pinch could read a chapter of a French romance, with the aid of the dictionary and grammar, but who mistake smallpox for chicken-pox or the itch, and who mix typhoid and appendicitis. It is time the Government sat down hard on that Medical Council, remove the obstacles to studying medicine and require a thorough training in it before licensing. That's the crying need.

A DANGEROUS FAD

It is said in Washington that the death of ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed was induced either directly or indirectly by a rigorous system of dieting, which he had been practicing up to the very day of his dissolution.

Within a few months preceding his demise the former Speaker was engaged in an effort to reduce his weight, and during the period of his self-denials succeeded in decreasing his advoirdupois forty-five pounds. He did this by leaving the table hungry at every meal, having eaten much less food than his system demanded or craved for. Recently he consulted a dietist, who advised him to eat less than he was accustomed to, and knock off about twenty pounds. This the former Speaker did by the method mentioned. Then he kept it up and reduced his weight twenty-five pounds more. At the time of his death he was in his sixty-fourth year, and according to one of the best physicians of Washington, dieting is a very dangerous practice for a man of his age. The physician said it was quite probable that Mr. Reed's last illness could be attributed to the fact that his system had been impaired by the lack of sufficient nourishment.

ALD. SHORTLY IN 3rd PLACE

For Mayor—R. F. McWilliams a Good Third For Alderman

Mr. Harry Winch Makes a Good Start in the Aldermen's List—Mr W. J. Ferguson also Named For Alderman—No Labor Candidate to be Brought Out

Last week's voting bring Ald. Shortly's name up into third place for Mayor, with Ald. Roger still in the lead and Ald. Best a good second. No new names are added for the Chief Magistrate's office.

Ald. Best still leads the poll for Alderman for 1903, with Ald. Morrison next on the list and Mr. R. F. McWilliams third. The labor party have decided not to bring out a candidate for the coming election.

Mr. John Howden asks The Times to withdraw his name from the list of candidates for Alderman. He would not, he says, accept the nomination under any circumstances, so it is useless to keep his name before the public. He wishes, however, to thank his friends, who deeming him worthy of the position, have marked their coupons in his favor.

The CANADIAN STEEL AND COAL COMPANY was organized to mine and manufacture iron and coal, coke and steel in Canada at Atlantic tidewater.

The raw materials for these manufactures are:—

1.—COAL. 2.—IRON. 3.—LIMESTONE.

All these materials we have at hand.

1.—COAL.

The Company controls 3,000 acres of excellent coal areas in the Province of Nova Scotia, and efforts are being made to increase this to 10,000 acres by the purchase of some very valuable additional coal fields.

The coal has been thoroughly tested and found to be suitable in every way for the manufacture of iron and steel, and the supply is practically inexhaustible. The following analysis was made by the Canadian Geological Survey:—

ANALYSIS.

Moisture	4.05
Vol. Comb. Matter	30.72
Fixed Carbon	60.
Ash	5.23
	100.00

COAL VEINS.

The several layers or seams of coal available aggregate 27 to 30 feet in thickness.

TITLES.

These areas are held under Crown Lease for a period of 80 years. Royalty 10 cents per ton of coal sold.

2.—IRON.

The Company has acquired by purchase immense iron deposits on the North Shore of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, about 1350 miles from Sydney. The deposits are estimated to contain 20,000,000 tons above sea level, with probably as much more below that line. The iron can be handled for $1.00 per ton or less. Quantities of this ore have been shipped to Great Britain and the United States, where it has given great satisfaction, and we can sell large quantities f. o. b. at the properties, netting us a profit of $2.00 per ton. This ore makes the finest steel.

3.—FLUX.

We are now negotiating for valuable deposits of dolomite and limestone of the most satisfactory quality, situated on the tide-water, within 100 miles of the works

MARKETS.

For six months in each year the Canadian markets can be reached by water at low freight rates, and at all times by rail. As Cape Breton is distant from Liverpool only about 2,300 miles; is nearer to Pernambuco, Brazil, than any point in the United States, and also nearer to Cape Town, South Africa, it has the advantage, in point of distance, for export business over any American steel-producing points, which, with scarcely any exceptions, are situated some distance from tide water. Under any conditions of the world's market, it is believed that the output of these works can be disposed of at satisfactory prices.

OUTPUT

When in full operation, the output is expected to be about as follows:—

1. IRON.—200,000 tons iron ore shipped direct from property, showing net profit of $2.00 per ton, total	$400,000 00
200,000 tons fine iron ore shipped in briquettes, showing net profit of $4.00 per ton, total	800,000 00
100,000 tons steel blooms, showing net profit of $3.00 per ton, total	300,000 00
2. COAL.—600,000 tons coal, showing net profit, at least, of $1.00 per ton, total	600,000 00
3. AIDS.—Government bounties (averaged) added to above per year for 6 years	100 000 00
Total yearly revenue	$2,200,000 00

GOVERNMENT AIDS.

To encourage the manufacture in the Dominion of iron and steel the Parliament of Canada has granted bounties as follows:—

	ON PIG IRON.	ON STEEL.
Apl. 21st, 1902, to July 1st, 1903	$2.70	$2.70
July 1st, 1903, " " 1904	2.25	2.25
July 1st, 1904, " " 1905	1.65	1.65
July 1st, 1905, " " 1906	1.05	1.05
July 1st, 1906, " " 1907	.60	.60

If the production of steel from the Company's works be as estimated, 300,000 tons per annum, the bounties to be received from the Canadian Government will be as follows:—

1904	$225,000
1905	215,000
1906	145,000
1907	85,000

or an average of $100,000.00 per annum for 6¼ years. $670,000.00

NET REVENUE

Total net annual profits		$2,200,000.00
LESS FIXED CHARGES:—
7 per cent. interest on preferred stock	$70,000.00
Sinking Fund	60,000.00
Incidentals	25,000.00
		155,000.00
Net yearly profits		$2,045,000.00

Equivalent to yearly dividends of over 30 per cent., or 15 per cent. half yearly on total capitalization.

If the capitalization was increased to $20,000,000.00 this estimate would still show a dividend-earning capacity of 10 per cent. per annum.

The capitalization of the Dominion Coal Co. is $20,000,000.00 earning fully 12 per cent., and is paying 8 per cent. guaranteed dividends on this enormous sum.

The capitalization of the Dominion Iron and Steel Co. is $28,000,000.00 on which it is believed 6 per cent. dividends will be earned.

The capitalization of the Canadian Steel & Coal Company is only $6,000,000.00 controlling, it is believed, equally valuable properties, and it is reasonable to expect proportionate results.

Within the last few months Dominion Coal shares common rose in market value from $40 to $144 per share, and Dominion Iron & Steel Company's shares common rose over $30 per share in market value.

With such low capitalization the Canadian Steel and Coal Co's shares should show tremendous profits, and it is confidently believed they will.

BUY! WHY?

BECAUSE

THE SOUR LAKE OIL CO.

Has placed four-fifths of its stock in the treasury for development work; and because

Oil is reached in less than half the depth required on Spindletop Heights in Beaumont;

The people in Canada are well acquainted with the management, which is in the hands of HON. JOHN L. BITTINGER, United States Consul General to Canada; F. S. Ashley, Vice-President of the Massachusetts Securities Co., and W. L. Marston, Vice-President of the American Union Oil and Refining Co.

These gentlemen have made a dividend payer out of one company and have raised the value of its stock from 5c per share to par value, or 25c, within a very short time;

The company is operating in the Sour Lake field, where fewer wells will tap the oil than at Spindletop; this insures a greater flow of oil, and it is of a better quality;

This is the first allotment of shares at the present price of FIVE CENTS PER SHARE; it is the lowest price at which you can buy, and the time left in which to buy at FIVE CENTS is short.

$33,000 ANNUAL INCOME FROM 1,000 SHARES OF STOCK

THAT IS WHAT CALUMET & HECLA PAYS

Would You Like an Income of this Kind?

We cannot guarantee an income of this kind from 1,000 shares of stock, but we can guarantee that every dollar you invest in the guaranteed stock of The Gold Hammer Mines and Tunnel Company at 20 cents per share is secured by a GOLD BOND DEPOSITED IN BANK AT THE TIME OF THE PURCHASE OF THE STOCK TO THE CREDIT OF THE BUYER, WHICH INSURES HIM AGAINST LOSS. We can also guarantee, to the best of our judgment, that the development of the ore bodies will make the shares advance at least 100 per cent in twelve months, and, owing to the bond being deposited to the credit of the purchaser, entirely eliminates the feature of chance from the investment. The property is located right in the heart of the Clear Creek District at Idaho Springs, and completely surrounded by big producers.

Details of this proposition will be carefully explained in a handsomely illustrated booklet, (the price of which is twenty five cents), and is not for general distribution, but we will mail it free to parties who are sufficiently interested to write for it. If you wish to make money you cannot afford to be without this book. If you do not care to make money we cannot afford to send it to you, as it costs us money. This book also gives the story of how Stratton and many others have made millions in mining. These valuable pointers will make you money if you will take advantage of the present opportunity. Write for particulars, and you will not regret it. This is not a gamble, but a bona fide speculation without chance of loss.

STOCK MARKETS

Bargains to be Had for Cash

New York, Dec. 13—There are times when one can invest idle funds to unusual advantage. Such a time is at hand at present in Wall Street. The bargains are being offered by a mass of frightened holders while the bears naturally seize their advantage by offering down prices on the army of competing brokers, all endeavoring at one time to execute their clients selling orders. The result of such a situation is most obvious. After the selling fever has run its course and these people are all out, it will be found on second sober thought that they have sold out at preposterous prices, around the bottom figures, and that the buyers of the time secured most excellent and judicious bargains. We are right in such a period at present, and though we duly announce the facts to our clients in these letters, we fear that the larger majority of them will as usual fail to take advantage of the opportunity. Those who will will be the ones to make the most money. We must be frank, however, and state that neither we nor any one else can state exactly how low this selling fever will yet carry prices. They may drop from three to five dollars per share more while on the other hand absolutely the lowest prices may already have been recorded. We can say however, with almost the extreme degree of certainty, that stocks within 30 to 60 days will command materially better prices than those ruling at present. Therefore, if you will buy now and adequately protect your purchases with a suitable margin, you will be almost certain to make a large return upon the amount of your investment, infinitely more than if it were invested in any other manner. We specially appeal to such of our many constituents as are abundantly able to protect stocks bought now, urging them strongly to do so. The operators dealing with our house upon more slender margins should buy when the market is thus depressed, but follow up their purchase each time until the market returns to normal, with judicious stop-orders, thus insuring themselves against the complete loss of their speculative balance. It is a rare opportunity for the courageous and cool headed.

Summary—Material progress in stemming the decline took place today. The syndicates and bankers absorbed large amounts of securities, and prices in most instances were improved over the closing rally prices of last night. Volume of business was large and indications were strong that general liquidation had run its course. From now on we strongly incline to the opinion that stocks will do to buy upon every concession. Even next week should see an improvement. Stocks are immensely cheap at present, even should money keep close the balance of the month. The remarkable current strength of the bond market is significant. Monday's letter "The Worst is Over." Sales [illegible]. Nothing in money today.

SUGAR BEET GROWING

Encouraging Reports from Those Who are Making a Canvass

It is pleasing to note that the farmers are taking hold of the sugar beet matter with avidity. It is imperative that the necessary acreage be secured at once, if the factory is to be built and in operation next fall.

Mr. T. M. Hunter, of North Monaghan, one of the Directors of the Peterborough Beet Sugar Company, together with Mr. T. R. Bradburn, the President, has been making a canvass amongst the farmers of that township, and have been very successful in getting many contracts signed, most of the farmers agreeing to grow from one to four acres.

—At All Saints' Rev. Dr. Gould, a missionary recently returned from Palestine, preached at the morning service. Rev. W. L. Armitage preached in the evening on "They that Feared the Lord."

—Mr. Thos. MacGillicuddy addressed the men's meeting at the Y.M.C.A. yesterday afternoon. His subject was "A Young Man's Way."

—Rev. Geo. Warren, of Lakefield, officiated in St. John's, morning and evening.

—At the morning service at 11 a.m., in Bethany Tabernacle yesterday, Rev T. H. Robertson, preached, and at 7 p.m. Mrs. T. H. Robertson was the speaker.

—Rev. J. Barlow, the pastor, preached in the Murray street Baptist church yesterday morning on "How to Study the Bible." In the evening Mr. Thos. McGillicuddy officiated, preaching an eloquent and impressive sermon.

Saturday's Market

The market on Saturday was largely attended notwithstanding the cold. There was considerable poultry offered which sold as follows: Turkeys, 90c to $1.50; geese, 70c to 80c; chickens, 60c to 75c. Butter sold from 20c to 22c; eggs 23c; beef, 5 and 6 cents, pork 8c to 9c; lamb 8c to 1c; apples, 50 to 40 cents per bag. Poultry, especially turkeys, found ready purchasers.

Binder Twine will be Cheaper

The Cordage Trade Journal says that exhaustive experiments carried on by the Deering and McCormick Harvesting Companies indicate that the day is at at hand when binder twine will be successfully manufactured out of flax straw. A number of car loads of binder twine made from the straw of seedflax were distributed and used in the Northwest the past harvest. Reports from the field where this twine was used indicate that it was in every way successful, working as well as the twine made from hard fibre. It spins even and makes a very strong twine, stronger by test than Manilla. The raw material can be laid down in Chicago for one cent a pound, which would make the finished product so much cheaper than Manilla that, if of equal use it would speedily run it out of the market. The acreage devoted to flax in Manitoba and the territories is being doubled every year, and this new use for straw will tend to make it a popular crop in the west, where it can be grown very successfully.

EXCURSION TO BERLIN!

Farmers should be interested in the fact that an opportunity will be given them to thoroughly investigate the merits of the beet sugar industry as it is carried on at the large factory in Berlin. A special train has been secured for on or about December 30th, which will go and return the same day. The rate will not be higher than $2, return. The hour of starting will probably be about 6.20 a.m. and of returning about 10 p. m.

FOR THE MAYORALTY.

Card to the Electors of Peterborough

To the Ratepayers of the Town of Peterborough:

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

In response to the numerous representations which have been made to me upon the subject, personally, by requisition, and through the press, I place my services at the disposal of the public as a candidate for the Mayoralty at the approaching municipal elections.

My association with the important municipal advances which the Town has been making during recent years, will enable me to give continuity to the aggressive forward policy which the Council has sought to pursue, and to bring experience and information gained therein to bear upon the work and problems which still more immediately confront us.

While I cannot lay claim to all the qualifications which have been flatteringly ascribed to me, such capacity for the office as I do possess is cheerfully placed at your service, and I ask your sympathy and support in the effort to maintain the position and standing, and advance the welfare of our already prosperous and progressive Town.

Respectfully yours,

G. M. ROGER

TRENT VALLEY LEAGUE.

Annual Meeting Held on Saturday Afternoon

The annual meeting of the Trent Valley Hockey League was held in the parlours of the Oriental Hotel Saturday morning when officers were elected for the coming season, and the suggestion to merge the league into the O.H.A. was voted down, almost unanimously. The meeting was one of the most enthusiastic in the history of the league, and delegates were present from the following places:

Lakefield—L. LeDar and F. Gray.

Stirling—A. C. B. Pousnette.

Fenelon Falls—Alvin Gould

Bobcaygeon—M. Welsh and H. S Garlick.

Keene—J. McCarthy and J. R. McIntyre.

St. Peter's T.A.S.—W. Meaghar and D. J. Devine.

Norwood—John F. Anderson and W. A. Eaton.

Campbellford—H. B. Dryden.

The report of the secretary-treasurer, Mr. R. S. Clarry, showed the league to be in a flourishing condition, financial and otherwise. Fenelon Falls had for the second time carried off the championship, whilst Norwood were runners up. He mentioned that the O.H.A. had opened negotiations with the Trent Valley Hockey League, with a view of having the two leagues amalgamated. He then introduced Mr. F. D. Kerr, who addressed the meeting at some length, pointing out to those in attendance the important factor the O.H.A. was in athletic circles, and intimating that they were desirous of having the Trent Valley come into the O.H.A., and had been asked to represent the O.H.A. in the matter.

Mr. Kerr was thanked by the chairman for the flattering remarks that had been made by him concerning the Trent Valley League and promised that his suggestions would receive due consideration. After some consideration on the part of the delegates it was decided that the Trent Valley League remain as it is for the present, at least.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

The following officers were elected:

Hon. Pres.—A. H. Stratton, Peterborough.

President—W. T. Junkin, Fenelon Falls.

Vice-President—Wm. Crowley, Peterborough.

Secretary-Treasurer.—R. S. Clarry, Peterborough.

Executive Committee—T. J. Wallace, Keene; J. F. Anderson, Lakefield; Thos. Crawford, Lakefield; M. Walsh, Bobcaygeon.

OFFICIAL REFEREES.

The following Board of Official Referees was appointed:

George Lynch, Peterborough; Dr. Walters, Lindsay; J. F. Anderson, Norwood; J. R. McIntyre, Keene; F. Gray, Lakefield, Mr. Kennedy, Bobcaygeon; Dr. Aldrum, Fenelon Falls; A. C. B. Pousnette, Stirling; Mr. Kerr, Campbellford, and R. M. Glover, Peterborough.

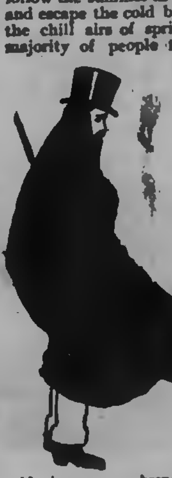
GENERAL BUSINESS.

Mr. Walsh, of Bobcaygeon, brought in a motion, seconded by Mr. Eaton, of Norwood, that all games that have to be played on open rinks, be played in the afternoon. The motion was adopted.

Mr. Dryden, of Campbellford, suggested that a junior series be inaugurated in the league and the matter will be dealt with at a meeting of the Executive.

The Executive will meet in the course of a week or two to arrange the schedule.

In the absence of the President of the League, Mr. Ross Cameron, who has moved from this district, Mr. John F. Anderson, of Norwood, occupied the chair.



CHILL WINDS

Are the dread of those whose lungs are "weak." Some fortunate people can follow the summer as it goes southward, and escape the cold blasts of winter and the chill airs of spring. But for the majority of people this is impossible. Family cares and business obligations hold them fast.

"Weak" lungs are made strong by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures the obstinate cough, heals the inflamed tissues, stops the hemorrhage, and restores the lost flesh to the emaciated body.

"I am a railroad agent," writes J. B. Staples, Esq., of Barclay, Osage Co., Kans., "and four years ago my work keeping me in a warm room and stepping out frequently into the cold air gave me bronchitis, which became chronic and deep seated. Doctors failed to reach my case and advised me to try a higher air, but, fortunately for me, a friend also advised me to try Dr. Pierce's medicines. I commenced taking your 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and by the time I had taken the first bottle I was better, and after taking about four bottles my cough was entirely gone. I have found no necessity for seeking another climate."

Sometimes a dealer, tempted by the little more profit paid on the sale of less meritorious medicines, will offer the customer a substitute as being "just as good" as the "Discovery."

You get the People's Medical Adviser, the best medical work ever published, free by sending stamps, to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for book in paper covers, or 50 stamps for cloth-bound volume, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

HE AMERICAN PRESS APPREHEND TROUBLE

e Albany Press Says That a Big War May Follow Venezuelan Affair

lbany, N.Y., Dec. 15.—The Press-ickerbocker says: The patriotic out- st in Caracas, Venezuela, last Tues- y night, when the news was received t British and German warships had ized the Venezuelan war vessels at Guira, was an ominous indication of determination of the people of the uth American republic to resist at the nt of the sword any attempt to coerce government by landing foreign troops the various ports.

the administration at Washington ends to uphold the Monroe Doctrine, present course is not indicative of determination to keep the British and rman marines out of Venezuela. Our rships should be near enough to the ne of action to impress upon the ag- essors the importance of not going far in pressing claims against the stro government.

he danger in the present policy of Great Britain and Germany lies in the possibility of active resistance on the part of the Venezuelans. If the powers should invade the republic, they would not find the country helpless. Castro has an army which could successfully resist at least fifty or sixty thousand trained European troops. In order to transport more than this force, the aggressors would be compelled to expend millions of dollars; and of course our government would find difficulty in persuading Great Britain and Germany to move out of Venezuela if, after a bloody campaign, Castro would not meet the great war indemnity which would surely be demanded.

President Roosevelt should send a strong naval force to the coast of Venezuela, and then insist upon the aggressors contenting themselves with a blockade of the principal ports of the republic.

OTTAWA COAL FAMINE

ious Condition of Affairs in the Capital Regarding Fuel

ttawa, Dec. 15.—The city coal mer- ants are being besieged for coal, but unable to supply any one outside of aranteed customers. Yesterday, hun- eds of people called at the various coal ices and begged to be given as little a quarter of a ton. Many stated that y only had enough to put them ough the day, and would freeze un- they procure the coal. The dealers y that under the circumstances they doing all possible to relieve the ain, but the coal is coming in so wly that they cannot supply any eat part of the demand. They also y that they are doing the best they to keep faith with their customers. t unless a supply arrives soon they ll be unable to do anything.

HARD ON THE POOR

ices of Coal and Oil Greatly Advanced in New York

ew York, Dec. 15.—Seldom before were e poor of New York city more illy pre- ared to face the rigors of winter than ow. Although work has been plenti- l, there has been a sharp advance in e cost of living during the year, ne- ssitating in many instances the ex- nding of the entire income of the usehold. And now with winter upon em and the price of coal almost pro- bitive, their hardships are increased.

The wholesale price of coal in New ork is now $9 a ton and in thousands cases people are paying $11 to the alers for the precious fuel. Of course, ch prices are prohibitive to the poor, d the latter have turned to oil as a eans of cooking and heating.

Even here they find the conditions se- vere. The demand for oil stoves has nt prices skyward and many of the ores have disposed of their entire ock. Within six weeks it is estimated at the Standard Oil Company has sold rough its agents 100,000 oil stoves and ith the business acumen of such a eat corporation it has advanced the ice of oil. The selling price of oil is now 12 1-2 cents a gallon d this increase means much to the oor. Some of the larger stores are tailing oil at 14 cents a gallon, but the aller dealers who cannot handle oil bulk are charging as high as 17 cents. is probable that the wholesale price ill be still further advanced, probably aking the commodity 100 per cent. ore expensive than it was last sum- mer.

FROGS TO BE PROTECTED

Ontario Fishery Authorities Present Question to Federal Department

The protection of frogs having been pressed upon the attention of the Federal Fisheries Department by the Ontario fishery authorities, the question is likely to become a live one very shortly. In the first place, frogs are commercially valuable, but at the present rate of destruction they are threatened with extermination. In the next place, frogs are accustomed to spawn in spring, at the same time as the maskinonge, bass, and other valuable game fish. Hence there is great destruction of game fish on the spawning grounds by parties who make the plea that they are hunting for frogs. Furthermore, frogs are insectivorous, and their destruction is found to result in a vast increase of injurious insects.

FOUND THEIR LOST DAUGHTER

The Harding Family Reunited After a Search of Seventeen Years

Binghampton, N.Y., Dec. 15.—After a search of seventeen years for their lost daughter, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Harding and their child were reunited here today. When she was two years of age, George Pearl, an engineer on the Lehigh Railroad, visited the city and took a strong liking to the child. With his wife he called on her parents and wanted to adopt her. They allowed him to take her for a month, with the understanding she was to be returned at the end of that time. He was then living in Ithaca, but when at the expiration of the period the child did not come back they went to Ithaca, but found that the Pearl family had moved away.

The Pearls went to Hornellsville and then to Buffalo, where Mr. Pearl was killed in an accident. Then Mrs. Pearl came to Waverley, where later she died, leaving the girl alone. Her name had been changed and she had no idea her parents lived here. She went to Elmira, and while doing housework in a family there her parents obtained a clue that took them to that city and early yesterday morning her father found her. The reunion here today was most touching.

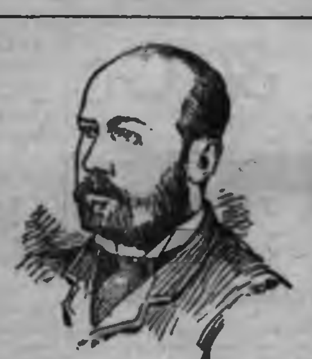
PRESIDENT OF CUBA CO.



Sir William Van Horne Returned to Montreal From Gem of Antilles

OPENING OF THE RAILWAY

Pleased With the Island's Prospects—Sir William is Home for Christmas

Montreal, Dec. 15.—Sir William Van Horne returned from the city to-day from New York, wehre he arrived on Monday from Havana.

The opening of the Cuba Company's railway from Santa Clara to Santiago took place on the 5th instant, in the presence of 2,000 persons. There were two Pullmans and one hundred and fifty passengers who were given an enthusiastic send off.

To Sir William Van Horne must be given the credit for this enterprise. In less than a year the company was formed, the line surveyed, and the work of construction commenced. The system is five hundred miles long, runs through the middle of the island, passing through the provinces of Sancti Spiritus, Puerto Principe, on to Santiago de Cuba on the south shore. Eventually the line will be extended to Barracoa, with branches wherever the traffic warrants.

Along the main line are found areas of land of the richest description well watered and suitable for raising sugar cane, tobacco, corn, cotton, coffee, cocoa, and all tropical fruits. The land is so fertile and the climate so favorable that three crops of corn can be raised in a season. There are valuable mineral deposits on the route of the road, notably the famous Jaragua copper mines at Siboney, which was the base of the American troops on the advance to Santiago. Other districts are well adapted for cattle raising, the grasses being highly nutritious and luxuriant, while there is an abundant water supply.

Associated with Sir William Van Horne are: General Grenville M. Dodge, Thomas F. Ryan, Levi P. Morton, G. G. Haven, William C. Whitney, P. A. B. Widener, W. L. Elkins, Thomas Dolan, Henry M. Flagler, Edward J. Berwind, John W. Mackay, H. M. Whitney, E. H. Harriman, J. J. Hill, H. Walters, C. T. Barney, A. N. Brady, Samuel Thomas and George B. Hopkins.

In conversation with a representative of the Star, on his arrival at the Windsor station, Sir William Van Horne stated that the general condition of affairs in Cuba was very satisfactory. The Cuban Government has been very successful in carrying out its policy. In fact he thought that it was just as successful a Government as was to be found in any part of the world. It now had a surplus of $1,500,000, and its action in dealing with the recent street car strike in Havana had proved satisfactory.

THE QUEEN IS COMING

QUEEN WILHELMINA AND PRINCE HENRY TO TOUR AMERICA

Little Ruler of Holland Will Travel Across The United States Incognito But Will Call Upon President Roosevelt Yellowstone Valley Included in Places to be Inspected

New York, Dec. 15—An official at The Hague has unwittingly caused a secret to become public property. In a private letter received in New York, he has admitted that Queen Wilhelmina of Holland and the prince consort will pay America a visit next spring. The Dutch Government is trying to keep this a secret.

The Queen will travel incognito across the United States, and although she will call upon President Roosevelt, the visit will be made informally.

Queen Wilhelmina will sail from Genoa to the East Indies in March. After paying a visit to the colonies, from which her kingdom derives so large an amount of its wealth, the queen and her consort will take ship at Surabaya for San Francisco.

The Yellowstone valley and Chicago are two points especially mentioned in the places for the trip. A few days will be spent at Niagara Falls and New York.

THE TOWN COUNCIL IN STATUTORY SESSION

Town Treasurer Browscombe Submits His Financial Statement for 1901-02

The Fuel Yard Scheme to be Submitted to the Property Owners—The Assesment Roll will not be Printed this Year

At the Town Council's meeting last night the Treasurer's statement of Receipts and Expenditures showed on the face of it a deficit of $7,007.94. Mayor Deane explained, however, that the Town really had a balance of $23 on hand, some $7,000 being accounted for by a shortage in the sale of waterworks debentures, which is assumed by the Waterworks Commissioners. When this is taken into consideration, together with the fact that there have been unlooked for calls for expenditure in the property department and by the Board of Works, the statement may be considered satisfactory.

Ald. Roger did not think it possible for either the Treasurer or the Chairman of the Finance Committee to meet the statutory demands in furnishing on December 15th a complete financial statement that could be sworn to in every detail. The time is too short.

Two hundred copies of the statement were ordered to be printed.

SERVICES APPRECIATED.

At the close of the meeting Mayor T. H. G. Deane was remembered by his colleges by unanimously adopting the following eulogistic resolution:

Moved by Ald. Roger and seconded by Ald. Rush, that in view of Mayor Deane's prospective retirement from the Mayoralty of the town at the close of the present year, this Council, at this, their last regular meeting, wish to place on record their appreciation of the valuable services which he has rendered to the Town during his eight years connection with the Council—six years as Alderman and two years as Mayor. To his untiring energy and business tact, which he has brought to bear upon the public business, is unquestionably due much of the material progress which the Town has made during that period. We wish also to acknowledge the uniform courtesy which we have ever received at his hands, and to wish him every success and prosperity in his new field of labor—Carried.

Ald. Rush, in seconding the resolution, remarked that he knew the Mayor had in his official capacity sacrificed his interest to that of the Town.

Ald. Shortly was pleased to add that he had found our young Mayor a man of sterling qualities, and a sharp and shrewd business man, under whose executive management the Town had prospered.

Ald. McGregor heartily concurred in the expressions of his colleagues and said that although he differed from the Mayor on some questions, he must say he had always found him a gentleman in the chair and a good presiding officer.

Ald. J. J. Turner also made a few happy remarks on similar lines to those of the previous speakers.

Mayor Deane in reply said:

"Gentlemen —Permit me to thank you, and especially the mover and seconder, for the very kind expressions contained in this resolution and the Aldermen for the kind words in which they have supported it. I feel that the terms of the resolution are too strong, and that in passing it you have emphasized any virtues that as a member of the Council I have possessed and have overlooked my short comings. I feel your kindness keenly, and I am deeply gratified to know that in leaving this Council Chamber, after a service of eight years, I leave it with the good-will of all the members and with mutually friendly feeling with every member. I am deeply sensible of the assistance the members of the Council have given me in the discharge of my duties, and I desire to thank each of you, individually, for the manner in which you have faithfully attended to the business of the Town, and loyally supported me as head of the Council in all matters, large and small. The good feeling that has prevailed in the Council during the two years I have had the honor of being Mayor, has not only lightened the tasks that have fallen to me but has made it a pleasure to be associated in the work of municipal administration. I desire, also, to acknowledge the good service of the officials of the Corporation and to thank them for the faithful way they have performed their duties and, personally, for the assistance they have always rendered me. I would emphasize, a fact the members of the Council know and appreciate, that the Town has capable and faithful officials. I wish here to particularly mention our worthy Town Clerk and to thank him for the many services rendered in helping to despatch the business brought forward and to say that the onerous duties of Mayor have been lightened and made pleasant by his kindly assistance and promptitude and to compliment the town upon their good fortune in having such a painstaking and capable gentleman occupying the position."

The Mayor then gave a lengthy review of the progress the Town has made during his 8 years' service on the Civic Board, the text of which will be published tomorrow.

STATUTORY SESSION.

Last night was the statutory session of the Council. All the members were present.

The request of the Otonabee Power Co. that they be allowed to string wires to connect with R. Hicks & Co.'s premises to furnish motive power was, on motion of Ald. Rush, seconded by Ald. Shortly, granted.

From Peterborough Light and Power Company, applying for permission to place poles between George and Aylmer streets, on the south side of Brock, and for permission to place two poles on McDonald street, between Water and Harvey, on the north side.—Referred to the Board of Works with power to act.

From Mr. R. R. Wood, enclosing copy of the presentment of the Grand Jury made before the Court on December 10th. In referring to the dire necessity for a House of Providence the presentment says:—"We, the members of this Jury, desire to express a regret that there is not on the Statutes an act compelling municipalities to erect and maintain suitable places for the old and feeble who may be left to shift for themselves."—Referred to the Joint Committee.

From the Village of [illegible], asking to be allowed to keep the road roller belonging to the corporation of the Town of Peterborough until next spring.—Referred to the Board of Works with power to act.

From the Peter Hamilton Mfg. Co., saying that they did not think it wise, under the circumstances, to submit a bylaw providing for a fixed assessment for their manufacturing establishment. They also expressed the belief that a better way would be for the matter to be dealt with by a committee which would arrange an assessment for manufacturers on general grounds, so that all would be treated alike—Received.

From Miss G. C. S. Roche, 145 Bethune street, asking for $5 or a load of wood for damages done to her wagon and buggy by boys on October 31st last. The boards of the wagon were taken off and the buggy broken, and its springs thrown into the river. She had to pay a man $1 to recover these springs from the water.—Finance Committee.

From O'Connell & Kerr, stating that they had been instructed to demand compensation for injuries sustained by Wm. G. Hopkins, through a defective sidewalk on Edinburgh street. Their client's foot and leg have been seriously injured, and he has sustained other personal injuries of a more or less serious character. The communication further states that it will be eight weeks before Mr. Hopkins will again be able to engage in his usual occupation. The defect in the sidewalk in question consisted in one of the planks or boards having been removed.—Referred to the Legal Committee with power to act.

ACCOUNTS.

A number of accounts were referred to the Finance Committee.

FINANCE REPORT.

The report of the Finance Committee recommending that the printing offices be requested to place the Union Label on all Town printing on which it can suitably be put, and also recommending payment of a big batch of accounts, was adopted as read.

THE FUEL YARD.

Ald. McGregor submitted the following report:

Gentlemen,—Your Committee of the Whole Council beg leave to report and recommend as follows:—

1. That the Council submit in January to the Property owners, qualified to vote on a money By-law in question. "Are you in favor of establishing a Municipal Fuel Yard and asking the Legislature for authority to borrow a sum, not exceeding $50,000 for that purpose?"

2. That the Provincial Legislature and Lieutenant Governor be petitioned for an amendment to the Municipal Act so as to authorize Municipal Councils to pass By-laws to prohibit spitting on the sidewalks.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Ald. Best moved, seconded by Ald. McGregor, that the report be amended so as to allow of every ratepayer voting on the question, whether a property owner or not. He thought every man who has a vote should be allowed to give expression on this question. Property owners are not the only ones who have an interest in fuel. A bylaw to raise the $50,000 could be submitted to the property owners if the expression at the January elections was in favor of the scheme.

Ald. Morrison did not see the sense of submitting the question to people who would not have a vote on the money by-law.

Ald. Best replied that there are many good men who are tenants, and who must buy fuel. They should be allowed to give an expression on the question.

The report as amended was lost, and Ald. McGregor asked for the yeas and nays, which were given as follows—

Yeas—Ald. Best, Clinkscale and McGregor.

Nays—Ald. Caskey, Bolton, Morrison, Turner, Roger, Edgecumbe and Rush.

Ald. McGregor then moved, seconded by Ald. Turner, that the report be adopted as originally read.—Carried, and the property owners only will have a voice in the fuel scheme in January.

BOARD OF WORKS.

The report of the Board of Works was adopted. This report is unavoidably left over till tomorrow.

VOTE OF THANKS.

Ald. Turner moved, seconded by Ald. Rush, That a vote of thanks be tendered Mr. Shuttleworth and Mr. Williams for courtesies shown the delegation which visited the Beet Sugar factory at Berlin and also to the newspapers of Berlin for like courtesies on the occasion.—Carried.

AMALGAMATION.

Ald. Turner raised the question of amalgamation with the Village of Ashburnham, and asked expressions of opinion on the question.

Ald. Best thought it time to take up the matter when the people ask for it.

Ald. Clinkscale replied that everyone he had spoken to in Ashburnham were in favor of amalgamation.

Further discussion on this subject was referred to next year's council.

THE ROLL.

Ald. McGregor insisted on the Council taking action on the printing of the assessment roll.

The Mayor pointed out that there was no surplus to spend for this purpose.

Ald. Clinkscale moved, seconded by Ald. Rush, that the assessment roll be not printed this year.—Carried.

Council then adjourned.

BRITISH COLUMBIA ACTS DISALLOWED

Three Measures Passed by Legislature Won't Become Law

APPLY TO CHINESE AND JAPS

They Restrict Immigration of Those People Into Province—Territorial Ordinance Also Disallowed

Ottawa, Dec. 15.—Three acts of the British Columbia Legislature and an ordinance of the Legislative Assembly of the North-West Territories have been disallowed. The British Columbia measures were passed on June 21 last and restrict the immigration of Chinese and Japanese into the province, and their employment upon certain works.

The acts are severally known as an act to regulate immigration into British Columbia, an act relating to the employment on works carried on under franchises granted by private acts and an act to further amend the coal mines regulation act.

This legislation is in line with the demands of organized white labor in British Columbia, but is held to be outside of the constitutional sphere of the province.

The territorial ordinance which has been vetoed required certain companies doing business under Federal charter in the Territories to take out a license. This was clearly an encroachment upon the powers of the Federal parliament, and therefore has not been allowed to go into effect.

SOUTH AFRICA

Although John Morley very strongly opposed the war in South Africa, and so far placed himself at variance with the great body of the British nation, his perfect sincerity has never been doubted, and his attitude has commanded respect. His recent friendly remarks regarding Mr. Chamberlain and his visit to South Africa have therefore been received throughout Great Britain with peculiar satisfaction. Mr. Morley kept simple justice, and not the exigencies of party, in view, when he told the National Liberal Club that he hoped for the best results from Mr. Chamberlain's visit. If any were inclined to make unnecessary difficulties, they would soon find that Mr. Chamberlain was their master. He could think, he said, of no man better fitted for "the formidable task of reconstructing the social fabric adjusting the different interests, and overcoming the material difficulties which at present confront the Government." If Mr. Morley were in Canada he would find many zealous friends who would tell him that it was "very bad politics" to pay so handsome a tribute to one of his strongest political opponents. "You are strengthening the hands of the Government," it would be said. Mr. Morley's idea is that the Government's hands, and everybody's hands, should be strengthened for good whenever there is a chance—strengthened for good and only weakened for evil. If Mr. Morley thought that Mr. Chamberlain was going to do more harm than good in South Africa he would say so. But he doesn't; he has confidence in his mission, and he says so with equal frankness. Surely, there is a point of view from which this should be called "good politics."

THE BANK OF COMMERCE

The results of the business of the Canadian Bank of Commerce for the twelve months ending with November have been made known. Net profits were $1,[illegible], or at the rate of 12.85 per cent. on capital, and 10.15 per cent. on capital and reserve, and there had been $251,-[illegible] carried over. After dividend there was half a million to carry to Rest, $15,000 for Pension Fund, and $51,725 spent on bank premises was written off. There still remained surplus earnings of $[illegible], which sum was carried forward. The showing is a remarkable one, for the total assets of this bank now reach $[illegible] and it has $24,107,000 in cash or readily available assets, while its circulation is nearly seven and a half millions. Of the total deposits amounting to more than $58,000,000, no less than $[illegible] is without interest. The annual meeting is announced for the 13th January.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Belleville Ontario:—The great fault that we find with the Board of Water Commissioners (not the individuals composing it, but the system of management) is its complete independence of the Council and people. It is a very important department of the city's business, and we do not think it should be conducted with such absolute secrecy as the Commissioners have seen fit to adopt. However, the question has reached the point at which we wanted it to arrive when we first broached the matter last spring. It is before the people, and if the majority of the ratepayers want the change made it will be made.

The Roman Catholic Archbishop of New York has addressed a strongly-worded circular to the liquor dealers of his flock, calling attention to the pronunciamento of the third plenary council of his church against the liquor traffic. His Grace says that in the consideration of the means of reformation to be used, the members of the Council devoted a whole chapter of the proceedings of the Council—"a chapter of sad but salutary reading." A feature of this chapter was the admonition to the liquor dealers to get out of business, to "choose some honorable way of making a living. If they found it impossible to quit it they should remove the occasion of sin from themselves and from others by not selling to minors or others who go to excess, by keeping their saloons closed upon the Lord's Day by prohibiting on the premises blasphemy, gambling and obscene language.

"But if," says the Archbishop, "through their action, or with their co-operation, religion is dishonored and men are led to ruin, let them remember that there is an Avenger in heaven who will certainly demand of them a terrible retribution." The Archbishop uses very strong language, but he probably found none other would be equal to the occasion.

Lieut. Ross, R.A., formerly of D. Battery, R. C. A., is in the city visiting friends, having served through the war and only returned to England from South Africa after peace was proclaimed. Lieut. Ross says that a number of the Canadian horses handed over by the Ottawa section to the 45 battery at Belfast in December, 1900 lasted through the war, though almost constantly on trek, and went home to England with the battery practically as good as ever they were. They were on service for over two-and-a-half years. The men of the Ottawa section, D battery, will regret to learn that it was a section of the 84th battery, R. A., that was cut off with the rearguard of Benson's column early this year and old Major Guinness, who was chief of artillery on General Smith-Dorien's treks, was killed with the lieutenant in charge and most of the men.

Sir William's Offer Accepted

Guelph, Ont., Dec. 13—At a public meeting in the city hall yesterday, attended by a large number of trustees and delegates representing the adjoining rural schools, a resolution was passed favoring the establishment of a consolidated rural school of four more sections in the vicinity, in accordance with an offer of Sir William McDonald, of Montreal, made to the meeting by Prof. Robertson. The resolution does not bind the school sections, but it represents public opinion. It is thought the remaining steps will be little more than formalities. The sections have until January 1 to accept the offer.

When Buying Mining Stock Buy the Best
AN INVESTMENT IN THE
Pitkin Gold Belt Mining and Reduction Company
Which is Safe and Sure of Quick Returns, may Bring an Enormous Return at any Moment. It has the Possibilities of Rivaling the Great Mines of the Past.

This Company has a mine on a true fissure vein, in the center of the Gunnison Gold Belt, Colorado, which is the "Mother" lode or dike, which has produced 50 per cent. more gold than the total output of the Cripple Creek district.

This Mine is no Prospect. Nor is It Waiting on Your Subscription to Buy Machinery or for Development.

After a careful examination by experts, Joseph M. Bradley, M. E., and Mr. George Arlett, A. I. M. E., Amalgamated Copper Company's expert in Chihuahua, Mexico, they advised the purchase of the property. The property had shallow development upon it, showing two ore shoots from which smelting ore had been shipped to the Buena Vista Smelter.

The Company purchased and paid for the latest improved machinery and has put a shaft down 250 feet and intend to carry it down 1000 feet. On the 150 foot level 300 feet of development has been made and an ore shoot has been encountered and blocked out for 57 feet, carrying values in gold from 2 to 6 ounces or $40 to $120 per ton. The cost of mining, hauling, freight and smelters charges will be between $12 and $15 per ton.

Ed. McCarthy & Co., bankers, guarantee a shipping mine of smelting ore running from 2 to 6 ounces in gold, or $40 to $120 per ton, by January 1st, 1903, or all funds will be returned to subscribers upon presentation of receipt issued by said bank.

Also to prospective purchasers of $500 worth of stock we are offering a free trip to Colorado and return. You investigate first and purchase afterward. Could you expect anything fairer than this?

The capital stock of this company is $1,000,000, divided into 1,000,000 shares of stock at $1 each, full paid and non-assessable. A portion of the treasury stock is now offered at

25 CENTS PER SHARE—PAR VALUE $1.00

In one payment, or 20 per cent. down and the balance in four equal monthly payments, for necessary expenditures and improvements on a shipping mine.

Write for further particulars and prospectus. Remit by postal, express money order, draft or check to Ed McCarthy & Co., Trustees, Galveston, Tex., or

—A SURE WINNER—

The Electric Spark Gold Mining Company

INVESTMENT in new mining companies is the poor man's opportunity to acquire wealth; the great mines of this country were developed almost altogether by people of moderate means, and it is no unusual thing to find that some of the stock of such companies which have made pronounced success is divided among thousands of small subscribers. To-day the poor man has his chance of wealth, "as wild cat mining companies can not do business in these enlightened days." If he neglects to take advantage of it he will have himself to blame.

THE ELECTRIC SPARK GOLD MINING COMPANY will in less than one year from to-day pay your investment back in dividends, if you buy now. This is not guesswork, but based on facts and figures. This is a business proposition from which every possible risk is strictly eliminated; there are no chances connected with it; it is simply a question of whether a person has the money to spare to place in a good safe investment, which will unquestionably bring large annual returns. We present herewith in a small way the location of the mineral veins on our property. The vein at the bottom of the shaft is about 4 feet wide, the shaft is 140 feet deep, the vein matter is very rich, of which we will be pleased to send samples to anyone who will ask for them.

The ore from this mine contains GOLD, SILVER and COPPER, which aggregate values of from $25 to $85 per ton; $10 ore from this mine will pay a handsome profit to work. We are located ¼ of a mile from BLACK HAWK, GILPIN COUNTY, COLORADO, on the Colorado & Southern Railway, only 40 miles from Denver. This is one of the oldest and RICHEST MINING SPOTS in the country. One great historian has called this county the GOLDEN BOWL with a silver rim; the central part of the county abounds with hundreds of rich gold mines, while the outer edge is dotted with silver mines. The Electric Spark Company is located almost in the center of this famous golden bowl.

We have placed a small block of our stock on the market at 20 cents per share; certificates issued from 100 shares up.

W. A. ROGERS, Secretary and Treasurer.

The CANADIAN STEEL AND COAL COMPANY was organized to min and manufacture iron and coal, coke and steel in Canada at Atlantic tidewater.

The raw materials for these manufactures are:—

1.—COAL. 2.—IRON. 3.—LIMESTONE.

All these materials we have at hand.

1.—COAL.

The Company controls 3,000 acres of excellent coal areas in the Province of Nova Scotia, and efforts are being made to increase this to 10,000 acres by the purchase of some very valuable additional coal fields.

The coal has been thoroughly tested and found to be suitable in every way for the manufacture of iron and steel, and the supply is practically inexhaustible. The following analysis was made by the Canadian Geological Survey:—

ANALYSIS.

Moisture	4.05
Vol. Comb. Matter	30.72
Fixed Carbon	60.
Ash	5.23
	100.00

COAL VEINS.

The several layers or seams of coal available aggregate 27 to 30 feet in thickness.

TITLES.

These areas are held under Crown Lease for a period of 80 years. Royalty 10 cents per ton of coal sold.

2.—IRON.

The Company has acquired by purchase immense iron deposits on the North Shore of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, about 350 miles from Sydney. The deposits are estimated to contain 20,000,000 tons [illegible] re above sea level, with probably as much more below that line. The iron can be handled for $1.00 per ton or less. Quantities of this ore have been shipped to Great Britain and the United States, where it has given great satisfaction, and we can sell large quantities f. o. b. at the properties, netting us a profit of $2.00 per ton. This ore makes the finest steel.

3.—FLUX.

We are now negotiating for valuable deposits of dolomite and limestone of the most satisfactory quality, situated on the tide-water, within 100 miles of the works

MARKETS.

For six months in each year the Canadian markets can be reached by water at low freight rates, and at all times by rail. As Cape Breton is distant from Liverpool only about 2,300 miles; is nearer to Pernambuco, Brazil, than any point in the United States, and also nearer to Cape Town, South Africa, it has the advantage, in point of distance, for export business over any American steel-producing points, which, with scarcely any exceptions, are situated some distance from tide water. Under any conditions of the world's market, it is believed that the output of these works can be disposed of at satisfactory prices.

OUTPUT

When in full operation, the output is expected to be about as follows:—

1. IRON.—200,000 tons iron ore shipped direct from property, showing net profit of $2.00 per ton, total	$400,000 00
200,000 tons fine iron ore shipped in briquettes, showing net profit of $4.00 per ton, total	800,000 00
100,000 tons steel blooms, showing net profit of $3.00 per ton, total	300,000 00
2. COAL.—600,000 tons coal, showing net profit, at least, of $1.00 per ton, total	600,000 00
3. AIDS.—Government bounties (averaged) added to above per year for 6 years	100 000 00
Total yearly revenue	$2,200,000 00

GOVERNMENT AIDS.

To encourage the manufacture in the Dominion of iron and steel the Parliament of Canada has granted bounties as follows:—

	ON PIG IRON.	ON STEEL.
Apl. 21st, 1902, to July 1st, 1903	$2.70	$2.70
July 1st, 1903, " " 1904	2.25	2.25
July 1st, 1904, " " 1905	1.65	1.65
July 1st, 1905, " " 1906	1.05	1.05
July 1st, 1906, " " 1907	.60	.60

If the production of steel from the Company's works be as estimated, 300,000 tons per annum, the bounties to be received from the Canadian Government will be as follows:—

1904	$225,000
1905	215,000
1906	145,000
1907	85,000

or an average of $100,000.00 per annum for 6¾ years........ $670,000.00

NET REVENUE

Total net annual profits		$2,200,000.00
LESS FIXED CHARGES:—
7 per cent. interest on preferred stock	$70,000.00
Sinking Fund	60,000.00
Incidentals	25,000.00
		155,000.00
Net yearly profits		$2,045,000 00

Equivalent to yearly dividends of over 30 per cent., or 15 per cent. half yearly on total capitalization.

If the capitalization was increased to .... $20,000,000.00 this estimate would still show a dividend-earning capacity of 10 per cent. per annum.

The capitalization of the Dominion Coal Co. is .... $20,000,000.00 earning fully 12 per cent., and is paying 8 per cent. guaranteed dividends on this enormous sum.

The capitalization of the Dominion Iron and Steel Co. is...... $28,000,000.00 on which it is believed 6 per cent. dividends will be earned.

The capitalization of the Canadian Steel & Coal Company is only $6,000,000.00 controlling, it is believed, equally valuable properties, and it is reasonable to expect much larger dividends.

Within the last few months Dominion Coal shares common rose in market value from $40 to $144 per share, and Dominion Iron & Steel Company's shares common rose over $30 per share in market value.

With such low capitalization the Canadian Steel and Coal Co's shares should show tremendous profits, and it is confidently believed they will.

BUY! WHY?

BECAUSE

THE SOUR LAKE OIL CO.

Has placed four-fifths of its stock in the treasury for development work; and because

Oil is reached in less than half the depth required on Spindletop Heights in Beaumont;

The people in Canada are well acquainted with the management, which is in the hands of HON. JOHN L. BITTINGER, United States Consul General to Canada; F. S. Ashley, Vice-President of the Massachusetts Securities Co., and W. L. Marston, Vice-President of the American Union Oil and Refining Co.

These gentlemen have made a dividend payer out of one company and have raised the value of its stock from 5c per share to par value, or 25c, within a very short time;

The company is operating in the Sour Lake field, where fewer wells will tap the oil than at Spindletop; this insures a greater flow of oil, and it is of a better quality;

This is the first allotment of shares at the present price of FIVE CENTS PER SHARE; it is the lowest price at which you can buy, and the time left in which to buy at FIVE CENTS is short.

STOCK MARKETS
The Worst Over

New York, Dec. 15.—The great decline in stocks looks as if it were nearing an end. It has brought values down below their proper level in many cases most materially decimating the long outside interest that was in the market. Some of the smaller pools were practically compelled to capitulate and yield up some of their holdings to stronger men. The street is full of bearish rumors and utterances, while for a time nothing is heard of the great crops yet to be hauled, the enormous railway earnings, merger plants, etc., They are temporarily shelved apparently, but will be in evidence again later, when the bear campaign has run its course. The bears are flushed with success and will probably as heretofore, over pay themselves, causing some morning when least expected a volcanic upheaval of prices. Like their bullish brothers they usually over play their position. Enormous quantities of stocks have been bought and paid for by people with money. They are locking up the certificates. This is the very best class of buying. The entire bear supplies seem to have been fired at the market at once. The money situation, the difficulties at Caracas, the smash of the consolidated superior, the grass twine speculations and the alleged utterances of a certain prominent railway man have had their effect. The entire thing coming at once, hastens the process of liquidation, making bull times so much the nearer. What would have originally taken some considerable time to have discounted in the stock market has been accomplished within a week. No doubt the market will be ultra feverish for a little while to come, money will have its spasms, between now and the first of the year, and—oftimes with that at intervals, stocks will look ragged and very weak. It is proper time to purchase them, however. Everything will be done by the bears to make the situation appear most critical to deter outside buying or support, while they endeavor to cover. Good times will appear again however in Wall street, probably sooner than most people now anticipate.

Summary,—Prevalence of bear articles in Sunday papers was followed by a heavy bear attack directly after the opening of the market. The market's resisting power seemed greater than last week, and after a heavy fusilade prices turned in an upward direction. The smaller fry among the room traders and speculators generally are veering to the bear side. It is a bad policy in prosperous time to bear a market after a decline of 20 or 30 dollars per share. We cannot too strongly urge the public to commence purchasing at this range of prices and herewith offer to carry for you on our customary margins any purchases you may see fit to make at present through our house at the usual interest rates, no matter how high they may be quoted. Money closed at 4 per cent. Sales 854,100.

MR. BURNHAM'S LECTURE

Delivered Last Night Before St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society

Mr. Burnham's lecture on "The History of the Workingman" in the T.A.S. rooms last night was directed towards showing that the ballot box is the workingman's best means of improving his position in life. Mr. Burnham explained how in ancient times the laborer, being on land, could supply his needs, whether there was employment otherwise or not. This made him independent. To-day he is in a different position, and if the laws favour the capitalists at his expense, it is his own fault. When he learns to make proper use of this powerful instrument, he will have attained the best position in life that freedom, fair play and kindliness can afford him.

At the conclusion of Mr. Burnham's address a vote of thanks was tendered him.

THE LATE ABRAHAM WILKINS

Death of One of Peterborough's Oldest Pioneers

We regret to have to record the death of Mr. Abraham Wilkins, an old and esteemed citizen of the town, which took place at the family residence, 48 Albert Street, on Sunday last. Mr. Wilkins fell on the sidewalk in front of his home on December 9th, and sustained a fracture of his hip, from which he never rallied. He was 80 years of age, and came to this country from England about sixty years ago, settling in Peterborough, where he resided until his death.

Of a kindly disposition, Mr. Wilkins was greatly esteemed, and was widely known. He was identified with St. John's church, and was regarded as an honorable and conscientious man. He leaves a family of two sons and one daughter:—Thomas, of London, Ontario; William, and Mrs. Francis Sager, of Smith.

The funeral will leave the family residence, Albert street, this afternoon at 2 o'clock for the Little Lake Cemetery.

THE HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE

He made a very suitable reply.

The first case taken up was that of Carew vs. G.T.R. R. R Ruddy, Millbrook, for plaintiff; W. R. Riddell, Toronto, for defendant.—Judgment reserved.

The case of Armstrong vs. Armstrong was settled out of court.

The case of Fairbairn vs. Quinn, was concluded about 7.30 p.m., a verdict being entered in favor for plaintiff for $5. This concluded the business, and the court adjourned.

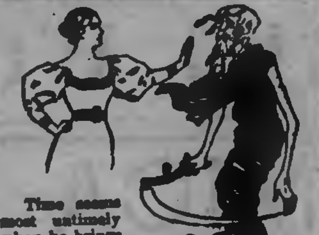
High Tariff vs. Low Tariff

The great question before Canadians today is the tariff. From one end to the other of this broad Dominion the question of a high or low tariff is being discussed. Honest discussion is what the people of Canada want. It will be interesting to know that the Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal, has opened its columns for a full and free discussion of this important question. The leaders of both political parties are invited to give their views. Farmers, manufacturers, importers, etc., will have an opportunity to express themselves. The Family Herald, being a purely non-political paper, absolutely independent of all political parties or interests, is the one paper in Canada wherein such an open discussion can be carried on. With the Family Herald and Weekly Star's immense circulation at every postoffice in the Dominion, this will be a splendid opportunity for the leaders of both parties to air their views on the tariff question, and the public will naturally expect to hear from them through the Family Herald and Weekly Star. The discussion will be watched with great interest.



Time seems most untimely when he brings a woman to the turn of life. Life is or should be at its ripest and best for her, and she approaches this change with a dread of its effect born of her knowledge of the sufferings of other women at this season.

There is not the slightest cause for fear or anxiety at this period if Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is used. It gives health of body and cheerfulness of mind, and by its aid the pains and pangs of this critical period are prevented or cured.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is woman's medicine with a wonderful record of cures of womanly diseases. Diseases that all other medicines had failed to cure, have been perfectly and permanently cured by the use of "Favorite Prescription."

"I feel it my duty to write you as I have received so much benefit from the use of your medicine," says Mrs. Lizzie A. Bowman, of New Matamoras, Washington Co., Ohio. "I have taken four bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' for female weakness and change of life. Before I began taking it I could not do anything. I had such pains in my head and in the back of my neck that I thought I would lose my mind. Now I can work every day. I recommend 'Favorite Prescription' to all females suffering in the period of change of life. It is the best medicine I have found."

"Favorite Prescription" has the testimony of thousands of women to its complete cure of womanly diseases. Do not accept an unknown and unproved substitute in its place.

Keep the bowels healthy by the timely use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

EXCURSION TO BERLIN!

Farmers should be interested in the fact that an opportunity will be given them to thoroughly investigate the merits of the beet sugar industry as it is carried on at the large factory in Berlin. A special train has been secured for on or about December 30th, which will go and return the same day. The rate will not be higher than $3, return. The hour of starting will probably be about 6.30 a.m. and of returning about 10 p. m.

Card to the Electors of Peterborough

To the Ratepayers of the Town of Peterborough:

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

In response to the numerous representations which have been made to me upon the subject, personally, by requisition, and through the press, I place my services at the disposal of the public as a candidate for the Mayoralty at the approaching municipal elections.

My association with the important municipal advances which the Town has been making during recent years, will enable me to give continuity to the aggressive forward policy which the Council has sought to pursue, and to bring experience and information gained therein to bear upon the work and problems which still more immediately confront us.

While I cannot lay claim to all the qualifications which have been flatteringly ascribed to me, such capacity for the office as I do possess is cheerfully placed at your service, and I ask your sympathy and support in the effort to maintain the position and standing, and advance the welfare of our already prosperous and progressive Town.

Respectfully yours,

THE WAR WAS BEGUN TRUSTING IN THE LORD

And at the Same Time Had Regard for the Condition of the Weapons

How the Boer Leaders Entered the Struggle—De Wet's Book on the South African War

London, Dec. 16—It was maintained throughout the war by the British pro-Boers that their unpatriotic antics in England could have no influence upon the progress of the campaign, as it was, they said, impossible for the Boers to know what was happening in England. General De Wet's history of the war tells, however, quite another story in its appendices, from which it appears that the agitation in England had the most mischievous results.

Many passages from the book might be quoted to prove this. De Wet himself, when the acceptance or refusal of the British terms was hanging in the balance, urged that the Boer cause was not hopeless, as there was widespread sympathy for the Boer cause.

Even in England, he maintained, this sympathy is to be found, as is shown by the largely attended "pro-Boer" meetings which have been held in that country. And that feeling is widespread in our favor is evident from the reports which we received by word of mouth.

Other references in "Three Years' War" show that the enemy watched all that passed in this country with the closest attention. Judge Herzog, for instance, thought that the outcry over the corn tax, raised by the same pro-Boers in England, showed the desperate condition of British finance, and proved that this country was going to have serious trouble with its taxpayers.

De Wet thought, he tells us in one of his speeches, that if the English Government were pressed it would concede more.

England, he said, will negotiate again if we continue the war. She will offer still more favorable terms, she will not even stick at independence.

It was always maintained by the pro-Boers that England provoked the war. Yet up gets General Smuts at the Vereeniging conference and affirms:

"To me the situation is all the darker because I am one of those who, as members of the Government of the South African Republic, provoked the war with England."

And General Schalk Burger follows with another cruel indiscretion:

"We began this war, strong in the faith of God. . . We had considerable confidence in our own weapons; we under-estimated the enemy; the fighting spirit has seized upon our people; and the thought of victory had banished that of the possibility of defeat."

Nothing was more frequently asserted by the pro-Boers than that the Boer women had nothing to fear from the Kaffirs. Indeed, Sir H. Campbell-Bannerman had the temerity to advance this proposition publicly in the House of Commons. Yet Mr. Grobler, the Bethel commandant, states, "Some of the women had been insulted by Kaffirs." Mr. Birkenstock, of Vryheid, adds that "there is continual danger from the Kaffirs, whose attitude is becoming positively hostile." Why that attitude became hostile is revealed by another Boer speaker, who genially informs us that he and his men men took what they wanted from the Kaffirs whether the Kaffirs liked it or not.

The pro-Boers told us that a policy of severity would only spread disaffection, and heap fuel on the flames of rebellion in Cape Colony. Yet what say the Boers themselves? General Smuts states that it "was exceedingly difficult for Colonials to rise, for they knew that if they were captured they would be very severely punished by the English." and Botha remarks that the Colonials, though willing enough, "have been cowed by the heavy penalties imposed on all those who did rise. Many of those are well disposed to us but dare not join us now."

WHAT THE MEN EARN AT THE COAL MINES

Delaware and Hudson Wage Figures Now Made Public

BEFORE THE STRIKE COMMISSION

The Average Yearly Wage [illegible]—The Work of The Commission

Scranton, Pa., Dec. 16.—At the afternoon session of the Anthracite Strike Commission to-day figures were presented by the Delaware and Hudson Coal Company showing that the average earnings of the men at its mines are larger than the public has been led to believe. The figures, which are given below, speak for themselves.

The day's testimony developed an alleged attempt by the operators, through a man named Michael Grimes, to bribe thirty miners to pass a resolution in a Dunmore local for the members of the local to return to work. School superintendents and school principals were called to the stand to show the average age that the children of the miners leave the schools. These figures show that that they attend school almost as long as the children of other people in comparatively the same walk in life. All the witnesses spoke of the high standard of the schools in the coal regions.

The figures submitted by the Delaware and Hudson Coal Company show that company generally carries on the mining of coal by contracting with the miners. The miners employ as many laborers as they see fit, but generally a miner employs only one laborer. All other employees are hired by the operator by the day or month.

The total number of breakers operated by the company in 1901 was twenty-four and the number of tons of coal mined was [illegible]. Of this [illegible] tons were prepared sizes, 72,143 tons were washery coal, and the remainder was in steam sized.

The total paid by the company during the year for all expenses attendant on the mining of coal was [illegible]. The total amount paid to the miners during the year was [illegible]. The average amount paid each miner was $1,071.15. This was exclusive of supplies.

The approximate daily earnings of miners on the basis of breaker days was [illegible]. The approximate daily earnings of the laborers on the same basis was [illegible]. The approximate average earnings of the miner in 1901 was [illegible]; laborer, $449.47. The men employed by the day or month during 1901 earned in the aggregate [illegible]. The average number of days the breakers were operated during the year was 181 3-4; the lost time in 1901 by strikes and holidays other than legal holidays, was at each colliery, 14.7. The lost time by miners, per colliery, between breaker starts and miners starts, was the average, for each miner, of [illegible]; average loss of earning capacity, [illegible] 3-4 per cent. The company has no company store and no company doctor.

THE RUSH IN THE MAILS HAS BEGUN

Approach of Christmas is Already Apparent in Peterborough

MAILS DAILY BECOMING HEAVIER

A Few Pointers as to Postal Rates Which Will be of Interest to Times' Reader Just Now

Now that Christmas is close at hand and the people are in the midst of their purchasing for friends abroad, some information concerning the postal rates will be of general interest.

In the course of the joyous Christmas season, parcels of all sizes and descriptions and almost innumerable pass through the Peterborough office, and not infrequently they do not reach their destination in time, because of carelessness on the part of the senders. For instance, a parcel might be dropped into the box without a stamp upon it, in which case it goes to the Toronto office for "dead" second-class matter, where it might remain for a considerable time before being sent on to the one whom it was intended to make glad. Or again, a parcel may have insufficient postage on it. In such a case it is forwarded, and the recipient is charged with double the amount of postage it lacked. All these things mean delay, and to avoid disappointment should be guarded against.

Between now and the first of the new year, many tons of Christmas and New year gifts will be handled by the staff in the Peterborough office. Every mail, both incoming and outgoing, is larger than at any other time of the year, and the day and night clerks will have no time to spare. They will earn their salaries, if they never did before.

"The rush has already begun," said a postal clerk to The Times on Saturday "and it will daily become greater during the next two weeks. Of course, so far the increase is largely in the mails to and from the Old Country, for both in the British Isles and Canada there are plenty who avoid the rush and any possibility of disappointment by mailing their Christmas gifts about the first of the month. The work should be done early."

The post office officials would impress upon all persons the absolute necessity of wrapping all parcels in stout paper and tying them with stout cord, to lessen the liklihood of their getting broken by the rough handling they invariably receive. The authorities can also be aided by the writing of the address in a large, clear hand. Purchase stamps in advance, and also weigh and stamp packages at home and avoid the jam which generally occurs at the post office.

As to rates:—On parcels (merchandise) to Canada, the rate is 2 cents for 2 ounces and 2 cents for every additional two or fraction of two ounces, and to the United States, 1 cent per ounce. On parcels to England, 24 cents is charged for the first pound, and 12 cents for each additional pound. No parcel over 11 lbs., however, will be carried through the mails. There are two rates on calendars. Those printed on paper or card, 1 cent for two ounces is charged, while for the lithographed calendars 2 cents is charged for the first four ounces, and 1 cent for each additional two ounces. Christmas cards and photos, which form a good proportion of the mail at this season, require 2 cents for the first four ounces, and one cent for each additional two ounces.

A PAIR OF HOLIDAY TALES

How a C. P. R. Express Train Was Saved and How a Child Was Saved

The Times was handed the following for publication. If there is any doubt as to their truth, our readers are referred to Mr. Tom. Boddy.

One tells of a fast speeding express train saved from an awful wreck by an enormous electric light bug which lodged in the engine's headlight and wiggled his hind legs so lively that the magnified reflection in the shadows ahead of the train looked like the warning arms of some person on the track. The train was stopped just short of a dangerous washout, and then the engineer discovered the cause of the mysterious warning.

The other story is different. A little child lay sleeping on its cot. Its parents were absent from the house. A fiend in human form entered the room. He placed a keg of powder under the child's bed. Then he attached a long fuse to it which he carefully lighted. Then he sneaked out to await the explosion. But the child awoke, and finding itself alone began to cry. Its tears ran down over the edge of the bed, and extinguished that deadly fuse, within two feet of the powder.

The long winter evenings have a stimulating effect upon the imagination, but we cannot hope to see these exquisite works of art surpassed, even by our genial friend at the Snowden House.

New Military Regulations

Legislation is likely to be enacted fixing the period of annual drill of the Canadian militia at ten days. While the Government would be able then to call out the militia for that period of time it does not follow that it would do so. On the contrary, the probability is that the period of annual drill would be so determined as best to suit the conditions in the various military districts of Canada. But if it were needed to have the troops in camp for a longer tim up to twenty-one days the Government would have the necessary authority.

CAPE PRISONERS GET OFF EASILY

Royal Commission Does Work Calculated to Have a Pacific Effect

Judges Substitute a Punishment Which Better Fits the Crimes Committed

New York, Dec. 15—A Herald London special says: The Royal Commission on martial law in South Africa is thorough-going and far-reaching. The commissioners, in substance, recommend that sentences of penal servitude, even penal servitude for life, shall be either wholly remitted or reduced to short terms of imprisonment. Most of the cases, more than 700, occurred in Cape Colony and were charges of treason. The usual sentence of the court martial was death, but Lord Kitchener generally substituted penal servitude for life. Many eminent lawyers hold that these sentences, when passed upon civilians, were invalid, but the Indemnity Act of the Cape parliament has removed that question from the sphere of practical politics. The first reflection which this report suggests is the reckless and indiscriminate severity of martial law, which the duke of Wellington declared to be no law at all. There is no reason to suppose that the officers who composed these tribunals in Cape Colony during the war were incompetent or unjust. They were doubtless honorable and intelligent men, but the penalty of treason is death. They were there to have traitors shot. One Africander in Natal was let off with six years penal servitude, which is now reduced to three. His offence of possessing two soft-nose bullets was described with charming simplicity as "high treason."

The commissioners appear to have done their work in a careful and efficient manner. Two of them were judges of the high court, one being the lord chief justice of England while the third, Sir John Ardagh, is a soldier and formerly chief of the intelligence department at the war office. Almost all of the offences were political, and it would have been an act of high policy to remit the sentences. To leave them as they were was obviously impossible, and to exempt such as were independent of the war would have been easy. The pardon would then have come by an act of pure grace from the King through the channel of his constitutional advisers. Judges are the proper exponents of law, but the exposition of the law is a very different thing from the exercise of the prerogatives of mercy, which to political criminals, implies no censure, direct or indirect upon those who convicted and sentenced them. The report of the commissioners will be understood in Cape Colony to mean that the highest British judge not connected with the government, considers the administration of martial law as unduly severe, and oppressive. The lord chief justice could not take into account, as the cabinet might, the desirability of pacifying classes and races at the Cape. He could only compare the crime with the punishment, and say by how much the latter was excessive. The result is certainly a triumph for those who denounced martial law while it was being administered. Inasmuch, however, as more than a hundred prisoners have already been released by the recommendation of the commissioners, and as the sentences reduced to two years will soon expire, the influence of the commission is likely to be pacific. It has at least, relieved the government from the responsibility which they were strangely unwilling to face.

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 15—According to a semi-official announcement of James J Hill, president of the Great Northern Railway, made here today, that road has planned for the creation of a large ship-tain Boer leaders. Though he does not say so, his own brother was one of the men at whom this shaft was aimed.

"Piet De Wet was a renegade. If the two men ever meet Christian will shoot Piet down like a dog.

"Piet De Wet was a boyhood friend of mine, and I looked upon him as an upright, honest, God-fearing youth and man. But he betrayed his countrymen. He went over to the enemy and led soldiers under the British flag.

"He disgraced a name that his brother sought to make synonymous with loyalty and bravery. The world should know that his brother does not condone the other's misdeeds.

WILL SHOOT PIET.

"Christian De Wet would not relish the idea of murdering anyone, least of all a son of his own father. He does not come of a murder-loving race, but if Piet ever crosses his path he will kill him and never after suffer a qualm of conscience.

"Piet knows this. He has been warned. He probably will do his best to keep out of the way. Nor will Christian seek him out. It will be merely evil chance if the two come face to face.

"When Piet De Wet laid down his arms at Lindly and surrendered himself and his men without firing a shot, he furnished an example of the most tragic feature of our war."

Chicago, Dec. 16.—"If General Christian De Wet and his brother, Piet De Wet, ever meet, blood will be shed," said Francis William Reitz, state secretary of the South African republic, and for seven years president of the Orange Free State, soon after his arrival in Chicago today.

The story he tells of the hatred borne by the greatest of Boer guerilla generals for his brother has never before been made public. It is a tale, Mr. Reitz says, that the whole world ought to know.

MR. W. J. MORROW'S NEW STORE.

He Has Opened Up a New Grocery Store on Hunter Street

Mr. W. J. Morrow has secured a lease of the commodious premises formerly occupied by Mr. Ed. Welsh, opposite the Oriental Hotel, on Hunter Street, where he has opened up a first class grocery store. Mr. Morrow is known far and near as an experienced groceryman, and will, we are sure, do a large business. His stock is the very best that money can buy, and will be sold at the closest prices. The Times bespeaks for Mr. Morrow a liberal share of the patronage of the public.

Little Girl Burned to Death

Brockville, Dec. 16.—News of a terrible death comes from near Andrewsville, the victim being a little girl named Nellie Grey, who was fatally burned. The child's grandmother, Mrs. Rebecca Grey, was outside doing some work about the barn, leaving the child alone in the house. She was only gone a short time, but on returning the little one's clothes were in flames and the flesh of the body to the knees was literally roasted. A physician was summoned, but nothing could be done to save her, and she died within a couple of hours, suffering great agony.

"PAY LIVING WAGES OR GIVE UP COAL MINES"

The Strike Commissioners Express Views on Miners' Pay--Little Girls Testify to the Pitiful Compensation They Get

Scranton, Pa., Dec. 16—The mine workers, after occupying nineteen days in presenting about 160 witnesses, practically closed their case before the Anthracite Coal Commission yesterday afternoon.

The afternoon session was one of the most important sittings the commission has yet held, because the question of whether the close relationship of the coal-carrying railroads with the mining companies shall figure in the Commission's efforts to adjust the controversy came squarely before the arbitrators.

Mr. Gray's Ruling.

The decision of the Commission, if Chairman Gray's remarks can be so called, was briefly this: That the Commission, in a general way, is adverse to widening the scope of the investigation beyond the terms of the submissions of the miners and operators; that in carrying on the investigation it assumes the coal company can afford to pay fair wages; that if the coal companies, in presenting their side of the case, maintain they cannot afford to give an increase in wages, then the commission will hear what the miners have to say on the ability of the companies to do so; and if a business cannot pay fair wages, the employer ought to get out of it.

These points were brought out during the two hours consumed by the miners' lawyers in reading documentary evidence, to the whole of which the coal companies entered specific and general objections.

Under One Control.

The mine workers depended a great deal on the evidence they had to present to show that the coal-carrying railroads control the coal companies, and that the railroads charge exorbitant and discriminating freight rates, thus greatly decreasing the revenues of the mining properties. The miners wanted to present this evidence in documentary form but an objection was made to it, and sustained by the Commission, with the above rulings, the matter was not pressed.

The early part of the afternoon session was taken up in hearing the testimony of the remaining witnesses, who are or have been in the employ of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company, after which Mr. Darrow announced the close of his case, excepting that he would call one witness tomorrow on a matter entirely different from anything that had been offered.

James H. Torrey, for the Delaware and Hudson Company, said the companies did not want to go into their case and then after awhile have the miners come in with some production of tabulations that would start an issue that the companies would have to go back and meet.

Judge Gray replied the Commission would be adverse to widening the scope of the investigation beyond the terms of the submission.

Mr. Lloyd then read a syllabus of the documentary evidence the miners' counsel had to present. He said:

"For the purpose of connecting the present facts with the past, we offer evidence of the clauses, character and results of the combination, both of labor and capital in the anthracite coal industry; the profits of the business both of mining and transportation; the relations of transportation companies to operators and miners and the economic, political and social consequences that have resulted. This evidence we obtained from the reports of the various legislative investigations by the States of New York and Pennsylvania and by Congress from [illegible] to the present time.

Proof of Monopoly.

He read several reports of legislative and Congressional investigations of the mining industry, and followed this up by reading from financial and trade journals reports of the roads and mine companies, public announcements of financial institutions to show that a monopoly exists in the anthracite industry. He submitted five points in evidence to prove it.

It was during the discussion as to freight rates that Chairman Gray made the announcement that the commission was assuming that the operator could pay a fair wage, and that if employers cannot pay fair wages they ought to get out of the business.

Mr. Lloyd seemed to be satisfied with this view, and said he would go no further that the principle thus laid down by the commission would be welcomed by the workingmen of the country and not a precedent.

"If that principle is carried out, no employer in the country could, when his profits were low, decrease a workman's wages below the standard of fairness," he remarked.

Little Girls Testify.

Several little girls employed in silk mills were among the witnesses today. The first girl was 11 years old, and she had to go to work because her father had been hurt in the mines. She said she worked from 7 a.m. until 6 p.m., for $2 a week.

Annie Denko, 13 years old, said she worked at night from 6.30 o'clock until 6.30 in the morning. She had to stand up 'all' night during the work and received 66 cents a night. When the girl said she was employed at night, every member of the commission seemed to be shocked. Judge Gray appeared especially indignant. "I would like to see the father of these girls," said the judge. "It may be necessary to send them to the mills, but I don't think a father has a right to coin the flesh and blood of his children into money."

A Slavonian girl, 13 years old, who also worked at night gave her testimony through a 13-year-old girl interpreter. She worked twelve hours each night and received three cents an hour. She testified that her father owned the house she lived in. Chairman Gray remarked:

"Well, I'd like to see her father."

Another 13-year-old girl said she worked all night in the silk mill at Dunmore for 66 cents a night. Judge Gray said: "Does your father own his house?"

"Yes, sir, he's my father."

"He is your stepfather, I thought so."

The miners then put a breaker boy on the stand. He is 14 years old and has a 10-year old brother working in a breaker. The father of the boys was killed in the mines.

CRIMEAN VETERANS IN BOSTON

Fully a Dozen of the Fighters of Russia in Boston City

Boston, Mass., Dec. 17—There are several veterans of the Crimean war living in and around Boston. A large number of these veterans have the medal with the four clasps, indicating that they served during the whole of the campaign. Remembering that the British army landed at Old Fort, September, 1854, took part in the well-fought and bloody pitched battles of Alma, Inkerman and Balaklava and held the trenches around the closely invested city, through a winter of terrible suffering from cold, lack of food and transportation, and incessant, almost nightly sorties from their brave and active enemy, so that 60 per cent. of the [illegible] perished, it will be seen that the presence of a dozen or more men who were in the first expedition in a foreign city nearly half a century after the war, is a startling record.

Weary Brain Workers

All fagged out, ideas flow slowly as molasses, snap and energy gone! The buoyancy that made work a pleasure, that gone also. A doctor would say you are run down, enervated, neither eating or digesting enough. It's Ferrozone you need to brace up that fitful appetite and improve assimilation and digestion so that lots of pure blood will be formed to nourish the broken down system. SUBTERRANEAN PRISON CELLS AT PORTO CABELLO WERE BLOWN UP

Loot for the Marines--South America Alarmed Now That the United States Has Not Done Anything?

London, Dec. 17—An expression of a desire for a peaceful settlement of the difficulties has been received in London from the Venezuelan Government.

London, Dec. 16—The Under Foreign Secretary, Lord Cranborne, denied in the House of Commons today that the British commander was responsible for the sinking of the Venezuelan ships.

Will South America Unite.

New York, Dec. 16—The Herald correspondent in Caracas says he has learned on reliable authority that the Government of Argentina, in a despatch from Buenos Ayres, has instructed its consular representative to report to Buenos Ayres as early as possible what appears to be the attitude of the United States, and what view that Government is likely to take of its obligations under the Monroe doctrine in the face of the aggressive action of Great Britain and Germany.

Should the United States decide to remain impassive, on the ground that its interpretation of the Monroe doctrine does not warrant interference with foreign powers resorting to drastic measures for the collection of claims, the correspondent says he is informed that the Government of Argentina, feeling that the autonomy of all Southern American States is jeopardized, is prepared to take a decided stand by the side of Venezuela, and to offer her assistance to President Castro.

Argentina is not anxious to declare her attitude, and will only do so, it is said, in the event that the United States should maintain a complaisant attitude of non-interference.

It is believed that Chili also entertains similar intentions and many official cable messages have been exchanged between official representatives of the Venezuelan Government and those of the Chilian Republic in Valparaiso, as well as with Buenos Ayres.

A Cry From Ecuador.

Guayaquil, Ecuador, Dec. 16 — El Tiempo protests energetically against the attempt on the sovereignty of Venezuela, and says the outrage committed against that Republic affects the whole American continent. It believes that Latin America ought to protest unanimously, and to repel invasion if it is attempted. It considers the conduct of England and Germany as unheard of, as Venezuela is now passing through a revolution, and says they ought to have waited until it was settled to make any claims.

"If the United States does not now put into force the Monroe doctrine, checking the attack of Europe, El Tiempo declares, it will have no right to evoke it again in any case, meaning that it applies only to the North.

Forts Demolished.

Puerto Cabello, Dec. 16— The British cruiser Charybdis and the German cruiser Vineta bombarded the fortress here at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The fire was returned but after a bombardment of 45 minutes the Venezuelan guns were silenced. The fortress is composed of forts Solano and the Castle Libertador. After the firing ceased the Charybdis sent marines to occupy the castle. The fortress was almost demolished. It is probable that only a few persons were injured in the shelling. The commander of the Castle Libertador has been taken prisoner.

The cause of the bombardment was the seizure of the British merchant ship Topaze by the Venezuelans and the non-receipt of a reply from President Castro for immediate satisfaction. The British and German commanders gave the Venezuelans two hours to give that satisfaction.

The people of Puerto Cabello cannot account for this precipitate action on the part of the allies which they consider to be a proof that Great Britain and Germany intend forcing war upon Venezuela. The British marines propose to make use of the cannon in Castle Libertador. No damage was done to the town.

The outside harbor at Puerto Cabello is hardly more than a large bay, offering comparatively little protection to shipping. The inside harbor is very [illegible], and quite commodious. Puerto Cabello is second in importance to La Guayra. The trade of several interior Provinces centres here, and Puerto Cabello is the port of Valencia, an important town in the State of Carabobo.

Where is Uncle Sam?

Puerto Cabello, Dec. 16 The situation here continues to be critical, and there is much excitement among the German residents of Caracas, many of whom have called at the American Legation to seek refuge there. The people of Caracas are astonished that the Government at Washington remains silent in spite of the recent act of the allied fleet.

The enlistment of Venezuelan soldiers continues. Two thousand men from the interior reached Caracas today. The boycotting of British and German goods continues. It is reported that ninety Germans living in the country have offered to support the Venezuelan Government against Germany.

Will Not Land a Force.

London, Dec. 16—Replying to a question in the House of Lords today, Lord Lansdowne, the Foreign Secretary, said that if the seizure of the Venezuelan gunboats did not produce the desired effect further coercive measures would be employed. The matter has been considered in consultation with Germany, and it had been decided to resort to a blockade of the ports. It was not intended to land a British force, and still less to occupy Venezuelan territory.

Under Foreign Secretary Cranborne said no attempt had been made by Great Britain to refer the dispute with Venezuela to arbitration.

Premier Balfour presided at a Cabinet meeting held at the Foreign Office at noon today. The Venezuelan crisis and the King's speech at the proroguing of Parliament were the principal matters considered.

Caracas, Dec. 16—The Italian Minister, Rivas, only handed to the Venezuelan Government certain demands which were not in the form of an ultimatum, and in which he did not specify any limit of time for an answer. His note simply asked for payment of sums due to Italy, and in case of payment being made to other countries, it asked for the same treatment.

The Government answered today in the negative to the note of Minister Rivas, saying that tribunals exist in Venezuela to judge any claims arising from the revolutions.

Cautious Feeler.

Berlin, Dec. 16—The German Government has not replied to President Castro's offer of arbitration of the Venezuelan dispute, being still in correspondence with the British Government on the subject. It is intimated that Germany's reply is not likely to be ready for some days. The opinion in the Cabinet appears to be that President Castro's proposals are merely a move in a game designed to see what Germany and Great Britain are now willing to do, and also as a test of American public feeling. The prevailing idea here at present is that it is too late to arbitrate, ment's concern at the present moment is to guide the application of force so as to avoid what could be taken internationally as a declaration of war, entailing the recognition of Venezuela as a belligerent.

THREE MEN INJURED

A Span Fell at the Rink Yesterday and Injured Three Men

A serious accident occurred at the new skating rink on Charlotte Street yesterday morning, by which three workmen were injured. It appears that contractor Langford's men were placing an iron span in position for the roof, when the top of the span fell. Mr. Tom Padgett, carpenter, was working on the scaffolding just at the top of the column on the right side. He fell from his position, alighting on his shoulders and back with most painful results. A scantling fell on him, but not in such a way as to do injury. The ambulance was summoned and he was removed to the hospital. Mr. Geo. Elliott, carpenter, was working on the side wall at the time of the accident; he was thrown to the ground and sustained a nasty bruise on his forehead. Mr. Geo. Thompson, who was engaged at the iron work in a position above Padgett's, escaped with a few cuts about the face and a bad shaking up.

It was found that Mr. Padgett had three ribs broken on each side of his back. His injuries are not considered serious unless some internal complications arise.

THE BANK OF OTTAWA

Result of Last Year's Business Very Satisfactory—The Bank's Progress

We heartily congratulate the management of the Bank of Ottawa on the result of the year's operations, as shown by the financial statement which we publish elsewhere in this issue of The Times. The bank made a net profit of [illegible] upon the transactions of the year, which enabled the management, after paying $180,000 in dividends upon a capital of $2,000,000 and writing [illegible] off the bank building and furniture account, to carry $100,000 to their rest account, which now amounts to [illegible]. During the year branches have been established at [illegible], Man., Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, and at North Bay and Maxville, Ont., with satisfactory results. So great has been the expansion of the business since the increase of capital in 1899 that the directors were given authority to make a further issue of stock amounting to $1,000,000, of which $500,000 will probably be issued at once. The President, Mr. Chas. Magee, in his address submitted an interesting comparison of the bank's business, which showed that between [illegible] and 1902, while the capital stock had only increased by [illegible], the reserve had grown by $1,150,000, the deposits by [illegible], the circulation by [illegible], the loans by [illegible], and the number of branches from 8 to 24. The President recommended an increase of capital as the only practical means of obtaining relief from the inconvenience experienced in regard to the circulation. The assets of the bank, Mr. Magee stated, were never in a better or more liquid form than they are at present.

It was with universal regret the directors learned that President Magee, who has been on the board since the bank was established, had decided to retire, and they presented him with a cheque for $10,000. Mr. Alex. Fraser, who has been a colleague of Mr. Magee since 1874, also retired. The board was increased in numbers from seven to nine, and Messrs. Geo. H. Perley, H. K. Egan, H. N. Bates and J. B. Fraser, son of Mr. Alex. Fraser, were elected. Mr. Geo. Hay was elected President and Mr. David Maclaren Vice-President.

In order to take advantage of the improved conditions of business in the Northwest, branches of the bank have been established since the last annual meeting at Emerson, Man., and Prince Albert, Sask. Branches have also been opened in Ontario, at North Bay, and Maxville. So far as your directors can judge, satisfactory results are promised at each of these points.

As the figures submitted show, the business of the different offices of the Bank for the year has been profitable, and the Bank has participated to some extent in the prosperous condition of the country generally.

At the Annual Meeting in 1897, your Directors were authorized to increase the Capital Stock to $2,000,000. This authority was not availed of until 1899. During the three years which have elapsed since, a material expansion has taken place in the business throughout the Dominion, necessitating increased banking facilities.

Your Directors think it advisable to ask for authority from the Shareholders at this meeting to issue new stock to the amount of of $1,000,000, to be alloted from time to time, in such amounts and at such periods as the Directors may deem necessary.

Reference was made in the last Annual report to the increased accomodation needed by the staff of the Head Office, and to meet the growing wants of the business at the principal office in Ottawa. The changes then referred to were completed during the year, and have added greatly to the efficient carrying on of the Bank's business.

The offices of the Bank have all been inspected during the year.

The Directors willingly bear testimony to the continued faithfulness and zeal of the staff of the Bank.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

Charles Magee, President.

GEORGE BURN, General Manager.

The President then said:

The report submitted to-day ought to be considered satisfactory by the Shareholders. The net earnings are $30,331 less than last year, due chiefly to the fact that during the year we have considered it good policy to hold large reserves.

On the liability side of the general statement there is an increase in deposits, as compared with last year, of $1,404,338, and a decrease of $356,347 in liabilities, due to other banks in Canada and the United Kingdom.

On the assets side the increases are specie and Dominion notes, $409,774; balances due from the other banks in Canada, Consols, $306,105; Bank premises, $63,000, and in Call Loans, $408,300. The decreases are: Railway and other Bonds, $327,237; Current Loans, $447,366; Overdue Debts, $34,503. These figures show that, although our resources are greater by about one million dollars, the Current and Call Loans, together, are about the same as last year.

A comparison of some of the principal items in the Annual Statement of 1898, with the figures submitted to-day shows remarkable progress, and are as follows:

	Capital.	Reserve.	Deposits.	Circulation.	Loans.
1898	$1,585,410	$ 707,540	$8,889,884	$1,089,587	$6,687,001
1902	2,000,000	1,865,000	11,858,290	1,274,196	12,989,734

Dead Woman Tied in Buggy

Kingston, Mich., Dec. 15—Ella Beardsley, of Kingston, was found dead, tied in a buggy about four miles south of here. The horse was going homeward. The robes kept her from falling out of the seat. It is believed some one killed her, then tied the body to the seat of the buggy, and turned the horse loose.

Suit Abandoned

The suit threatened by the 48th Highlanders Band, Toronto, against the Mayor and several members of the citizens' committee who took charge of the arrangements on the occasion of the Old Boys' celebration last August, claiming $300 for expenses has been dropped. Last week several of the committee were canvassed by the plaintiffs' solicitor from Toronto, and on his return to the city the local parties were notified that the suit would be dropped if defendants would pay their own costs. The 48th band got all that was coming to them when they were awarded second prize, and endeavored to get expense money from the committee. The costs of the defence is about $25—Cobourg Post.

The CANADIAN STEEL AND COAL COMPANY was organized to mine and manufacture iron and coal, coke and steel in Canada at Atlantic tidewater.

The raw materials for these manufactures are:—

1.—COAL. 2.—IRON. 3.—LIMESTONE.

All these materials we have at hand.

1.—COAL.

The Company controls 3,000 acres of excellent coal areas in the Province of Nova Scotia, and efforts are being made to increase this to 10,000 acres by the purchase of some very valuable additional coal fields.

The coal has been thoroughly tested and found to be suitable in every way for the manufacture of iron and steel, and the supply is practically inexhaustible. The following analysis was made by the Canadian Geological Survey:—

ANALYSIS.

Moisture	4.05
Vol. Comb. Matter	30.72
Fixed Carbon	60.
Ash	5.23
	100.00

COAL VEINS.

The several layers or seams of coal available aggregate 27 to 30 feet in thickness.

TITLES.

These areas are held under Crown Lease for a period of 80 years. Royalty 10 cents per ton of coal sold.

2.—IRON.

The Company has acquired by purchase immense iron deposits on the North Shore of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, about 350 miles from Sydney. The deposits are estimated to contain 20,000,000 tons ore above sea level, with probably as much more below that line. The iron can be handled for $1.00 per ton or less. Quantities of this ore have been shipped to Great Britain and the United States, where it has given great satisfaction, and we can sell large quantities f. o. b. at the properties, netting us a profit of $2.00 per ton. This ore makes the finest steel.

3.—FLUX.

We are now negotiating for valuable deposits of dolomite and limestone of the most satisfactory quality, situated on the tide-water, within 100 miles of the works

MARKETS.

For six months in each year the Canadian markets can be reached by water at low freight rates, and at all times by rail. As Cape Breton is distant from Liverpool only about 2,300 miles; is nearer to Pernambuco, Brazil, than any point in the United States, and also nearer to Cape Town, South Africa, it has the advantage, in point of distance, for export business over any American steel-producing points, which, with scarcely any exceptions, are situated some distance from tide water. Under any conditions of the world's market, it is believed that the output of these works can be disposed of at satisfactory prices.

OUTPUT

When in full operation, the output is expected to be about as follows:—

1. IRON.—200,000 tons iron ore shipped direct from property, showing net profit of $2.00 per ton, total	$400,000 00
200,000 tons fine iron ore shipped in briquettes, showing net profit of $4.00 per ton, total	800,000 00
100,000 tons steel blooms, showing net profit of $3.00 per ton, total	300,000 00
2. COAL.—600,000 tons coal, showing net profit, at least, of $1.00 per ton, total	600,000 00
3. AIDS.—Government bounties (averaged) added to above per year for 6 years	100 000 00
Total yearly revenue	$2,200,000 00

GOVERNMENT AIDS.

To encourage the manufacture in the Dominion of iron and steel the Parliament of Canada has granted bounties as follows:—

		ON PIG IRON.	ON STEEL.
Apl. 21st, 1902, to July 1st,	1903	$2.70	$2.70
July 1st, 1903, " "	1904	2.25	2.25
July 1st, 1904, " "	1905	1.65	1.65
July 1st, 1905, " "	1906	1.05	1.05
July 1st, 1906, " "	1907	.60	.60

If the production of steel from the Company's works be as estimated, 300,000 tons per annum, the bounties to be received from the Canadian Government will be as follows:—

1904	$225,000
1905	215,000
1906	145,000
1907	85,000
or an average of $100,000.00 per annum for 6⅔ years	$670,000.00

NET REVENUE

Total net annual profits		$2,200,000.00
LESS FIXED CHARGES:—
7 per cent. interest on preferred stock	$70,000.00
Sinking Fund	60,000.00
Incidentals	25,000.00
		155,000.00
Net yearly profits		$2,045,000.00

Equivalent to yearly dividends of over 30 per cent., or 15 per cent. half yearly on total capitalization.

If the capitalization was increased to .... $20,000,000.00 this estimate would still show a dividend-earning capacity of 10 per cent. per annum.

The capitalization of the Dominion Coal Co. is .... $20,000,000.00 earning fully 12 per cent., and is paying 8 per cent. guaranteed dividends on this enormous sum.

The capitalization of the Dominion Iron and Steel Co. is .... $28,000,000.00 on which it is believed 6 per cent. dividends will be earned.

The capitalization of the Canadian Steel & Coal Company is only $6,000,000.00 controlling, it is believed, equally valuable properties, and it is reasonable to expect much larger dividends.

Within the last few months Dominion Coal shares common rose in market value from $40 to $144 per share, and Dominion Iron & Steel Company's shares common rose over $30 per share in market value.

With such low capitalization the Canadian Steel and Coal Co's shares should show tremendous profits, and it is confidently believed they will.

THE SOUR LAKE OIL CO.

Has placed four-fifths of its stock in the treasury for development work; and because

Oil is reached in less than half the depth required on Spindletop Heights in Beaumont;

The people in Canada are well acquainted with the management, which is in the hands of Hon. JOHN L. BITTINGER, United States Consul General to Canada; F. S. Ashley, Vice-President of the Massachusetts Securities Co., and W. L. Marston, Vice-President of the American Union Oil and Refining Co.

These gentlemen have made a dividend payer out of one company and have raised the value of its stock from 5c per share to par value, or 25c, within a very short time;

The company is operating in the Sour Lake field, where fewer wells will tap the oil than at Spindletop; this insures a greater flow of oil, and it is of a better quality;

This is the first allotment of shares at the present price of FIVE CENTS PER SHARE; it is the lowest price at which you can buy, and the time left in which to buy at FIVE CENTS is short.

STOCK MARKETS

The Extent of the Market Decline

New York, Dec. 16.—Have you stopped to consider the extent of depreciation in dollars and cents. Are you aware that the present range of prices means a decline in market valuations of far in excess of one and one half billion of dollars. Would you not imagine that this would more than discount the unpleasant results of close money, specially when you know that close money will only exist for a comparatively short time. The fact that the great railway lines are doing a phenomenal business as heretofore and are bound to do so, should hasten recoveries, once they commence to occur. Any one can figure the cash declines by multiplying the capitalization by the number of points decline in percentage the result will be the depreciation in the selling value of the property. The aggregate of all the companies thus figured will represent Wall streets shrinkage in values. The sum will prove appalling and lead one to the belief that the market at present had gone about low enough. Surely no such cash damage has really been done. Unless all past precedents are of no account the market should be good early, the coming year for an advance of from 10 to 15 points, even if the top pinnacle of our prosperity has been reached. If it has not been reached, then prices will advance from 20 to 40 points. Take the New York Central system with its capital stock of one hundred and fifteen million dollars. The decline in the price of the shares from 170 to 140 represents a cash depreciation for this one stock alone amounting to $23,000,000. Do you think the property is worth that amount less that on Sept. 1st last? To cite further instances would simply cause useless repetition; sufficient is to say these facts apply to every security dealt in on Wall street.

Summary.—Important banking interests are arrayed against further unwarranted declines and are buying securities on favorable opportunities. To-day's market reflected a stronger undertone than for several days. Money closed 4 per cent. Sales 651,100.

Yesterday a second child of Mr. R. S. Robson died from diphtheria, aged two years. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon to Little Lake Cemetery.

Her Death an Accident

The Magistrate who has charge of the investigation of the death of Mrs. Milton Gore, which occurred in Paris, has announced that there is no longer any doubt that she met her death accidentally.

A Bad Fall

Mr. John Moloney, the efficient and popular Clerk of the County Court, slipped and fell yesterday while passing along Brock street to his office. His head came in contact with the pavement, but fortunately the rim of the hat prevented what easily might have been a fracture of the skull.

Sold His Farm

Mr. Wm. Wood, formerly of South Monaghan, who has for about 30 years been a resident of Missouri, sold his 130 acre farm the other day for $42,000 cash. His stock sale will take place next month, and will probably bring $20,000 more. Mr. Wood is a brother of Mr. R. M. Wood, of town.

Hon. J. W. Longley Coming

The Fortnightly Club has secured the services of the Hon. J. W. Longley, a member of the government of Nova Scotia, who will deliver a lecture here on the evening of Jan. 15th. The subject selected for that evening is, "Men I Have Met" and should prove an interesting and instructive lecture.

Got Lame Back or Lumbago

No need of that now. That sort of pain can be knocked out in short order, for Polson's Nerviline, which is five times stronger than any other, penetrates at once through the tissues, reaches the source of suffering, drives it out and thus gives relief almost instantly. Not magic, but strength that gives Polson's Nerviline this power. You will think it magic however if you try it, pain goes so quickly. Sold by dealers everywhere, in large 25c. bottles.

The New President

Mr. W. T. Junkin, who was elected President of the Trent Valley Hockey League on Saturday last, has long been identified with sports. He is village Clerk of Fenelon Falls, the home of one of the swiftest hockey teams in Canada, and a club that will give a good account of itself the coming season, if we are greatly mistaken. Mr. Junkin has been an executive of the league for several years, and his promotion to the position of president of the Trent Valley League is a well deserved compliment.

A Bursted Water Main

A gang of men have been trying to excavate on George street, a few doors below The Times building, in order to repair a water main. It is hard digging, for the ground is frozen. It appears that the old town well is the cause of the trouble. It never was properly filled up, and a slight sinking of the earth has loosened the joints of the water pipe, causing a leak. This well, it is said, was dug over 70 years ago, and was used by nearly all the citizens for domestic purposes, and latterly as a means of extinguishing fires.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

—The streets yesterday were very slippery, and pedestrians found it difficult to walk.

—The sidewalks yesterday in some places were flooded with water and people took to the middle of the road.

—The Never Learn Dance Class met last night and had a very enjoyable time.

—Yesterday Mr. H. Long was in Port Hope catering to an important social function. Mr. Long is rapidly becoming known abroad as a very successful caterer.

—At the monthly meeting of the Young Men's Guild of the George Street Methodist church last night, Mr. Francis, of the Electric Works, delivered a very instructive address. During the evening refreshments were served.

All active members of the Y.M.C.A. are reminded of the annual meeting of the association to be held in the parlors on Tuesday evening, December 18th at 8 o'clock. Reports, election of officers and other matters of importance.

—An unfounded rumor was in circulation yesterday to the effect that another of the Aisling children had succumbed to scarlet fever. We are pleased to say that the remaining two are doing nicely.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

—Mr. Lane, of Apsley, was down yesterday on business, and called on The Times and renewed his subscription. He says that everybody in the back country reads this g. t. j.

—Port Hope Guide:—Mr. Donald McClelland, formerly of the Canadian Express Company, left this morning for Peterborough where he has secured a good position in the Toronto Bank. Donald's many friends here wish him every success in the northern town.

—Mr. Andrew McNeil arrived in town on Monday on a business trip, and has been kept busy shaking hands with his many friends. Mr. McNeil, who with his family have been residing in New York for some time, will again take up their residence in Peterborough at an early date. The Times extends him a hearty welcome back to the old town.

—Mr. and Mrs. Thos. A. Hurley, of Brooklyn, N. Y., are in town, the guests of Mr. T. Hurley. Mr. Hurley is head of the foreign department of the Remington Typewriter Company, and has organized the business of this Company in India, Burmah, Ceylon, Straits Settlement, Siam, Java, Australia, New Zealand, Philippines, China, and Japan, and has just returned from an extended tour. He came to Toronto to visit his mother and family, and his uncle, Mr. P. Hurley, of town. He left for Norwood, and returned to New York on Saturday.

Damaged by Water

On account of the bursting of a water pipe in the top flat over Mr. J. D. Tully's drug store, on Monday night, the place was deluged with water, and considerable damage done. In Mr. Manning's dental parlour the water was a couple of inches deep when he entered in the morning. There was also considerable water on Mr. Tully's floor, and the stock was badly injured. The work of repairing went on all day yesterday, but it will be some time before things are put to rights.

EXCURSION TO BERLIN!

Farmers should be interested in the fact that an opportunity will be given them to thoroughly investigate the merits of the beet sugar industry as it is carried on at the large factory in Berlin. A special train has been secured for on or about December 30th, which will go and return the same day. The rate will not be higher than $3, return. The hour of starting will probably be about 6.30 a.m. and of returning about 10 p. m.

FOR THE MAYORALTY.

Card to the Electors of Peterborough

To the Ratepayers of the Town of Peterborough:

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

In response to the numerous representations which have been made to me upon the subject, personally, by requisition, and through the press, I place my services at the disposal of the public as a candidate for the Mayoralty at the approaching municipal elections.

My association with the important municipal advances which the Town has been making during recent years, will enable me to give continuity to the aggressive forward policy which the Council has sought to pursue, and to bring experience and information gained therein to bear upon the work and problems which still more immediately confront us.

While I cannot lay claim to all the qualifications which have been flatteringly ascribed to me, such capacity for the office as I do possess is cheerfully placed at your service, and I ask your sympathy and support in the effort to maintain the position and standing, and advance the welfare of our already prosperous and progressive Town.

Respectfully yours,

G. M. ROGER.

Bank of Ottawa

Twenty-Eighth Annual Report

In 1892 we had six branches, and at present we have thirty-four.

Of the increase in the reserve, $[illegible] was paid in by the Shareholders during the period as premiums on new capital subscribed, and it is not entirely fair to compare the ratio of increases between 1892 and 1902 with the previous ten years, as the business of the country, as shown by the returns of exports and imports, as well as by the increase in deposits in banks, has advanced much more rapidly in the last decade.

Last year I directed attention to the inconvenience most of the banks experienced in regard to circulation, and indicated how, in my opinion, the difficulty could be surmounted; but I have not learned that the Bankers' Association have made any representations to the government, and Mr. Clouston, the President of the Association, at the last annual meeting, recommended an increase of capital as the only practical means of obtaining relief. The three large banks that had a surplus of circulation last year are now, owing to the great expansion of business, finding that they are also nearing the limit, and they cannot be relied upon to supply the needs of other banks. We are, therefore, face to face with the problem of how to find the necessary circulation to meet the wants of our business, and the only remedy we can suggest is to increase the Capital of the Bank, and, if you pass the bylaw to be submitted to-day, it is altogether likely the Directors will issue and allot half the amount, or $500,000, in the proportion of one share to four, as soon as the consent of the Treasury Board of the Dominion Government is obtained.

The Bank Premises Account shows an increase of $35,000, caused by the completion of some of the new buildings and other improvements under way at the beginning of the year. With the exception of two of the new branches opened recently, all the Branch Offices occupy good buildings, and are equipped with the most modern fittings.

There has been a gratifying increase in the number of Shareholders, of sixty, during the year. At the last Annual Meeting the list showed there were [illegible] Shareholders, and now there are [illegible].

The country has again been blessed with bountiful crops, and the business continues to be prosperous. This Bank has, I think, received its full share of the increase consequent upon this continued prosperity.

The recent intimation that the Grand Trunk Railway Company were going to extend their line to the Pacific has been heartily received by the Press and the Public of the Dominion, as the most important announcement since the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

The completion and opening of the Canadian Northern from Port Arthur to near Prince Albert, in time for the moving of the crops last season, was of great assistance to the farmers of the West, and if the Grand Trunk is extended westerly from North Bay on the northerly route suggested, it will give a third outlet for the products of the West, and more particularly of the Saskatchewan Valley.

In 1902 we had six branches, and at and the opening of this new territory, will stimulate the business activity of the whole Dominion, add largely to our population, and tend to prolong the prosperous period we are now enjoying.

Whilst on a visit to the Branches in the Northwest with Mr. Mather and the General Manager in September last, we were much struck with the rapid development of the country, and no one who has not gone through this Western Land in the harvest time can realize the enormous growth and expansion that is taking place, and if this Bank will judiciously extend its operations on the same conservative lines it has been doing in the past, to meet the requirements of the new territory to be opened up, it will, I am sure, add greatly to influence and prosperity.

The Assets of the Bank were never in better or more liquid form than they are at present, and its resources never more capable of taking up new business, which is constantly being offered.

And now, gentlemen, I think I need not make any further comment on the report, but I have a few remarks of a personal nature to make.

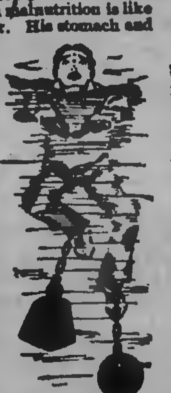
At the regular weekly meeting of the Directors, held on Monday last, I informed the members of the Board that I had decided not to allow my name to be submitted to the shareholders for re-election to-day. You have shown your confidence in me by electing me a director every year since the Bank was established in 1874. I was Vice-President from 1874 to [illegible], when I was elected President. During all these years I have endeavored to do my duty to the best of my ability and judgment. I have been able to work harmoniously with my fellow-Directors and the General Manager for the advancement of the Bank, and during this time we have never had any serious difference of opinion on matters of policy. It is owing to this harmonious working together as a Board that we have achieved success. I became much interested in the work, which was congenial to me. I was proud of the progress of the Bank and looked upon my duties here as an important part of my life work.

My retirement will afford promotion to others, and I hope the newly-elected Board will select Mr. Hay to fill the position I am vacating, as he is deserving of it. He has served on the Board the same length of time as I have, and in every way merits your confidence. I wish to thank you for the trust you have reposed in me for so long, and to ask you to acquiesce in my decision to retire.

Mr. Magee then read the Minute of the Directors referring to his retirement, and that of Mr. Alexander Fraser, who had also announced his intention of retiring, and moved the adoption of the Report.

The President having moved the adoption of the Report, the usual votes of thanks to the Directors and Staff were passed, also Bylaws increasing the number of Directors to nine, and increasing the Capital Stock of the Bank to Three Millions of dollars; also altering Bylaw No. 7 in relation to the remuneration of the Directors.

The following resolutions were then passed:



A MAN CAN'T swim in shackles. It isn't a question of his winning a race, but a question of being able only to keep afloat. The man who is suffering from malnutrition is like the fettered swimmer. His stomach and its allied organs of digestion and nutrition are diseased. It is not a question with him of winning in the race for business but of simply keeping up under any circumstances.

Whenever disease affects the stomach it is affecting also the blood and the health of every organ of the body. For blood is only food converted into nutrition and nutrition is the life of the body and every organ of it.

Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It purifies the blood and enables the perfect nutrition of the body which means perfect health.

"For six long years I suffered with indigestion and my liver and kidneys, which baffled the best doctors in our country," writes E. L. Russell, Esq., of Woolsey, Prince William Co., Va. "I suffered with my stomach and back for a long time, and after taking a 'cart-load' of medicine from three doctors I grew so bad I could hardly do a day's work. Would have death-like pains in the side, and blind spells. I began taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pleasant Pellets.' Before I had taken half of the second bottle I began to feel relieved. I got six more bottles and used them, and am happy to say I owe my life to Dr. Pierce."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood and lungs.

The Common Sense Medical Adviser, 1008 pages, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Moved by Mr. David Maclaren, seconded by Mr. J. Roberts Allan, and resolved:

That, on the occasion of the retirement of Mr. Charles Magee, and in recognition and appreciation of his past services as Vice-President and President of the Bank the General Manager be instructed to pay him ten thousand dollars.

Moved by Mr. George H. Perley, seconded by Mr. George Hay, and resolved:

That this meeting desires to place on record its sense of regret at the loss to the Bank of the valued advice of Mr. Alexander Fraser, by his retirement from the Board of Directors, after being a member thereof since the organization of the Bank.

Mr. Fraser said in reply that he thanked the shareholders for the kind and cordial way in which those present had received and adopted the resolution, and also for their support during the years he had been on the Board, and that, while he was sorry to retire from the Board, on account of poor health, he would still take a lively interest in the affairs of the Bank, and give it all the support he could.

On motion of Mr. Denis Murphy, seconded by Mr. James Ballantyne, Messrs. F. J. Wilson, and James D. Fraser were appointed scrutineers, and, after the ballot, they reported the following gentlemen elected Directors for the ensuing year: Henry Newell Bate, Hon. George Bryson, Henry Kelly Egan, John Burns Fraser, George Hay, David Maclaren, John Mather, Denis Murphy, George Halsey Perley.

The meeting then adjourned.

At a meeting of the newly-elected Board held subsequently, Mr. George Hay was elected President, and Mr. David Maclaren Vice-President for the ensuing year.

FRANCE AND ENGLAND NEVER MORE FRIENDLY

And the Former Country May Very Soon Acquire Large Possessions in Morroco

WITH THE TACIT CONSENT OF DOWNING STREET

Kaiser Wilhelm Adored by Journalist—Latest News by Cable to The Times

Paris, Dec. 17.—Any journalist would adore Kaiser Wilhelm, for he alone would supply one enough copy to make a good living all the year round.

Impulsive, whimsical, always original, never careing a jot what people will say or think of him, absolutely persuaded that if a common mortal may often cover himself with ridicule, an Emperor by divine right never can; he is always interesting, always fresh, quite content with his fate and perfectly happy to be alive.

A few days ago he did a thing which a sovereign had never done before. He headed the funeral procession of his famous subject and cannon maker, Krupp.

After the funeral he made a speech to the thousands of workingmen who had followed their master to the grave, taking that opportunity for denouncing the Socialists, who, he said, had undoubtedly caused the death of the great cannon manufacturer.

It is asserted in diplomatic circles that the relations between France and England have never been on a better footing than at present, and that all questions which might have given cause for difficulties were settled before the French Minister of the Navy reduced the fleet in the Mediterranean and stopped the construction of the three ironclads which had been ordered.

The result of that Anglo-French understanding is that England would allow France to have a free hand in Morocco, and that in exchange France would renounce any claim in the Newfoundland and the New Hebrides disputes, and, besides, would accept the status quo in Egypt.

The Morocco question will be to the fore in a short time. The present Sultan is far from being the proud Moor that his father was.

This son of a great warrior has two passions only, the phonograph and the bicycle.

Now this is all very well in a country where everything has to be spectacular in order to appeal to the minds of an imaginative population, where the Sultan is seldom gazed at, and is generally seen clad in white mounted on a superb Arab steed, holding in his hands a pair of golden reins, and surrounded by a crowd of mounted slaves.

His evenings are not spent in a much more dignified manner, for he passes them listening to the music hall ditties of Europe registered on the cylinders of his phonograph.

A cinematograph has also been installed in the imperial palace of Sultan Mulai Abdul El Aziz.

Of course, the diplomatists whoare influencing this monarch are utilizing his passion for toys. Some give kodaks, some present him with automobiles, others again have given mechanical toys.

It is just possible that, while the Sultan of Morocco is thus amusing himself, the French are preparing to add his dominions to their empire of North Africa.

A KING'S BRAVERY.

The King of Italy was cruising in his yacht near the island of Monte Cristo when he received a telegram announcing that Queen Helena was suffering. Fearing that the event which was expected in the royal family at any moment should transpire during his absence, he immediately decided to land at the little port of Lorento, where his automobile was awaiting for him. The sea was exceedingly rough, and as he got near the coast he soon concluded that he would never be able to land. Undaunted the King plunged into the sea and swam to land.

QUEEN WILHELMINA'S RULE.

The young Queen of Holland has been reigning for 12 years, and so has her remote kinsman, the Grand Duke of Luxemburg. Though one of these is almost the youngest of European sovereigns, while the other is absolutely the oldest, they are both in some difficulty as to the succession to their thrones.

Queen Wilhelmina's present heir-presumptive is the Grand Duke of Saxe-Weimar.

He would probably decline the crown, and after him come his aunts, one of whom is married to a half-brother of the Queen's consort. The first of these has several children; of course the Queen of Holland may yet be herself a joyful mother of children.

The Grand Duke's case is worse; he has but two kinsmen—an elderly son, who has only a family of daughters, and a half-brother who is morganatically married.

There is, therefore, considerable danger of this the last of the many branches of the great House of Nassau becoming extinct in the male line, which would involve a new and most ticklish Luxemburg succession question, as only males can reign there.

The venerable Grand Duke ascended his first throne as Reigning Duke of Nassau in 1839, when he was 22.

He was deposed in 1866, and lived as a private person for 24 years, until, in 1890, he succeeded to the Grand Duchy of Luxemburg.

EGYPT EUROPE'S GRANARY

GREAT POSSIBILITIES IN THE NEW NILE DAM

Doubling of the Product of the Country Will Make it An Important Factor in Supplying Europe With Food—How the Dam is to Benefit the Country

London, Dec. 17.—The latest stage of the upbuilding of modern Egypt which was celebrated last Wednesday by the ceremony of declaring the great Nile reservoir at Assouan open, marks the entrance of that historic land into the ranks of the great producers of the world. If, as predicted, the working of the new water system will double the productiveness of a country whose soil needs only tickling to yield a harvest, optimists say it will become the granary of Europe.

The contrast between the present conditions of agriculture in lower Egypt and those opened out by the new engineering work must make the development of Egypt in the next few years a matter of interest to the whole world.

The condition hitherto has been that it never rains in upper Egypt, while in lower Egypt rain is a negligible quantity. The Egyptian agriculturist in the most laborious way tried to insure his crop by having it watered at least once in three weeks. This made the extra cost due to the absence of rain about $12 an acre. The farmer knew that he could not expect rain in the months of April, May, June and July. His harvest time was in March and April. When the crops were gathered the land had to lie fallow till the next flood, which usually began in August.

Now this has all been altered, for above the dam at Assouan there is a reservoir 144 miles long. The river will sometimes be dammed back to a height of sixty-six feet above the present level, and the quantity of water impounded will be a thousand million tons. When the river is rising in August 180 sluices will be opened, and the red water containing the famous fertilizer known as Nile mud will pass freely through. When the water is subsiding and the water is clear, and when the discharge of the Nile has fallen to about 2,000 tons a second, the sluices will be gradually closed, and between December and March the reservoir will gradually fill up.

THE TARIFF POLICY

Liberals Will Discuss it at a Party Caucus

Ottawa, Dec. 15.—Agents of the Manufacturers' Association have been in town for the last few days interviewing the local manufacturers, with a view to bringing concerted pressure in favor of adequate protection. It is understood that these agents are going through the manufacturing centres on this mission. It is stated in high quarters that the Government will not definitely decide on their tariff policy until the House meets in the middle of February, when a caucus of the Liberal party will be called so that the members can express their views on the matter.

GREAT RUSH FOR RAILWAY CHARTERS

Parliament Will Consider a Number of Important Projects

MAJORITY FROM THE WEST

Canada Central Company Has Ambitious Schemes—Proposed all Canada Line to Dawson City

Ottawa, December 17—The coming session of Parliament promises to be a record breaker in the matter of the railway charters to be sought. An application is to be made by the Canada Central Railway Company for authority to construct a number of lines. One of these will run from Sudbury to Scotia Junction, thence southerly via Balsam or Sturgeon Lakes to Toronto. A continuation of the company's main line from Tete Juance Cache by way of the Thompson and Fraser River Valleys to Vancouver is also proposed, as well as a branch from the company's main line in Keewatin District to Port Churchill on Hudson Bay, a line from some points on the Thompson River or its tributaries to Waddington Harbor, or Bute Inlet and a line from near the site of Fort Assiniboia to some point on the Peace River and westerly to Portland Canal on the Pacific.

Line to Dawson City.

An all-Canadian line to Dawson City is contemplated by a British company to be known as "The British Columbia Northern and Mackenzie Valley Railway Company." The route to be followed is from Nasog of Gulf, or some other convenient point, ne ar the mouth of the Naas River in British Columbia by way of the Naas and Stikine Rivers, thence following Liard, Pelly and Stewart Rivers to Dawson. Powers for the building and operation of steamship and river steamers and telegraph and telephon lines are desired, as well as the acquisition and development of water power.

An Alberta Project.

A company asked to be incorporated to build from a point on the North Fork River, at or near Bull River, Alberta district to Crowley, on the Crow's Nest branch of the C.P.R. with power to build branches not to exceed 21 miles in length.

The Medicine Hat and Northern Alberta Railway announces a large scheme for building branches and extensions comprising a line from Medicine Hat to where Milk River crosses the International Boundary, and another from Battle River in a north westerly direction to Hudson Hope.

The Manitoba and North Western Railway Company aims at a branch from a point on its main line, between Yukon and Prince Albert, westerly and northwesterly to Battleford, thence to Wetaskiwin, on the Calgary and Edmonton Railway. By a branch line southerly from Churchill on its main line a junction will be effected with the Pheasant Hills branch of the C.P.R., at or near Esterhazy.

A company is to be incorporated to build line from Dawson City by the most direct and feasible route to the northern boundary of British Columbia, connecting there with the Pacific, Northern and Ominica Railway.

ALGOMA STEEL MILLS WILL RESUME

They Will Commence Running in Full Force on December 22

CIERGUE'S OFFICIAL STATEMENT

Contracts Have Been Received From Federal and Ontario Governments—"Soo" People Pleased

Sault Ste. Marie, Dec. 17—On Friday afternoon, F. H. Cergue authorized the News Record, of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., to state that the steel mill in the Canadian Soo would resume operations Monday morning, Dec. 22, with a full force on a large government order for rails it is expected will keep the plant in continuous operation.

This order is presumably from the Ontario Government from the Temiscaming Railway.

Referring to the big slump in the Consolidated Lake Superior Company's stock and rumors which have caused it the News Record says;

"The news of the slump was received in both Soos with much apprehension, for practically the heart of the business life of both cities lies in the Consolidated Lake Superior Company, the Canadian Soo being most affected as the greatest development outside of the canal construction has been on that side. This side of the river is not materially affected only as will naturally follow so sensational a decline in consolidated values. But on the other side of the river where many hundreds of men are out of employment by the closing down of one or more industries, especially at this time of the year, even though temporarily as stated by Mr. Cergue is the case, the natural business depression is keenly felt. People at such a time are apt to lend a too willing ear to extravagant stories and do rash things that not only injure themselves, but others.

"There is no doubt that the decline in the value of Consolidated shares will to a certain extent affect all the company's properties in the money market, and possibly for a brief period tighten up ready money that would otherwise be available, but the News Record has the assurance of F. H. Cergue that there is no cause for alarm.

"To a representative of this paper, Mr. Cergue stated to-day that there was no occasion for the apprehension that seemed prevalent concerning the operations of the company. He said that there was no reasonable cause for the decline in the shares of the Consolidated Company. The steel plant has been closed down temporarily, Mr. Ciergue said, because all orders that were booked had been filled. Negotiations had been in progress for some time past for future contracts and last night orders were received from the Canadian Government for rails sufficient to keep the steel plant in continuous operation.

"Mr. Cergue said that this contract was on a price basis entirely satisfactory to the company. A quantity of pig iron had already been received and more is on the way. Work will be started just as soon as sufficient stock is on hand to insure the continuous working of the plant.

"Mr. Cergue further stated that all of the company's various operations are progressing in an entirely satisfactory manner and that the company owns outright all its various mines and plants, which are free from bonds or mortgages. He also said that the only bank loans that have been made by the company were for the current operating expenses and that these have never been equal to the material and stock on hand."

WAR ON IN VENEZUELA NO PEACEFUL BLOCKADE

Says Premier Balfour--Blockade Involves a State of War--Britain's Object Set Forth

London, Dec. 17—In the course of a long statement in the House of Commons today, Premier Balfour said there was no such thing as a "pacific blockade." A state of war actually existed with Venezuela, and an intimation of the blockade would shortly be given to the powers.

Mr. Balfour added that the blockade will be carried out with as little inconvenience to neutrals as possible. Nothing definite had occurred with reference to the arbitration proposal since his previous statement on the subject.

The Premier also said the operations were reluctantly undertaken, not to recover debts, but, after a long and patient delay, to recover compensation for assaults on British subjects and the seizure of British vessels. He believed the Germans also had claims besides the financial ones.

Mr. Healy, Irish Nationalist, asked if the United States assented to a blockade which would exclude United States vessels. The Premier replied, "Neutrals are not consulted when you are in a state of war with a third party."

"'Is war declared?" asked Mr. Healy.

The Premier replied. "Does the honorable gentleman suppose that without a state of war you can take vessels and have a blockade.

Replying to further questions, Mr. Balfour said he had nothing to add regarding arbitration beyond what was contained in his previous statement on the subject. Papers were being prepared and would be presented to the House as soon as possible. He assumed they would include the communications which had passed on the subject of the blockade between the United States and Great Britain.

Mr. Balfour's statement was made in reply to the desire of the Liberal leader, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, for information on the Venezuelan situation. After reiterating Lord Lansdowne's brief statement in the House of Lords yesterday, the Premier continued:

"The blockade will be carried out by Great Britain and Germany along different portions of the coast, and although the fleets will have the same objects they will not act as one force. We never had any intention of landing troops in Venezuela or of occupying territory, even temporarily. We do not think it desirable on either military or other grounds. All the conditions governing such a blockade have been carefully considered, and will be published in due time for the information of neutrals. The Government are most anxious that these operations, the necessity for which we deeply regret, should be as little inconvenience to neutrals as they possibly can be made. No difference will be made between the vessels of the various neutral powers. I think it is quite likely that the United States will think that there cannot be such a thing as a 'pacific blockade,' and I personally take the same view. Evidently a blockade involves a state of war."

Mr. Balfour concluded his statement by saying he could make no annoucement as to whether the offer of arbitration from Venezuela will be accepted by Great Britain.

Arbitration Must be Limited

Financial Questions Quite Amendable But not Treatment of Minister

London, Dec. 17—Judging from statements given out for the Foreign Office, the Venezuelan situation does not appear to be any nearer a settlement. The Foreign Office claims that some matters are impossible to arbitrate, instancing the disrespectful treatment of Mr. Haggard, British Minister to Venezuela. Arbitration of the financial nor is there any desire to stir up opposition in official circles in London, nor is there any desire too tir up opposition here by continuing unnecessary the present armed compact with Germany; but, quoting from the Foreign Office, "at the same time there is not the slightest inclination to let Venezuela to go unpunished for her repeated insults and injuries. The offer to arbitrate comes very late in the day. We are not seeking a quarrel, but we must insure ourselves against a recurrence of the acts which led to the present situation."

Uncle Sam Burks Responsibility.

It is known that the Foreign Office had made inquiry as to whether the United States would be willing to guarantee the fulfilling of Venezuela's pledges, either at the immediate cessation of the present European action, or pending the award of arbitrators. This inquiry resulted in a direct negative from the United States. With the guarantee of the United States the Foreign Office says arbitration in the Venezuelan matters would be immediately probable, but, with only the word of a Government hitherto unreliable, arbitration is difficult of accomplishing, even upon the points where international relations admit of such a method of settlement.

British Feeling.

A point which had excited general prejudice in London is that the British Government has been committed virtually to support Germany's claims, which are believed to be a miscellaneous lot, good, bad and indifferent, yet there can be no withdrawal by either ally except by mutual agreement. This hard and fast agreement, which did not operate well in China, is regarded by many writers with uneasiness, since the German Emperor is cynically suspected of the intention of creating an estrangement between Britain and the United States.

Germans Annoyed.

The Germans are annoyed that the Liberal party in the British Parliament has drawn public attention to the game which Germany is playing with Britain in Venezuela. The British press urges the necessity of keeping Britain rigidly to the bargain.

Senor Schoeburgh, the only representative of the Venezuelan Government in London, who has been acting in conjunction with Castro's secret delegation in Europe, stated to the Associated Press today:

"After considerable negotiating in London and on the continent, a suggested plan of settlement was arrived at. Subsequently the firm of J & A. Seligman & Company of New York, and one of the leading French banking concerns promised tentatively to support the plan. In brief, this plan provided for the consolidation of all debts and claims into a unified loan not exceeding $8,000,000, to be known as the 'Venezuelan unified [illegible] per cent. loan of 1902.'

"In conjunction with this plan an international bank, under European control was to be established, and interest on the loan was to be guaranteed by the customs. Fiscal agents appointed by this bank were to be installed in all custom houses,' and were themselves to collect interest on the loan. If at any time the customs receipts proved insufficient to meet this interest, the Government undertook to make good any deficiency out of other revenues. This plan by no means has been given up, although, of course, all negotiations to this end are at present at a standstill. The British and German creditors of Venezuela must eventually rely upon some financial arrangement as the only method of getting back their money."

Two Cities Under Siege.

The Gates of Mei Chou and Kiatingfu Are Closed for Fear of the Boxers

Victoria, B.C., Dec. 17—Mail advices received from Chuang King, in the Szechuan Province of China, report that both the cities of Mei Chou and Kiatingfu have had their gates closed and a state of seige declared, owing to the numerous bodies or armed Boxers in their vicinity, it being feared by the officials that the insurgents may take the cities by surprise. Troops were sent to raise the seige of the two cities, but failed. It is reported from Pekin that Yang Lu, a First Grand Secretary of China, who since Li Hung Chang died is the most powerful man in China, is anxious to resign. The Empress Dowager proposes to abdicate next year, and Yang Lu wishes to anticipate the event by placing himself beyond the range of consequent complications.

Kaitingfu, one of the cities mentioned in the above despatch, is a mission station of the Methodist Church. The mission rooms have as yet received no advices of this danger, though their missionaries have instructions to cable if the danger is acute.

Obbia Port Chosen.

London, Dec. 17—Obbia, in the Italian Protectorate has been selected for the disembarkation of troops, Illig having proved unsuitable. Obbia is in every way satisfactory, as good water, grazing and anchorage are to be had there. The Sultan of Obbia has promised the assistance of 300 mounted scouts. Obbia will now become the base of the main operating column, while large forces will be maintained in garrison at Bohotle and Garrero. It is known that the 1st Battalion, King's American Rifles, are to move to Obbia, where everything is in readiness for their reception.

A despatch from Berbera states that upon the completion of the disbandment of the Somali levies four new companies will be enlisted.

A corps of mounted infantry for service with the field force has been formed. It consists of 150 Punjaub Mounted Infantry and 150 Somalis picked from the disbanded levies. The mounted infantry force is commanded by Major P. A. Kenna, V.C., D.S.O. Eight officers have been seconded from the Somali levies for duty with the Somali Mounted Infantry. The unit will be commanded by Major A. G. Sharp. One officer and 40 men of the Punjaub Mounted Infantry have been detailed to act with the Somali mounted force.

THE KING'S CORONATION AS EMPEROR OF INDIA

Great Preparations for the Coronation Celebration at Delhi, India

THE EAST AND WEST WILL VIE IN SPLENDOR

When Edward VII Will be Proclaimed Emperor of the Historic Land Will Be a Notable Display

London, Dec. 17.—What promises to be the most pageant of modern times is the forthcoming durbar, or coronation celebration of King Edward as Emperor on India. The affair will take place in the historic city of Delhi, the greatest railway center of India and the place which from time immemorial Emperors of India. The affair will take place in functions, and from which the proclamations have been issued. Lord Curzon, the Indian viceroy, and the Duke of Connaught, the King's brother, will represent the majesty of England on the occasion, while many other distinguished Britishers will add to the glamour of the show.

The east, ever fond of display, is now converging towards Delhi. Caravans of wealthy merchants, elephants carrying potentates, camel trains loaded with costly wares and escorted by mounted troops are daily and nightly wending their way over the plains and mountains of Hindoostan to the city of the festivities.

In Delhi itself all is preparation. Rents are bringing fabulous prices; landlords asking as much as $300 and even $1,000 for a single room during the two weeks of the festivities. Houses small ones even, are renting anywhere from $3,500 up to $6,000 for two weeks. The Maharajah of Mysore has paid $9,000 for a bungalow of small dimensions, and the Nizam of Hyderabad has rented a mansion for two weeks at a record figure—$175,000.

WILL BE A MAGNIFICENT FETE.

Every Indian liner recently leaving England has been crowded with distinguished guests. Wealthy London society thinks nothing of paying $2,500 for a passage and going thousands of miles to witness a two weeks' ceremony. Indeed the long trip through the Suez canal is rather looked upon as a junket of delight, for the steamers making the journey were turned into oceanic hotels; theaters were fitted up on some of them, and every conceivable game from ping pong to deck tennis and golf, were provided for the entertainment of guests.

Up to the present it is estimated that Lord Curzon has spent $1,000,000 on preparations. From his view point the money is well expended. In bringing all the various potentates, princes and principalities of India together — the thrones, seraphim and cherubim, as they deem themselves — he will be doing a good work for the general pacification of England's greatest eastern possession.

The magnificent fete may be well calculated to turn the head of so young a viceroy. Lord Curzon is only 34 year sold. He is a man of very serious mind, however, the son of a distinguished churchman, Rev. Nathaniel Holder Curzon, fourth Baron Scarsdale, and has been a student all his life. He has traveled extensively all over the east, and is the author of a number of books on eastern questions. He was educated at Eton and Oxford, has taken a number of degrees, and has held important political positions—among others those of under secretary of state for India, under secretary of state for foreign affairs and has distinguished himself as M.P., for Lancashire.

SOME OF THE FUNCTIONS.

Lord Curzon's wife, who was May Leiter, of Chicago, has taken the greatest interest in the forthcoming durbar. She is responsible for many of the arrangements. She personally planned the decorations of the camp for the guests. The main theme of these decorations is white, gold and blue. Lady Curzon also conceived the idea of having the route of the procession lined with magnificently caparisoned elephants coverted with cloth of gold. The beautiful ivory mosques and highly ornate buildings of Delhi will be magnificently decorated, some of the domes of the buildings being heavily overlaid with gold

The date for the beginning of the durbar ceremony is December 29. On that day the viceroy will arrive in state at Delhi and will ride on a state elephant along the elephant-lined way from one gate to another. On January 1 the coronation durbar durbar proper begins. At this function all the princes of India will be assembled; the governors of Madras and Bombay, and the lieutenant governors, as well as Kings and princes from many Asiatic states. On this date the King will be proclaimed ruler of India in the great eastern amphitheater of Dehli, which accomodates 5,926 persons. The central portion of the auditorium will be occupied by Lords and Lady Curzon on a raised dais of carved alabaster.

After the proclamation there will be a review. The viceroy, mounted on his state elephant, will await near the palace of the Mogul, erected by Shah Jehan, over which he wrote the words: "If there is a paradise on earth, it is this; it is this," while all the western princes and Kings, also on state elephantas pass by him and salute with all the pomp and ceremony of an eastern salaam. Kings, princes, governors, captains, will bow low to the viceroy, as if, indeed, he were the real King of all India, instead of the representative of a conquering race.

Various functions will fill up the time until January 12, when the celebration will come to an end.

One of the great events will be the state ball on the night of January 6 and at which 5,000 persons will be present. The room in which it will be held was formerly Shah Jehan's harem and it is one of the most sumptuously decorated of all the rooms of Indian palaces. Its ivory carvings alone have been estimated as worth nearly $10,000,000.

Delhi, the seat of the durbar, is one of the most progressive towns in India. Thirty thousand of its 200,000 people earn their livings in factories which have the most up-to-date American and English machinery.

THE VENEZUELAN QUESTION

—The steps that are being taken by Great Britain and Germany to enforce their claims against Venezuela are being watched with keen interest in the United States. The New York Sun discusses the matter in dispassionate language and admits that there are recognized precedents for the course which the two European nations are following. England not long ago enforced a claim against Nicaragua by the occupation of Corinto, without any protest on the part of the United States, and in the year 1861, England, France and Spain jointly occupied Vera Cruz in prosecution of their claims against Mexico, also without protest from the United States. The Sun is somewhat comforted, in the contemplation of a delicate diplomatic situation, by the knowledge that Germany is not acting alone in the matter, but with the concurrence and co-operation of England. "We have no longer any reason," the Sun says, to impute to Great Britain a desire for territorial aggrandizement at the cost of Venezuela, and her known wish to maintain the most cordial relations with the United States may be accepted as a guarantee that she will not attempt to heed, or countenance Germany in holding any Venezuelan custom house after the claims against the Caracas government have been paid." Should things, however, it goes on to say, turn out differently any European power attempting to treat an American commonwealth as France treated Mexico, or as England treated Egypt, "will have us to deal with." The reference to England's treatment of Egypt is not a happy one. If ever one country said another under pasting obligations that is the case between England and Egypt. To-day there is no European nation having any important financial interests in Egypt that would wish to see English protection and administration withdrawn. However, that is not the point just now. The point is that Venezuela may have as many revolutions as it likes, and be as great a nuisance as it likes to other countries but no European power must undertake its reformation. And why? Mainly because the United States does not want to have any more strong neighbors on this continent. That and no other is the secret thought and motive underlying the Monroe doctrine. The maintenance of that doctrine is purely a question of national policy to be enforced at the cannon's mouth should it come to that. That it possesses any moral authority no one can pretend. No one, that is to say, could affirm that any wrong had been done to the United States if, against her wish, and against her efforts to prevent it, some European power were to succeed in establishing a flourishing colony in some part of the South American continent. The United States means that this shall not happen, and to prevent its happening she is increasing her navy at a very rapid rate. For the defence of her own territory a very small navy indeed would suffice, as it sufficed for the first hundred years of her history as a separate nation. Circumstances alter cases.

THE CONTINUED COAL FAMINE

The people of the country have been singularly patient with the coal famine that resulted from the Pennsylvania strike. This is nearly as severe as ever, though the mines have been in operation for several weeks. The dealers under control of the mining companies could dole out a little coal to the consumers while the strike was in progress. They cannot do more now, though mining has been going on for so long. The difficulty seems to be in distributing the coal that has been mined. Miles of coal cars filled with anthracite are said to be standing on the sidings of the railroads running out of New York, while domestic consumers throughout the country have to buy by the ton and large consumers still have to use soft coal.

Apparently an enormous invisible supply of anthracite was drawn out of hiding by the severe demands of the strike period, and the pace of this has to be fixed before large quantities can reach the market. The interesting thing is that though all this stress, prices do not rise except in a few places where speculators have been able to get hold of coal. The plan of the great operators from the beginning has been to placate public opinion by preventing rises in price. They have done this whenever they could control dealers, and where they could not they are freezing dealers out. Perhaps this is part of the readjustment that must be completed before coal can be plenty again.

CRIMEAN VETERANS IN BOSTON

Fully a Dozen of the Fighters of Russia in Boston City

Boston, Mass., Dec. 17—There are several veterans of the Crimean war living in and around Boston. A large number of these veterans have the medal with the four clasps, indicating that they served during the whole of the campaign. Remembering that the British army landed at Old Fort, September, 1851, took part in the well-fought and bloody pitched battles of Alma, Inkerman and Balaklava and held the trenches around the closely invested city, through a winter of terrible suffering from cold, lack of food and transportation, and incessant, almost nightly sorties from their brave and active enemy, so that 60 per cent. of the perished, it will be seen that the presence of a dozen or more men who were in the first expedition in a foreign city nearly half a century after the war, is a startling record.

—A SURE WINNER—

The Electric Spark Gold Mining Company

INVESTMENT in new mining companies is the poor man's opportunity to acquire wealth; the great mines of this country were developed almost altogether by people of moderate means, and it is no unusual thing to find that some of the stock of such companies which have made pronounced success is divided among thousands of small subscribers. To-day the poor man has his chance of wealth, "as wild cat mining companies can not do business in these enlightened days" If he neglects to take advantage of it he will have himself to blame.

THE ELECTRIC SPARK GOLD MINING COMPANY will in less than one year from to-day pay your investment back in dividends, if you buy now. This is not guesswork, but based on facts and figures. This is a business proposition from which every possible risk is strictly eliminated; there are no chances connected with it; it is simply a question of whether a person has the money to spare to place in a good safe investment, which will unquestionably bring large annual returns. We present herewith is a small way the location of the mineral veins on our property. The vein at the bottom of the shaft is about 4 feet wide, the shaft is 140 feet deep, the vein matter is very rich, of which we will be pleased to send samples to anyone who will ask for them.

The ore from this mine contains GOLD, SILVER and COPPER, which aggregate values of from $25 to $85 per ton; $10 ore from this mine will pay a handsome profit to work. We are located ¾ of a mile from BLACK HAWK, GILPIN COUNTY, COLORADO, on the Colorado & Southern Railway, only 40 miles from Denver. This is one of the oldest and RICHEST MINING SPOTS in the country. One great historian has called this county the GOLDEN BOWL with a silver rim; the central part of the county abounds with hundreds of rich gold mines, while the outer edge is dotted with silver mines. The Electric Spark Company is located almost in the center of this famous golden bowl.

We have placed a small block of our stock on the market at 20 cents per share; certificates issued from 100 shares up.

W. A. ROGERS, Secretary and Treasurer.

When Buying Mining Stock Buy the Best

AN INVESTMENT IN THE

Pitkin Gold Belt Mining and Reduction Company

Which is Safe and Sure of Quick Returns, may Bring an Enormous Return at any Moment. It has the Possibilities of Rivaling the Great Mines of the Past.

This Company has a mine on a true fissure vein, in the center of the Gunnison Gold Belt, Colorado, which is the "Mother" lode or dike, which has produced 55 per cent. more gold than the total output of the Cripple Creek district.

This Mine is no Prospect. Nor is it Waiting on Your Subscription to Buy Machinery or for Development.

After a careful examination by experts, Joseph M. Bradley, M. E. and Mr. George Arlett, A. I. M. E., Amalgamated Copper Company's expert in Chihuahua, Mexico, they advised the purchase of the property. The property had shallow development upon it, showing two ore shoots from which smelting ore had been shipped to the Buena Vista Smelter.

The Company purchased and paid for the latest improved machinery and has put a shaft down 250 feet and intend to carry it down 1000 feet. On the 150 foot level 200 feet of development has been made and an ore shoot has been encountered and blocked out for 87 feet, carrying values in gold from 2 to 6 ounces or $40 to $120 per ton. The cost of mining, hauling, freight and smelters charges will be between $12 and $15 per ton.

Ed. McCarthy & Co., bankers, guarantee a shipping mine of smelting ore ranging from 2 to 6 ounces in gold, or $40 to $120 per ton, by January 1st, 1903, or all funds will be returned to subscribers upon presentation of receipt issued by said bank.

Also to prospective purchasers of $500 worth of stock we are offering a free trip to Colorado and return. You investigate first and purchase afterward. Could you expect anything fairer than this?

The capital stock of this company is $1,000,000, divided into 1,000,000 shares of stock at $1 each, full paid and non-assessable. A portion of the treasury stock is now offered at in one payment, or 20 per cent. down and the balance in four equal monthly payments, for necessary expenditures and improvements on a shipping mine.

25 CENTS PER SHARE—PAR VALUE $1.00

BECAUSE

THE SOUR LAKE OIL CO.

Has placed four-fifths of its stock in the treasury for development work; and because

Oil is reached in less than half the depth required on Spindletop Heights in Beaumont;

The people in Canada are well acquainted with the management, which is in the hands of HON. JOHN L. BITTINGER, United States Consul General to Canada; F. S. Ashley, Vice-President of the Massachusetts Securities Co., and W. L. Marston, Vice-President of the American Union Oil and Refining Co.

These gentlemen have made a dividend payer out of one company and have raised the value of its stock from 5c per share to par value, or 25c, within a very short time;

The company is operating in the Sour Lake field, where fewer wells will tap the oil than at Spindletop; this insures a greater flow of oil, and it is of a better quality;

This is the first allotment of shares at the present price of FIVE CENTS PER SHARE; it is the lowest price at which you can buy, and the time left in which to buy at FIVE CENTS is short.

Bankers Confident of Further Improvement

New York, Dec. 17.—The larger banking interests openly announce their belief that the financial storm is over true, and after turbulence and feverishness will exist for the while, but they freely state it to be their opinion that the next great movement in prices from the present range will be for the better. Some of the most powerful monetary institutions are heavy contributors to the $50,000,000 money pool, established to aid in obviating as far as possible any money squeeze between now and the first of the year. Stocks are selling at prices at present that would discount a continuous money market from now on until some time in Jan. of from 10 to 20 per cent., yet we doubt if it will come anywhere near reaching such figures, and only spasmodically at that. The fact that London has been a buyer of Americans on balance the past two days is conclusive evidence that they see no likelihood of American embroilment through the Venezuelan difficulty. Another most favorable feature is that on declines smaller volume of stocks comes out indicating the thoroughness of liquidation and the likelihood of its termination. Investors have also been attracted by the low range of prices and the immense amount of securities have been purchased outright, and taken up and paid for. A large short interest also exists and should they [illegible] start to cover at one time for any reason there should be more or less pyrotechnics in quarters of the market. We feel it to be a time to be most outspokenly and pronouncedly bullish consequently speak in a most positive strain in these letters, at the same time cautioning purchasers against believing that they can with certainty make their purchases at exact bottom prices. One thing is certain, what they will buy now at present prices and to be disposed of a little later on at much better figures. The people who buy freely now will do so at comparatively more safety than if they deferred purchasing until the general market conditions are clearer and stocks are higher.

Dining Room Girl Wanted

Dining Room girl wanted at Snowden House. Highest wages paid. Apply at hotel to Wm. Snowden.

For a Xmas Present

Pretty evening shawls crotched out of orkaney floss and made to order. Nothing nicer for a Xmas present. Orders may be left at Times Bookstore.

SABLE FUR LOST

Between the corner of Charlotte and Park streets, up Charlotte and across Gilmour streets, a small sable fur. The finder will be liberally rewarded by leaving it at The Times Bookstore.

Ashburnham Kindergarten Exercises

The Times is in receipt of an invitation to the closing exercises of the Ashburnham kindergarten, which will take place this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the school room. A very pleasing programme is to be presented by the little folks.

The Aisling Family

The two remaining Aisling children as well as the parents are recovering from the attack of scarlet fever. It is only fair to say that the condition of the Aisling home was exceedingly unsatisfactory, from a sanitary point of view, and this no doubt gave birth to the disease. The house has been thoroughly cleaned, renovated and disinfected.

Mr. Whiten's Photos

A very creditable display of photographs are to be seen at the entrance to Mr. G. B. Whiten's studio, Hunter Street. The pictures are of exceptional merit, showing Mr. Whiten's artistic ability to advantage. In children's photography Mr. Whiten displays much taste.

Peterborough Protestant Home

The Committee of Management of the P. P. Home gratefully acknowledge the following donations for the month of November: Mrs. Dr. Burnham, Toronto papers; Mrs. Dawson, vegetables; Miss Mayme Brown, reading matter; Mrs. Hoover, clothing; Miss Roger, clothing; Mr. A. Bean, reading matter; Mrs. R. E. Brown, reading matter; Mr. James Ferguson, bag of apples.

Another Victim of Fever

Yesterday morning the little three-year-old daughter of Mr. Wm. F. Elliott, carpenter who lives at 189 London street, died from malignant scarlet fever, complicated with an attack of pneumonia. Two other children are down with the disease and are very seriously ill. Much sympathy will be felt for Mr. and Mrs. Elliott in their sad bereavement.

Closing Exercises

The kindergarten exercises in connection with the South Central School, took place yesterday, and were witnessed by many of the parents and friends of the little folks. Much credit is due Miss Davidson, the principal, and her assistant, Miss Rush, for the high standing of the pupils. The programme was of the usual character on such occasions, consisting of songs, recitations, choruses, marches and games, in all of which the little tots were wonderfully proficient.

A New Scheme

The Times notices in one of its American exchanges a novel advertising scheme that might with advantage be adopted by some of the Peterborough stove men. In Shelby, Ohio an advertising firm has struck a popular chord by furnishing heat for the pedestrians of Main street. They have placed one of their best stoves on the sidewalk with a roaring fire in it. A pipe runs up twenty feet and gives the stove a good draft. They keep it hot all day, and in addition to the stove being an advertisement for the firm, it keeps warm the hands of many an ungloved citizen who happens along that way.

A Mimic War

Farmers driving into town as well as citizens who live on the outskirts need not be alarmed on Saturday next when they hear the sound of war. By permission of Col. Miller, the non-commissioned officers' class of the 57th Regiment will practice the new skirmish and attack drill against an enemy supposedly approaching Peterborough from the north-west. All the present class of instruction who can possibly get away and several of the Non-Commissioned Officers of the Regiment have signified their intention of taking part. Fur cap, regulation mitts and unlimited blank ammunition will be issued to all concerned.

The Critical Time of Life

Is between the age of fifty-seven and sixty-two. Nature's power slows down, vitality becomes less, and the process of decay sets in. A means of extending old age and renewing decreasing vigor is to take Ferrozone after meals. Ferrozone keeps up the appetite, and in the formation of red, vitalizing blood, imparts clearness to the tiring brain, force, energy and spirits just when they are needed most. To take Ferrozone regularly means adding from ten to twenty years to life. Large boxes 50c., or 6 boxes at $2.50, at Druggists, or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

THE ONTARIO BANK

Has Outgrown the Present Quarters—Premises to be Enlarged

It will be pleasing news to the many friends and customers of the Ontario Bank in Peterborough to learn that the premises of this popular institution are to be greatly enlarged and improved. Plans have been prepared by which the space is to be more than doubled, besides other improvements, in the way of distinct waiting rooms for the use of the customers of the savings and other departments. New and elegant fittings are to be added. When the work is completed the bank will be one of the most complete of any in the Province, outside the large cities.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

—"A Royal Slave" was presented at the Opera House last night to a fair audience.

—Wood was offered yesterday quite freely on the market at prices ranging from $4.50 to $7 per load.

—A man charged with being drunk was before the Police Magistrate this morning and was discharged.

—The righteous as well as the wicked have been walking in slippery places of late, the pavements being exceedingly icy.

—Great quantities of oats are arriving at the Cereal Works. Yesterday farmers for a distance of 30 miles from town brought grain to the works.

—Only a few copies left of the new wall map of the County of Peterborough. Price $2.50. Secure one before it is too late. Times Printing Co.

—The death occurred yesterday at the Protestant Home of Horace Abbe, aged 73 years. He leaves a wife and several children. The funeral takes place to-day at 3.30 o'clock.

—When Peterborough gets its beet sugar factory going, with an output of 40,000 barrels or over, per year, it will not only be the best but will also be the sweetest town in Canada.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

—Mr. John Crane, the popular manager of the Ontario Bank, was up to Toronto yesterday on business.

—Mr. Ed. Minicola, of the Hunter street firm of fruit dealers, intends leaving in a few days upon a visit to his home in Italy. Mr. Minicola came to Peterborough direct from Italy in 1886, and has not since visited the land of his nativity.

—At the annual examinations of the senior nurses of the Hamilton City Hospital, held a few days ago, Miss Zella (Dollie) Irwin, daughter of Mr. Thos. C. Irwin, of town, passed her final examinations in a highly creditable manner. In all subjects Miss Irwin took the highest standing for general proficiency.

Mr. G. C. Edwards, representing Henderson Roller Bearing Manufacturing Co. Toronto, is in town in the interests of the company, with the object of placing stock with investors. The company is now pushing its interests and preparing a plant to place the bearing on the market. The splendid features of the invention commend it to manufacturers of machinery and users of power.

A VIRULENT FORM

The Type of Scarlet Fever in Town is Very Malignant and Fatal

The type of scarlet fever which has broken out in town is of a very virulent and fatal character. Already several children have succumbed to the disease, and others, who are now down with the disease, it is feared, will not recover. The health authorities are doing everything in their power to prevent the disease from spreading, and it is not likely to gain a foothold. Parents should see to it that their children are carefully looked after, so that the disease, should it go further, may be taken at the early stages, and arrested.

Election of Officers

The annual meeting of the local lodge of the Woodmen of the World for the election of officers, was held Tuesday night when the following officers were elected:

Sov. R. Waram ..... Council Commander
Sov. Wm. Wilson ..... Advisory Lieut
James Kyle ..... Banker
Wm. Anderson ..... Escort
A. Haskill ..... Clerk
C. Brown ..... Watchman
Wm. Taylor ..... Sentry
Managers—J. W. Hickey, Wm. Gibbs and Jno. Fanning.

At the conclusion of the regular business an oyster supper was served by Mr. W. H. McCallum, and an hour or two spent in songs, speeches, etc.

EXCURSION TO BERLIN!

Farmers should be interested in the fact that an opportunity will be given them to thoroughly investigate the merits of the beet sugar industry as it is carried on at the large factory in Berlin. A special train has been secured for on or about December 30th, which will go and return the same day. The rate will not be higher than $3. return. The hour of starting will probably be about 6.30 a.m. and of returning about 10 p. m.

FOR THE MAYORALTY.

Card to the Electors of Peterborough

To the Ratepayers of the Town of Peterborough:

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

In response to the numerous representations which have been made to me upon the subject, personally, by requisition, and through the press, I place my services at the disposal of the public as a candidate for the Mayoralty at the approaching municipal elections.

My association with the important municipal advances which the Town has been making during recent years, will enable me to give continuity to the aggressive forward policy which the Council has sought to pursue, and to bring experience and information gained therein to bear upon the work and problems which still more immediately confront us.

While I cannot lay claim to all the qualifications which have been flatteringly ascribed to me, such capacity for the office as I do possess is cheerfully placed at your service, and I ask your sympathy and support in the effort to maintain the position and standing, and advance the welfare of our already prosperous and progressive Town.

Respectfully yours,

G. M. ROGER

A Complete Rest.

Tipton shut down the roll-top desk in his private office with a bang, threw a last derelict envelope into the wastebasket, and turning with smiling face to the clerks who had gathered in a little group to bid him good-bye, said:

"Well, boys, I'm off. Keep your end up while I am gone, and remember this: I don't want to hear a word from you. Don't send me any mail. Don't try to reach me by wire or telephone, even if the building burns down. I'm going away for a real vacation, where I won't be disturbed."

Then he shook hands all around, and hurried off to join his wife at the railway station.

The usual excitement incident to the departure of a train was successfully lived through. As they sped out into the open country, Tipton looked at Mrs. Tipton with a fond, exultant look.

"There, my dear," he said; "we're off at last! For the first time in years I am going to do the sensible thing. I'm going to lose myself. No mail. No messages. Complete rest. I wonder why I never thought of it before?"

"I'm so glad," said Mrs. Tipton, "that you've come to your senses at last. This will do you a world of good, I know."

In the course of a few hours they alighted at their station. Then they were driven miles and miles—it seemed almost interminable—until they came in sight of the quiet little hotel—or rather inn—on the mountainside, where they were received with all the splendor of courtesy that only a rural hotelkeeper knows how to bestow.

Tipton could scarcely wait to get into his outing clothes. An hour later they were strolling down through the quiet woods to the bank of the stream that chippered away to the music of the breeze.

"Could anything," murmured Tipton, "be finer?"

He pressed his wife's hand. "This is rest. This is true solitude. When I think of that maddening city, I wonder how I could ever have lived there. I never want to go back again."

The next morning after a fine breakfast—for our friend had made sure of his place—Tipton strolled out and said good morning to the proprietor.

"Well, sir," said the proprietor, "how do you like our little view?"

"Great!" exclaimed Tipton. "It certainly is a charming spot. By the way, you don't happen to have any of the New York papers here, do you?"

"Not regularly," said the proprietor. "You see, this is a place where folks come to rest, and we don't have much call for 'em."

"Certainly not," said Tipton. "Precisely. Thought I would just like to glance over the head lines, that's all."

He joined his wife, who was walking in the near view.

"This is a great place to rest," he observed, somewhat tritely, as they walked off toward the stream. "Never was in a place quite like this. Couldn't even get a morning paper."

Mrs. Tipton looked at him suspiciously.

"Now, dear," she said, "that isn't fair. You must forget the world."

At noon Tipton sought the proprietor once more.

His face wore a shade of anxiety. He clutched his cigar nervously.

"You don't happen to have a telegraph or a long-distance telephone near here, do you?" he asked. "Fact is, I came away yesterday and forgot an important matter."

"No, sir!" said the proprietor. "We haven't such things around. This, as you know, is a place for complete rest, as advertised."

"Very well, sir," said Tipton, "you can make out my bill."

He glared fiercely around him, and walked upstairs to his room.

"My dear," he said, "would you mind if we got out of this prehistoric place on the first train?"

Mrs. Tipton gazed at him blankly for a moment, and threw her arms around his neck.

"Mind!" she exclaimed. "Why, I was only staying here for your sake. I didn't dare say how lonesome I was! I am afraid, my dear, we have never lived in the country long enough to appreciate it."

Two hours later they were in the dining car of the Long Branch express, with the remains of a feast and a cold bottle between them.

"I've wired the boys to send me the mail," said Tipton. "I will talk with the cashier over the wire as soon as we get in. I see the market opened up strong this morning. And now, if you will excuse me, I'll step into the smoking room with this bundle of papers and catch up on twenty-four hours' lost time."—Tom Masson, in "Life."

Herbert Spencer on "Americanisms."

Mr. Herbert Spencer's recent protest against what he called "Americanisms" concludes thus: "Perhaps a little might be done if in return for criticisms on Americanisms like those passed above, Americans were systematically to expose deteriorations in the language as spoken here. They might, for example, mercilessly ridicule that vulgar misuse of the word 'awfully,' which has now continued for more than a generation."

A correspondent of the London "Spectator" adds: "This reminds me of the following rather good story told to me by a friend now deceased. A certain distinguished philosopher happened to be staying at a country house in which my friend was also a guest, and one morning a youngster looking out of the window, observing a large flock of rooks alighting on the grass, cried out: 'What an awful lot of crows!' upon which the philosopher, in a tone intending to convey a gentle rebuke, enquiringly said: 'Well, my young friend, are crows really so very awful?' The boy quickly answered: 'I didn't say, "What a lot of awful crows," but "What an awful lot of crows!"' The philosopher remained silent, and the boy whispered to my friend: 'Had him that time, I think, sir!' This is a true story."

"Do you believe in heredity?" "Certainly; I know a barber who has three little shavers."—Ex.

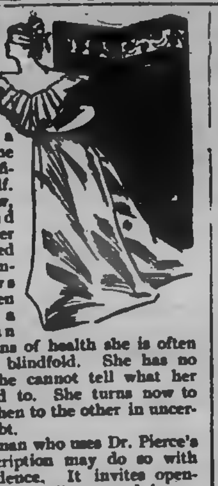
Valuable Advice to Mothers

If your child comes in from play coughing or showing evidences of an approaching attack of Grippe, Sore Throat or sickness of any kind, first thing get out your bottle of Nerviline. Rub the chest and neck with Nerviline, and give internal doses of ten drops of Nerviline in sweetened water every two hours. This will prevent any serious trouble. No liniment or pain reliever equals Polson's Nerviline, which is a necessity in every household. Large bottles cost only 25c.

BLIND-FOLD.



Blindfold a woman and she loses all confidence in herself. Her step is slow, hesitating and uncertain. Her hands are raised to ward the imaginary blows which threaten her. When a sick woman seeks the means of health she is often like a woman blindfold. She has no confidence. She cannot tell what her effort will lead to. She turns now to this side and then to the other in uncertainty and doubt.

The sick woman who uses Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription may do so with absolute confidence. It invites open-eyed investigation. There need be no hesitation in following the hundreds of thousands of women who have found a perfect cure for womanly ills in the use of this medicine.

"Favorite Prescription" cures irregularity and dries weakening drains. It heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"With a heart full of gratitude to you for sending out over the land your wonderful medicine I send these few lines, hoping that some poor suffering women will try Dr. Pierce's medicines," writes Mrs. Cora L. Root, of Greenspring Furnace, Washington Co., Maryland. "I had suffered severely from female weakness and had to be in bed a great deal of the time. Had headache, backache, and pain in left side when lying down. I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and had not taken two bottles when I was able to be around again and do my work with but little pain. Can now eat anything and it never hurts me any more. Have taken seven bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and one of his 'Compound Extract of Smart-Weed and several vials of his 'Pleasant Pellets.' Feeling better every day. My husband says I look better every day."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure biliousness and sick headache.

They Father Consumption

Bad coughs, colds and catarrh are responsible for more consumption than is traceable even to heredity. Catarrhozone cures more quickly than ordinary remedies, because it is the only antiseptic yet discovered that is volatile enough to reach the root of the trouble in remote parts of the lungs and bronchial tubes, and impregnate every particle of the air breathed with its healing, germ-killing vapor. Colds can't last ten minutes, or coughs more than thirty minutes when Catarrhozone is inhaled. It clears nose, throat and air passages at once, stops dropping, headache, and erradicates catarrh from any part of the system. Two months' treatment, $1.00; trial size 25c. Druggists or N. C. INDEPENDENT HUNGARY WILL BE THE BATTLE CRY

Austrian Empire Said to be on the Eve of Permanent Disolution

Gloomy Outlook for the Peace of Europe When Emperor Francis Joseph Dies

London, Dec. 18.—One of the most important influences in maintaining the present status in Europe is the life of Francis Joseph, Emperor of Austria and King of Hungary. The report therefore that his health is failing is a matter of more than ordinary concern, for whenever in the natural course he disappears from the stage changes of a far-reaching character in the constitution of the Empire-Kingdom itself are inevitable, which must in their turn react on the neighboring countries. His heir, the Archduke Francis Ferdinand, is antipathetic to the Austrian people; and the Hungarians, or, more properly speaking, the Magyars, who dominate in Hungary, are resolved to assert their independence of Austria.

Already the effects of the weakened influence of Austria are seen in the affairs of the Balkan peninsula. The understanding lately arrived at with Russia in connection with the troubles in Macedonia includes, among other things, the renunciation of the plan assented to by England, after the Berlin Congress of 1878, for the territorial extension of Austria to the Aegean from the present limits of Bosnia and Herzegovina. This may be traced to the entente between Russia and Italy, and brings to an end the dream of domination on the Danube and in the Balkans which has been so long cherished at Budapest. By the practical concession of Albania to Italy as a sphere of legitimate influence, the Balkan peninsula is recognized as outside of its Greek section, as the possession of its Slavonic peoples; and the rapprochement between Bulgaria and Roumania completes the exclusion of Hungary from the sphere of the Magyar ambition.

There was a time when Hungary might have legitimately aspired to the leadership in the southeast of Europe; but the open symathy extended to the Turk in 1876 and the more active assistance in the war with Russia that followed brought the Balkan Slavs to regard the Magyars as their enemies. The incessant persecution of the Roumanians of Hungary that has been going on since that war has reacted on Roumania, and there is no part of southeastern Europe where the Magyar is more heartily interested. Emile De Laveleye, who had given much study to the Hungarian question, spoke of the danger the Magyars were incurring by raising bitter enemies for themselves in a country in which, though they dominate politically, there were in a minority.

It is said that steps have been already taken in Hungary to proclaim its independence under its own sovereign so soon as the event foreseen arises, but it is doubtful whether the actual conditions are favorable for such a grave step. Separated from Austria, the Magyars could not long maintain their predominance, and a civil war would bring on the final disaster, the extent of which none can foresee. Under the circumstances it is easy to appreciate the anxiety of European diplomacy over the health of the Austrian Emperor.

The Decision of the Highest Court in the Empire Hostile to the British and Canadian Governments

London, Dec. 17—Sir Thomas Shaughnessy publishes in the Pall Mall Gazette tonight an emphatic contradiction of the published statement naming him as director of Hooley's Sapphire Corundum Company, now the subject of scathing criticism in the English press. The Pall Mall Gazette says it is monstrous that the name of a gentleman in Sir. Thos. Shaughnessy's position should be placed in a prospectus without his knowledge or consent.

The Cattle Question.

Sir Albert Rollit, M.P., who has returned from Canada, states that public feeling in the Dominion strongly favors the repeal of the embargo on Canadian store cattle. The feeling is especially strong among cattle breeders in Lower Canada. The shippers in Montreal reassert the Canadian denial that any contagious disease exists among Canadian cattle.

Japanese Barred.

The Judicial Committee of the Privy Council today allowed the appeal in the case of the district of Vancouver city and the Attorney-General of British Columbia versus Tomey Homma, and the Attorney-General of the Dominion, each party to pay its own costs. The judgment now reversed is that of the British Columbia Supreme Court, March 8th, 1901. This decision removes from the register the Japanese, who became naturalized Canadians, and seems to run directly counter to the spirit of the Anglo-Japanese treaty; also the spirit of the Federal disallowance of the British Columbia Acts.

The Curlers.

The Royal Caledonian Curling team will be the guests at a dinner by the Liverpool Caledonian Club tonight, prior to sailing for Canada on the Bavarian tomorrow. The team expects to be absent two months. There were over 100 candidates for membership, out of which Rev. John Kerr, chaplain of the Royal Club has chosen an undeniably strong club.

BRIDE OF A DAY IS NOW A WIDOW

Shocking End to Honeymoon of Ontario Girl

ELEVATOR KILLED HUSBAND

Was Leaning Over When Heavy Weight Came Down and Severed Head From Body

Windsor, Ont., Dec. 16—Last night a bride, to-day a widow, is the fate of Miss Ida Beaume, aged eighteen years, a pretty Canadian girl, whose husband, Hugh McKenzie, a brawny young Scotchman, was killed in an elevator shaft in the Stevens building in Detroit this morning.

Only last evening Miss Beaume came to Detroit from her home in Jeannettes Creek, Ont., and was quietly married to McKenzie. The young couple immediately took up housekeeping in a flat on Clinton street. This morning McKenzie started off to his work as usual after kissing his young wife good-bye. Two hours later his headless body lay in the darkened little parlor at his home and the bride of a day became a widow.

The accident which cost McKenzie his life was a peculiar one. With two other workmen he was standing on top of one of the passenger elevators, engaged in painting the shaft, when suddenly the other elevator was started up. McKenzie was leaning over one of the cross beams of the shaft in between the guides, when the immense balancing frame, which weighs between 800 and 1,000 pounds slid noiselessly down upon his head, severing it completely from his body. When informed of her husband's terrible and sudden end, the young wife became frantic and demanded that she be shown the body before she would believe the news. To-night she is completely prostrated from the shock.

UPHEAVAL SOON IN MACEDONIA

Apparent Tranquility is Only on the Surface

PEASANTS IN DESPERATION

Harried on One Side by Insurgents on the Other by Troops They are Ready for Revolt

London, Dec. 16—In spite of the present apparent tranquility in Macedonia says a despatch from Salonica to the Times, all the factors making for disturbance are still actively at work. Well-informed people consider the actual state of affairs full of danger, and as threatening increasing gravity, unless effective remedies are applied in the next few months.

The correspondent says that a large number of armed bands still hold the field, unchecked by the authorities. They obtain food and shelter in the more remote villages, and exercise in many districts a kind of independent jurisdiction. Murders and other crimes continue, and are seldom punished.

Christians Desperate.

The principal danger, however, says the correspondent, lies in the state of desperation to which the naturally submissive Christians are reduced. The peasants, for a long time the victims of iniquitous taxes, are now harried on the one hand by the insurgents, and on the other hand by the troops and gendarmes. Their homes have, in many instances, been pillaged and burned, and not having more to lose, they will probably show in the future a greater readiness to join revolutionary movements.

The only means to avert the coming danger, declares the correspondent, is the early adoption of measures, to relieve the suffering population. There is little time to lose. If the powers are sincerely anxious for the maintenance of the status quo and the preservation of Turkish rule, they must exercise collective pressure on the Porte, and establish effective European supervision in Macedonia, securing the equitable administration of the existing laws and some measure of justice for the population.

Gravity of Balkan Situation.

The Vienna correspondent of the Times says that the Russian Foreign Minister, who is now at Lividia, will shortly visit the Austrian capital. This announcement, following as it does, the Russian communique in regard to the Balkans, is interpreted as a further sign of the gravity of the Balkan situation, and as an indication that special efforts may be necessary to deal with probable disturbances next spring.

Memorial to the Colonials.

London, Dec. 16—It is understood that it is in contemplation to erect a memorial to the 6,000 colonials who lost their lives in South Africa.

Westminster Abbey would, of course, be the most appropriate site for such a monument, but the authorities may be unable to grant the necessary space, in which case there is little doubt that the Dean and Chapter of St. Paul's would be approached.

London, Dec. 17—A Berlin correspondent says that one of the immediate results of the parliamentary compromise whereby the clerical and conservative majority agreed to adopt minimum duties on grain with an additional ten marks per ton on barley, is that the extreme agrarians are out of charity with the rest of the Conservatives. They have now issued a manifesto declaring that they cannot continue to co-operate with those who voted for the proposal whereby a compromise was incorporated in the tariff bill. Even friends of the Government now that the danger of Parliamentary defeat has passed, are beginning to recognize the clumsiness and partial absurdity of the tariff bill as it passed the Reichstag.

London, Dec. 17—A Berlin correspondent, referring to the German view of the criticisms in the British House of Commons and press on the British co-operation with Germany against Venezuela, says that though it may possibly have some justification, it involves certain inconveniences, and is regarded in Germany as inopportune, while common action is progressing. There has not been much enthusiasm in Germany regarding joint action, but no influential journal has critized it. It seems as though any protest at the present juncture must be most inexpedient, because it is calculated to prolong the situation, which many Germans, as well as Englishmen desire to see terminated as soon as possible. If Castro thought that the co-operation of British and Germans was causing any dissatisfaction to either country he would be encouraged to remain obstinate.

ANOTHER ERUPTION SAID TO BE IMPENDING

First Symptoms Being Felt in St. Vincent West Idies

Scientists Think Next Will be the Most Disastrous Outburst of Mont Pelee

Kingston, Island of St. Vincent, Dec. 18.—Premonitory symptoms of another volcanic eruption have been experienced here.

In an article by Garrett P. Serviss, an eminent American astronomer, published in the journal a short time ago, reasons were given for expecting another eruption of Mont Pelee about Dec. 18.—These were many from the position of the sun and moon in regard to the earth, the "pull" being so great that Mr. Serviss believed, with other scientists, that it would result in the most terrible eruption of the Martinique volcano yet experienced.

A RIVER BLOTTED OUT.

Paris, Dec. 18.—The French Scientific mission to the island of Martinique has reported to M. Doumregue Minister for the Colonies, that since the crumbling of the cone of Mont Pelee the Blanche river has been completely obliterated by lava, and that ashes are spreading over the valley of the river to a distance of three miles.

TRIPLETS 73 YEARS OLD

A Remarkable Trio Living in Londerry N.H.

Londonderry, N. H. Dec. 18.—Born in this town more than seventy-three years ago, the Ripley triplets are probably the oldest now in this country.

Daniel Simpson Ripley, Mrs. Addie K. Thayer and Mrs. Angie K. Boutell are the names of the triplets. They are of a family of six children all of whom are living and enjoying fair health.

The triplets' parents were Asahel P. Ripley and Mary Clark Ripley. The father was born in Londonderry in May, 1801, and died in Nashua, in 1890. Mrs. Ripley was born in Londonderry in 1806 and died there in 1888.

On September 24th, 1829, to Mr. and Mrs. Ripley, were born the trio of children which made their home happy and pleasant ever after. The old family physician, who attended the case at the time, Dr. Daniel Simpson, was so elated over the advent of the three babies that he desired to have the boy named for himself, Daniel Simpson Ripley, and the girls for his wife and sister. This was agreed to by Mr. and Mrs. Ripley.

THE DEER HUNTING SEASON

Detective Greer Says it Ought to be Made Two Weeks Later

The impossibility of having the open season for deer arranged to meet the individual views of every hunter keeps up the controversy. Sportsmen from all parts of the Province have expressed the belief that it would be wise to have the season two or three weeks later than it is at present, as the weather was generally so warm that many deer killed the first two or three days were never brought out, the meat "going bad." This view of the matter is now further strengthened by the reports of Provincial Detective Joseph Rogers and William Greer, who were on the hunting grounds to see that the laws were being observed by the small army of hunters who have infested the regions since the first of November.

Detective Greer says that the open season ought to be made two weeks later, and run from November 15 to November 30. He also says that all the deer shot during the first few days this year, spoiled, and were never brought out. Lots of hunters, he says, killed four deer this season, the two they had killed first having gone bad, and the law allowing them to bring out two. One objection to making the season late, is that the deer are more easily killed later in the fall, as they stick to the runways closer. Mr. Greer would remedy this by limiting the deer to be shot to one per man. "One deer is all any man wants, anyway," he said.

Chief Game Warden Tinsley, on the other hand, says there are many requests to have the season earlier. Last year, for instance, the weather became so stormy and rough in the woods that the hunters lost the last few days of the season. "So what are you going to do about it?" asks Mr. Tinsley.

CONTRADICTION TO BRITISH POLICY

Arbitration the Only Means of Escape—Interpreting the Chinese Tariff—Studying Meat Price—German Tariff

Pekin, Dec. 18.—The return of the Court today after a four months' stay at the Summer palace and after several postponements revealed several new features of the situation in China.

One of these was that the Empress Dowager is again apprehensive regarding the Emperor, who has been closely imprisoned in the Summer palace all this time and who was surrounded by an enormous guard on the route to Pekin during the return journey.

In the second place, the return of the Court showed a different feeling on the part of high Government officials, officers surrounding the Court and members of the Grand Council toward foreigners. For the first time since the return of the Court from Sian-fu, after the Boxer troubles had been settled, foreigners who assembled along the route traversed by the Court on its homecoming were ill-treated. Some were arrested, commanded to make obeisance to the Court before the natives and detained under a heavy military guard until the royal cavalcade had passed by.

An officer of the Foreign Board arrested the correspondent of the Sun, and when a protest was made he said the authorities had issued orders that foreigners should be arrested. A party from the American Legation, which included two women, was also arrested.

It is understood the the Empress Dowager has been apprehensive for some time that the Emperor would escape or meet with some misadventure, and that this feeling on her part is on the increase. The Foreign Office denies, however, that there has been any discussion as to the selection of a new heir-apparent.

Impartial observers declare that it is evident that the conditions of the Empire, which are better now than they have been since 1900, have greatly increased the boldness and confidence of the Government. The authorities are also resuming their past spirit of arrogance and hatred of foreigners.

BUBONIC PLAGUE IN NEW YORK

Three Cases Arrive in a Vessel from Durban, Natal

RIGID PRECAUTIONS ARE TAKEN

The Canadian Health Authorities are Taking Measures to Prevent Infection at Canadian Ports

New York, Dec. 17—The steamer Saxon Prince, which arrived here from Durban yesterday, brought three cases of bubonic plague. The first and second cooks and the second steward of the vessel are under treatment at Swinburne Island Hospital. The first man taken ill, according to the report of Captain Jamison, was the second cook. He first complained to the captain when the ship was out two weeks. As the steamer left Durban on Nov. 9, this placed the reported illness on Nov. 23.; The other two cases appeared about two weeks ago. The history of the cases made a complete chain of infection from the time of the exposure of the first man at Durban, to the time of arrival. The crew were ashore at Durban, and it is undoubtedly there that the disease was contracted.

Dr. Doty says that there is no danger of a spread of the plague, as the whole matter is well in hand. There are five passengers on board, a woman and four children. The steamer will be sent to sea to discharge the water and sand ballast taken on board at Durban. She will then return to quarantine, when the passengers and crew will be transferred to Hoffman Island, where they will be held for ten days for observation. The effects of all will be thoroughly disinfected, and the steamer will be washed and disinfected in every party before being released.

Canadian Precautions.

Despatches from Ottawa say that Dr. Montizambert, Director-General of Public Health, who returned from New Orleans today, takes no stock in the report from San Francisco that investigation into the alleged bubonic plague, shows it to be only chicken cholera. The Director-General says the most indisputable evidence was forthcoming at the meeting of the American Public Health Association that bubonic plague does prevail in Frisco, and that there have been three cases of the worst type of the disease, which is known by the profession as "pneumatic plague." All vessels arriving at Canadian ports from Frisco will be required to place funnels on the hawsers, extending to the wharves to the vessels, the feeling being strong at New Orleans that the disease has gained a footing in the California port through the medium of rats, and the funnel device is recognized as an effective preventive against rats reaching vessel or wharf.

TO SEIZE COAL MINES

Senator Mason Has a Bill Which He Promises to Introduce Soon

Washington, Dec. 18—Senator Mason of Illinois, who has been remarkably quiet since Representative Hopkins was marked as his successor, has come to the front again.

This time he has a bill which he promises to introduce in the Senate within a day or two giving the President of the United States authority to seize and operate coal mines.

The bill provides that whenever a coal mine is not being operated the Attorney General may apply in Circuit Court in the district in which the mine is for a receiver to operate the mine, and this receiver may proceed to keep the public supplied with coal.

NEXT YEAR'S COUNCIL

New Men Who are Likely to be Brought Out

Nominations for the Council take place on Wednesday, 29th, at the Town Council Chambers. It is not likely that there will be any opposition to Ald. Roger in connection with the Mayoralty.

For the Council several new men are mentioned among whom are: Messrs R. F. McWilliams, George W. Morrow, Wm. Madill, A. W. Crassman, C. B Robertson and others. These are good men, and we hope to see them all at the Council board next year.

THE KING'S DAUGHTERS

Charming Entertainment Last Night in the Opera House

A very charming entertainment was given last night in the Opera House, under the auspices of the King's Daughters, the proceeds of which will be devoted to charity.

The programme consisted of a tableaux—(1) Christmas Morning. (2) Evening (3) Night. Then the other side of Christmas: Eve and Morning. This was followed by a septette, in which the following ladies and gentlemen took part: Miss P. Lundy, Miss. M. English, Miss L. Pearse, Miss M. Rush, Miss F. Belcher, Miss. M. Sherwood, Mr. Pereira, Mr. Hogg, Mr. McGill, Mr. Burnham, Mr. Davis, Mr. Cluxton.

A tableaux came next with the following effect:

(1) A tea party at Cranford, a village of old maids, in England, about 1805. (2) The Burglar Hunt. (3) The New Arrival at Cranford.

A roaring farce in one act followed entitled Box and Cox, with the following cast:—Mrs. Bouncer, Miss Helen Rogers; Box, a Journeyman Printer, Mr. Gracey; Cox, a Journeyman Hatter, Mr. R. M. Hamilton.

The whole concluded with a military Tableau—(1) The Roll Call; (2) True to the Last.

Altogether the entertainment was a huge success, and was very creditable to those who took part. There was a good audience, and a considerable will, it is hoped, be realized.

GENERAL - SPORTS

The Y.M.C.A. 1st team, that was picked to go up against the Toronto basketball team, was defeated by the Athletics on Wednesday evening by a score of 21 to 6.

HOCKEY.

The hockey club met Wednesday night to choose a captain for the senior team. Mr. Roland Glover was the choice. Mr. Glover's perfect knowledge of the game combined with his playing ability and experience, should make him an excellent captain.

Arrangements are pending for a hockey match between Waterloo and Peterborough, when the excursion from Peterborough to the Berlin sugar refinery is run.—Berlin Record.

CURLING.

The Scottish curlers sailed from Liverpool today. There is considerable discussion among the curlers in this country as to the prospects of success of the visitors against the clubs they will meet in Canada. While they are largely a picked combination, they will not be pitted against the pick of our players; the games will all be "friendlies" and no attempt at anything like a test match will be made. The Scotchmen have been accustomed to playing on rough outdoor ice and will be handicapped to a considerable degree by our keen ice and they will find here a game in many points knew to them. On the whole the Canadians should be able to make a good showing against the visitors.

Miss Jones' Voice Greatly Improved

A startling improvement is noticeable in Miss Jones' singing. Her voice is stronger, and sounds clearer and sweeter than before using Catarrhozone, which is a wonderful aid to singers, speakers and ministers. Catarrhozone inhaler insures absolute freedom from colds, coughs and catarrh, clears the nose and throat, and prevents hoarseness and huskiness. Catarrhozone makes the voice brilliant and enduring, and is uncommonly well recommended by prima donnas, members of Parliament, lawyers, doctors, and thousands that use it daily. Better try Catarrhozone. Price $1.00, trial size 25c. Druggists, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

CASTRO IS EAGER TO HAVE A SETTLEMENT

Asks the U. S. Minister to Effect Arrangement with the Allies

The Crisis Probably Over—King's Speech in Proroguing Parliament Refers to Venezuela Affair

Washington, Dec. 18—President Castro has clothed Minister Bowen with full powers to effect a settlement with Great Britain, Germany and Italy. Mr. Bowen simply awaits the consent of the State Department to assume this task, assuming that the nations named are willing that he shall undertake this work. It is believed that the critical phase of the Venezuelan difficulty has been passed.

Can't Last Much Longer.

London, Dec. 18—The Berlin correspondent of the Times says the uneasiness of large and influential sections of British public opinion regarding Venezuelan affairs is paralleled in Germany. Evidently, if authorative British opinion favors a solution by peaceful methods, like American arbitration, Germany cannot raise objections, lest she appear less inclined than Great Britain to consult the views of the United States. The chief present peril is not friction with the United States, but the possibility that British-American relations will permanently or for a considerable period be involved with German-American relations. This situation may be obviated by Italy's action, and simultaneous presentation of the claims of other powers. There is safety in numbers.

Acute observers in Berlin are firmly convinced that the present Venezuelan affair cannot be prolonged beyond a week or a fortnight.

Unjustifiable and Arbitrary.

London, Dec. 18—Parliament was prorogued this afternoon. The King's speech was an unusually long recapitulation of public events since January, including the action taken in connection with Venezuela, regarding which the speech said:

"I regret that the constant complaints which my Government found it necessary to address to the Government of Venezuela in regard to unjustifiable and arbitrary acts against British subjects and property during the past two years have been persistently disregarded, and that it has become necessary for my Government, acting in concert with that of his Imperial Majesty the German Emperor, which also has serious causes for complaint against the republic, to insist on measures or redress."

The speech refers to the conclusion of the South African war, and adds:

"There seems to be every reason to hope that material prosperity greater than any the Transvaal and Orange River colonies have yet experienced may visit these regions, and that all sections of the population may live together in friendship for each other and loyalty to the Crown."

Paragraphs dealt with the postponed Coronation, the colonial conference, and Colonial Secretary Chamberlain's tour which together are expected to be of the "utmost value both in respect to their immediate effect and as precedents in the future."

Other topics touched upon were the expedition against the Mad Mullah and the co-operation of Italy therein, the acceptance by Chili and Argentina of the British boundary award, the Brussels sugar convention, and the alliance between Great Britain and Japan, "which I believe, will be of advantage to both countries, and contribute to the maintenance of general peace in the extreme East."

Must be a War Blockade.

Washington, Dec. 18—The officials here have come to the conclusion that the projected peaceful blockade of Venezuelan ports cannot be recognized as against United States shipping at least. If the allies seek to exclude Venezuelan shipping from entering Venezuelan ports, that might be permitted, but they cannot exclude United States ships in regular business, unless a genuine state of war is recognized. If Great Britain and Germany wish to exclude American merchantmen from Venezuelan ports they must exclude all shipping, including their own, a condition which can only be met by recognizing the existence of a state of war.

There will be no effort of the part of this Government to resist a war blockade of the Venezuelan coast as against merchant ships. Custom requires that due notice shall be given of the blockade, and that fact, taken in connections with the declarations that have been made in the British Parliament by the authorized representatives of the British Government, will, it is understood, be sufficient to justify all neutral nations in the understanding that a state of war does actually exist. This might in the end require the issue of a proclamation of neutrality by President Roosevelt, but this, it is stated, would not be timely now.

AUTOCARS TO BE USED ON BRITISH RAILWAYS

Moroccan Pretender is Stronger--He Has Set Up a Court, and is Growing in Popularity

London, Dec. 18—The Times announces that the North-Eastern Railway is about to try a system similar to that of Gardner and Serpollet described in a telegram from Paris published in The Times last Saturday. The autocars are now being built at York. At one end of each car is a Napier petrol engine of 85 horse power and four cylinders driving a dynamo which generates electricity for two motors supplying power to the wheels. The cars are light, and each carries 52 passengers. The storage capacity is for 30 gallons of Petrol, which will last five hours. It is proposed to work the new system experimentally on a crowded part of the railway, between Hartlepool and West Hartlepool which are not far apart.

London, Dec. 18—The correspondent of The Times telegraphing from Fez, says that the pretender to the throne has complete possession of Teza and the neighboring districts. The pretender has appointed viziers and other officials, and has set up a court with every symbol of royalty. The tribes east of Fez almost without exception acknowledge the pretender as Sultan. The correspondent says that heavy rains impair the progress of the Imperial troops.

London, Dec. 18—The work of repatriation, says the Johannesburg correspondent of The Times, has made great strides since the introduction of the burgher land settlement scheme. The 12,000 persons in the Transvaal camps in the middle of November have been reduced to 7,000. By the first week in January all save the five main camps, those at Irene, Pietersburg, Middleburg, Standerton and Potchefstroom, will be closed. These five camps contain mostly inhabitants of the indigent class or persons who are not able-bodied.

London, Dec. 18—The Vienna correspondent of The Times says that the Czech reply to German proposals in regard to the language questions are couched in conciliatory terms, but rejects the form, and in part the substance of the German offer. The reply says the language question must be solved before administrative changes are made. The Czech must be admitted to equality with the German language in Bohemia. It is also declared that Moravia and Silesia must be included in any arrangement, and not excluded, as the Germans wished.

London, Dec. 18—The French naval estimates, says the Paris correspondent of The Times, show a net increase of 10,000 francs as finally settled by the Budget Committee. The net deficit in the general budget of 500,000,000 francs has been met by saving 31,000,000 francs in various departments, adding 16,000,000 francs to the succession duty receipts, reducing the railway guarantees by 4,000,000 francs and adding 5,000000 francs from other sources.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Italy has joined the kick against Venezuela. Most of the losses talked of seem to be due to Venezuelan revolutions. Venezuela is hearing powerful foreign arguments against her pet fad of revolutions.

A firm of private bankers in Oakville, Ont., have failed disastrously. There are not many private bankers in Canada, fortunately. The chartered banks are infinitely safer, and no more expensive to deal with.

A terrible blow is to be struck in Chicago. "One million of children from all over the land are to write letters to the Tobacco Trust," protesting against the manufacture of cigarettes. Why not extend this idea to a grander use? Why not have a million children, Absaloms in the bud, write to the trusts, protesting against trusts, and asking them to shut up shop? This would be as effectual as any other attempt to suspend the laws of business and make gravitation stop gravitating.

NORTH MONAGHAN.

The council met in the town hall, on Monday, December 15th, in accordance with the R.S.O. All the members were present. The minutes of the meetings of October 13 and November 10, were read and confirmed.

A communication was received and read from W. J. Harkome, of Richmond, Que., offering the structural parts of old railway bridges for sale for township purposes. This was received.

Accounts were presented as follows: D. Galloway, Com. Road Division No. 1, for work done repairing culverts and raking stones off the highway, $15.50; Jas. M. Davidson, for cutting trench on Drain Road, $5.60; Jas. M. Davidson, for cleaning drain on tenth concession east of G.T.R., $3.75; J. J. Bennett, cutting brush on quarter line, 75c.; J. Solomon, cutting brush on quarter line, $4.50; Samuel Medd, cutting brush on quarter line, $5; Dennistoun, Peck and Stevenson, law costs, $10; G. W. Bennett, disbursements, postage, and publishing minutes, $10.33; Times, printing account, $44.52; H. Smith, hauling gravel on 12th concession, $22.75; J. McIntosh, 65 yards gravel got by H. Smith, $6.50, Mat Clarke, right of way for hauling gravel, $2.

On motion of Messrs. May and Madill, these accounts were passed and ordered to be paid.

The clerk fyled receipts for moneys received by him as follows:

From County Treasurer, Peterborough County, refund for work on bridge on Cavan boundary, $3; for rebate from Road Division No. 1, $1.25; from booth licenses, $10.

The township treasurer presented the financial statement for Dec. 15 to Dec. 31, 1901, and from Jan 1 to Dec. 15, 1902, inclusive:

The statement also showed taxes unpaid in 1902 to the amount of $181.44.

The statement was received and the clerk was instructed to publish the same according to law.

The following salaries and sessional allowances were ordered to be paid: Treasurer, W. H. Bradburn, $40; clerk, G. W. Bennett, $37.50; Caretaker, T. R. Sanderson, $7; Reeve, T. E. Bradburn, $15; Councillors May, Madill, Smith and Dobbin, each $10.

An account for work done on the Cavan boundary was received from the Clerk of Cavan, amounting to $9.31, of which North Monaghan is asked to pay one-half. This account was received and the Clerk was instructed to render to Cavan Council a contra account for work done on the same road by North Monaghan, as shown by the pay sheets of the Road Commissioner.

Moved by Mr. Madill, seconded by Mr. May, that Mr. Smith be a Committee to act with a Committee of the Sunday school to purchase blinds for the windows of the Town Hall.—Carried.

Bylaw No. 514, a bylaw to appoint a place of nomination, etc., etc., was then read and finally passed.

By this bylaw Mr. H. G. Webber and Mr. J. J. Bennett were appointed Deputy Returning officers for 1903.

The collector, Mr. Barnard, was reappointed and authorized to proceed and collect all unpaid taxes on or before Wednesday, Dec. 24th, 1902.

The Council then adjourned until Dec. 27th, to meet in the Reeve's office at 3 p.m.

EXCURSION TO BERLIN!

Farmers should be interested in the fact that an opportunity will be given them to thoroughly investigate the merits of the beet sugar industry as it is carried on at the large factory in Berlin. A special train has been secured for on or about December 30th, which will go and return the same day. The rate will not be higher than $3, return. The hour of starting will probably be about 6.30 a.m. and of returning about 10 p. m.

THE ONTARIO BANK

Has Outgrown the Present Quarters—Premises to be Enlarged

It will be pleasing news to the many friends and customers of the Ontario Bank in Peterborough to learn that the premises of this popular institution are to be greatly enlarged and improved. Plans have been prepared by which the space is to be more than doubled, besides other improvements, in the way of distinct waiting rooms for the use of the customers of the savings and other departments. New and elegant fittings are to be added. When the work is completed the bank will be one of the most complete of any in the Province, outside the large cities.

Closing Exercises

The kindergarten exercises in connection with the South Central School, took place yesterday, and were witnessed by many of the parents and friends of the little folks. Much credit is due Miss Davidson, the principal, and her assistant, Miss Rush, for the high standing of the pupils. The programme was of the usual character on such occasions, consisting of songs, recitations, choruses, marches and games, in all of which the little tots were wonderfully proficient.

The CANADIAN STEEL AND COAL COMPANY was organized to mine and manufacture iron and coal, coke and steel in Canada at Atlantic tidewater.

The raw materials for these manufactures are:—

1.—COAL. 2.—IRON. 3.—LIMESTONE.

All these materials we have at hand.

1.—COAL.

The Company controls 3,000 acres of excellent coal areas in the Province of Nova Scotia, and efforts are being made to increase this to 10,000 acres by the purchase of some very valuable additional coal fields.

The coal has been thoroughly tested and found to be suitable in every way for the manufacture of iron and steel, and the supply is practically inexhaustible. The following analysis was made by the Canadian Geological Survey:—

ANALYSIS.

Moisture	4.05
Vol. Comb. Matter	30.72
Fixed Carbon	60.
Ash	5.23
	100.00

COAL VEINS.

The several layers or seams of coal available aggregate 27 to 30 feet in thickness.

TITLES.

These areas are held under Crown Lease for a period of 80 years. Royalty 10 cents per ton of coal sold.

2.—IRON.

The Company has acquired by purchase immense iron deposits on the North Shore of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, about 350 miles from Sydney. The deposits are estimated to contain 20,000,000 tons above sea level, with probably as much more below that line. The iron can be handled for $1.00 per ton or less. Quantities of this ore have been shipped to Great Britain and the United States, where it has given great satisfaction, and we can sell large quantities f. o. b. at the properties, netting us a profit of $2.00 per ton. This ore makes the finest steel.

3.—FLUX.

We are now negotiating for valuable deposits of dolomite and limestone of the most satisfactory quality, situated on the tide-water, within 100 miles of the works

MARKETS.

For six months in each year the Canadian markets can be reached by water at low freight rates, and at all times by rail. As Cape Breton is distant from Liverpool only about 2,300 miles; is nearer to Pernambuco, Brazil, than any point in the United States, and also nearer to Cape Town, South Africa, it has the advantage, in point of distance, for export business over any American steel-producing points, which, with scarcely any exceptions, are situated some distance from tide water. Under any conditions of the world's market, it is believed that the output of these works can be disposed of at satisfactory prices.

OUTPUT

When in full operation, the output is expected to be about as follows:—

1. IRON.—200,000 tons iron ore shipped direct from property, showing net profit of $2.00 per ton, total	$400,000 00
200,000 tons fine iron ore shipped in briquettes, showing net profit of $4.00 per ton, total	800,000 00
100,000 tons steel blooms, showing net profit of $3.00 per ton, total	300,000 00
2. COAL.—600,000 tons coal, showing net profit, at least, of $1.00 per ton, total	600,000 00
3. AIDS.—Government bounties (averaged) added to above per year for 6 years	100 000 00
Total yearly revenue	$2,200,000 00

GOVERNMENT AIDS.

To encourage the manufacture in the Dominion of iron and steel the Parliament of Canada has granted bounties as follows:—

	ON PIG IRON.	ON STEEL.
Apl. 21st, 1902, to July 1st, 1903	$2.70	$2.70
July 1st, 1903, " " 1904	2.25	2.25
July 1st, 1904, " " 1905	1.65	1.65
July 1st, 1905, " " 1906	1.05	1.05
July 1st, 1906, " " 1907	.60	.60

If the production of steel from the Company's works be as estimated, 300,000 tons per annum, the bounties to be received from the Canadian Government will be as follows:—

1904	$225,000
1905	215,000
1906	145,000
1907	85,000
or an average of $100,000.00 per annum for 6½ years	$670,000.00

NET REVENUE

Total net annual profits		$2,200,000.00
LESS FIXED CHARGES:—
7 per cent. interest on preferred stock	$70,000.00
Sinking Fund	60,000.00
Incidentals	25,000.00
		155,000.00
Net yearly profits		$2,045,000.00

Equivalent to yearly dividends of over 30 per cent., or 15 per cent. half yearly on total capitalization.

If the capitalization was increased to .... $20,000,000.00 this estimate would still show a dividend-earning capacity of 10 per cent. per annum.

The capitalization of the Dominion Coal Co. is .... $20,000,000.00 earning fully 12 per cent., and is paying 8 per cent. guaranteed dividends on this enormous sum.

The capitalization of the Dominion Iron and Steel Co. is...... $28,000,000.00 on which it is believed 6 per cent. dividends will be earned.

The capitalization of the Canadian Steel & Coal Company is only $6,000,000.00 controlling, it is believed, equally valuable properties, and it is reasonable to expect much larger dividends.

Within the last few months Dominion Coal shares common rose in market value from $40 to $144 per share, and Dominion Iron & Steel Company's share common rose over $30 per share in market value.

With such low capitalization the Canadian Steel and Coal Co's shares should show tremendous profits, and it is confidently believed they will.

Oil is reached in less than half the depth required on Spindletop Heights in Beaumont;

These gentlemen have made a dividend payer out of one company and have raised the value of its stock from 5c per share to par value, or 25c, within a very short time;

The company is operating in the Sour Lake field, where fewer wells will tap the oil than at Spindletop; this insures a greater flow of oil, and it is of a better quality;

Buy Something Now

New York, Dec. 18.—It is advisable to make purchases at the present time. Sentiment is improving, and people who were a few days ago apparently bereft of their ordinary judgment seem to be recovering same. The situation has been greatly strengthened by the formation of the $50,000,000 monetary pool, whose capital will be used in case of emergency. It was the uncertainty of obtaining at all times loanable funds that militated most against the market. This uncertainty is now removed. The foundations of the market and other conditions are generally sound. With a surety of fairly easy money from now on until the end of the year and the certainty that the return flow of funds will then set in towards New York, people should make no mistake in buying, especially upon the reactions. Crops are large and prices are good. The excess monetary value of the years crop over that of 1901 has been estimated to be somewhere from five hundred to seven hundred millions. There are one hundred more millions of dollars in circulation at present than at the same time last year. Standard securities are down in price from ten to thirty dollars per share. None has been robbed of a dollar in value or merit in the past three months, as a matter of fact progress in conditions has actually been favorable during that period making them more desirable holdings than prior to the break. This fact indicates what is likely to happen in the stock market when monetary condition return to normal. Last month the gross railway gains of the country amounted to 7 per cent. on top of a 12 per cent. gain for the same months of the preceding year. Earnings at present top best previous records. The roads have never before spent so much money in one year for new equipment and improvements. They are all in most magnificent condition, seasonable weather has caused the largest western tonnage known. While the market will not immediately be wildly boosted, it is practically a certainty that it will from now on be prevented from going to pieces. There will be no need for further sacrifices in our opinion.

Summary.—The market opened with an increased strength, following the London lead stocks advanced further after the opening. Southern Pacific which by the way, is one of, if not the cheapest railway issues in Wall street at present, rose over 3 points crossing 63. Sugar sold above 126 and copper above 57. L. N. was up 4 points over yesterday's close. Diplomatic dispatches indicate a peaceful settlement of the Venezuela embroglio. St. Paul advanced 3 points and steel stocks were 2 points better which did much to increase confidence and good feeling. Stocks are good to buy upon each and every reaction. Money closed 4 1-2. Total sales 51,400. Tomorrow's letter, "A stock at an unusual investment level."

FOR THE MAYORALTY.

Card to the Electors of Peterborough

To the Ratepayers of the Town of Peterborough?

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

In response to the numerous representations which have been made to me upon the subject, personally, by requisition, and through the press, I place my services at the disposal of the public as a candidate for the Mayoralty at the approaching municipal elections.

My association with the important municipal advances which the Town has been making during recent years, will enable me to give continuity to the aggressive forward policy which the Council has sought to pursue, and to bring experience and information gained therein to bear upon the work and problems which still more immediately confront us.

While I cannot lay claim to all the qualifications which have been flatteringly ascribed to me, such capacity for the office as I do possess is cheerfully placed at your service, and I ask your sympathy and support in the effort to maintain the position and standing, and advance the welfare of our already prosperous and progressive town.

Respectfully yours

G. M. ROGER

The New Rink

Work was commenced yesterday morning on the erection of the seventh iron span at the rink. There are only two more to be erected, and these should be well under way by the end of the week. The roof is being rapidly put on and next week will see a big change in the rink. As soon as the roof is completed the rink will be flooded, without waiting for the club rooms or gallery to be finished. By the end of next week, at the least, the rink should be ready for flooding if the weather is favorable.

A Quiet Wedding

On Wednesday evening a quiet wedding was celebrated at St. Andrew's manse, when the Rev. J. G. Potter united in marriage Mr. R. M. Tully, of Saskatchewan, N.W.T., to Miss M., daughter of Mr. Joseph McConnell, of Emily. After the ceremony the wedding party drove to the White House, where a wedding dejeuner was served. The groom is a brother of Mr. J. A. Tully, of town, and is well and favorably known in Peterborough. The newly married couple leave for their home in the west today. The Times extends its congratulations.

Mr. Hogg's Departure

A general feeling of regret will be manifest when it becomes known that Mr. W. H. Hogg, the local manager of the Bank of Montreal, is about to take his departure from Peterborough. He has been removed to Calgary, where the Bank has an immense business, and where he will have greater responsibilities. But the loss of Mr. Hogg is largely offset by the promotion of Mr. Myles Hamilton to the vacant position, as acting manager. Mr. Hamilton's hundreds of friends will rejoice at his promotion, and will earnestly hope that it may be the prelude to his permanent appointment as manager.

WILL RUSH HARD COAL

The Situation in Peterborough Soon to be Relieved

The people of Peterborough may in the near future, look forward to the relief of the coal famine that has for so long been raging. The Times has been informed by the C.P.R. and G.T.R. that they will handle more coal this winter than in former years and they expect to relieve the situation shortly. The Canadian Pacific has been notified that there are large consignments of anthracite from Pennsylvania that has not reached the company's lines yet. The Grand Trunk shipments both of anthracite and soft coal this year are much in excess of last year, and the company is hauling large shipments of coal from Sydney, B.C.

Death of Mr. Harry Faint

We regret to be obliged to chronicle the death of Mr. Harry Faint, son of Mr. Wm. Faint, Ashburnham, which occurred yesterday morning. Deceased had been a sufferer from asthma for many years, and in hope of bettering his health he went to Calgary about a year and a half ago. The climate did not agree with him, and he returned about a month ago. He gradually failed in health, and dropsy set in, but his sudden demise was quite unexpected. He was 28 years old and unmarried. The funeral will take place from the family residence, Elizabeth street, tomorrow at 2.30 o'clock and proceed to Little Lake cemetery. There is much sympathy for the family in their bereavement.

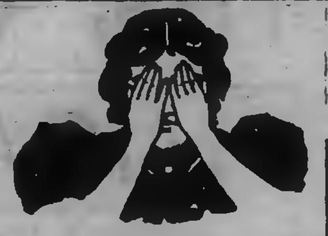
The Late Miss Minnie Crough

Much sympathy is being felt for the family of Mr. Philip Crough, of Ennismore, owing to the death of his daughter, Miss Minnie, which occurred at St. Joseph's Hospital, on the 11th inst. from appendicitis. The deceased young lady was only 17 years of age. Of a kindly disposition, she was greatly beloved by her many friends who will miss her very much. The funeral, which took place on Saturday last, was largely attended. Requiem High Mass was sung by Rev. Father Fitzpatrick at St. Martin's church, Ennismore, whence the remains were taken to the cemetery for interment. Messrs. William J. Crough, Frank P. Crough brothers of the deceased, and Frank Crough, Leo Crough, and Michael Donoghue, cousins of the deceased were the pall bearers. The Times extends its sincere sympathy to the bereaved family.



It is a great affliction for a woman to have her face disfigured by pimples or any form of eruptive disease. It makes her morbid and sensitive, and robs her of social enjoyment. Disfiguring eruptions are caused by impure blood, and are entirely cured by the great blood-purifying medicine—Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It removes from the blood the poisonous impurities which cause disease. It perfectly and permanently cures scrofulous sores, eczema, tetter, boils, pimples and other eruptive diseases which are caused by the blood's impurity. It increases the action of the blood-making glands and thus increases the supply of pure rich blood.

"For about one year and a half my face was very badly broken out," writes Miss Carrie Adams, of 116 West Main Street, Battlecreek, Mich. "I spent a great deal of money with doctors and for different kinds of medicine, but received no benefit. At last I read one of your advertisements in a paper, and obtained a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Before I had taken one bottle of this medicine I noticed a change, and after taking three bottles I was entirely cured. I can well recommend Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to any one similarly afflicted."

The sole motive for substitution is to permit the dealer to make the little more profit paid by the sale of less meritorious medicines. He gains; you lose. Therefore accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery."

VENEZUELA'S CASE AND THE MONROE DOCTRINE

The Origin of the Doctrine and the Holy Alliance

Formula of the Monroe Doctrine is "America for America"—Drawn up By British Statesman

For Venezuela there can be no appeal to the Monroe doctrine. That maxim of United States policy in the Americas does not apply to the controversies into which British and German warships have at last been brought. Though it was as the champion of the liberated communities of Spanish America that the United States first promulgated the doctrine, these communities are not to consider themselves shielded by the eagle's wing from the consequences of their offences against the European powers. Uncle Sam has more than once made that plain to them. Eight or nine years ago Nicaragua had to be disciplined by British gunboats before it could be brought to a sense of what was due to a European nation. A year ago Germany was on the point of taking warlike measures against Venezuela on account of the very grievances she is now trying to settle by the same means. She first consulted the United States, and was assured that that country did not feel bound by the Monroe doctrine to hinder any European power collecting its debts from any Government on this hemisphere, so long as no territory was seized and permanently held.

The Holy Alliance.

When Spain was in the throes of that struggle against Napoleon known as the Peninsular war, her long-oppressed colonies in South America took the opportunity to throw off the yoke. At the conclusion of peace steps were considered for re-establishing her government over these former dependencies. This was one of the tasks the Holy Alliance set itself. The declared object of this alliance was to prevent the recurrence of such great disturbances as Napoleon had caused in the affairs of the world. It had other ends, one of them being to restore the old balance as far as possible. The name "Holy Alliance" was adopted because the ostensible purpose was to subordinate politics to the Christian religion. Russia, Austria and Prussia were the leading powers in it. Great Britain was at no time a party to it. So far as the South American States were concerned, she could not countenance a joint attack on their newly-acquired independence, and, moreover, their resubjection to Spain was contrary to her commercial interest. As colonies they had no freedom of trade. They were held in a state of thraldom by Spain, who kept to herself the benefits of their markets. When they obtained their independence, they traded wherever they found it most to their advantage to trade, and, above all other nations, with Great Britain, the chief commercial power of the world. Britain, therefore, both by her traditional sympathy with aspirations for freedom, and by her trade interests, was against any compulsion by the powers to bring Spanish America back to its old dependence.

Origin of the Doctrine.

Accordingly, George Canning, the British Foreign Minister, made a proposal to Mr. Rush, the United States Minister in London, to the effect that a declaration, of which the following were two of the clauses: First, "We aim not at the possession of any portion of them (the colonies of Spain) ourselves"; second, "We could not see any portion of them transferred to any other power with indifference." Rush asked, as a condition to the United States joining in this declaration, that Great Britain formally recognize the new Governments in South America, but Canning thought it would be inexpedient overtly to do so at that moment, because of Britain's relations with Spain and the powers of the Holy Alliance. So the agreement was not entered into. But Rush sent home a despatch containing the proposal. The idea of such a declaration being made by the United States alone was thus suggested to Mr. Monroe, who was at that time President. After consideration by his Cabinet he referred the proposal to Jefferson, Madison and other American statesmen, and they warmly approved it. It was adopted. John Quincy Adams, the Secretary of State, formulated the Canning proposition, and it was embodied in President Monroe's message to Congress on December 2, 1823.

The Doctrine Stated.

The doctrine thus originated by a British statesman, and thus enunciated by an American president, consists of two parts. We give them in Monroe's words. The first part is:

"The occasion has been judged proper for asserting as a principle in which the rights and interests of the United States are involved, that the American continents, by the free and independent condition which they have assumed and maintain, are henceforth not to be considered as subjects for future colonization by any European power."

The second part: "We owe it, therefore, to candor and to the amicable relations existing between the United States and these powers (of the Holy Alliance) to declare that we should consider any attempt on their part to extend their system to any portion of this hemisphere as dangerous to our peace and safety. With the existing colonies or dependencies of any European power we have not interfered, and shall not interfere. But with the Governments who have declared their independence and maintain it, and whose independence we have on great consideration and on just principles acknowledged, we could not view any interposition for the purpose of oppressing them, or controlling in any other manner their destiny, by any European power in any other light than as the manifestation of an unfriendly disposition towards the United States."

There are a few sentences more to the same effect, and to the further purport that the United States will not meddle in the affairs of Europe. So the Monroe doctrine owes to President Monroe but little more than its name.

America for the Americans.

The formula of the Monroe doctrine is "[illegible] the Americans." Its utterance by President Monroe was received with genuine enthusiasm in England. It had the effect Canning counted on, of checking the Holy Alliance's designs in Spanish America. No attempt was made by the allied powers to bring back the revolted colonies to Spain, though they replaced Ferdinand VII. on the throne of that country in opposition to the will of the people. Canning could truly say afterwards, "I called the New World into existence to redress the balance of the old."

In subsequent statements of the doctrine its application to such cases as that of the present coercion of Venezuela is expressly disclaimed. To the United States Minister in Mexico, when that country was in a chaotic state, President Buchanan sent this instruction:—

"While we do not deny the right of any other power to carry on hostile operations against Mexico for the redress of its grievances, we firmly object to its holding possession of any part of that country, or endeavoring by force to control its political destiny."

The doctrine was unduly stretched in the statement of it contained in Secretary Olney's note to Great Britain in 1895 about the Venezuelan boundary. Lord Salisbury replied that while the Monroe doctrine was entitled to great respect, it had never been admitted into international law as binding on other nations and that it did not cover such controversies as the one then pending.

EXPLORATIONS IN THE FAR NORTH

D. T. Hanbury, Well-Known Explorer Arrives in Winnipeg From Barren Lands

Tribe of Savages to Whom White Men are Unknown—North Native Copper

Winnipeg, Dec. 19.—David T. Hanbury, the well known Englishman who has for some years been engaged in work as an explorer in the northern wilds, is staying at the Leland hotel. He has just returned from a journey of more than ordinary interest and the result of his trip will add greatly to the knowledge of that part of the world, and as Mr. Hanbury gives the Royal Geographical Society of England the benefit of his work, a detailed account of the trip may be expected to appear in the journals of that body shortly.

"I left Edmonton in February, 1901" said he to a reporter for the Times last evening, "and went north by the usual route to the Great Slave lake. About this portion of the trip I will say nothing, as the country traversed is familiar to most people. After leaving the lake I went east over the [illegible] of land and struck Lake Camp[illegible] which is a long, narrow body of water. Out of this lake flows the west [illegible] of the Arkylennik river, which [illegible] for about 120 miles, until [illegible] the confluence with the [illegible]. Along the first portion [illegible] there are no trees [illegible] fifty miles, where [illegible] of small bush, [illegible] in some [illegible] considerable [illegible] is [illegible] the junction with the main river. Back from the river, both north and south, are what are called the barren lands, treeless vistas of moss-covered ground whose only habitants are wild beasts and still wilder Eskimo savages.

LITTLE VEGETATION.

"In some places," continued Mr. Hanbury, "we found grass about two to two and a half feet high. In other places there was nothing but moss, and again there were parts where there was bare rock only. This country bears strong evidence of the glacial period, as the rocks are quite plainly marked where the ancient ice fields ribbed and marked the stone. The glacial striae show the direction of the movement of the ice to be south-easterly as a general course, but there are places where marking show deviation.

"About the time we were nearing the junction of the two rivers we came across thousands of caribou, but they were the only game we saw. After entering the main river I proceeded along it to Chesterville Inlet, where a whaler was awaiting me with my winter's supplies. After we had unloaded the supplies I spent the winter months with the Eskimos in their villages of snow houses, or as they call them, igloos, which, by the way, are very comfortable. Along about February I left my winter quarters, and took with me five Eskimo families. The party of natives comprised twenty-two persons. The supplies were carried by dog trains and the "huskies" of the string numbered twenty-two. You may be surprised when I say I took five families, but an Eskimo will not go away without his two or more wives, and the women naturally refuse to leave their children. We proceeded west about half way to Great Slave lake, and there headed north. The country after we passed through the wooded parts along the river bottoms was almost destitute of vegetation, except for mosses and in places a little grass. The trip was uneventful, however, until we reached Ogden bay, on the Arctic coast.

NEVER SAW A WHITE.

"Here we met with more Eskimo, who spoke a different language to the ones I had brought with me. I may say that I was a great curiosity among this new tribe, as I was the first white man they had ever seen. These people were a kind lot, but very timid. I presented them with knives thimbles and needles, which they appreciated much. Their spear and arrow heads were all made of copper, which abounds in its native state in that country. After leaving Ogden bay, we proceeded west on the ice, which was still good, to the Coppermine river, which we ascended with much difficulty, owing to shoals and rapids, for about 100 miles, where again we encountered trees along the bank of the river. At this point we quit the river, and struck west across the divide, and arrived at Great Bear lake.

DAYS WITHOUT FOOD.

"The only real hardship of the trip was encountered here, for we were about four days without food. After we once left the Great Bear lake and passed through the Great Bear river, and arrived at the Mackenzie river, we virtually considered ourselves at home."

"Did you discover anything in the mineral line on your trip?" Mr. Hanbury was asked.

"Nothing, excepting the copper in the north, and also some iron. But I was very much surprised to capture forty different varieties of butterflies, which I am taking home to a friend who is an enthusiast in that line."

Mr. Hanbury leaves for England in a few days and has not yet made up his mind as to whether he will return to this north country again.

CLOSING EXERCISES

Interesting Entertainment at the Central Kindergarten

The closing exercises in connection with the Central Kindergarten took place yesterday afternoon, and was attended by a number of the parents and friends of the children.

The children showed wonderful proficiency in the several exercises, displaying marked proof of earnest training. The songs, recitations, guestures, of the little tots was extremely fascinating. Miss Warner, the principal, and her two assistants, Miss Bell, Miss May Denne, have good reason to be proud of their little folks.

ORDINATION TO PRIESTHOOD

Rev. T. J. Crowley will be Ordained at St. Peter's Cathedral To-morrow

One of the most solemn and impressive ceremonies connected with the Roman Catholic Church will take place tomorrow morning at St. Peter's Cathedral, when Rev. T. J. Crowley will be ordained a priest.

Rev. Mr. Crowley pursued his studies at the Murray street separate school, and at the private academy of the late Mr. Lynch, afterwards entering St. Michael's College, Toronto, where he remained a term before going to Montreal, where he studied at the Grand Seminary.

He is the first member of St. Peter's T.A.B. to be ordained to the priesthood, a circumstance which is worthy of note. The society will, therefore, be officially represented at the ordination.

The ceremony will be performed by His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, and the sermon will be preached by Rev. Dr. O'Brien.

MR. BUNTON APPRECIATED

The Genial Grand Trunk Agent Receives Some Handsome Tokens

The Times was shown a very handsome token of appreciation sent to Mr. Wm. Bunton, by the party of Canadian capitalists who a short time ago visited the Douglas-Lacy oil and mining properties in California and adjoining States. It will be remembered that Mr. Bunton personally conducted the party on behalf of the G.T.R., and made all transportation arrangements. The value of his services is acknowledged in an address in neat pamphlet form, richly bound in Morocco, with a suitable inscription in gold. The letter has been executed by hand, and upon each page is an artistic sketch in water color, of choice bits of landscape, presumably on the route of the recent excursion.

Mr. Bunton was also the recipient of another gift from the party, of a very fine pair of solid gold cuff links, upon which has been inscribed his monogram. They were enclosed in a pretty red velvet case. Mr. Bunton, as well he may, prizes the tokens very highly.

The address is as follows—

Mr. Wm. Bunton:

Dear Mr. Bunton,—We, the undersigned members of the W. E. Watson party, starting from the city of Toronto, Ontario, wish to convey to you our most hearty thanks for the kind interest you have taken in our behalf during the whole trip from Toronto to San Francisco and return. It would be impossible for us to adequately convey to you our appreciation of your methodical, careful and thoughtful attention to one and all of us during that long and never to be forgotten, pleasant and magnificent journey, extending over seven thousand miles; our transportation was left solely and entirely to you.

At every stopping point when necessary you were promptly on hand negotiating with the heads of the respective railway companies to see that our connections were made comfortably and expeditiously.

We can certainly truthfully congratulate the Grand Trunk Railway on having in their employ so capable and thorough an official.

BEAUTY ON HIS LAP

How a Pererboroug Man Was Almost Harried to Death

WHAT A PHOTOGRAPH DID

Was Deadly Afraid His Wife Would See the Awful Picture

Was Willing to Buy the Negative but Was Saved the Trouble and Also Incidentally Some Cold Coin

A well known citizen of Peterborough received a letter a few days ago that gave him a decided shock. He is concerned in large business enterprises that bring him more than a comfortable income, and in his way he is a well known man in the community—not one of the conspicuously rich, but one of the great army of successful men who make the solidity of the town. It was a very short letter he received. Supposing that his name was Smith, it read: "Perhaps you or Mrs. Smith would like to buy the original of this." That was all to the letter, but there was an inclosure. "This" was an unmounted photograph. It represented an elderly chap in a condition of evident intoxication. Seated upon a chair he had his arms around the waist of a frolicsome young woman who was seated on his knee.

Smith choked with the horror of it for he recognized his own features in the picture of the naughty man. Those were his whiskers to a certainty and the hair, what there was of it, appeared to be his also. It was very embarrassing to look that picture in the face. He did so, nevertheless, and tried to recall the features of the frolicsome dame on his knee. He tried to recall circumstances that might have led to such an exhibition of himself in front of a camera "Why didn't the rascal date the photograph?" he groaned all in his inmost soul. That might have been a clew to incite his memory to filling in the circumstances, which, he told himself, must have been of an extraordinary nature.

SUSPECTED OLD COMRADES.

But the photograph was not dated, and the letter gave absolutely no hint of the identity of the person who had sent it. Smith was a good deal more than mystified, but across his anguish there came a ray of hope that some of the gay old boys with whom he had consorted when he was too much younger to bear mentioning the time had played a cruel joke on him. He racked his memory for names of those among his former companions who were celebrated as practical jokers. There was one, but he was dead years ago. If he had been alive it might have been fairly safe procedure to mail the picture to him and appoint a place for drinks at his expense. "Poor devil!" thought Smith, "he'd probably like a cooling drink where he is now."

But his commiseration for his dead friend was short lived. The perspiration started on his furrowed brow as it worked in upon his intellectuals that he himself was the one to whom commiseration should be supplied. You see, though perhaps it doesn't need saying after these broad hints, Smith has long since settled down. The ancient haunts, the saloons, and other places know him no more. He had a household now, and held up his head in a highly respectable way in society, and come a Sunday, his hand never failed to drop substantial offerings in the box. Under such circumstances the vision of himself in that compromising situation was not at all comforting. Yes, mystified though he was, he would have liked much at that moment to buy the negative from which that picture had been printed.

TORMENTED BY ANOTHER LETTER.

He put the things carefully away in a secret drawer and tried to attend to business. When he went home that night he was in a panic of apprehension lest a similar picture had been sent to Mrs. Smith; but the partner of his domesticity evinced by no word or sign that any thing was amiss. Still he could not breathe freely, and he was more apprehensive than ever when he went to his business in the morning following. He had reason to be. The mail brought him another letter much like the first. There was another inclosure, a replica of the first, and the writer announced that he was thinking of sending a mounted and framed copy to Mrs. Smith for a Christmas present. As before there was no signature, and the envelopes of the two communications showed that they had been posted in different parts of the province. Smith was in a torment. It appeared to be fairly inevitable that the sender would not carry out his, or her, threat to expose the picture to Mrs. Smith without negotiations of some kind, but the poor man was oppressed by the conviction that a blow of some kind conviction that a blow of some made him half crazy. It was even worse when the next day came without the receipt of another letter and photograph. The break in the chain seemed even more threatening than its continuance would have been. But all things have an end, even suspense, and on the day after the break there came a third letter, and this time a bargain was proposed.

NEGATIVE OFFERED FOR SALE.

This letter was longer than the others, and there was no enclosure. It was suggested to the unhappy man that any number of pictures could be printed from the negative, and that he'd better get hold of it at once. A way to do so was kindly made clear. He was to put bank notes in an envelope and leave it at a certain place in Victoria Park. That was all. On receipt of the money the photographer would send him the negative. Now Smith was too old a bird to be caught by this means. When the thing reached a business basis he felt that he was somewhat in his element and he proceeded to deal with it in a sensible way. Some men might have gone to police headquarters, but not Smith. He called at the Times office and after the editor heard what Smith had to say, quietly put the affair into the hands of a young reporter in the office who had shown resourcefulness on other occasions. This young man made a careful study of the photograph, and then, somewhat to Smith's horror, had it enlarged a good many times its original size. When this had been done he pointed out certain things that had escaped the startled eyes of Smith in the original picture. There was evident in the enlarged picture a hiatus between the whiskers and the cheek. Likewise there were revealed indications of make-up about the brow. "I told you!" cried Smith delighted now, "I never was caught like that!"

The reporter of the g.f.j. proceeded then to do a little simple detective work, the details of which need not be stated here, for they amounted to nothing more than the exercise of horse sense and persistence.

BLACKMAILERS CAUGHT.

The result was the capture of the negative without paying for it and the thorough frightening of a pair of would be blackmailers. The man in the game had made up to represent Smith, a thing which was tolerably easy by reason of the victim's strong features and somewhat unusual style of trimming his beard. When Smith told our reporter all about this over the confidential, end of a dinner he asked him what he supposed anybody would have asked; why he did not push the scoundrels to the wall and have them sent up for a few years at Central Prison?

"Well, don't you see," he answered in a whisper, "I'm not so dead sure of it, after all. Of course, that wasn't a picture of me. But to take this affair into Court, would have necessitated a raking up of the excuse the villains had for trying to make me their victim. There must be some fire where there's so much smoke, don't you know? And the fact is that there are times when I can't remember where I went or what I did the night before. Never anything like that picture, of course! Oh, no! But the villains might have put a lawyer up to asking me unfortunate questions. You see, I am not sure yet as to what was the precise date when they meant me to suppose that picture was taken. If it was a certain date of which I have too dim a recollection—well, I'd just as lief nothing was said about it. Understand?"

Sure, Smith! But what a discreet gay old boy you are, to be sure! We wonder how many like you have been badgered into anteing up for a fake photograph by these same villains during the last few months? We won't believe that our old friend Smith is the only one of his kind in this venturesome town.

CANADIAN PACIFIC ATLANTIC LINE

The Steamers May Go On the St. Lawrence Route in the Spring

WILL BE WEEKLY SERVICE

And a Ten Day Service to London and Glasgow—Argentine Cattle in England

London, Dec. 19.—It is announced here today on the highest authority that the Canadian Pacific is determined, on the opening of the St. Lawrence route, next spring, to run a weekly service of cargo steamers from Liverpool, with a ten days' service to London and Glasgow. Other important developments are contemplated.

Argentine Cattle.

Yesterday the Argentine Chamber adopted the law reforming the sanitary police law in order to facilitate the opening of British ports to Argentine cattle. Hon. Mr. Hanbury practically pledged himself upon the receipt of the news that the law had passed to grant Argentine cattle the same privileges as Canadian cattle now enjoy.

The Footballers.

The Canadian footballers are improving decidedly with experience of English conditions. Yesterday's score was Leicester, two goals to one try, equal to 12 points; Canadian, two tries, six points. The record of the tour stands two losses, one win.

The Street Line

From Peterborough to New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington and the South is via Grand Trunk and Lehigh Valley Railroad. Route of the "Black Diamond Express." Pullman sleepers and dining car service from Toronto. Everything first class. Scenery and service unsurpassed. Call at W. Bunton's ticket office.

JOINT INSTALLATION

Of the Officers of Corinthian and Peterborough Lodges A. F. and A. M.

The joint installation of the officers of Corinthian Lodge, No. 101, and Peterborough Lodge, No. 155, A. F. & A.M. took place in the Masonic Temple, George street last night. A noteworthy feature of the event was the fact that there were present 30 Past Masters, the largest number ever known to have been in attendance at any previous Masonic function in Peterborough.

The installation ceremony was performed in a very efficient manner by Rt. Wor. Bro. W. L. Armitage, Grand Chaplain, assisted by Rt. Wor. Bro. H. Rush, V. Wor. Bro. H. C. Winch, Rt. Wor. Bro Walkey, V. W. Bro. A. Dawson, and V. Wor. Bro. R. M. Dennistoun.

Rt. Wor. Bro. T. B. O'Flynn, of Belleville, D.D.G.M. of Prince Edward District, No. 13, was present and evinced much interest in the impressive installation ceremonies, and congratulated the installing officer on the performance of his duties and the members of the lodges on the selection of their officers.

The Cause of Deafness

Deafness and impaired hearing are due almost entirely to catarrhal inflammation of the eustachian tubes. Permanent cure is guaranteed to all who inhale Catarrhozone as directed. This vegetable antiseptic is inhaled at the mouth, and after traversing all the air passages of the respiratory organs is exhaled through the nostrils; it completely eradicates catarrh from any part of the system, clears the ears, nose and throat, and allays inflammation, congestion and soreness. For Deafness, Earache, Ringing in the Ears, Head Noises, Catarrh, Asthma and Bronchitis, medical science can devise nothing as beneficial as Catarrhozone. PLAGUE IN FOODSTUFFS

Japan Responsible for Outbreak in Honolulu

San Francisco, Dec. 19—Advices just received from Honolulu show that investigation proves that foodstuffs shipped to Honolulu from Japan and China via San Francisco, are responsible for the cases of plague recently appearing there. A number of Japanese on nearby plantations were taken with the plague and died in a hospital in Honolulu. An examination of their effects was made, but no trace of the germ was discovered until through tests had been made of some of the Japanese foods found in the houses. These foods under the microscope showed a trace of the plague germs and further examinations made of the Oriental stuffs showed that the diagnosis was correct. It was learned also that the foodstuffs had been imported at San Francisco and reshipped to Honolulu.

THE LORENZ OPERATION

Dr. Adolf Lorenz, Vienna's celebrated orthopedic specialist, who has been operating in the United States for the relief of congenital dislocation of the hip joint, before audiences composed of hundreds of physicians from all parts of the country, who are now students of this school, is now in New York. So much interest has been aroused throughout Canada by the visit of this surgeon that a description of the deformity which it is intended to relieve completely or partially and the method of procedure will no doubt interest the readers of the Times.

In the early development of a child the three bones which are to form the large hip bone of one side of the body are not united but grow separately, and gradually become hardened and united. When development is natural and complete the point where these three bones join is in the bottom of a cup-shaped cavity, called the socket, in which the rounded head of the thigh bone is held by strong ligaments. If, from any cause, development is interfered with, a failure almost always takes place where this cup-shaped cavity or socket should be. When there is no well-developed socket to hold the head of the thigh in place the strain on the ligaments when the child begins to walk is so great that they are stretched abnormally, and finally there is a displacement of the head of the bone through the insufficient capsule. The surgeon has therefore to deal not only with a dislocated joint, but an undeveloped socket, and the operation is intended to bring the head of the bone to the place where the depression should be, and it hold it well against the softened tissues at the proper point until by pressure it forms a more or less complete socket. More satisfactory results are looked for in children under 5 or 6 years of age than in those who are older.

For the operation the child is made insensible and unconscious by an anaesthetic, and is placed upon a firm table, squarely upon the back, while the pelvis or hip bones of both sides of the body are held immovable by the hands of assistants. The operator, holding the thigh firmly, bends it at the hip and upon the abdomen until the thigh bone is about perpendicular to the level of the table. It is then carried slowly and forcibly outward or away from the middle line of the patient's body, then swayed to and fro with gradually increasing force until by stretching or tearing the muscles or ligaments at the joint, it is carried outward so far that the thigh is almost parallel with the surface of the operating table. When, by this manoeuvre, the mus- When, by this manoeuvre, the muscles or capsule have been sufficiently stretched or torn, the head of the bone, which is now near the place where the socket should be, may be felt to have slipped over the edge of this shallow saucer and into the slight concavity. Failing in this, the same movements are repeated, the limb being carried still further in the various directions above given. When finally the head of the bone is felt to have passed into the depression for the socket, it is carefully held in this position and an effort made to deepen the socket by semi-rotation of the bone from right to left, boring the head of the thigh into and deepening the cavity. A plaster of Paris encasement is now applied and worn for from six to nine months. After a week or two, or as soon as the sensitiveness of the joint will permit, the patient is encouraged to walk upon the leg of the affected side.

Although this is called a bloodless operation, it is probable that the bleeding which takes place beneath the skin as a result of the laceration of the blood vessels is not less than that which occurs when the operation in the hands of a competent surgeon is done by direct incision, and the bone replaced with that exactness which vision assures.

THE COUNTY COUNCIL

New Names Mentioned as Probable Candidates

The nominations for the County Council take place on Monday next, and a good deal of interest is being taken in the election this year. A few days ago we published a list of probable candidates, which require some changes.

In the First Division, composed of Otonabee and Ashburnham, Mr. Wm. Anderson, M.P.P., we regret to say, retires. Mr. E. A. Peck, who will in all probability fill the Warden's chair next year, is sure of re-election. Reeve Johnston, of Otonabee, will probably also be a candidate, and would make a very worthy representative. Mr. Archibald Weir, of Ashburnham, is also spoken of as a possible candidate. Mr. Weir is a member of the Otonabee Council, having been a resident of the township until the present year, when he moved to the village.

In the Second Division, consisting of the townships North Monaghan, Smith and Ennismore, ex-Warden Fitzgerald and Mr. T. M. Hunter are the only candidates mentioned. The Times hopes to see them elected by acclamation, as no more capable representatives are to be found.

In the Third Division, consisting of the townships of Harvey, Galway, Cavendish, Burleigh, Anstruther and Chandos, Warden Eastland and ex-Warden Shaw are likely to accept nomination for another term. They will probably be returned by acclamation. It was the intention of both gentlemen to retire, but at the earnest solicitation of their many friends, both in the Division and outside of it, they are likely to change their minds and remain.

In the Fourth Division, consisting of the townships of Belmont and Methuen, Asphodel, and the villages of Havelock, and Ashburnham, there probably will be a brisk contest. Mr. J. B. Pearce will offer himself for re-election, and doubtless will be returned. The new men mentioned are; Messrs. James Andrews, Asphodel; Wm. Buck, Asphodel; Reeve Curtis, Havelock, and Robert Anderson, Belmont.

In the Fifth Division, consisting of Lakefield, Dummer and Douro, it is not certain that there will be a contest. Mr. W. H. Casement, of Lakefield, will not again be a candidate. Mr. Richard Crowe, of Dummer, who has been faithful in the performance of his duties in the past in the Council, will seek re-election. And just here let the Times say a word; Mr. Crowe, if re-elected, will probably be the Warden of 1904, and we think he should be given another term on this account if on no other. It is an honor to be represented by the Warden, and we are much mistaken if the ratepayers of this Division won't so regard it, and return their old and tried representative. Mr. Dennis Moloney, Reeve of Douro, is also a candidate, and should be elected. His experience in the Township Council as well as his intimate knowledge of the requirements of the district, gives him special qualification. It is not unlikely that Messrs. Crowe and Moloney will be returned by acclamation, as Mr. E. Hawthorne, of Dummer, who is the only other name mentioned, has not yet consented to stand.

Card to the Electors of Peterborough

To the Ratepayers of the Town of Peterborough:

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

In response to the numerous representations which have been made to me upon the subject, personally, by requisition, and through the press, I place my services at the disposal of the public as a candidate for the Mayoralty at the approaching municipal elections.

My association with the important municipal advances which the Town has been making during recent years, will enable me to give continuity to the aggressive forward policy which the Council has sought to pursue, and to bring experience and information gained therein to bear upon the work and problems which still more immediately confront us.

While I cannot lay claim to all the qualifications which have been flatteringly ascribed to me, such capacity for the office as I do possess is cheerfully placed at your service, and I ask your sympathy and support in the effort to maintain the position and standing, and advance the welfare of our already prosperous and progressive town.

Respectfully yours.

The CANADIAN STEEL AND COAL COMPANY was organized to mine and manufacture iron and coal, coke and steel in Canada at Atlantic tidewater.

The raw materials for these manufactures are:—

1.—COAL. 2.—IRON. 3.—LIMESTONE.

All these materials we have at hand.

1.—COAL.

The Company controls 3,000 acres of excellent coal areas in the Province of Nova Scotia, and efforts are being made to increase this to 10,000 acres by the purchase of some very valuable additional coal fields.

The coal has been thoroughly tested and found to be suitable in every way for the manufacture of iron and steel, and the supply is practically inexhaustible. The following analysis was made by the Canadian Geological Survey:—

TITLES.

These areas are held under Crown Lease for a period of 80 years. Royalty 10 cents per ton of coal sold.

2.—IRON.

The Company has acquired by purchase immense iron deposits on the North Shore of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, about 1350 miles from Sydney. The deposits are estimated to contain 20,000,000 tons above sea level, with probably as much more below that line. The iron can be handled for $1.00 per ton or less. Quantities of this ore have been shipped to Great Britain and the United States, where it has given great satisfaction, and we can sell large quantities f. o. b. at the properties, netting us a profit of $2.00 per ton. This ore makes the finest steel.

3.—FLUX.

We are now negotiating for valuable deposits of dolomite and limestone of the most satisfactory quality, situated on the tide-water, within 100 miles of the works

MARKETS.

For six months in each year the Canadian markets can be reached by water at low freight rates, and at all times by rail. As Cape Breton is distant from Liverpool only about 2,300 miles; is nearer to Pernambuco, Brazil, than any point in the United States, and also nearer to Cape Town, South Africa, it has the advantage, in point of distance, for export business over any American steel-producing points, which, with scarcely any exceptions, are situated some distance from tide water. Under any conditions of the world's market, it is believed that the output of these works can be disposed of at satisfactory prices.

OUTPUT

When in full operation, the output is expected to be about as follows:—

1. IRON.—200,000 tons iron ore shipped direct from property, showing net profit of $2.00 per ton, total	$400,000 00
200,000 tons fine iron ore shipped in briquettes, showing net profit of $4.00 per ton, total	800,000 00
100,000 tons steel blooms, showing net profit of $3.00 per ton, total	300,000 00
2. COAL.—600,000 tons coal, showing net profit, at least, of $1.00 per ton, total	600,000 00
3. AIDS.—Government bounties (averaged) added to above per year for 6 years	100 000 00
Total yearly revenue	$2,200,000 00

GOVERNMENT AIDS.

To encourage the manufacture in the Dominion of iron and steel the Parliament of Canada has granted bounties as follows:—

		ON PIG IRON.	ON STEEL.
Apl. 21st, 1902,	to July 1st, 1903	$2.70	$2.70
July 1st, 1903,	" " 1904	2.25	2.25

July 1st, 1905,	" " 1906	1.05	1.05
July 1st, 1906,	" " 1907	.60	.60

If the production of steel from the Company's works be as estimated, 300,000 tons per annum, the bounties to be received from the Canadian Government will be as follows:—

1904	$225,000
1905	215,000
1906	145,000
1907	85,000
or an average of $100,000.00 per annum for 6½ years	$670,000.00

NET REVENUE

Total net annual profits		$2,200,000.00
LESS FIXED CHARGES:—
7 per cent. interest on preferred stock	$70,000.00
Sinking Fund	60,000.00
Incidentals	25,000.00
		155,000.00
Net yearly profits		$2,045,000.00

Equivalent to yearly dividends of over 30 per cent., or 15 per cent. half yearly on total capitalization.

If the capitalization was increased to .... $20,000,000.00 this estimate would still show a dividend-earning capacity of 10 per cent. per annum.

The capitalization of the Dominion Coal Co. is .... $20,000,000.00 earning fully 12 per cent., and is paying 8 per cent. guaranteed dividends on this enormous sum.

The capitalization of the Dominion Iron and Steel Co. is...... $28,000,000.00 on which it is believed 6 per cent. dividends will be earned.

The capitalization of the Canadian Steel & Coal Company is only $6,000,000.00 controlling, it is believed, equally valuable properties, and it is reasonable to expect much larger dividends.

Within the last few months Dominion Coal shares common rose in market value from $40 to $144 per share, and Dominion Iron & Steel Company's shares common rose over $30 per share in market value.

With such low capitalization the Canadian Steel and Coal Co's shares should show tremendous profits, and it is confidently believed they will.

Cecil Courtenaye sprang to with an involuntary cry of and horror, and surveyed his
— a situation calculated to terror to the bravest heart, ch seemed to stare him in the face.

Midway the dangerous river, on the lonely bowlder that had suddenly become a tiny island surrounded by a wild, swift torrent of water, his only hope of escape was to swim back to the shore where he had left his friend and the gay pleasure- seekers. He was an expert swimmer, yet the bravest would have hesitated before plunging into that rapid flood that hurried on to the fatal cascades, bearing on its swollen bosom huge logs from the numerous saw- mills that dotted its banks, great black stumps of trees, together with all the debris gathered from the shores that it had begun to overflow. Coutenaye's proud lips whitened as his glance came back from that swift flood and fell on the useless arm that, splintered and bandaged, hung in its sling across his breast.

"It is quite impossible for me to attempt to swim it —like this," he said, in unconscious soliloquy. "I could make no headway in such a flood, and should either be killed by one of those logs in the river, or hurried over the fatal falls. Neither alternative is pleasant to contemplate. There seems but one chance for my life —the slim chance that the water will rise no higher, and that I can keep my present position of safety until the tide falls again."

How very hopeless was that last chance, Courtenaye had no idea. Heavy rains in the mountains above, and east of that point, had swollen all the mountain rivulets into terrific proportions, and they were momentarily pouring their increased bulk into the river, and swelling its dangerous flood. He began to understand the futility of his hope, as a great wave, with a huge saw- log on its crest, came splashing up and wetting his feet, while the log, striking the bowlder with a loud thud, reared dangerously upward for a moment as if it would hurl him from his desperate refuge, then, fortunately falling sidewise, continued its interrupted course to the falls.

But what of Cecil Courtenaye's friend, and the gay party on the shore?

They had all scrambled up the bank in terror at the first appearance of danger, and now stood on the railroad in safety, watching the flood in the river below in the rapt fascination a great rising of water exerts over every one. Even the elderly Englishman, Sir Wilfred Hale, had totally forgotten his missing friend in the all- absorbing interest of the moment.

Involuntarily Cecil Courtnaye's eyes lifted to the cliff where Hilda Aylesford still leaned on the swaying tree, and watched the scene with eager, kindling dark eyes. In that same moment her quick glance, taking in every object at once, saw and comprehended like a flash of lightning the imminent peril of the young Englishman. He saw her lean forward impetuously, heard her voice ringing down to the people below, though her words were inaudible in the noise around him. The next instant she was swiftly, recklessly descending the cliff, while a dozen pairs of eyes turned toward him in horror, and the shrieks of frightened women rose in concert above the waves.

"You will have to swim for your life, Courtenaye," shouted his English friend, running down the railroad, and sending his voice ringingly, frantically over the water. "That is your only chance!"

Hilda Aylesford's light feet had pattered all the way behind the Englishman, and she stood still a moment watching Cecil Courtenaye as he slowly and painfully divested his arm of the sling, removed his coat and vest, and prepared to follow his friend's advice. His face was pale, and his lips set firmly, but there was no sign of fear in his brave bearing, and Hilda, watching him curiously, saw him making ready for that fatal plunge so calmly, that her childish heart swelled with admiration. As he leaned forward for the desperate effort, she hastily pulled the light vail from her hat, and waved it toward him.

"Don't dare to try it!" she screamed across the waves. "You'll be swept over the falls. Stay where you are until help comes."

The ringing, girlish voice had the tone of command. Involuntarily Cecil Courtenaye obeyed it, stepping quickly back and waiting her will, while the wild waters began to break over the rocks, splashing him from head to foot in their cold, blinding spray, and the last beam of sunset glimmered faintly, then faded out.

CHAPTER II.

A Girl's Revenge.

"The fairest action of our human lives
Is scorning to revenge an injury."

The whole party had come up by that time, the women weeping in their handkerchiefs, the men wild-eyed and excited. It was awful to see a human being, a fellow- creature, waiting for death in their sight while they stood idle and powerless to help him.

Courtenaye watched the group with his grave, troubled eyes, and saw Hilda Aylesford talking earnestly to these men, arguing and pleading it seemed from her manner, while they sorrowfully shook their heads. Stalwart, brave men they were, too, but life was sweet to them, and they could not be tempted to risk it idly on so forlorn a hope. Now and then their words, spoken in the highest pitched tones of excitement, echoed across to his strained hearing.

"Not a canoe in three miles, Miss Hilda," he heard in the broken fragments of sentences that reached him. the debris from the shores — the "If there were— could not row in such a current— remember the logs, falls so near— utterly impossible!"

"But we have horses — ford the river!" echoed the girl's high- pitched soprano.

"Simple madness!" said another voice, and Hilda turned off impatiently at that, and ran down the railway to where the horses of the party were tethered some distance back on the narrow road winding ruggedly up the mountain. Presently she came tearing back, mounted on a beautiful black horse, strong, superb, and spirited from its flashing eyes, haughty head, and tossing black mane, to the slender hoof that seemed to spurn the ground. The blonde Miss Aylesford started forward in terror.

"Hilda, you shall not. Jupiter cannot ford it."

"He can swim it, then," said the girl, with a wild, defiant laugh. "Get out of my way, Florence! Do you think I will stand still and see a human being perish in my sight?"

"Hilda, you will be drowned. You shall not go. Listen to me, Hilda. Oh, somebody stop her, please!" cried the beauty, turning her lovely, imploring eyes on the men around her as Hilda impatiently urged her frightened and reluctant steed toward the bank.

Two men sprang forward and resolutely caught at her bridle rein as she urged the trembling, [illegible] Jupiter forward, but [illegible] her but a moment, for Hilda's [illegible] riding-whip, carried it high in her clenched hand, was [illegible] twice. The keen little [illegible] back that held her bridle, and again with blinding force on the face of the second man.

"Cowards!" she cried, scornfully, as they staggered back, and she rode straight down the steep incline and into the surging water, followed by the chorus of shrieks and lamentations from the shore. Even the horse, strong and brave as he was, recoiled with a whinny of terror as the cold waves rushed over his flanks; but, "Courage, my Jupiter," she whispered, fondly, and in a moment more he was struggling bravely forward, urged by the caressing tone of the mistress at whose least whisper he had dared many another threatening danger.

In Cecil Courtenaye's soul a blind horror was creeping, as he watched the heroic girl, whom he had so pitilessly derided scarcely an hour ago.

"Go back!" he shouted hoarsely, as he found his voice. "Go back, for Heaven's sake!" but she did not heed the wild expostulations he hurled toward her, nor the frenzied entreaties that followed from the shore, but still pressed forward in the fast- coming twilight that added its terrors to the dreadful scene.

Every nerve was strained to its utmost tension, and she made a picture of heroic bravery never to be forgotten by those who witnessed the sight.

Her long, dark hair, broken loose from confinement, flowed down her shoulder, wet and heavy with the river spray; her great black eyes shone out of her small, pale face like stars. Her lithe little form sat in the saddle erect as a statue, while she guided the plunging animal through the waves, that grew deeper and deeper, until they rushed up to her shoulders, closing for one awful, never- to- be- forgotten moment over Jupiter's head. The next moment, with a wild snort, the frightened animal reared upward, shook the water from his mane, and, urged by her voice and hand, began to swim for his life.

Breathlessly Courtenaye watched her from his dangerous eyrie; breathlessly the group on the shore noted her progress. Once there came an awful moment, when the women hid their faces and screamed, the men shuddered, and Courtenaye groaned in anguish. Three or four heavy logs, drifting together down the river, headed directly toward her; but just before they reached her, a seething whirlpool over a hidden rock changed the course of three. The fourth one reared straight up an instant, and falling, would have struck her horse's flank, but that Hilda turned in her saddle, and with a dexterous movement of her hand turned the threatening log aside, saving herself and Jupiter by that energetic movement.

A loud ringing cheer went up from the men who watched her from the shore. They had been too prudent to risk almost certain death for an utter stranger, but they could see and acknowledge a heroism that shamed their cowardice, while it roused admiration to the highest pitch. But undaunted by their praise or blame, Hilda persevered until she reached the bowlder.

She was not a minute too soon. Already it was submerged beneath the water, and great waves were breaking over it, threatening every instant to tear Courtenaye from the rough projection to which he clung with the desperation of despair. She checked her panting steed, and spoke quickly and coolly:

"Spring on the back of Jupiter, put your arms around me to steady yourself, and say a prayer for two souls in deadly peril, sir!"

He looked up, and in the wild waste of waters their glances met. A mocking light shone in her eyes, a jeering spirit, half selfish, half childish, an odd, inexplicable smile curled the corners of her thin, red lips.

He shook his head in silence, and instantly a softer, gentler light flashed into her eyes.

"You are too proud to owe your safety to a girl, perhaps," she ventured, as she saw that he would not come.

"I am not coward enough to make your return an impossibility," he answered. "It would be the certain doom of both if I took you at your word. Your horse could not carry double."

She laughed lightly.

"Jupiter could carry three, if necessary. He is both strong and brave. Try him, sir. It is your one chance of life!" she urged, keeping her seat with difficulty, as she held the plunging, frightened horse.

His one chance of life! The words touched a vibrant chord that sent a swift thought flying across the sea to a fond heart that would break if he should perish here. His face softened strangely and sweetly.

"He is thinking of his mother or his sweetheart," thought the child-woman, noting that softened look, and she added, aloud, "If there is anybody that would grieve over your death, sir, you had better let my Jupiter save you."

"Thanks!" he answered, and, a moment later, had made the transit to Jupiter's back, and putting his arm around the waist of the brave little girl, sat erect and still while she headed for their return, and once more a great triumphant, uproarious cheer arose from the watchers on the shore.

TRIPLETS 73 YEARS OLD

A Remarkable Trio Living in Londerry N.H.

Londonderry, N. H. Dec. 18.—Born in this town more than seventy-three years ago, the Ripley triplets are probably the oldest now in this country.

Daniel Simpson Ripley, Mrs. Addie K. Thayer and Mrs. Angie K. Boutell are the names of the triplets. They are of a family of six children, all of whom are living and enjoying fair health.

The triplets' parents were Asahel P. Ripley and Mary Clark Ripley. The father was born in Londonderry in May, 1801, and died in Nashua, in 1880. Mrs. Ripley was born in Londonderry in 1806 and died there in 1866.

On September 24th, 1829, to Mr. and Mrs. Ripley, were born the trio of children which made their home happy and pleasant ever after. The old family physician, who attended the case at the time. Dr. Daniel Simpson, was so elated over the advent of the three babies that he desired to have the boy named for himself, Daniel Simpson Ripley, and the girls for his wife and sister. This was agreed to by Mr. and Mrs. Ripley.

The water was turned off on Wednesday afternoon to allow the repairs to be made to the water mains in front of the Opera House, on George street. The damage was fixed, but there is still some water escaping, but the exact place has not yet been located.

—More than two weeks of a holiday time will be enjoyed by the school children and teachers this year, as the schools will close today and re-open on Jan. 6th.

Abyssinia's Peculiar Currency.

The currency of Abyssinia is somewhat varied, to judge by an account of it given by Count Gleichen in his story of the mission to Menelek, reprinted in the "Popular Science Monthly." For standard money the people use the Maria Theresa dollars of 1780, but for small change a very different "coin" is employed.

This is no other than bars of hard crystallized salt, about ten inches long and two and a half square, slightly tapering toward the end. Five of these bars pass for a dollar at the capital.

People are very particular about the standard of fineness of the currency. If it does not ring like metal when struck with the finger-nail, or if it is cracked or chipped, they will not take it. It is a token of affection when friends meet to give each other a lick of their respective amolia, and in this way the value of the bar is decreased.

Smaller change than a bar of salt is sometimes needed, and then the natives have recourse to cartridges. Three cartridges pass for one bar of salt. It does not matter what sort of cartridges they are. Some sharpers use their cartridges in the ordinary way, and then put in dust and a dummy bullet to make up the difference, and others take out the powder and put in the bullet again.

Woe to the unlucky man who has parted with his goods for such money! When next he is fighting, and puts his hand into his belt, he finds only misfires there. He is so well accustomed to such a fraud, however, that he takes little notice of it. A bad cartridge seems to answer for money as well as a good one.

Coin collectors will possibly find it hard to get specimens of the salt, but cartridges may easily be found.

A Dog Strategist.

The owner of an old shepherd dog tells many stories which go to prove that although the animal—Don by name—is less active than in his youth, his intelligence is by no means on the decline. The collie has been much annoyed by the conduct of a neighbor's dog which is too lazy to bury bones for his own consumption, but greatly enjoys unearthing the treasures of others. When Don had been deprived of several choice stores in this annoying way, he evidently meditated over the matter, and at last a bright idea came to him. One day after dinner, when the neighbor's dog was out of the way, Don began to dig a hole, not far from where his master sat watching him. The hole was unusually deep; in it he deposited a large and still highly desirable bone. Then he covered it well with earth, disappeared for a moment, and came trotting back with a small bone which had seen its best and second best days, but was still good enough, in Don's opinion, for a thief. This bone he laid on the earth which hid the big one, and scraped the earth over it with elaborate care. His master had the satisfaction of knowing that the ruse was successful, for early the next morning he saw the thief hastily leaving the premises with the small bone in his mouth. Later in the day Don reaped the reward of his wisdom, as he sat munching and crunching the big bone at his leisure.

Pat Enquired.

Pat went to a race-course the other day, and fell in with a number of sporting friends who were betting on the races. He was urged to bet, but steadfastly refused until he saw two of his friends win a large sum on one of the races. Finally, after much urging, he put half a crown on a horse, from which moment he became deeply interested. As the horses came past the judge's box Pat's fingers clutched the back of the seat and his eyes were wide with excitement. The horse on which he had bet finished sixth. Without a word, but with a look of deep disgust, he got up and hurried down to the paddock where the jockeys were. Calling the youngster who had ridden that particular horse aside, Pat enquired in deeply injured tones:

"In hivin's name, young man, phwat detained ye?"

He Knew What He Wanted.

The immigrant agent with Clancy in tow went to Harlem in search of work for the new arrival. They found a building contractor, says the New York "Tribune," who was overseeing the construction of a big skeleton of steel.

"What can the man do?" demanded the contractor.

"Anything in the line of unskilled labor," replied the agent, "and he is quick to learn."

The contractor turned to the applicant, and half-jokingly enquired, "Which one of those jobs would you like to have?"

The immigrant swept the field with a contemplative eye. "What's that man doing?" he demanded, pointing with one hand. "I mean the wan sitting down—not the other wid the sledge."

"He is holding the drill."

"Is that all he does?"

"Yes."

"Is he on the pay-roll?"

"Yes."

Clancy drew a long breath of satisfaction. "Give me that job."

Just an Average Day.

Mrs. Morse was a truthful woman, with nothing to conceal, so when she was asked, on the witness stand, to tell what she did on a certain day between the hours of seven and nine in the morning, she responded without a trace of reluctance:

"First I helped little Jim get dressed, for he never can manage it alone. Then I ran downstairs and made the griddle-cakes, and saw to Mr. Morse's coffee, and hurried up Robert and Dorothy for fear they'd be late for school, and ate an orange and some toast and a boiled egg—I remember it was boiled too hard. Bridget hasn't learned the right time yet—and then our minister's wife came over to get me to help her cut out a seat for the baby, and then I dusted the parlor, and made five beds, and straightened up the rooms, and mended three of Mr. Morse's shirts, and pressed out some neckties, and did a little darning. And I'd just got the pudding made and was beginning on some ginger cookies when I heard that cry that startled the whole neighborhood. Now I wonder if I've forgotten anything."

But the judge, who, previous to her recital, had wondered whether Mrs. Morse had not been in a position to see more of the catastrophe than she seemed to admit, pressed his hand to his forehead with a dazed look.

NEXT YEAR'S COUNCIL

Nominations for the Council take place on Wednesday, 29th, at the Town Council Chambers. It is not likely that there will be any opposition to Ald. Sager in connection with the Mayoralty

For the Council several new men are mentioned among whom are: Messrs R. F. McWilliams, George W. Morrow, Wm. Madill, A. W. Cressman, C. B Robertson and others. These are good men, and we hope to see them all at the Council board next year.

A Beet Sugar Factory is about to be established in Peterborough, which will afford a market for 60,000 tons, about 200,000 bushels of sugar beets at $4.00 per ton. It will take five thousand acres to grow this quantity. All farmers having suitable soil are earnestly requested to make preparation for growing in 1903 from five to ten acres. DISTRICT NEWS

APSLEY.

—It is very creditable to the Reeve and Council of Burleigh, etc., to know that the municipality is free from debt, every dollar being paid, or cash on hand to do so. Not only is this so, but the municipality has enough left to carry on their municipal affairs for 1903, and that, too, with four mills off this year's rate. This is a splendid showing for only two years. Dr. Bell, the efficient clerk, has left the ear marks of his splendid work here.

—Mr. Wm. Gallon, the popular clerk of the Division Court, has opened out a small store in connection with his other business.

—Should Mr. Eastland retire from the County Council, Mr. Wm. Gallon, who so acceptably filled the position of Reeve in the past, is mentioned as his probable successor. No better man could be found.

—The sleighing here is fairly good.

London's Pot-Boilers.

There are men in London to-day, says an English paper, who, in preference to starving, are glad enough to turn out oil paintings at the ridiculous remuneration of fourpence each, for which work they find a steady demand. The work, of course, has to be executed with extreme dexterity, or the artist would realize but a poor living. but some smart men, aided by one or two deft assistants, can complete from 200 to 300 of these "pictures" in a week, though they have to toil early and late to accomplish their arduous task. When a big order comes in for a gross of oil paintings, to be finished within a specified period for a wholesale firm, the method of work is usually as follows: Along the walls of the apartment wherein the artists work are stretched so many yards of canvas, which is marked into lengths, according to the size of the pictures ordered. Then the work is equally divided among the artist and his colleagues, each man being responsible for one part of every picture. One will paint the trees, another the sky, a third will put in a bit of sea or lake, and a fourth will add a few figures to impart animation to the scene. Each man selects the particular line in which he can do his best and quickest work, and all labor with a strict eye to time and business. In one studio devoted to the fourpenny oil paintings, there are half a dozen girls who work eighty hours a week, and these earn only from twelve to fifteen shillings each. They work for a big wholesale house on the Continent, and their specialty is the showy little landscape or marine paintings so familiar to those who patronize the itinerant auctioneer or the cheap house furnisher. Incredible though it may seem, there are some sweating firms who expect the artist to find his or her own canvas and colors, and then to turn out oil paintings at fourpence apiece! But the better class dealers provide the materials or make an allowance for the extra cost.

Measuring Sleep.

Few phenomena in human experience are at the same time so common and so mysterious as sleep. For hours at a time the physical senses and mental faculties remain inactive, and then rather abruptly acquire their wonted keenness. It has long been known that age, sex, occupation, state of health and other influences affect the period during which this suspension of consciousness lasts, and also the soundness of one's sleep. There is reason to think, too, that the latter is variable through the night with every individual, even though his slumber may remain practically unbroken. This phase of the subject, however, has not been studied much until recently. Hence few people realize how greatly the depth of sleep fluctuates.

In order to get some light on the question, two investigators in the University of Rome, Dr. Sante de Sanctis and D. U. Neyroz, conducted a series of experiments which extended through six months. Nine different persons, four of whom were thoroughly healthy and five of whom had diseased nervous systems, were the subjects of these tests. The general plan of procedure was to wait until after they had fallen asleep and then employ uniform means to awaken them. For this purpose an instrument was used called an esthesiometer. It was made up of a blunt point that might be pressed against the skin, a spiral spring and a carefully graduated scale which showed the degrees of pressure used. The point was applied gently to the sleeper's left temple, and pressed until he awoke, then the scale was examined and notes were made of the hour and minute and of the scale reading. The same person was not awakened more than once or twice a night, but the experiments were so timed that in the course of a few months they covered the whole eight-hour period during which sleep lasted, at intervals of ten or fifteen minutes, several times over.

These data, having been tabulated, show that the soundest sleep in the four healthy subjects occurred between an hour and a quarter and an hour and a half after dropping off. Unconsciousness rapidly and almost steadily increased during that period, and then in the next quarter or half hour diminished greatly. Thereafter surprising oscillations were detected. On the average, though, the stages of lightest sleep occurred about four and a half and again five and a half hours after the beginning. A short, low, secondary maximum of intensity followed in the next hour and a half or two hours. From this point the decline was rapid to the final awakening.

In epileptics and paralytics very much the same state of things was observed, except that they slept more profoundly than the healthy subjects, and in one person the unconsciousness at the end of fifteen minutes was almost as marked as at an hour and a half.

The Elective System in Manners.

As with every other abuse that threatens the comfort of the community, home-training is largely responsible for the numerous presence of the selfish ungrateful individual, the cormorant of society. Many parents inculcate selfishness, contends a writer in "Donahoe's Magazine," and an astute weighing of services rendered from outside. Thus their children learn early that their teacher's devoted care is "paid for," the seats they occupy in cars and must not yield to any claim of age or sex are "paid for," the houses they inhabit and wreck "are paid for," favors are rendered for ulterior motives, etc., etc. Thus the course of instruction is continued, until retribution not infrequently overtakes the instructors, they becoming in turn victims of the too commercial training they imparted. The writer has in mind the mother of three sons, who gave to her children the most unceasing care, and who in her old age subsists upon the pittance grudgingly contributed by them, forced from them by the law. Nor is the case a solitary one.

"What is there in it for me?" is the leading question of the day, and a capacity for "working" people is a passport to success. Instead of gratitude and courtesy many young people cultivate a brand of politeness that expresses itself in "Thanks awfully," "Thanks very much," "Paw-dohn me," and other conventional forms equally indicative of gentility of birth and breeding.

There is grave reason to fear that they are taking an "elective" course in manners, carefully eliminating the essentials.

TO SEIZE COAL MINES

Washington, Dec. 19—Senator Mason of Illinois, who has been remarkably quiet since Representative Hopkins was marked as his successor, has come to the front again.

The bill provides that whenever a coal mine is not being operated the Attorney General may apply to Circuit Court in the district in which the mine is for a receiver to operate the mine, and the receiver may proceed to keep the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Some Allurements of the Carbolic Acid Route.

The soul has been aptly described as a life prisoner which seldom escapes without killing its jailer.

Whatever may be said in favor of the dispirited individual forestalling nature and letting the prisoner out by his own hand, there is one form of suicide—the most common form with young girls—whose allurements deserve special commendation.

People abnormally addicted to self-pity (and nobody else ever commits suicide), after deciding to kill the fleshly jailer and let the bruised soul go free, do perfectly right to cast about to find the most shocking and painful possible style of exit. The satisfaction involved in blowing his anaemic brains all over the clean wall and otherwise messing up a tidy room must be far greater to the self-centered and dejected young man than to compose himself decently on a couch and float into the sweet subsequently on an overdose of morphine or laudanum. It adds to the funeral horror and crack o' doom stage effect, this painful blood-letting, and besides it makes his friends feel, oh, so sorry for him—and that's what he commits suicide for. He wants somebody to feel sorry.

When the very young woman—and sometimes the woman who is not so very young—has been led down into the gloom and dolor of the Valley of the Shadow of Death, and all for love, she hypnotizes herself into a belief that her life has been permanently frost-bitten, and at once sets about to find some means, not of punishing the faithless heart-breaker, but of punishing her own unoffending self. No woman, even as she enters the suicide's portal of doom, ever thinks for a moment of wreaking vengeance on the man. With her usual fine sense of logic and consistency, she hunts up the thorniest kind of a crown of thorns to wear all by herself.

Not content merely to die in an orderly and painless manner, she decides to combine the tortures of the rack, the thumbscrew, being boiled in oil, drinking molten lead and walking on red-hot plowshares, all in one; and she does it by swallowing a few spoonfuls of concentrated hades in the form of carbolic acid. Of course, she is well aware that there are painless and even alluring methods of climbing the golden stair, but she scorns them all. For example, there is cyanide of potassium, a piece of which as big as a shoe button touched to the tongue would stop the action of the heart and send the icy darts of death through the veins quicker than the swiftest bolt of lightning and with less pain than attends the chewing of sen-sen or an onion. Prussic acid, also, will pop the troubled soul out of the body with almost equal celerity and absence of torture. Then there is the overdose of morphine or of laudanum, which is not only painless but which wafts the suicide across the gloomy Styx in a fairy galleon, surrounded by gauzy iridescent dreams so enchanting that anyone once choosing that route out of trouble will never have any other.

Yet the morbid and lovelorn maiden will have none of these. All disappointed women crave the blistering flame of martyrdom. Not unlike the heroic red Indian, they rejoice in suffering. So we see a long procession of them depositing their fifteen cents on the drug store counter and hugging the liquid horror to their bosoms. We see them gulping down sizzling mouthfuls of carbolic acid, which bites and sears and eats its agonizing way through the tender tissues of the throat and oesophagus and stomach, and kills, finally, by eating ghastly holes through the internal organs and literally burning the victims alive. White-hot, molten iron, gulped down out of a ladle, would produce precisely the same effect. To a man the prospect would be most unpleasant, but the more the horror is piled up the more it pleases the woman bent on self-slaughter.

Men who set out to pre-empt a slab in the Morgue commonly choose the revolver way or the bay route. Woman is nervier than man. Tender and timorous in all things until her deeper feelings are roused, she will then not only endure, but invite the most agonizing torment. It is true that the woman with the suicidal mania might come nearer her ideal of "the toad under a harrow" by plunging under the forged cylinder of a threshing machine, but threshing machines in operation are not numerously distributed throughout the city; besides, fifteen cents' worth of carbolic anguish is just about as excruciating and therefore as satisfactory as $2,000 worth of threshing machine.—Grant Wallace.

His Epitaph.

Mexicans are fond of epitaphs, they rejoice in eulogies, they like to honor their dead. Their attachment for relatives is great, and monuments and flower-strewn graves show that the departed are not forgotten. The deceased may have left a bad record, and his friends may be anxious that his conduct should be forgotten; still, this does not debar him from a neatly worded eulogy.

Just outside of the cemetery at Vera Cruz there stands a fine monument which marks the resting-place of a notorious outlaw, whose cruelty and violence made his name a constant menace to all peace and order. His wife, in spite of harsh treatment, was his faithful servant to the last, and after his death thought that she should show her respect for his memory.

She could not speak of his nobility and worth, and so, after much consideration, she caused the following inscription to be engraved upon the tomb: "Juan Fernandes has passed to his reward; he was an unerring shot and knew no fear; owing to circumstances over which he had no control his talents were perverted from their proper course, but the world should be grateful for his life, as his example stands as a timely warning to the rising generation."

City Versus Country.

A little girl whose parents had recently moved from the country into town and who is now enjoying her first experience of living in a street, thus described it in a letter to another child: "This is a very queer place. Next door is fastened on our house."

Ingenious.

Employer (to clerk)—This is disgraceful, Jones; here am I at the office first!

Clerk (deferentially)—Yes, sir, I have always been taught to give precedence to my superiors!—"Pick-Me-Up."

Whenever a new mining company enters the field, incred

THE ELECTRIC SPARK GOLD MINING COMPA

which have produced an enormous amount of wealth, and most of them are producing handsomely to-day.

The veins on our property are true fissure veins, of whi shaft on any fissure in this county has even been sunk to th ton, although there are several shafts down on these veins of 1,000 to 2,300 feet. Gilpin County is the smallest county in orado. The entire county is a mining camp, and is the spot of its size in this country. Here is where Senator Teller hundreds of others made their fortunes. With a little more camp is famous; this is not guesswork, as we have made co

THE SOUR LAKE OIL CO.

Has placed four-fifths of its stock in the treasury for development work; and

Oil is reached in less than half the depth required on Spindletop Heights in ;

The people in Canada are well acquainted with the management, which is in hands of HON. JOHN L. BITTINGER, United States Consul General to ; F. S. Ashley, Vice-President of the Massachusetts Securities Co., and W. Marston, Vice-President of the American Union Oil and Refining Co.

The company is operating in the Sour Lake field, where fewer wells will tap the than at Spindletop; this insures a greater flow of oil, and it is of a better quality;

STOCK MARKETS

A Stock at an Unusual Investment Level

New York, Dec. 19.—We deem it a fitting time to call your attention again to the stock of the Manhattan consolidated and elevated road of New York City. Our present bullish advices upon this stock from 130 to above 155 including our special letter in relation thereto were most timely and profitable to those who followed them. We now highly recommend at present market price the purchase of the stock. It is unusually cheap and certain to shortly command a materially higher price. Guaranteed 7 per cent. by the Inter Borough Company and very shortly to sell ex-rights which permit of additional stock from the company by the present holders at par make it cheaper than it appears at present, as you will be able to dispose of your "rights" for quite a nice figure which will reduce the purchasing cost of your present holdings quite considerably and make the stock when ex-rights most attractive to investors. seven per cent. city property is easily worth between 160 and 175. Manhattan stock will surely sell somewhere within those figures within comparatively short time. You will make no mistake in our opinion to bull these shares. As an investment it not only pays well but is most secure. The company at present is earning over 10 per cent. upon its outstanding shares. Electricity is reducing the cost of operation largely, and consequently increasing net earnings in addition to the natural increase due to steady increasing traffic. There will be very shortly lots of material for aiding bull campaign in the stock and through likelihood of the underground surface roads and elevated properties being all interested in deals or mergers. It will afford lots of bullish rumors and gossip, and the stock will prove a speculative favorite. Manhattan at present in its present shape and with conditions as they are in a stock that if you buy it, and for the time being it goes against you is certain to recover again, affording you opportunity to dispose of it at a profit. It is consequently a splendid stock to purchase with the determination of averaging your purchase, should it go against you. The melon cutting in shape of rights to subscribe to additional stock at par will take place shortly. We are immensely bullish upon Manhattan.

Summary.—After a steady opening with a somewhat display of strength especially in Reading, the market showed indications of temporary exhaustion of buying power, becoming more or less dull, while volume of business diminished perceptibly. This would indicate a reaction to be due, but likelihood of a more favorable bank statement to-morrow holds it in check. A reaction, but of no great dimensions, is due. If bank statement does not more than equal expectations it will probably put in an appearance Saturday. Sales 778,700.

BARGAIN BABIES.

If babies were for sale the most inveterate bargain-hunting woman in the world would not look for a bargain baby. She would want the best baby that could be bought, regardless of price.

Every woman naturally craves a healthy, handsome child, and her craving can be gratified if she will but remember that the child's health is her own gift, and to give health she must have it to give. Mothers whose babies have been weak and puny have nursed in strength their first strong child after using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is the best preparative for maternity, encouraging the appetite, quieting the nerves and inducing refreshing sleep. It gives the mother strength to give her child, and makes the baby's advent practically painless.

"My wife had been sick nearly all her life," says Mr. E. E. Fricke, of Petersburg, Menard Co., Illinois, Box 367, "and after trying everything I could think of I made up my mind to try 'Favorite Prescription.' I got six bottles, which my wife took, a tablespoonful three times a day, until the baby came. She felt better after taking the first bottle, and when baby was born he weighed nine and a half pounds. To-day he is six months old and weighs twenty-two pounds. He is as good a child as any one could wish. The doctor says he is as healthy as any baby could be, and also says the use of your 'Favorite Prescription' was the cause of such a healthy baby."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the best and safest laxative for the use of delicate women.

THE BAND CONCERT

Only a Small Audience at the Opera House Last Night

There was a very small attendance at the concert given by the 57th Band in the Opera House last night. There are two reasons for this: The concert was poorly advertised and the Christmas shopping kept people away. However those who attended were amply paid for their effort.

The programme was, as usual, a very select one, each number being a gem. Mr. Bert. Harvey, of Toronto, assisted, and sang a number of humorous songs in his usual happy style.

NEW TELEPHONE COMPANY

One is About to be Organized in Peterborough and District

Papers are being prepared for the organization of a local telephone company, in which both local and foreign capital will be employed.

It is proposed to use a new system which will dispense with "central," and will give the subscriber the benefit of practically a private wire.

The history of the late lamented Ontario Telephone Company, of Peterborough, will hardly be forgotten. The Times will be pleased to furnish those who may be interested in the proposed company, particulars of the life, death and burial of the "opposition" concern. Those who are asked to subscribe for stock will do wisely to go slow.

SCHOOL ELECTIONS

The following members of the Board retire this year—W. B. Bamford and J. J. McBain for No. 1 Ward; W. H. Wrighton, No. 2; Dr. Geo. Burnham, No. 3; and Wm. Langford, No. 4. Dr. Caldwell and W. G. Ferguson, who were appointed by the Council, will also retire.

Mr. Bamford, as our readers know, has left town. Mr. McBain told the Times he would not again be a candidate; Mr. Wrighton will also retire; Dr. Burnham is not anxious for re-election; Mr. Langford has not expressed his intentions. Dr. Caldwell and Mr. Ferguson are undecided.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Wm. Madill; 1st vice-pres., Frank Adams; 2nd. Vice-pres., H. C. Stabler; treasurer, H. J. Kidd Directors—J. W. Bennett, Wm. Madill, Frank Adams, H. C. Stabler, Samuel Taylor, J. R. Knapman. The term of office in the case of the directors extends to October 1st, 1903.

A GOOD REPORT

December Report of the Cecil R. Gold Mining Company

Work is going along on the Cecil R. properties with great energy, and fine bodies of ore are constantly being opened up. Our general manager claims that we have ore enough for 100 stamps to keep them running for years to come. We have just ordered an increased number of stamps, which will be on the ground and in operation before the first of the year. This section of California is attracting a great deal of attention, and Ballarat is also the outfitting point for Death Valley.

The Cecil R. bids fair to be one of the most successful and one of the principal mines in the State.

Respectfully submitted by the Mining Investment & Brokerage Co. of Plattsburg, Mo., Los Angeles Branch. 382-3-4 Wilcox Annex. Los Angeles. Cal.

A True Nerve Tonic

Will act, not so much directly upon the nerves as upon the digestive functions and the abundant formation of red, vitalizing blood. Nerves can't be fed on medicine. They can, however, be restored and strengthened by assimilated food. The marvelous action of Ferrozone arises from its action over the digestive and assimilative processes. When you take Ferrozone the blood is purified and strengthened, and grows rich and red. Then you grow vigorous, healthy and beautiful, ready for work, because you have the strength to do it. No tonic for the brain, blood or nerves compares with Ferrozone. Price 50c., at Druggists, or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Among the presents to the bride was a handsome china tea set and a beautiful parlor lamp, presented by Mr. Theobald's fellow-employees of the Cereal Works.

The Linton Bank Affairs

Lakefield News:— The affairs of the Linton bank are now in the hands of trustees, Mr. James Linton having transferred the assets over to them last week. As soon as all the creditors of the bank have signed the document releasing Mr. Linton from further liability, cheques will be issued for 30 per cent. making 60 per cent. paid out to the creditors. The Traders Bank are advancing money on the assets, and are doing everything they possibly can to help the creditors. Mr. Wesley Sherin has been appointed secretary of the board.

"Dat's Why!"

He was a diminutive gamin who had been discovered in the dark evening hour trying to open the money drawer of a down-town store. He had been caught in the act, but he told his story with much glibness, and brought forward his witnesses with a nonchalance worthy of one old in the business.

His star witness was a youth of 20 who sells papers down "sout' 'o de trolley." This youth went into the minutest details, telling where he and the speck of humanity had been on the night in question.

"I got t'roo sellin' poipers at about half-past 5," he said. "Then me an' de kid went an' et. After we et we went around awhile an' then went to de Orpheum. After de show we went home an' went to bed. De kid was wit' me all de time, an' dat's straight!"

Judge Mogan turned suspiciously upon him.

"How old are you?" asked his Honor.

"Twenty."

"And how old is the defendant?"

"About twelve or t'irteen, I guess."

"Well, how does it happen that you are bumming around so much with a kid like that, eh?" demanded the court.

The youth hung his head and looked exceedingly uncomfortable. Judge Mogan grew still more suspicious.

"Answer me!" and the judicial brow began to grow black.

The witness squirmed in his chair and looked desperately around for relief. There was none. "Well," he blurted. "I goes wit' his sister—dat's w'y! See!"

He blushed deeply and grinned sheepishly. Judge Mogan collapsed in his chair and smiled broadly. The courtroom rippled.

"Silence!" roared the bailiff.

The witness was dismissed and made a bee-line for the door. The boy's mother agreed to send the kid up country, and Judge Mogan gave him a chance—holding a sentence over his head in the meantime. If he is good for thirty days he will for the present be released from police surveillance.

But there is one 20-year-old youth who grows sick and faint whenever he thinks of trying to be a brother-in-law to a kid that crawls through windows o' dark nights. "And dat's straight, see?"

HALF OUR ILLS ARE CATARRHAL IN NATURE.

Catarrhal Diseases are Most Prevalent in Winter.

IS THERE NO WAY OF ESCAPE FROM THEM?

Pe-ru-na Never Fails to Cure Catarrh Wherever Located.

There are some things which are as sure as fate, and can be relied on to occur to at least one-half of the human family unless means are taken to prevent.

First, the climate of winter is sure to bring colds.

Second, colds not promptly cured are sure to cause catarrh.

Third, catarrh improperly treated is sure to make life short and miserable.

Catarrh spares no organ or function of the body. It is capable of destroying sight, taste, smell, hearing, digestion, secretion, assimilation and excretion.

It pervades every part of the human body, head, throat, stomach, bowels, bronchial tubes, lungs, liver, kidneys, bladder and other pelvic organs.

That Peruna cures catarrh wherever located is attested by the following testimonials sent entirely unsolicited to Dr. Hartman by grateful men and women who have been cured by Peruna:

Systemic Catarrh.

Mrs. M. K. Bousch, Richmond, Va., writes: "I had catarrh all through my system for two years and could get no relief. I was advised to try Peruna and I have taken five bottles of it and am well and better now than I have been for years. I can advise any one who has catarrh of any part of the body to take Peruna. My little girl who is eleven years old had catarrh, but was cured by Peruna. Before I began to take Peruna I was sick all the time, but now I am entirely cured, and all praise is due Peruna."—Mrs. M. K. Bousch.

Catarrh of the Nose.

Mr. Herman Ehlke, 962 Orchard street, Milwaukee, Wis., writes:

"I am entirely cured of my catarrh of the nose by your Peruna. My case was a severe one."—Herman Ehlke.

Catarrh of the Throat.

B. H. Runyan, Salesville, O., writes:

"I suffered with catarrh of the throat for five years. I was induced to try Peruna. I have used five bottles and am perfectly well."—B. H. Runyan.

Catarrh of The Ear.

Mr. Archie Godin, 188 Beech street, Fitchburg, Mass., writes:

"Peruna has cured me of catarrh of the middle ear. I feel better than I have for several years."—Archie Godin.

Catarrh of The Lungs.

Mrs. Emilie Kirckhoff, Ada, Minn., writes:

"Through a violent cold contracted last winter, I became afflicted with catarrh of the nose, which in a short time affected my lungs. I took Peruna which cured me thoroughly. I now feel better than I have for forty years."—Mrs. Emilie Kirckhoff.

Catarrh of the Bladder.

Mr. John Smith, 211 S. Third street, Atchison, Kan., writes:

"I was troubled with catarrh of the urethra and bladder for two years. At the time I wrote to you I was under the care of my home doctor, and had been for four months.

"I followed your directions but two months, and can say Peruna cured me of that trouble."—John Smith.

Catarrh of The Head.

Mr. D. R. Ramsey writes in a recent letter from Pine Bluff, Ark., the following:

"My son, Leon Ramsey, four years of age, suffered with catarrh of the head for eighteen or twenty months. He took one bottle of your Peruna and could hear as good as ever."—D. R. Ramsey.

Catarrh of The Kidneys.

Peter J. Unger, Hawley, Pa., writes:

"I think that I am perfectly cured of catarrh of the kidneys by Peruna, as I have no trouble of any kind."—P. J. Unger.

Catarrh of The Stomach.

A. W. Graves, of Hammond, Ind., writing to Dr. Hartman, says:

"I am well of catarrh of the stomach after suffering two years. I have taken five bottles of Peruna and one of Manalin and I feel like a new man now."—A. W. Graves.

Pelvic Catarrh.

Miss Katie Lochman, Lafayette, Ind., writes:

"I had pelvic catarrh, pain in the abdomen, back, had stomach trouble and headache caused by catarrh. I followed your directions: took Peruna and Manalin according to directions, and how happy I feel that I am relieved of such a distressing ailment."—Miss Katie Lochman.

Catarrh of The Bowels.

Mr. Henry Entzion, South Bend, Ind., writes:

"The doctor said I had catarrh of the bowels and I took his medicine, but with no relief. I was getting worse all the time.

"Before I had taken a half bottle of Peruna I felt like a new man."—Henry Entzion.

If you do not receive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

THE MONROE DOCTRINE AND ITS POSSIBILITIES

The Venezuelan Incident May Bring the Little Republics in a Federation

PROTECT THEMSELVES AGAINST UNITED EUROPE

The Monroe Doctrine Responsible for Our Present Trouble—United States Helpless Against Europe

Washington, Dec. 21.—The allied demonstration off the Venezuelan coast is likely to give the average United States citizen of the United States a new sense of the inability of his country to enforce the Monroe Doctrine. Not that this is disputed by the three allied Powers. On the contrary, they have taken pains to convince Washington that they do not desire to seize Venezuelan territory. But if they meant to partition the country between them, what could the United States do to hinder? Its fleet could not keep the sea against the allies, hence Washington could send neither land forces nor munitions of war to Venezuela's aid, even if these would not all be needed in the United States did that country try forcible intervention.

Venezuela's main defence, like that of the Transvaalers, would be its own riflemen. They are more numerous, but not so skillful as the Boers, nor so stubborn. They could not hold any part of the coast that the allies might wish to occupy, nor any strategic position near the coast, but it is most improbable that any foreign force capable of over-running Venezuela could be landed in the country. It is one of mountains and pestiferous swamps, in which military transportation would be extremely difficult, and wherein European troops would die multitudinously by disease. Its inhabitants could endlessly obtain arms and supplies from contiguous countries.

Great Britain certainly has no wish to attempt the subjugation of such a country and it is unlikely that Germany would be rash enough to commit herself to the enterprise, even if freed from fear of United States intervention. What the European commercial nations may reasonably hope to effect by their allied demonstration is the conversion of Venezuelans in general to a sense that they must get together and establish stable Government. They should now see that their custom of having about ten revolutions every seven years will not do any longer. It has brought them into the present trouble, which must cause enormous losses to their many wealthy men, and much inconvenience and distress to the poorer sort. The present incentive to stable Government may be effective, and Great Britain, at any rate, seeks no more than that they should keep their country orderly, and under administrators who can and will be answerable in an international sense.

It is even possible that the South American Republics may be stimulated to federation by the present affair. They are said to be all alarmed by the lesson Venezuela is getting. Did they successfully combine their power would be considerable. A steady United States of South America would be hailed with gladness by the commercial peoples of the world, because then the enormous resources of the half-hemisphere could be developed to the general benefit of humanity.

The Monroe Doctrine has been injurious to the South American Republics in so far as it has tended to prolong them in a delusion that they can go on being turbulent and revolutionary forever. Trusting to be saved by the United States they have not been stimulated by fear to political sense. If they get it from the present demonstration they must have cause to remember.

Improved United States appreciation of the responsibilities of the Monroe Doctrine will do our neighbors no harm. It will probably cause them to increase their navy rapidly. Englishmen will look on that result with pleasure since they have no fear of being outbuilt in ships of war, and are convinced that the United States navy never will be, like the British, an instrument for commercialising the world.
